It was a part of London, suburban New Cross, which suffered the capital's worst incident of the entire war when one of the rockets last November hurtled into a 5-and-10-cent store at the busy noon hour. The known dead totaled 167 and another 100 were injured, most of them women and children.

Only an aerial bomb which burst on a public shelter in Liverpool in 1941 surpassed the New Cross tragedy in number of dead in a single incident. It killed 170 persons.

Famous London buildings were blasted into piles or rubble which littered the streets.

V-2 MENACE ENDED IN SOUTH ENGLAND

London, April 26 (A. P.).—Prime Minister Churchill today tersely declared the South of England safe at last from the Nazi flying-bomb and rocket terror weapons which had caused suffering and destruction over this war-torn land since last June.

Asked in the House of Commons whether he could make a statement on German rocket attacks, he brought on relieved laughter by replying: "Yes, sir. They have ceased."

At the same time British censorship relaxed its rules governing news of the V-2 rockets. An announcement said that 1,050 rockets had dropped on England, killing 2,754 persons and injuring 6,523. They fell from September 8, 1944, to the last reported attack four weeks ago tomorrow.

The first rocket, long awaited after Nazi propaganda boasts, demolished a row of houses in a suburban residential district. One of the last to fall on London hit squarely in the center of the world famous Marble Arch corner of Hyde Park where scores of soapbox orators shout to crowds every day. The explosion occurred early one Sunday morning, however, killing only one person.

Lonon was the chief target of the long-range rockets, as it had been of the earlier robot buzz-bombs. The rocket attacks reached their peak one week in February, when seventy-one of them blasted the south of England. Totals of fifty or sixty rockets a week were common.

Churchill for Curbing V-E Day Celebrations

But Says There's Bound To Be Some Merrymaking

LONDON, April 26 (AP).—Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the House of Commons today that, although he favors "great caution" in any celebrations, there is bound to be at least temporary merry-making when V-E Day is proclaimed.

One member suggested it would be "madness" to ring bells and feast while Englishmen still are under the control of Germans and the Channel Islands, Holland and Norway remain to be liberated.

"That is one of the reasons why I think great caution should be observed in any celebrations," said Mr. Churchill.

He said it would be very foolish to hold celebrations "about the defeat of Germany—after all, a considerable event—without, at the same time, public men of every party making it perfectly clear that our war with Japan goes forward."

Nazi Vessels Surrender To Swiss

London, April 26 (AP)—A German naval flotilla on Lake Constance has surrendered to Swiss authorities and will "remain in Swiss ports until the entire Lake Constance shore has been occupied by the Allies," the Swiss radio announced today.

The French 1st Army has reached the western end of Lake Constance. The German-Swiss frontier runs through the lake, which is a 204-square-mile sheet of water carrying a number of small steamboat services.

Were Ordered Scuttled

The Swiss announcement said the German vessels were interned in the Swiss ports of Arbon, Romanshorn, Rorschach and Schat, and that their crews had returned to the German port of Lindau.

The broadcast said that the fleet of nine vessels and patrol ships belonging to the German State railway had been ordered scuttled by the Nazi Government, but that the State railway management "had objected to this and reached a surrender agreement with the Swiss Government."

Briton Wants Press Controls Removed

London, April 26 (AP)—Lord Rosebery, president of the Liberal party, said today Government control of the press should be removed "the moment it is no longer necessary for military reasons."

A free press is "vital to Britain" and "the greatest safeguard for peace that we can have," Lord Rosebery told the party's national conference. He added:

"If there had been an absolutely free press in Europe for the last dozen years, things might have been very different."

Lord Rosebery also urged party support of Prime Minister Churchill's program.

Dutch Food Plan Is Off

LONDON, April 26 (AP).—The official Netherlands Aneta news agency said it had learned today that General Dwight D. Eisenhower's announced plan to drop food by plane to civilians in the German-held pocket in western Holland had been abandoned temporarily.

German military authorities in Holland said they would not agree to General Eisenhower's plan for distributing the food.

Warning to Nazis Made Clear

LONDON, April 26 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill told Commons today that the Big Three warning to the Nazis concerning the treatment of prisoners applies to all prisoners in their hands regardless of race or creed, including stateless Jews and German and Austrian political prisoners.

CLARE LUCE SAYS DEAD NOW SPEAK

London, April 26 (A. P.).—Representative Clare Boothe Luce (R.-Conn.) said today "the 51,000 dead of Buchenwald are talking now, telling the people of the democracies that they will have died in vain unless we know and believe the excruciating sufferings they endured."

She spoke over ABSIE, the American broadcasting station in Europe, after an inspection tour of concentration camp atrocities.

Responsibility for "these terrible crimes visited upon hundreds of thousands of innocent men and women and children in many such camps as Buchenwald falls squarely upon the German people," Mrs. Luce declared. "They bear it in the eyes of God, but not until they are willing to bear it, and have been made to bear it, in the eyes of their fellow men, can we admit Germany and its people into the decent family of nations."

Britons Considered Moving Parliament

London, April 26 (AP)—British authorities today permitted the disclosure that during Britain's darkest days of the war, plans were made to move Parliament from London if necessary.

Under one of several alternatives, members would have gone to Stratford-on-Avon and used the Shakespeare Memorial Theater as a meeting place.

It also was disclosed that Parliament several times left its customary assembly hall under Big Ben during the danger period when planes or flying bombs were striking London. The M.P.'s walked a few hundred yards to the more substantial Church House where they conducted business as usual.

Nominated At Dublin

Dublin, April 26 (AP)—Gen. Sean Macedin was nominated today by the Fine Gael for the presidency of Eire.

A prominent member of the opposition in the Dial (Parliament), Maceoin once was sentenced to death by a British court martial for his activities in the Irish Resistance Association, but was released after the treaty ending the Anglo-Irish trouble.

PETAIN EN ROUTE TO PARIS BY TRAIN

Met At Border By Koenig; Prosecutor Discusses Plans

Paris, April 26 (AP)—Marshal Henri Philippe Pétain surrendered to French officials at the Swiss border today to await trial in France on a charge of high treason, for which his scheduled prosecutor announced he would ask a sentence of death—with clemency.

The 89-year-old former Vichy chief of state was met at the frontier by Lieut. Gen. Joseph Pierre Koenig, commander of the French Forces of the Interior at the time of the Normandy invasion and before. Pétain extended his hand, but Koenig did not respond.

French Guard As Escort

The commissar of Dijon and a French guard of 30 men also were present at the frontier station of Valorbe to form an escort for the aged marshal and his wife, who proceeded by automobile to Les Hôpitaux-Neufs and there boarded a special train for Paris. He is expected in Paris before dawn.

The soldiers gave no salute and there was no fanfare as the marshal stepped across the frontier. Swiss dispatches said there had been a small, spontaneous demonstration along the way as the Pétain party proceeded toward the border in four automobiles from Wessen, Switzerland.

Precautions were taken to prevent disorders during the French journey, reportedly to a prison fortress in the Paris area where it was planned to confine the marshal, still remembered by many Frenchmen as the World War I hero of the battle of Verdun.

His return was called by the Communist newspaper L'Humanité today a "supreme maneuver of the fifth column" engineered by Nazi leaders, allegedly to create civil disturbances.

Bazaine Precedent

Members of Pétain's entourage made public in Switzerland a letter they said he wrote April 5 to Adolf Hitler saying he quit Vichy only because "the Reich compelled me to leave April 20, 1944," and requesting permission for "accomplishing my duty" by appearing at his scheduled trial before the Paris high court of justice to face accusations of "plotting against the state."

"At my age," the letter said, "one can fear only one thing, that is not to have performed completely my duty."

French authorities said they were taking Pétain into custody in conformity with a precedent set in 1871 when Marshal Achille Bazaine was arrested on almost identical charges of treason in connection with the defeat of France by Prussia.

Considerations Of Humanity

Andre Mornet, procureur general of the high court, who is scheduled to prosecute Pétain, said today:

"The politics personified by this man deserve the verdict of death, but as to the execution of the verdict, I think he has reached an age where considerations of humanity should prevail."

The prosecutor said he believed Pétain would ask Admiral William D. Leahy, former American Ambassador to Vichy, to come back to France and testify in the marshal's behalf. Mornet asserted that Pétain had won Leahy's friendship and had sought to convince the American Ambassador he was "playing a double game."

Four Accusations

Indicating the main lines the prosecution might take against Pétain, but without disclosing the charges in detail, Mornet mentioned these accusations:

1. That Pétain had attempted to spread a false impression abroad that his policy of collaboration with the Nazis was a blind for anti-German activity.

2. That even before the war he was a member of "certain associations" which favored a totalitarian government for France.

3. That Pétain actually sought the French military defeat of 1940, which "meant power would come into his hands, and that is why he was anxious to accept it and get France to accept it."

4. That with Pétain's sanction the French radio and newspapers were permitted to blame Britain for the debacle and allowed to insult America.

"This trial," Mornet said, "must dissipate all such uncertainties about Pétain. We are going to talk freely about his politics, making a distinction between his policies and the man himself

Petain Prosecutor To Ask Clemency

Paris, April 26 (AP)—Andre Mornet, procureur of the high court who will prosecute Marshal Pétain on charges of treason, said today "Pétain deserves death for his politics," but he would ask clemency for the aged military leader.

Declaring that he intended to demand the death penalty at the trial, Mornet said that in his summary before a jury, however, he would ask for clemency on the grounds of humanity. Pétain is 89.

"The politics personified by this man deserve the verdict of death," he said. "But as to the execution verdict, I think he has reached an age where considerations of humanity should prevail."

Leahy May Testify

Mornet expressed belief that Pétain would ask Admiral William D. Leahy, former United States Ambassador to Vichy, to return to France to testify in his behalf.

Pétain probably will arrive in Paris tonight.

A group of French officers sent from Paris to arrest Marshal Pétain arrived at the Swiss border today and the formal surrender of the former Vichy chief of state was believed to have taken place, official quarters indicated.

The officers represented Gen. Joseph Koenig, military governor of Paris.

At Swiss Border In Afternoon

[A dispatch from Vallarbe, Switzerland, said Pétain arrived at that Swiss border station this afternoon. The Marshal alighted from his car following a journey from Wessen in eastern Switzerland, and walked with his wife into the railway station's restaurant to take coffee while waiting.]

French authorities in deciding to take Pétain into custody in this manner conformed to a precedent set in 1871 when another marshal, Achille Bazaine, was arrested on charges almost identical with those confronting Pétain. Bazaine was accused of treason in connection with the French defeat in the War of 1870.

trial in absentia before the high court of justice. Preliminary discussions begin April 24. This information imposed an obligation which I consider as imperative, and I address myself to Your Excellency to aid me in accomplishing my duty.

Wants to Explain Acts.

"As Chief of Government in June, 1940, at Bordeaux I refused to leave France. As Chief of State during the grave hours which came again for my country, I decided to remain at my post at Vichy.

"The Reich Government compelled me to leave on April 20, 1944. It is not true I sought refuge on foreign soil to evade my responsibilities. It is in France alone that I can explain my act, and I am the sole judge of the risks that attitude implies. I have then the right to demand that Your Excellency gives me immediately the facilities.

"You will understand the decision I have taken to defend my honor and to protect by my presence all those who followed my lead. This is my sole purpose. No argument can make me renounce

Petain Returns to France

Aged Marshal Becomes Prisoner on Crossing Frontier From Switzerland.

Vallorbe, Switzerland, April 26 (A. P.).—Marshal Petain, hero of Verdun in the first world war and Chief of State in the days of Vichy, returned to his own country tonight a prisoner.

The Petain party left the Swiss border by auto for Les Hopitaux-Neufs where it will board a special train for Paris under guard of French authorities.

Petain was received in France without even a salute. Lieut.-Gen. Joseph Pierre Koenig, chief of French forces of the interior at the invasion of Normandy and before, met him. Petain extended his hand, but Koenig did not respond.

Members of his entourage, meanwhile, made public a letter the aged former Vichy Chief of State wrote April 5 to Adolf Hitler announcing his decision to return voluntarily to France.

The letter, which seems likely to stand as the theme of his forthcoming defense, declared:

"I am informed that the French authorities intend to place me on this object. At my age one can fear only one thing; that is, not to have performed completely my duty."

Elaborate precautions were being taken to prevent any disorder when the aged Marshal, revered by many as the hero of Verdun of world war I and hated equally strongly by others, passes through France to a prison somewhere near Paris.

Yanks Take Verona, Italian Rail Center

Virtually Seal Off Brenner Pass Escape Route —Enemy Armies Entirely Disorganized —More Than 60,000 Germans Taken —Armored Units Speed "Toward Genoa."

ROME, April 26 (AP)—The U. S. Fifth Army captured the railway center of Verona in a lightning 20-mile stab today, virtually sealing off the Brenner Pass escape route of German troops in Italy.

Nazis Disorganized

Nazi Armies south of the Alps appeared entirely disorganized, and prisoners were being rounded up by the thousands. A captured German corps commander, Gen Von Schwerin, who was taken by the British Eighth Army, said "I know the situation for German soldiers in north Italy is hopeless."

The total of prisoners bagged by the two Allied Armies since they opened their all-out offensive soared well past 60,000. The Eighth Army alone seized 20 enemy tanks and 40 guns and destroyed nearly 1,000 vehicles as it swept up to the Adige river in the last 24 hours.

Fifth Army Forces smashed through Nazis' formidable Adige defense line near Verona, and a terse Allied communique said armored units driving up the western cast were "attacking toward Genoa" against heavy fire from mobile and coast defense guns.

Scene of Peace

An Associated Press correspondent aboard an American bomber said he cruised as far north as Verona without seeing any sign of fighting, and that the Po valley was a "scene of utter peace." He saw American tanks roaring northward between Mantova and Verona.

Headquarters announced that a flying Fifth Army column had driven to an area north of Montova (Mantua) which is 20 miles south of Verona. Apparently Mantova was by-passed in the rush of Gen. Mark W. Clark's forces to seize Verona and seal off the entrance to the passage through the Alps.

Verona, lying at the foothills of the Alps, is 75 airline miles south of Bolzano, where the Brenner Pass proper begins, but the rail line leading to the famous Pass begins climbing rapidly into the mountains only a few miles outside Verona.

Seals Off Nazi Forces

Seizure of Verona in effect seals off a great part of the German forces in northern Italy from any chance of withdrawal into the Nazis' Bavarian redoubt. Approximately 190 miles separated American troops near Verona from U. S. Seventh Army forces on the Iller canal west of Munich.

As Allied forces swept northward under a partial news blackout it appeared ever more probable that they would realize the intention of their commanders—destruction of German forces in Italy. Their prisoner bag already totalled at least one-third of the enemy's known fighting strength in this theater, and the Nazis' loss in equipment had been terrific.

Fifth Army forces driving northwestward from Bologna up Highway No. 9 captured the cities of Reggio D'Emilia and Parma, the latter only 70 miles from Milan, while the British Eighth Army on the right pushed on beyond the Po river north of Ferrara toward the Adige river, where the Nazis might attempt to make a stand.

Abandon Equipment

In evacuating their last footholds south of the Po near Ferrara the Germans abandoned so much equipment and motor transport "that we are unable to count it," said a statement from Eighth Army headquarters.

Everywhere along the line the Nazis were retreating so rapidly that the progress of their Allied pursuers was difficult to follow. American and British planes continued to spread destruction among enemy columns. In their desperation the Nazis were reported resorting to pulling some equipment by hand.

A communique from Marshal Tito's headquarters in Yugoslavia said his Partisan forces were fighting through the streets of Fiume, at the northern end of the Adriatic Sea, with the Germans destroying the port block by block as they withdrew.

Mussolini Reported Taken

A Partisan-controlled radio in Milan reported tonight that the Italian liberation committee had taken over the administration of the whole of northern Italy, said a British broadcast recorded by CBS.

[The Swiss telegraph agency received reports from "reliable sources" that Benito Mussolini, who on Wednesday was reported fleeing from his villa near Milan, had been captured by Italian patriots in the town of Pallanza on the western shore of Lake Maggiore.]

The Milan radio station reported that Mussolini, who has been living in a villa outside Milan, had offered to surrender the city to Italian partisans, but had then fled without carrying out the offer.

The same station broadcast another report that the former dictator had escaped into Switzerland under an assumed name, and that half of Turin was in the hands of patriot fighters. Other cities where patriot uprisings were reported included Gallarate, Legnano, Novara and Varese.

Patriot Forces Clear Much Of Northern Italy

Mussolini Reported Captured By Partisans—Nazi Troops Flee.

BERN, Switzerland, April 26, (AP)—Italian frontier reports and Partisan broadcasts said tonight that patriot forces in a massive uprising had virtually cleared Nazi Fascist troops from the provinces of Piedmont, Lombardy and Liguria in northern Italy, capturing the big cities of Genoa, Turin, Milan and other localities.

The Swiss Telegraphic Agency carried one report that Benito Mussolini had been arrested at Pallanza on Lake Maggiore.

(The London Daily Mail also received a dispatch from a special correspondent in Zurich saying that Mussolini had been captured by Italian patriots while attempting to flee to Hitler's redoubt in southern Germany.)

Nazis Withdrawing

With French forces reported entering Italy from the northwest, there were mounting indications that the Germans were withdrawing from northern Italy, abandoning Mussolini and his Blackshirts to their fate and shifting troops to reinforce Hitler's mountain redoubt. One report said Mussolini publicly had declared that Hitler deserted him ;another said he reached the Swiss frontier in disguise trying to seek refuge in this neutral country.

Long columns of German truck convoys evacuating troops and equipment from garrisons along the Swiss border moved toward the Brenner Pass in an effort to escape Allied and Partisan forces. In some sectors the Partisans were said to have given the Germans and Fascists 24 hours to surrender unconditionally or be "wiped out."

Speading Rapidly

The Germans already had evacuated Chiasso and Brissago, and the "free Milan" radio announced that industrial city and many other places were in Partisan hands, and that "the national insurrection is spreading rapidly and growing hourly."

Mussolini was said to have sought in vain to negotiate an armistice with the Patriots, crying out in dismay when this failed that he had been "deserted by everybody, even Hitler."

This report said he and Roberto Farinacci, Fascist secretary, reached the border town of Como and took refuge in the bomb-shattered Como monastery. (The Swiss Telegraph Agency in a dispatch reported to the OWI, said Partisans had captured Mussolini in the town of Pallanza, on the west shore of Lake Maggiore).

The Partisans, under the supreme command of General Cardorna, appeared to have made tremendous strides. Clearing the big cities of Milan, Genoa and Turin alone would be a stupendous task.

Italian Partisans Free Cities In Uprisings

Rome, April 26 (AP) — Fifth Army troops captured Verona, on the approaches to the Brenner Pass, today.

Rome, April 2 casts monitored today that Ital were seizing co

Radio broad me indicated atriot forces of all major cities in northern Italy, with the German and Italian Fascist garrisons either fleeing or surrendering.

The reports came as the 5th Army, plunging over the Lombard plain to less than 25 miles from Verona in the foothill approaches to the Brenner Pass, threatened to cut off the last main exit from northwestern Italy.

From Milan, a station identifying itself as being operated by Patriots, reported that Benito Mussolini had offered to surrender the city to the Committee of National Liberation, but fled without carrying out the offer.

Reported In Switzerland

This station said Mussolini had escaped into Switzerland under a false name.

[Swiss dispatches said Mussolini, in disguise, had arrived at Como in Italy on the Swiss border.

[Another report said Como itself was in the hands of Partisans.]

A Genoa station, describing itself as the "voice of the Committee of National Liberation," announced that the Nazi commander there surrendered to the Patriots.

Uprising against the Fascists were reported at Turin and the cities of Gallarate, Legnano, Novaro and Varese. Many other smaller places were reported in Patriot hands.

General Surrenders

At Genoa, the Nazi General Meinfield ordered his troops to hand over their arms to the Patriots at 9 A.M. today after he and his staff conferred with the city's liberation committee, these radio reports said. The committee announced that the Germans would be treated as prisoners of war under international law and later would be turned over to Allied troops.

The radio report from the Milan station said the Partisans were battling the Fascist "black brigade."

Roberto Farinacci, Fascist secretary (who was reported from Bern to have arrived at Como with Mussolini), was said to have fled from Cremona when an uprising was staged there.

Half Of Turin Seized

The broadcast said half of Turin was in the hands of the patriots.

Near the east coast the British 8th Army poured across the Po River to strike at the Adige River line 30 miles from Venice, where the Germans are digging in for a last-ditch fight before the Dolomite Alps.

The last reported positions of the American forces, which burst from the Apennine Mountains, were 25 miles from Verona, in the foothill approaches to the Brenner Pass.

Third Of Nazi Effectives Lost

30-24-25/71

The Nazis were estimated to have lost at least one third of their effectives in prisoners. The total of prisoners passed 40,000 two days ago.

The onrushing American columns at Parma were only 265 miles from American 3d Army armored spearheads stabbing southward in Germany toward Memmingen. British forces below the Adige were about 250 miles from advanced Russian positions in Austria and about 180 miles by land around the northern end of the Adriatic from Marshal Tito's Yugoslav forces reported at Susak, on the Italian-Yugoslav frontier outside Fiume.

On the mountainous west coast only "very little artillery fire" and "weak rear guards" were opposing the 5th Army's advance from La Spezia, Allied headquarters said, adding that "a few" bridges had been blown up by the retiring Germans.

Hazardous Escape Route

Capture of Verona by the Americans in the central Po Valley would leave the Germans in northwest Italy only a hazardous escape route by mountain roads along the Swiss border northeast of Milan and through the Tonale Pass to reach the Austrian frontier at Brenner.

The American 88th Infantry has taken 13,400 prisoners in the current offensive, among them a General von Schellwitz, commander of the shattered German 305th Division. He was taken with his staff of 40 by two privates, Taylor Abercrombie, of Hollywood, Cal., and Joseph Wells, of Weippe, Idaho.

The enemy hastily evacuated his last foothold on the south side of the Po River east of Ferrara, "leaving behind him so much equipment and motor transport that we are unable to count it," Allied headquarters reported.

Pope Receives Leading Poles

VATICAN CITY, April 26 (AP).—Pope Pius XII received General Wladyslaw Anders, acting commander of land, sea and air forces under the Polish government of London, and the Polish Embassy staff headed here by Ambassador Casimir Papee at an hour-long audience today.

Spain Ends Lists On Reichmarks

Madrid, April 26 (AP)—The German reichsmark vanished today from official quotations of the Spanish Institute of Foreign Exchange.

For weeks the institute has refused to change marks. However, quotations still were published in the official bulletin up to yesterday, when the controlled buying price of the mark was 4.24 pesetas. (The current American rate for pesetas is 9.15 cents).

Belgrade Celebrates Red Gains In Berlin

Belgrade, April 26 (AP)—Belgrade was in a frenzy of celebration today over the news of the Russian drive through Berlin.

Partisan troops and regular soldiers fired rifles and pistols in the streets and the city's outer defenses fired salutes that streaked the sky with fireworks.

The people sang and danced until the midnight curfew last night in the square where in 1943 the Germans hanged hostages in an effort to cow the populace. In the main square, decorated with a huge red star, a loud speaker alternately blared music and news bulletins.

Hitler Imitator Reported Ready to Die in His Place

By The Associated Press.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 26—The Free German Press Service said today that a carefully coached former grocer resembling Adolf Hitler had been sent to Berlin in the Fuehrer's place "to die on the barricades."

"He will act as Hitler's trump card, creating a hero legend around the Fuehrer's death while Hitler himself goes underground," the agency said.

It said the stand-in was August Wilhelm Bartholdy, a one-time grocer in Plauen, and that he had been specially trained to speak like Hitler in a long association with the Fuehrer at Berchtesgaden.

In the next few days, the agency said, Bartholdy will appear in the final fighting over the last barricades, where "Hitler's devoted photographer Hoffman" and propaganda staff "will be on hand to film Hitler's last moment on the battlefield."

Germans in Last Finland Stand

HELSINKI, April 26 (AP)—Remnants of Germany's Lapland army have been "practically driven out of Finland," where they had been hanging on in the long neck of territory between Normay and Sweden since last fall, it was announced tonight. A Finnish communiqué said Finnish troops had reached the common border of Sweden, Norway and Finland at the northwestern end of Lake Kilpisjaervi, but added there was still some fighting.

BRITISH BURMA UNIT CAPTURES TOUNGOO

60-Mile Thrust Puts Rangoon Within 150 Miles—Chinese Check Chihkiang Drive

CALCUTTA, India, April 26 (AP)—British Fourteenth Army troops, sweeping southward against disorganized Japanese resistance, have captured Burma's tenth city of Toungoo, 150 miles north of Rangoon, in a three-day sixty-mile advance, Allied headquarters announced today.

The important junction city on the main north-south axis of Japanese communications in this swiftly dwindling part of the Japanese territorial [illegible] of 1942 fell after a 160-mile advance from Meiktila in twenty-one days. A total of 4,800 Japanese were killed in this period, compared to fractional British losses.

A companion column was pushing southward along the east bank of the Irrawaddy River after overrunning the rich Burma oil fields, which had been the mainstay of enemy forces in all Burma.

The disorganization of Japanese communications was evident when the leading British tank approached a bridge outside Toungoo. A Japanese sentry stepped into the road and asked it to halt, assuming it was Japanese. The British tank driver promptly ran over him and charged ahead unmolested. At another point six Japanese were surprised in the midst of a dice game.

Bombers of the Eastern Air Command gave Rangoon one of its heaviest poundings, setting barracks and supply dumps on fire, as well as [illegible] pipeline north of the city. Other planes attacked a Japanese camp in the northern combat zone east of Taunggyi.

Fight Still Rages East Of Chihkiang

Chungking, April 26 (AP)—Fighting of unabated fury raged tonight 75 miles east of the United States 14th Air Force base at Chihkiang, where the Chinese said they had checked the Japanese advance.

The Japanese were hurrying up reinforcements and attacking repeatedly to try to break in on this western Hunan province base 250 miles southeast of Chungking.

Heavy fighting also was in progress around Yiyang, enemy base on the north flank of this Japanese drive aimed at the heart of free China. The Chinese said the enemy also was held on the south flank.

Foe's Chihkiang Push Held

CHUNGKING, China, April 26 (AP)—Reinforced Japanese troops attempting to drive on the United States Fourteenth Air Force base at Chihkiang in western Hunan Province have been halted in bitter fighting, the Chinese High Command said tonight.

The battle flared at a point seventy-five miles east of the base, which is 250 miles southeast of Chungking.

While the central prong of the three-pronged drive was stopped, Chinese battling against the right flanked based at Yiyang on the southern shore of Lake Tungting engaged the enemy in a severe fight. The Chinese were reported yesterday to have reached Yiyang's outer wall.

The southern arm of the enemy offensive also was held, the High Command said.

OKINAWA DEFENSE PIERCED BY YANKS

Wedge Drive Into Japs' Deep Secondary Line

Guam, Friday, April 27 (AP)—Bombs from 100 to 150 Superfortresses fell on Kyushu airfields in daylight today. It was the second B-29 raid in 24 hours on that southernmost main island of Japan.

U. S. 24th Division drives 12 miles nearer to Davao.... Page 4

Guam, Friday, April 27 (AP)—Infantrymen of Maj. Gen. James L. Bradley's 96th Division drove a wedge into the deep Japanese secondary defenses on southern Okinawa yesterday by capturing high ground in the center of the line.

The heights, just east of Urasoe Mura village, were won in an attack which followed a general Japanese withdrawal under heavy artillery shelling.

Ships Knock Out Batteries

Fleet warships, meantime, continued their close fire support, knocking out numerous enemy artillery batteries, gun emplacements and defense installations.

Maj. Gen. John R. Hodge, commander of the 24th Army Corps—which includes the 7th, 27th and 96th divisions—reported all key features of the outer Japanese defense line now secured by the Yanks in the eighth day of their grand offensive toward Naha, the capital city, about 3½ miles to the south.

Hodge said the Americans control "skyline ridge" across the Ryukyu Island, 325 miles south of Japan itself.

Near New Stone Wall

"We are now only a few hundred yards from the next Jap stone wall," a 10th Army staff sjokesman told James Lindsley, Associated Press correspondent.

Lindsley's field dispatch also reported that General Hodge said that when the second defense ring is broken his troops should smash the inner circle about Okinawa's capital of Naha without too much trouble.

Key positions seized by the Americans included Kakuzu town, captured once before and lost, and strategic Hill 178 on the east coast.

Most Intelligent Japs

Hodge told Lindsley the Japanese troops, concentrated in the pillboxes, blockhouses and caves of the southern defense zone, were the most intelligent he has yet encountered.

A similar opinion was expressed by Maj. Gen. George W. Griner, 27th Division commander. He said the Okinawa defenders had shown a marked ability to adapt themselves to changing circumstances.

One of Hodge's staff officers disclosed the Americans had advanced southward about 2,500 yards since April 13, mostly since the offensive jumpoff April 19.

Capture of Hill 178 was accomplished after a battalion commanded by Major James Bulloch, of Sacramento, had neutralized much of the Japanese defenses. From the hill, troops of the 7th Division look down on Yonabaru town and airfield, their next objectives.

Yanks Seize Key Terrain Points On Okinawa

Guam, April 26 (AP)—Americans advancing on the southern Okinawa front have seized all immediate key-terrain positions, a 10th Army spokesman announced today.

These include Kakazu Ridge, Kakazu town, strategic hills and the important Hill 178 on the east coast. Japan's southern Okinawa outer defense wall was breached after seven days of fierce fighting, and front-line dispatches indicate Yank forces are well into the enemy's secondary line.

21,269 Japs Killed

Bitter, sometimes suicidal, resistance cost Japan nearly nineteen times as many troops killed as the Yanks lost in ground fighting, Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz's communiqué said today.

Doughboys of Maj. Gen. John R. Hodge's 24th Army Corps and Maj. Gen. Roy S. Geiger's Marine 3d Amphibious Corps killed 21,269 Japanese and captured 399 on Okinawa and surrounding islands from D-day (April 1 on Okinawa) until dawn yesterday. This is one third of the enemy's estimated force.

U.S. Casualties

American casualties were 1,146 killed in ground action, 5,982 wounded and 296 missing through Sunday. These totals comprised 889 soldiers killed, 4,879 wounded and 289 missing; 257 Marines killed, 1,103 wounded and seven missing.

Naval casualties for the period March 18-April 18 and including several carrier plane attacks from Tokyo to Formosa were 4,700, of whom 989 were killed. Japanese Navy casualties have not been estimated, but must have been high. One hundred enemy ships, including the 45,000-ton battleship Yamato, were sunk in the March 18-April 18 period.

Yank Gains Slow

Doughboys, supported by terrific naval bombardment and low-level aerial attacks, forged ahead at snail's pace, making gains on both the central and eastern sectors of the "Little Siegfried Line."

Hodge told Associated Press Correspondent James Lindsley that when the Japanese second defense ring is broken, his troops should not have too much trouble with the inner circle around Naha, the capital city. However, a member of the general's staff indicated there is much heavy fighting ahead. He said Japanese fortifications are "so well and intelligently constructed that I doubt if German engineers could have done better."

Key Hill Seized

The 7th Division seized key Hill 178 and is now looking down on Japanese-held Yonabaru airfield on the east coast. The town of Yonabaru was virtually destroyed days ago by bombing and bombardment.

The 27th Division recaptured Kakuzu after being forced to withdraw from this village in the center of the line five days ago, under heavy mortar fire from dominating ridges.

Troops also were nearing the outskirts of Tanabaru Town, in the center of the line.

So far, 115,279 Okinawan civilians have come under jurisdiction of the American Military Government.

DAVAO THRUST GAINS 12 MILES

U.S. 24th Division On Mindanao Nearing Gulf

Manila, Friday, April 27 (AP)—Twenty-fourth Division infantrymen under Maj. Gen. Roscoe B. Woodruff gained 12 miles across southern Mindanao Wednesday to approach within 20 miles of Davao Gulf.

When the Yanks reach the gulf they will be only 25 road miles south of a prime target in the Philippines, the excellent hemp port of Davao.

Maintains Baguio Pressure

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communiqué today also reported the 33d Division maintained its pressure on Baguio, the Philippine summer capital on northern Luzon, while bombers and fighters dropped more than 400 tons of explosives in close support.

Heavy bombers again pounded airdromes on Formosa. The Matsuyama, Tainan and Kamka airfields were left badly torn up, their buildings and installations aflame.

Rail yards also were pounded on Formosa and fuel stores were set afire in the near-by Pescadores Islands.

12 Vessels Wrecked

APR 27 1945

Twelve freighters, river boats and patrol vessels were wrecked as air patrols swept the China Sea from Hong Kong to South French Indo-China. Railway installations and rolling stock along the Indo-China coast were strafed.

Heavy bombers destroyed building and oil storage tanks at Miri, on the northwest coast of invasion-menaced Borneo, while patrol bombers sank a freighter off the coast.

Warehouses at Soerabaya, Java, were set afire.

BATTLE AT BAGUIO IS REACHING PEAK

DAVIS

Manila, April 26 (A. P.).—The toughest current battle of the Philippines raged today at Baguio, in northern Luzon. Meantime, a sixteen-mile advance by the Twenty-fourth Division brought the American drive on Mindanao Island nearer its decisive stage.

DAY

Americans pushing down a highway from the northwest were within 2,000 yards of the center of Baguio, the Philippine summer capital and long a Jap headquarters. A civilian who came through the lines reported the American bombing of the area was so intense that on one occasion explosions kept up for five hours with only one twenty-minute break. In spite of this the Nipponese held stubbornly to the wrecked town.

The sixteen-mile jump on Mindanao Island put the Americans within fifty-seven road miles of Davao, insular metropolis. Their forward elements reached hill country, where Nipponese resistance was expected to stiffen.

Tales Of Heroism Related Of Ship Hit By Suicide Flyer

By VERN HAUGLAND

Aboard a Pacific Fleet Warship, April 19 (AP—Delayed)—An officer's heroism wiping out an old disgrace . . . a Negro giant risking his life again and again to save others . . . the wounded manning their stations to the last . . . dying men diverting aid to "others who need it worse."

These were the stories aboard this fire-blackened, bomb-shattered ship, victim of a Japanese suicide-plane attack near Okinawa April 16.

The officer is 33-year-old Lieut. (jg) Truman B. Hinkle, Olympia, Washington.

Member Of Waiter's Chorus

The Negro is 212-pound, 28-year-old Samuel Dixon, steward's mate (second class), of Bayonne, N.J. Six feet three inches tall, Dixon for eight years was a waiter at the Hotel New Yorker and a member of the hotel's famed waiter's chorus.

The number of dead increased when the damaged ship started circling and plowed several times through the center of the bobbing, helpless survivors in the water. Until emergency repairs could be made to the rudder, there was no way to divert the ship from its murderous course.

Lieutenant Hinkle, "acting skipper," brushed aside compliments but spoke frankly about his naval record, blemished by a courtmartial and sharp reduction in rank two years ago. Skipper of a destroyer which ran aground in tricky Alaskan waters, he was blamed for the accident, stripped from lieutenant commander to lieutenant junior grade, and relieved of his command.

All Superiors Injured

"I was down at my station when I learned that all my superiors had been injured and that I was the senior officer," said Hinkle.

"So I went up on deck and took over."

The plane struck the ship, tearing away some forward installations and flooding the whole area with flame. Its 500-pound bomb, plunging o nthrough the ship exploded outside, port aft, riddling that part of the ship with shrapnel. Thirty-nine men were killed outright, and 56 were severely wounded.

Ensign Tells Story

Ensign William G. Wood, Jr., of Silver City, N. M., told this story:

"About 9.30 A.M. two planes approached. One crossed our bow just out of range, to draw our fire. It was shot down later. The other came right over our after 3-inch gun.

"It must have been a suicide try that failed. He missed the top of that gun by not more than a foot.

"He went out on the starboard side about 1000 yards so low he almost hit the water, and bore straight in at us from the front. He hit us with a terrific concussion and his bomb went right through and came out over the afterdeck before exploding.

All In Path Victims

"Everyone in the path was killed or injured either by the plane, the fire or the bomb. So was most of the personnel up and down the port side of the ship.

"Most of our gunners were killed. They all stuck to their posts. Of several 20-mm. gun crews, only one man survived. There were no survivors on the top 3-inch 50.

"The fire got so bad eventually that all hands had to leave their stations and fight it. To make things worse, the ship began circling, and every time it came around to the men struggling i nthe water, some more of them died in its wake.

"Hinkle directed the fire-fighting and rescue work and he and the engineer soon had the ship on a straight course again."

Carried Wounded To Stations

Outstanding was huge Sam Dixon, the singing messboy. His battle station was ammunition carrier for the after 3-inch gun, and in the heat of the engagement he galloped back and forth at his job carrying a 100-pound case of shells under each arm.

When the firing ceased, Dixon started carrying the wounded to first aid stations. Strongest man on the ship, he was observed lowering a man on a stretcher, from one deck to another, with one hand.

"The first wounded man I saw I picked up," said Dixon. I was careful to pick them up by the clothing or belt. I didn't want to hurt them any more than they were."

Names of the dead and injured cannot be used until casualty lists have been completed and next of kin have been notified.

Shikoku Gets First B-29 Blasting

Guam, April 26 (AP)—Shikoku, one of the four main Japanese homeland islands, came under Superfortress bombsights for the first time today in a raid by 200 to 250 B-29's which hit airdromes there and on neighboring Kyushu.

DAY

Maysuyama airfield on the northwest coast of Shikoku and various fields along the south and east coasts of Kyushu were the targets in this eighth bombing of mainland airfields since March 27.

B-29's are concentrating on air bases from which the Japanese have staged air attacks on American ground positions and shipping at Okinawa.

Eight Fields Known Hit

The medium altitude strike was directed at eleven airfields. However, 21st Bomber Command headquarters here said poor weather made observation impossible and only eight airfields were known to have been hit.

A Japanese broadcast said the raid on Kyushu lasted for two and a half hours.

100 SUPERFORTRESSES ATTACK KYUSHU AGAIN

LANDERS

GUAM, Friday, April 27 (AP)—Bombs from 100 to 150 Superfortresses fell on Kyushu airfields in daylight today. It was the second B-29 raid in twenty-four hours on that southernmost main island of Japan.

NIGHT

The bombers, attacking at medium altitude under good weather conditions, pounded six airfields on southern Kyushu that have been staging bases for raids against American positions and shipping at Okinawa, 325 miles to the south. The results of the attack were not yet available.

The assault followed one yesterday on Kyushu and the neighboring island of Shikoku by 200 to 250 B-29's, the results of which were not observed because of some of the poorest weather yet encountered over the empire.

Admiral Nimitz Calls Pyle A Great Hero

Guam, April 26 (AP)—Admiral Nimitz today praised Ernie Pyle, war correspondent who was killed by Japanese machine-gun bullets on Ie Island, off Okinawa, on April 18, as "one of the greatest heroes of this war."

DAY

In a letter of sympathy to Mrs. Pyle in Albuquerque, N. M., the Pacific Fleet commander said:

"He wrote of brave men and understood them, because he himself was brave. He wrote simply and humbly, because he had the simplicity and humility of greatness.

"He had been with us in the Pacific only a short time, but in that time demonstrated his unique ability to make friends. Here on Guam officers, enlisted men and war correspondents were shocked and saddened by the tragic news. It is in their behalf that I write, because their unanimous and heartfelt sympathy goes out to you in this time of sorrow and in it I hope you may find comfort and strength."

By The Associated Press.

GUAM, April 26—American troops killed 360 Japanese and captured 246 on Iwo Island in the week April 15-21 inclusive, Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz said today.

DAY

In the same period four Japanese were killed and seven taken prisoner on Saipan, thirty-eight captured on Tinian, thirty-eight killed and twenty-seven captured on Guam and six killed on Peleliu.

Bomb-Crater Education

San Francisco, April 26 (AP)—Japanese children of Nagoya are going to get "object lessons in natural history" from bomb craters made in the industrial city by B-29's.

Domei, the Japanese news agency, reported in a broadcast today the craters were being made into fish ponds so that children would be given opportunity to study marine life. The dispatch was recorded here.

Jap Cabinet Advisers Approved

San Francisco, April 26 (AP)—Tokyo reported today that Emperor Hirohito had "immediately" approved appointment of thirteen Japanese Cabinet advisers and had received in audience the puppet Premier of occupied Manchuria, Chang Ching-hui.

A Tokyo domestic broadcast, recorded here, said the thirteen advisers, including a number of business and industrial leaders, were appointed by Premier Kantaro Suzuki.

The visit of Chang Ching-hui was reported in a Domei news agency dispatch. Chang was quoted as saying later that he "heart ached" at the "war de[struction] in Tokyo and—"I realized [how] tastly a nation is America."

'Nazis Fleeing To Minorca'

New York, April 26 (AP)—A Moscow broadcast reported by the FCC declared today that a number of Nazi fugitives, including the families of Labor Front Leader Robert Ley and several Gauleiters, had arrived by plane at the Spanish island of Minorca in the Mediterranean.

The broadcast said an airfield on the island had been "specially fitted up for German planes bringing fugitive Nazis" and asserted that the base was under the direct supervision of Gen. Jose Moscardo, chief of the Falange militia.

Minorca is one of the Balearic group off the Spanish east coast.

Red Delegate Objects To Stettinius As Permanent Secretary.

EDEN PROPOSAL ALSO REJECTED

Later, At First Plenary Session, Molotov Pledges Inflexible Support To World Body.

By Douglas B. Cornell

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26 (AP)—Russian Commissar Molotov catapulted the World Security Conference into a tight deadlock today by blocking the election of Secretary of State Stettinius to its chairmanship.

The stolid Russian also rejected a British compromise.

What was to have been a routine, initial business meeting of chiefs of delegations broke off abruptly, its tasks far from complete, its participants stunned and amazed at prospects of another Big Three row.

Molotov Assures Newsmen

After setting off his explosion, Molotov proceeded calmly into a news conference to give public assurances of an eventual solution to a controversy already flaming among Russia, Britain and the United States—over a knotty Polish problem.

And from here, he moved on to the conference's first plenary session to pledge full cooperation, Russia's "inflexible" support, in erecting a new and powerful peace-keeping organization.

According to customary procedure at international gatherings, this was the session which would have ratified the steering committee's selection of the leader of the host nation's delegation as permanent chairman or president.

That was w[illegible]ritain's Anthony Eden ha[illegible]posed at this morning's ste[illegible]g committee meeting. And t[illegible] was what Molotov blocked, alo[illegible] with a British compromise of four rotating chairmen.

A Veiled Threat

At one point Russia's foreign commisar even delivered a more or less veiled threat to withdraw his country as one of four sponsoring powers. He did not threaten to take Russia completely out of the San Francisco picture but declared that unless his plan was followed the Soviets would sit among the lesser powers in protest.

What drew his greatest ire was the fact that as proposed and voted, the rotating chairmanship would apply only to the plenary sessions with Stettinius still sitting as permanent chairman of the steering committee.

Delegates had no ready reason for Molotov's action. They thought perhaps Russia regarded the chairmanship question of such importance that the foreign commissar was sparring for time in which to consult Moscow.

In the light of what happened at the steering committee meeting, many in the assemblage at the late afternoon plenary session waited impatiently for translations of Molotov's address. He didn't mention the morning activities.

Inflexibly Supports Cause

Bespectacled, balding, dressed in blue, Molotov asserted:

"I should like to assure the conference our country is devoted to the cause of setting up an organization to protect the peace. I wish you to know that the Soviet Union can be relied upon to protect the peace. Our peaceful people, the Red Army and our great Marshal Stalin are inflexibly supporting this great cause."

From the same blue-carpeted rostrum of San Francisco's opera house, Stettinius, T. V. Soong of China and Eden also spoke. If they were disturbed by the morning's events, they didn't betray it at this dramatic moment.

One essential condition of success at the conference, Stettinius declared, "is the voluntary cooperation of all peaceful nations, large and small, acting with full respect for the equal sovereignty of each, to promote justice among nations, to foster respect for basic human rights and to solve those common problems upon which the security and the economic and social advancement of their peoples so largely depend."

Eden Says "We Must Succeed"

The slender ,handsome Eden spoke of past efforts to attain collective security, efforts which failed, and declared that "a further attempt must be made and this time we must succeed."

Sternly, he warned:

"Either we must find some means of ordering our relations with justice and fair dealing, while allowing nations great and small full opportunity to develop their free and independent life, or we shall soon head for another world conflict which this time must bring the utter destruction of civilization."

Urging that the conference not attempt too much, Eden like Stettinius said that San Francisco cannot hope to produce a complete and perfect scheme.

Soong declared that "we must not lose no time." He added:

"We must not leave this conference without achieving the high purpose for which we are here assembled."

Poland Not Conference Matter

On the Polish matter, Molotov told reporters that it isn't a matter for the conference at all, that the big 3 powers are doing all they can to settle the question of what is a proper government for Poland.

He added that there is an excellent base for settlement in the Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin agreements at Yalta.

Stettinius closed today's plenary session by announcing that the chairmen of other delegations will be heard at tomorrow afternoon's session.

The story of what happened at the fruitless session of the steering committee was told by one delegate.

Russia Wants Four Chairmen

After Eden proposed Stettinius this is what happened:

The Russian put in a request for four chairmen.

A compromise was advanced that would let the big four chiefs preside in turn at plenary sessions of the conference, and this was accepted unanimously, as was Eden's proposal that Stettinius become chairman of the steering and executive committee.

The Big Four retired into a huddle to talk over the arrangements. When they came back, Molotov amazed the meeting by moving adjournment—since, he said, no agreements had been reached.

Matters Called Off For Day

That didn't jibe with what many delegates understood, but they agreed to call things quits until tomorrow morning to end the confusion.

From the steering committee meeting, Molotov went into his first talk with the press in nearly a year.

The Polish problem, he said, isn't a matter for the security conference to handle.

Delegates never had considered tackling it. But they had been eyeing with alarm an Anglo-American split with Russia on constituting Polish government acceptable to all three powers.

They felt that evidence of discord among three of the sponsoring nations on a political question might mean those powers would be unable to work together efficiently in maintaining peace.

So it was with some elation that they learned of the Russian promise of co-operation. Then they assembled in plenary session to take care of a bit of routine business and hear speeches by Molotov, Eden, Stettinius, and Chinese Foreign Minister T. V. Soong.

The Call For Three Votes

The Russian commissar also told newsmen that in calling for three Soviet Union votes in a proposed general assembly of an international peace organization, "we ask for a minimum."

The Russians contend the Ukranian and White Russian republics are eligible to vote on grounds they are autonomous in foreign affairs. Molotov said he hoped they would be allowed to attend the conference here.

Petitions from the two republics giving their reasons for seeking admission were circulated at the steering committee meeting. No action was taken on them, however.

The foreign commissar conceded that the Polish governmental tangle is of greatest interest to many people.

His reference to the Crimea conference pointed to a possibility that some settlement might be reached along lines agreed upon there.

The Roosevelt - Stalin - Churchill decision was that the present Warsaw government should be reorganized to include more "democratic elements." In recent weeks, however, Russian has said that no one should be brought into the Polish government who is not in accord with both external and internal policies of the Soviet-backed Warshaw regime.

U. S. and England Firm

The Americans and British haven't yielded a bit of ground in their insistence that the Yalta (Crimea) agreement be kept. Thus it appears that any move toward breaking the impasse must come from Russia.

The Soviets, Molotov asserted, won't balk at amending the Dumbarton Oaks plan, the formula concocted by the sponsoring nations as the base on which the San Francisco conference hopes to erect a structure of peace.

"If it had not been intended to make any amendments," Molotov said, "there would be no use in convening this conference."

He ducked as "new to me" a question about letting Argentina in on the work of the conference.

But to an inquiry about prospects for an early end of hostilities in Europe, he replied: "I think the resistance of Germany is nearing its end."

Good Outlook for Shorter Conference

Despite the tugging and hauling over Poland on the sidelines, there were multiplying signs that questions which gave promise of keeping the conference in session six or eight weeks were disappearing so rapidly that it might finish in four. The British, among others, are talking of setting up in a month the machinery for guaranteeing world security.

Some smaller nations still were calling for a few extra cogs and gadgets, but the indications were that when it comes to balloting, they will follow in the steps of the sponsoring powers.

That does not mean there won't be some amendments to the Dumbarton Oaks plan, which the conference will use as a foundation on which to build.

Under it, a security of 11 members would have the power to employ force to check aggression. A general assembly, on which all the United Nations would have membership, would serve in an advisory capacity.

Americans Offer Amendment

The American delegation itself decided today to offer an amendment that would permit changes in a projected charter for peace by vote of three-fourths of the assembly and seven security council members.

Senator Connally (D-Tex) offered the proposal in the interests of flexibility. Under Dumbarton Oaks, alterations could be voted by the security council unless two thirds of the assembly balloted to override.

The meeting of the delegation chiefs took no action on representation for Poland or Argentina or on Russia's request for three votes in the assembly.

It confined itself largely to routine, delegates reported. One decision was to make French as well as English an official language of the conference.

The morning meeting of the steering committee preceded a late afternoon plenary session of the full conference. It was up to the plenary meeting to approve the worksheet drawn up by the steering group.

CHOICE OF STETTINIUS AS CHAIRMAN REPORTED BLOCKED BY MOLOTOV

Russian, British and Chinese Foreign Ministers Give Pledge To Objectives Of San Francisco Conference At First Session

Soviet Diplomat Asks Parley Have Four Presidents

By EWALDO CASTRO

San Francisco, April 26 (AP). Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov stunned the United Nations conference today by blocking the election of Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., United States Secretary of State, as permanent chairman.

I obtained the account from one who was there.

Chairmen of delegations of the 46 United Nations assembled in the conference hall of the Veterans Building. They comprised a steering committee. Their job was to set up an organization for operating this conference, intended to build a world organization to keep peace.

Stettinius Temporary Head

As temporary chairman, Stettinius called the meeting to order. As chief delegate of the nation—the United States—which is host to the conference, it was the custom of long diplomatic practice that Stettinius immediately be acclaimed permanent chairman.

Britain's Foreign Minister Anthony Eden, an old hand at international conferences, offered what he thought was a routine motion. He proposed that as their first official act, the delegates name Stettinius to preside over this conference.

Then Molotov spoke up. Less than two weeks ago he was not even a conference delegate. Marshal Stalin sent him at President Truman's request.

An interpreter said Molotov was voicing an objection to the election of Stettinius. Instead, the Foreign Commissar proposed, there should be four conference presidents chosen by each of the Big Four.

Mexican Backs Eden

Mexico's Foreign Minister, Ezequiel Padilla, came to Eden's support. He said the United Nations should abide by established international standards and not the caprices of an occasion.

"I appreciate the information on diplomatic norms," Molotov replied in sarcastic tones, "but the facts of the war should not be forgotten and they are that the war is making four powers."

"Among the facts of war," Padilla retorted, "are also the principles that are the only sure way for a peaceful international life."

The Mexican contended the precedent of making a representative of the host country chairman cannot be violated without giving such violation significance.

Molotov said it was a matter of prestige and asserted that Russia, too, is making war.

Eden Proposes Compromise

There was a brief discussion. Eden proposed a compromise based on Molotov's request. Why not have the heads of the Big Four powers preside over plenary conference sessions in rotated, alphabetical order? It was seconded by Prime Minister Jan Christiaan Smuts, of South Africa, and adopted.

Eden next nominated Stettinius to be chairman of the steering and executive committees. This was approved unanimously.

The Big Four representatives—Stettinius, Molotov, Eden and China's Foreign Minister, T. V. Soong—then withdrew to discuss details of this organization scheme.

When they returned, Molotov startled the delegate chiefs by proposing that since no agreement had been reached on points under discussion, the meeting be adjourned until tomorrow.

Another Associated Press dispatch from San Francisco said that at one point Russia's Foreign Commissar even delivered a more or less veiled threat to withdraw his country as one of four sponsoring powers.

He did not threaten to take Russia completely out of the San Francisco picture, the dispatch reported, but declared that unless his plan was followed the Soviets would sit among the lesser powers in protest.

[What drew his greatest ire, the dispatch continued, was the fact that as proposed and voted, the rotating chairmanship would apply only to the plenary sessions, with Stettinius still sitting as permanent chairman of the steering committee.]

In an outburst of excited chatter, several delegates protested. Unanimous approval already had been given both on the compromise presidency and the naming of Stettinius as chairman of the steering and executive committees.

Molotov insisted the agreement had not been final. Other delegates looked astounded and dumbfounded.

But, in view of the obvious difficulty of making any further progress in face of Molotov's attitude, the meeting was adjourned until tomorrow.

Russia Pressing Her Claim To 3 League Votes

San Francisco, April 26 (AP)—The United Nations held their first business conference today with the prospect that Russia would seek a quick acceptance of her bid for three votes in a proposed world assembly.

The chief delegates of the 46 nations—which will become 48 if the Soviet proposal wins approval as expected—gathered in a conference room on the second floor of the war veterans' memorial building.

Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov was the first of the Big Four to arrive—10 minutes before the scheduled meeting time.

China Aligned With U.S.?

Secretary of State Stettinius strode into the heavily guarded building about five minutes later, and Britain's Anthony Eden and Foreign Minister T. V. Soong of China followed in a matter of minutes.

Soong's arrival occasioned comment among spectators, for it was reported in conference circles today that the Chinese had decided to stand with the United States delegation on all important issues.

Soong is one of those who will speak at the full-dress session of the conference later today, starting the program of speechmaking which will lead through Molotov and Eden to all the chief delegates.

Troubles Believed Easing

Handling of the three-vote controversy was viewed with deep interest by conference delegates looking for a clue to how long the meeting will last.

There was evidence that, under big-power pressure to minimize controversy, the issues that threatened to keep the delegates here more than month were fast fading.

Molotov is a central figure of the conference in more ways than one. Many decisions depend on what he will do and he was the most sought after by crowds of the curious. He chose the unexpected paths and the unusual ways when he could, but sometimes had to move right through big crowds with the aid of guards.

Skipped Cocktail Party

Molotov failed to show up last night at a cocktail party given by Stettinius for delegation chiefs, according to reports today among United States officials. Whether his absence had any political significance was a matter of speculation.

Molotov notified delegation chiefs yesterday that the three-vote proposal would be presented to today's meeting.

The specific proposal is that the Ukrainian and White Russian Soviet republics should get conference seats and so become charter members of the assembly of the proposed world organization.

Two Other Developments

Two other top developments ushered the conference into its second day. They were:

It was reported that Molotov had received a reply from Premier Stalin to his report on talks with Stettinius and Eden on the deadlock over Poland. The reply apparently had not been communicated to either Stettinius or Eden.

The sponsoring powers agreed on a conference executive committee of delegates of eleven nations and there was speculation that these eleven might form the membership of the proposed organization's all-powerful security council. The eleven are the council's five permanent members — United States, Britain, Russia, China and France—and six smaller nations—Iran, Belgium, Yugoslavia, Canada, Brazil and Mexico.

Red Demand Put First.

San Francisco, April 26 (A. P.).—The United Nations held their first business conference today with the prospect that Russia would seek a quick acceptance of her bid for three votes in a proposed world assembly. The chief delegates of the forty-six nations—which would become forty-eight if the Russian proposal wins approval as expected—gathered in a conference room on the second floor of the War Veterans Memorial Building.

V. M. Molotov, taciturn Foreign Commissar of the Soviet Union, was the first of the Big Four to arrive, getting to the building ten minutes ahead of the scheduled meeting time.

Spectators Comment.

Secretary of State Stettinius, smiling and handshaking with old friends, strode into the heavily guarded building about five minutes later, and Britain's Anthony Eden and Foreign Minister T. V. Soong of China followed in a matter of minutes. Soong's arrival occasioned comment among spectators, for it was reported throughout conference circles today that the Chinese had decided to stand with the United States delegation on all important issues. He is one of those addressing the full-dress session of the conference later today, starting the program of speechmaking which will lead through Molotov and Eden to all the chief delegates.

The handling of the three-vote controversy was viewed with deep interest by conference delegates looking for a clew on how long the historic meeting will last. There was evidence that, under big-power pressure to minimize controversy, the issues which threatened to keep the delegates here more than a month were fast fading.

Molotov is a central figure of the conference in more ways than one. Many decisions depended on what he will do and he was the most sought after by crowds of the curious. He chose the unexpected paths and the unusual ways when he could, but sometimes had to move right through big crowds with the aid of guards.

Crowds on Hand.

The usual crowds were on hand when he reached the building this morning, but regular uniformed police and M. P.s kept them at a distance. While the Commissar was ahead of time for the committee meeting, it actually got under way late, because many delegates arrived fifteen minutes to half an hour after the time set.

The Commissar failed to show up last night at a cocktail party given by Secretary Stettinius for delegation chiefs, according to reports today among United States officials. Whether his absence had any political significance was a matter of speculation. He notified delegation chiefs yesterday that the three-vote proposal would be presented at today's meeting.

The specific proposal is that the Ukrainian and White Russian Soviet republics should get conference seats and become thereby charter members of the assembly of the proposed world organization.

Two other top developments ushered the conference into its second day after delegates heard President Truman declare that the world's future is a choice between chaos and the organized enforcement of peace. They were:

1. It was reported that Molotov had received a reply from Premier Marshal Stalin to his report on talks with Secretary of State Stettinius and British Foreign Minister Eden on the Big Three deadlock over Poland. The reply apparently had not been communicated to either Stettinius or Eden.

2. The eleven are the council's five permanent members—United States, Britain, Russia, China and France—and six smaller nations—Iran, Belgium, Yugoslavia, Canada, Brazil and Mexico.

Coupled with these developments the delegations of the war's forty-six victorious nations faced a crowded schedule, beginning, for the Americans, with a 9:30 A. M. (Pacific war time) delegation caucus and running through another full-dress meeting in the War Memorial Opera House during the late afternoon.

SOVIET REPUBLICS PLEAD

White Russia, Ukraine Request Separate Participation

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26 (AP)—Declarations announcing the wish of two of Soviet Russia's republics—White Russia and the Ukraine—to participate in the world conference were circulating among delegation chiefs today.

The White Russian paper was signed by Mr. Ponomarenko, Chairman of the Council of People's Commissars, and Mr. Kiselev, People's Commissar for Foreign Affairs. Signers of the Ukrainian declaration were N. Khroushcheu and D. Manuilski, holding the same posts for their republic, respectively.

Both papers stressed the sacrifices made by the people of their regions in resisting the Nazis and said their resources would be a major contribution to the consolidation of peace. Both republics' declarations also said that they, in accordance with Soviet constitutional law, are competent to enter direct relations with foreign countries.

Russia's Bid for Three Votes

To delegates of the United Nations conference:

Declaration of the government of the White Russian Soviet Socialists Republic at the conference of the United Nations in San Francisco:

The government of the White Russian Soviet Socialist Republic, desirous of securing a sincere and effective participation of the White Russian people in all international activities of the United Nations directed toward realization of the lofty aims of peace and security, address to the conference of the United Nations, gathered in San Francisco, this declaration about its wish to participate in the international organization for the maintenance of peace and security, which is being created, in the capacity of an original founding member and to be represented at the conference in San Francisco.

The White Russian Soviet Socialist Republic, in accordance with its constitution and the constitutional law of March 24, 1944, as a sovereign state is competent to enter into direct relations with foreign states, to conclude agreements with them, to participate in any international conferences and international bodies, etc.

The constitutional prerogatives of the White Russian Soviet Socialist Republic in the field of international relations give her all the rights and grounds to participate in the international organization of the United Nations.

The White Russian people, whose lands in the past were the object of attacks on the part of foreign conquerors more than once, are interested no less than any other peace-loving state in securing their frontiers and in a stable, lasting peace.

The White Russian Republic, with its population of more than ten million, has made a major contribution to the sacred cause of the struggle of the freedom-loving nations against the common enemy—Hitlerite Germany.

The German invaders brought innumerable hardships and sufferings to the White Russian people.

Invading White Russia with no reason at all, the Hitlerite conquerors systematically carried out a planned destruction of cities, villages, industry, agriculture, national and cultural values of the freedom-loving White Russian people, causing to White Russia a damage totaling about a half of its national wealth.

The German Fascists, in their aim to conquer and enslave the White Russian people, practiced brutal mass murders of the peaceful population of Soviet White Russia.

But even during the hardest times of the German invasion and years of incredible sufferings under the German Fascist regime of occupation, the White Russian people did not pause for a moment in their struggle. About a million White Russian warriors joined the ranks of the Red Army fighting for its motherland and for the common cause of the United Nations.

Hundreds of thousands of citizens—men and women—of the White Russian Republic devoted to the cause of freedom and peace joined guerrilla detachments and without any regard for their own lives operated actively in the rear of the German invaders, disorganizing enemy communications, hindering the movements of its troops, embarrassing its operations and thus helping the Red Army in all possible ways to destroy the German invaders.

The White Russian Soviet Socialist Republic, aiming in every way to contribute to the cause of creating a stable peace and security together with other freedom-loving states, considers it its right and duty to participate in the international security organization as well as in the conference of the United Nations in San Francisco.

The government of the White Russian Soviet Socialist Republic believes that serious harm would be done to the principle of the most complete and widest representation of all peace-loving nations in the international security organization if the White Russian Soviet Socialist Republic were not represented in this organization, as well as at the conference for the creation of such an organization, and if the solution of such important problems as the insuring of the post-war peace and security were dealt with without the participation of representatives of the White Russian Soviet Socialist Republic.

PONOMARENKO,
Chairman of the Council of the People's Commissar of the B. S. S. R.

Ukrainian Declaration

To delegates of the United Nations Conferenee:

Declaration of the government of the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic:

In the name of the government of the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republics we have the honor to submit the following declaration to the conference of the United Nations which is being held in San Francisco for the purpose of setting up an international organization of peace and security.

The Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic, on the basis of its constitution of Jan. 30, 1937, and the constitutional revisions and amendments adopted by the Supreme Soviet of the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic on March 4, 1944, has recovered the right which it formerly had and which it voluntarily ceded to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics in 1922, to establish direct relations with foreign states, to conclude agreements with them and to have independent representation at international conferences and bodies set up by the latter. This is also in full accord with the constitution of the U. S. S. R. and the constitutional acts of the Supreme Soviet of the U. S. S. R. dated Feb. 1, 1944. The Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic, with a population of more than 40,000,000, is one of the largest European states.

The Ukraine, lying along the southwestern borders of the Soviet Union, has in the last thirty years alone been the object of numerous foreign invasions, which have brought to the Ukrainian people incalculable hardships. Therefore the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic is among the states most interested in safeguarding their security against the attacks of aggressors. The Ukraine has more than once been the object of sanguinary invasions of aggressors who have striven for centuries to seize its territory, its man power and material resources and to enslave its people.

The whole world is aware of the contribution made by the Ukrainian people to the defeat of the common enemy of the United Nations. The stubbornness and the heroism which the Ukrainian people, together with the other peoples of the Soviet Union, have shown and are showing in their fight against the German Fascist invaders are well known, as is the steadfastness with which they have defended their land, their big cities—Kiev, Odessa, Kharkov—and other towns and villages of the Ukraine. Their guerrilla movement, undermining the strength of the enemy and disrupting his communications in the rear, is also well known. The sacrifices which they have made in their fight against the common enemy are also well known. Suffice it to say that during their last invasion of the Ukraine, German hordes inflicted damage on the Ukrainian people amounting to several billion dollars, exterminated several million peaceful citizens and drove more than three million people into German slavery.

It is natural that the Ukrainian people, who have made such great sacrifices in this war and devoted all their material resources to the destruction of the enemy, and whose soldiers make at least one-fifth of the armed forces of the Soviet Union, are vitally interested that their efforts, and the efforts of all the peoples of the Soviet Union and of all the other peoples fighting the common enemy, should be crowned with a lasting peace and should lead after the victorious termination of the war to the creation of conditions which will guarantee the Ukrainian people and other peace-loving nations against the trials of war.

The government of the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic is confident that the Ukraine, which played a notable part in the defeat of the enemy with its vast man power and material resources, will be able to make a major contribution to the consolidation of peace and the maintenance of general security.

On the basis of the considerations set forth above, the government of the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic, prompted by the desire to contribute to the establishment of the guaranties of peace and security after the war for their own people as well as for other peoples, have decided to submit to the conference of the United Nations a declaration announcing its wish to join the world organization of security as one of the founder-states and also to take part in the conference of the United Nations in San Francisco.

N. KROUSHCHEU,
Chairman of the Council of Peoples Commissars of the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic.

D. MANUILSKI,
People's Commissar for Foreign Affairs of the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic.

U. S. Delegates to Seek Easier Charter Revision

Support Connally Plan for Added Flexibility

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26 (AP).—The United States delegation approved today an amendment permitting future revision of the proposed United Nations charter when three-fourths of the Assembly members and seven Security Council representatives favored such action.

It was one of its first decisive actions at the conference which opened yesterday. The group agreed to submit a proposal by Senator Tom Connally, Democrat, of Texas, which would give the projected league a flexibility not included in the Dumbarton Oaks preliminary formula.

By reportedly unanimous vote the United States delegates supported the Connally proposal to make possible the holding of a sort of constitutional convention at any time when an apparently overwhelming sentiment of members indicates that revision is necessary.

This amendment would expand the provision made at Dumbarton Oaks for minor changes in the charter to be drafted here. Under the Dumbarton Oaks language, changes could be vetoed by the Security Council unless two-thirds of the Assembly members voted to override.

The United States delegation's action was interpreted immediately as a concession to small-nation demands that additional flexibility be given to the proposed league's charter. It was noted also that such a revision might be needed if enemy countries later are to be admitted to the United Nations circle.

It was stressed that this amendment, to be submitted later to the particular commission which deals with that subject, must have approval of the full conference before it could be incorporated into the charter.

Parley Consultants Hold Meeting With Stettinius

Secretary Promises They Will Be Kept Fully Informed

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26 (AP).—Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius jr. promised consultants representing forty domestic organizations today that they would be kept fully informed of developments in the United Nations Conference.

Appearing briefly before head consultants at a closed meeting this morning, he said the department is arranging regular meetings between the consultants and delegates and advisers.

Homer Byington, press-relations officer for the department, said the consultants, representing organizations of every shade of opinion, would be invited to have "a full exchange of views" with delegation members and advisers.

Evangeline Booth Lauds Parley

PHILADELPHIA, April 26 (AP).—General Evangeline Booth, retired international leader of the Salvation Army, said today that the United Nations Conference is opening the gates for a better understanding of the peoples of the world. "There must be a main track that we can all agree upon," she said.

2 Vets Give Peace Ideas At Frisco

San Francisco, April 26 (AP)—A couple of wounded service men, official aides at the United Nations conference, said today that "the most we can expect is another military alliance unless the conference is an idealistic success."

Commander Harold E. Stassen, United States delegate to the conference, picked the war veterans to help him represent the feelings and views of men who have been in combat.

They are 20-year-old Sergt. John B. Thomson, of the Army, and 24-year-old Lieut. Cloyd Meyer, of the Marines, from German and Pacific battlefields.

They Have Their Own Ideas

The two have their own ideas about what should be done to keep the peace. They aren't overly impressed by the way the statesmen of 46 nations are going about it.

Meyer, who was shot on Guam, remarked that "the most we can expect is just a working alliance."

Thomson put in that "although you can't expect perfection from the first conference, you've got to get something concrete. Not another league. Shaking your finger at naughty nations doesn't work."

Clashing Policies Seen

Meyer said that perhaps the "big trouble" is that the United States is working simultaneously for world co-operation and a single-handed system of security for itself.

"The two policies often clash," he added.

Explaining that he spoke for himself and not for Commander Stassen, Meyer said "there should be a general trusteeship for all the world's dependent areas."

The Marine differed with Admiral Ernest J. King and Congressmen who say islands in the Pacific, conquered at the price of American lives, should be held by this country.

Strong Agency Wanted

Thomson said he was sure a "representative service vote would be for a much tighter, stronger, toothier world organization—willing to use United States armed forces with less recommendations and more orders."

The two didn't think much of the Yalta voting procedure which gives each large nation a veto on the use of the force to put down aggression.

"The security council ought to be able to use force as countries now do, without strings," Thomson said.

Meyer declared that "eventually an international peace force must be the solution—the only solution of every thinking man."

Stassen Getting More Views

In the midst of the interview Stassen popped in and said he expected to listen a great deal to the determined ideas of his young aides.

Stassen is going to meet tomorrow night with Charles Bolte, head of the new American Veterans Committee, and with other veterans to see how they think the peace for which they've fought can best be kept.

Thomson is from Minneapolis. He left studies of criminal pathology at Harvard to joint the Navy. After receiving a medical discharge he re-enlisted in the Army.

Meyer, who was married just before he came to the conference, is from New York. He was attending Yale when he entered the Marines. After the war he wants to go back to law school and then enter public life.

Million Parley Stamps Sold First Day of Issue

Stettinius Purchases Some for Roosevelt Collection

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26 (AP).—Postoffice officials said today that more than 1,000,000 postage stamps commemorating the opening of the United Nations Conference were sold here on the first day of issue. The five-cent blue stamps, the firstt issue of which is destined for the Franklin D. Roosevelt stamp collection, were in great demand at conference headquarters. In addition, 200,000 covers, bearing as many as ten of the stamps, were sold.

Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius jr. made the first purchase. He and President Harry S. Truman arranged that these stamps go to the late President's famous collection. They bear the slogan devised by Mr. Roosevelt: "Toward the United Nations, April 25, 1945."

Molotov May Mean No When He Says Yes

San Francisco, April 26 (AP)—Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov combines an apparent ignorance of English with a determination to keep quiet.

"Have you any statement, Mr. Molotov?" asked a newsman covering the United Nations conference a. the Russian walked through a hotei lobby.

"Yes," said Molotov distinctly, never stopping in his stride and not saying another word.

English Is Language For Conference

San Francisco, April 26 (A. P.).—After 300 years as the language of diplomacy, French is giving place to English.

French delegates to the United Nations conference, however, are not giving up so easily and are asking that French be at least designated as the official language in principle.

Speeches of Stettinius, Molotoff, Eden and Soong Before the United Nations Conference

By The Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26—Following are the prepared texts of the addresses by Secretary Stettinius, Foreign Commissar Molotoff, Foreign Minister Eden and Foreign Minister Soong:

Secretary Stettinius

Fellow-Delegates to the United Nations Conference on International Organization:

Three years ago the forces o. tyranny and aggression seemed on the very point of conquering the world. Today, on every front, they are face to face with defeat—utter and complete defeat.

It has taken years of toil and sacrifice to 1ring us to this moment. But the doom of the aggressor nations was sealed long ago. It was sealed in Washington on Jan. 1, 1942, when the United Nations Declaration was signed.

Our enemies could conquer only by keeping us divided. Instead we confronted them with a free and voluntary association of nations united in purpose and without equal in human and material resources. This unity neither force nor subterfuge has broken. Against the common will and the common strength of the United Nations, our enemies have hurled their propaganda and their armed might in vain.

Not Divided by Differences

For centuries to come, men will point to the United Nations as history's most convincing proof of what miracles can be accomplished by nations joined together in a righteous cause. It is a unity achieved in spite of differences of language and custom, of cultural tradition and of economic structure. It is a unity which proves that no differences of race, color, creed, history or geography can divide peoples united in a higher community of interest and purpose.

Our first objective has been the defeat of our enemies. But from the beginning the United Nations have pursued another objective—one which is equally necessary to each one of us. It is the objective which gives ultimate meaning to all the sacrifice and suffering of these tragic years. We are united not only for survival, not only for military victory. We are united above all in the necessity to assure a just and enduring peace in which the peoples of the world can work together to achieve at last freedom from fear and from want.

We have made a better beginning toward the fulfillment of this purpose than nations have ever made before.

For this purpose the responsible leaders of our nations and their representatives have met in Moscow and in Teheran, in Cairo, in Quebec, at Dumbarton Oaks and in the Crimea.

Long at Work Together

Because of our common understanding that economic security goes hand in hand with security from war, United Nations conferences were held in Atlantic City, Hot Springs and Bretton Woods on cooperative measures for relief, to meet common problems in food and agriculture and to prepare the financial basis for economic reconstruction and an expanding world economy in the post-war world

At Mexico City the Inter-American conference on problems of war and peace strengthened the ties between the republics of the Western Hemisphere and prepared the way for a close integration of the inter-American system with the world organization.

Yes, the United Nations have long been at work together on many preparations required in building the structure of lasting peace.

Here at San Francisco we have come to the decisive point in these preparations. The purpose of this conference is to prepare the charter of an international organization to maintain peace with justice in a free world of free men.

I believe that it was a wise—indeed, a necessary—decision to limit the work of this conference to that great task.

It was a wise decision because writing the constitution of a world organization to maintain peace in the future is a task wholly separate from the punishment of the international gangsters who started this war.

Calls for Quick Action

It was a necessary decision because establishment of the world organization must be kept above and apart from the peace settlements if the organization is to be able to deal freely and justly with future threats to the peace that may arise from any cause, including these settlements.

Preparation of the charter of the world organization should not, therefore, be entangled with the many and complex political and economic issues involved in the defeat of Germany and Japan. And the imminent collapse of organized German resistance makes it all the more important that the world organization be established at the earliest possible moment.

To deal with these other issues there will have to be many other conferences, and many other decisions, both national and international. We have no time to lose.

Success at this conference will not of itself assure enduring peace. The whole structure will take years to build. But without agreement on a charter of the world organization, the structure of peace cannot be built at all.

Must Draw a Plan, He Says

A house cannot be built without a plan or without a foundation. Here at San Francisco the United Nations must draw the plan and lay the foundation.

Upon this foundation and in accordance with this plan the framework of the structure will be erected when the United Nations have ratified the charter by their respective constitutional processes and brought the world organization into being. It is only around tthis framework that we can complete the structure of peace with all the other agreements on political, economic and social problems which we must reach together.

At this conference we have, therefore, undertaken a responsibility on which all else depends. We have undertaken to draw up the charter of an international organization strong enough to prevent war and flexible enough to allow for peaceful development and change.

The outlines of such a charter are contained in the proposals formulated at Dumbarton Oaks last fall by the representatives of the Republic of China, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the United States of America, Great Britain, China and the Soviet Union worked out such principles of the international security organization as will constitute an important basis for the international organization of a new type.

Quite recently at the suggestion of the late great President Franklin Roosevelt, the Crimean conference made important supplements to this draft. As a result this conference has a sound basis for successful work.

Naturally, the new organization of international security will be built up on the foundation laid by the United Nations in this war.

It is well known that in Europe in the strenuous struggle against the common enemy a great coalition of democratic powers was found. The formation of the Anglo-Soviet-American coalition ensured the rout of German fascism and its henchmen. The other nations of Europe, led by this coalition, have been fighting for their liberation.

The coalition of great powers with their inflexible will to defend their national rights and to promote the liberation of all nations which fell victim to sanguinary aggression is consumating the task of defeating the enemy of all the United Nations.

Reliance Upon the Coalition

This coalition could accomplish it because it was conscious of its historic responsibility and because it possessed immense manpower and material resources which were invariably used in the interests of the struggle against the enemy.

But we must always bear in mind that acquired prestige is easily wasted. If we forget certain elementary things such as the lessons of the League of Nations or the lessons of this war in which the democratic nations rallied against an imperial power which considered itself master of Europe and which intended to impose its will well-nigh on the whole world.

This coalition was forged in the fire of struggle and rendered a great service to the cause of the United Nations. It must be admitted that the presence in this coalition of such a country as the Soviet Union, where relations between great and small nations are based on equality and true democracy, is of extremely great importance.

On the other hand, it is impossible to overrate the active part played in this coalition by the United States of America, which formerly remained aloof from the problems of an international organization and which is now devoting to this cause its initiative and enormous international prestige.

This coalition would have been merely impossible without Great Britain which holds an important place in the international association of democratic countries. China in Asia and France in Europe are the great nations which strengthen this coalition as a powerful world factor in the post-war period as well.

If the leading Democratic countries show their ability to act in harmony in the post-war period as well, that will mean that the interests of peace and security of nations have received at last a firm basis and protection. But that is not all.

Need of Military Guarantee

The point at issue is whether other peace-loving nations are willing to rally around these leading powers to create an effective international security organization and this has to be settled at this conference in the interests of the future peace and security of nations.

An international organization must be created having certain powers to safeguard the interests of the general peace. This organization must have the necessary means for military protection of the security of nations.

Only if conditions are created such as will guarantee that no violation of the peace or the threat of such a violation shall go unpunished, and the adoption of necessary punitive measures is not too late, will the organization of security be able to discharge its responsibility for the cause of peace.

Thus the point at issue is the creation of an effective organization to protect the general peace and security of nations, for which all the sincere partisans of the peaceful development of nations have long been striving but which has always had numerous irreconcilable enemies in the camp of the most aggressive imperialists.

After innumerable sacrifices borne in this war and after suffering and hardships experienced in these past years, the urge of nations for the establishment of such an organization is especially strong. The opponents of the creation of such an international organization have not laid down their arms. They are carrying on their subversive activities even now, though in most cases they are doing it in a latent and veiled form.

For this purpose they frequently use ostensibly the most democratic watchwords and arguments, including the professed protection of the interests of small nations or of the principles of the equity and equality of nations.

But in the end it is not important what reasons or pretexts have been used to disrupt the establishment of an effective organization of the security of nations. If even now no such an effective organization is created to protect the post-war peace, this will be another indication of the inability to cope with this great problem by means of the forces available.

Eyes Open Toward Future

But that will not prove that the necessity for such an organization has not yet arisen and that such an organization will not be set up ultimately.

We must not minimize the difficulties involved in the establishment of the international security organization. With eyes closed we shall not be able to find the road. We must warn of these difficulties in order to overcome them and avoiding illusions to find at last a reliable road to march along toward the achievement of this noble objective.

As far as the Soviet Union is concerned, I should like to assure the conference at this time that in our country the whole people are brought up in the spirit of faith in and devotion to the cause of setting up a solid organization of international security. I should like also to assure the conference that the Soviet people will readily listen to the voice, wishes and suggestions of all the sincere friends of this great cause among the nations of the world.

You know that there are millions of people in the Soviet Union who know how to defend to the last with arms in hand their motherland. At the same time it is especially in our country of Soviets that the people are devoted with all their hearts to the cause of the establishment of a durable general peace and are willing to support with all their forces the efforts of other nations to create a reliable organization of peace and security of nations.

You must definitely know that the Soviet Union can be relied upon on the matter of safeguarding the peace and security of nations. This great cause is inflexibly backed by our peace-loving people, Soviet Government and the Red Army, our great Marshal Stalin. It is the most important task of the delegation of the Soviet Government to express these sentiments and thoughts of the Soviet people.

I conclude my speech by expressing my heartfelt wishes for our joint success in the work of the conference.

Foreign Minister Eden

No more suitable setting could have been found for this assembly than the splendid city of San Francisco, one of the main centers of the United Nations war effort.

San Francisco, whose confidence in the future is only equaled by its sense of comradeship today.

Our deep gratitude is due to the city itself and to the whole State of California, which with traditional hospitality has opened its gates to us, and also to the Government and the people of the United States who in a wider sense are our hosts at this momentous conference.

We are met here in the shadow of a grievous loss.

No one can speak in this assembly without recalling the memory of Franklin Roosevelt, the friend of free peoples, the good neighbor.

He looked forward to continuing in peace that close association of the free nations which has brought us to the very edge of victory and from which the meeting of today has sprung.

It was he who named us the United Nations, and we shall best honor his memory by proving ourselves worthy of that proud title.

Wants Purposes Made Clear

Let us be clear about the purpose of this conference.

We are not met here to draft the terms of the treaty of peace.

We are met to agree to set up a world organization which will help to keep the peace when victory is finally won over Germany and Japan.

At intervals in history mankind has sought by the creation of international machinery to solve disputes between nations by agreement and not by force.

Hitherto all these endeavors have failed.

Yet no one here doubts that despite these earlier failures a further attempt must be made, and this time we must succeed.

All the causes that made some form of international machinery desirable after the last war make it indispensable today.

In the last hundred years and in particular the last twenty-five years, the discoverers of science have served to enrich and sometimes endanger the world, but above all to contract it.

We have entered an age when no natural barrier, whether mountain or ocean, can guarantee security against the new weapons which science has placed at the disposal of mankind.

This hard fact is now biting deeply into the consciousness of all peoples, and they are, I believe, ready to accept its implications and to shoulder the responsibilities which it imposes.

Says World Is One Large City

Herein lies the main difference between today and the lost opportunity at the end of the last World War.

Today this fact is patent to us all. Whether we will nor not we are all now one another's neighbors.

San Francisco is as close to Berlin or Tokyo as New York to Washington a century ago.

The world of today is one large city and our countries are its several parishes.

We are the citizens. Either we must find some means of ordering our relations with justice and fair dealing while allowing nations great and small full opportunity to develop their free and independent life, or we shall soon head for another world conflict which this time must bring the utter destruction of civilization in its train.

It is, therefore, no exaggeration to say that the work on which we are making a start here may be the world's last chance.

That is why the Governments of the four powers who sponsored the invitations to this conference asked their representatives to meet and work out proposals which might later form the basis of an international agreement.

They did so, at Dumbarton Oaks.

Their work was examined and completed in the Crimea.

The final outcome is now before you. Here there are a few general observations which I would make. In the first place these proposals admittedly constitute a compromise.

Does Not Mean to Dictate

In the second place they do not constitute an attempt by the four powers to dictate to the rest of the world what form the future world organization should take.

They are the suggestions which we unitedly present to you for your consideration.

Nor are they intended to stand unchanged until the end of time.

For our own part, His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom are prepared to accept and to endorse them and to do their best to give them life because we believe that they can form a basis for a future world organization which will help to provide that security which is today mankind's greatest need.

Security is not itself a final end.

But it is indispensable if we are to make true freedom possible.

Not otherwise can we hope to realize a world in which justice for nations as well as for individuals can prevail.

But this security cannot be of Soviet Socialist Republics, the United Kingdom and the United States of America.

Sees Basis for Charter

These proposals were formulated after years of preliminary study. They represent in their essentials the highest common denominator of thought among the four sponsoring nations. They are being presented to this conference as affording the basis of the charter of an international organization.

The proposals were submitted months ago to the most searching examination by the Governments and peoples of all the United Nations. Since then many constructive suggestions have been made toward their imppovement. Some of these suggestions, and others which may emerge from our discussions here, will undoubtedly be reflected in the final draft of the charter. And the charter itself should be open to whatever later amendment experience may dictate as wise.

We must always bear in mind, however, that there are at least two conditions essential to the establishment of a world organization which can successfully maintain peace.

One of these conditions is that these peace-loving nations which have the military and industrial strength required to prevent or suppress aggression must agree and act together against aggression. If they do not agree and act together, aggression cannot be prevented or suppressed without a major war. This fact has certainly been spelled out by our experience in this war.

Hopes for Enduring Pact

That is why the first step toward establishment of the world organization was to prepare proposals on which the nations sponsoring this conference could agree. That is why, in the structure and powers of the security council of the world organization proposed in the Dumbarton Oaks plan, provision was made for this essential agreement and unity of action by the major nations. Without this, we cannot hope to build a world organization which will provide security to all nations, large and small. Without this we cannot hope to develop enduring institutions in which all free nations may participate on a basis of sovereign equality and in which justice and respect for law will apply to the powerful as well as to the weak.

The second essential condition of success in our endeavor is the voluntary cooperation of all peaceful nations, large and small, acting with full respect for the equal sovereignty of each, to promote justice among nations, to foster respect for basic human rights and to solve those common problems upon which the security and the economic and social advancement of their peoples so largely depend. There can be no end to the tyranny of fear and want unless the proposed world organization commands the allegiance of both the mind and the conscience of mankind.

The International Court, the Assembly and the Economic and Social Council and its related agencies are the institutions proposed at Dumbarton Oaks which would have the major responsibility in these fields. They are of the utmost importance. Widespread economic insecurity and poverty, ignorance and oppression breed conflict and give aggressors their chance. Measures for security against aggression, no matter how effectively contrived, will not alone provide the assurance of lasting peace. We have also to work effectively in close cooperation together toward rising standards of living and greater freedom, and opportunity for all peoples, of every race and creed and color.

Claims Idealism Was Avoided

In the preparations for this conference we have sought from the beginning to build with vision and with justice, but to build always upon the realities and upon hard-won experience.

To build upon a millennial idealism, however fine in theory, would be to build upon quicksand. To build only on the collaboration and interests of the major nations would be to deny the community of interests of all nations.

We have sought instead to assure that the strength of the major nations will be used both justly and effectively for the common welfare, under the law of a world charter in which all peaceful nations are joined together.

We began by seeking common understanding among the sponsoring nations on basic objectives and on the essential machinery for action. These are the nations which have united their strength against the aggressors so successfully in this war. We proceed now by seeking agreement among all the nations, large and small, which have been united against the common enemy.

This is a conference of United Nations, the nations that loved peace and freedom enough to fight for them. The international organization we seek to build is one that is based upon this inescapable fact of our time—that peace and security will be the right of these nations which are willing to share in the responsibility for keeping them. Tyranny and barbarism have never recognized neutrality. They never will. We do not intend to build a world organization that will overlook this cardinal fact. We do propose that after it is established, the organization be open to membership of all other nations which have demonstrated their willingness and ability to fulfill their obligations under the charter.

Recalls History of Republic

I have reviewed briefly the preparations for this conference and our thinking on some of the major problems that we must meet here.

We cannot expect at this conference to produce a charter which will answer all the questions or resolve all the problems. No charter, no constitution, no basic document was ever drafted that was not open to improvement.

We Americans have a convincing proof of that in our own history. Our Constitution, under which this Republic has grown and prospered for a hundred and fifty years, was by no means satisfactory to all the citizens when it issued from the Constitutional Convention of Philadelphia in 1787, or even satisfactory to all the delegates to that convention. It lacked many provisions which numerous Americans of that day believed to be essential. Yet it was adopted by the requisite number of States in 1789. Only four years after the Constitution was written the first ten amendments went into effect, and eleven other amendments have been made since then.

What was true of the thirteen States which joined to form the United States is true also of the nations which have met in this conference to consider the proposed organization of the world for security and peace. Let us construct the charter of the world organization as soundly as we can. But let us not sacrifice approval to perfection.

Warns Against Losing Opportunity

Let us act now in the sure knowledge that our work can be improved upon with time but that if we fail to act, we are likely to lose altogether the opportunity which has been given us to prevent another World War.

Fellow delegates, as we enter upon our great task, we cannot forget the millions of men of our armed forces who have given their lives to this cause, nor the other milions of men, women and children who have suffered the cruel agonies of starvation, torture and death. We cannot forget the untold destruction that has been wrought. Nor can we forget how close our whole civilization has come to utter ruin.

It is our supreme responsibility, at this conference and afterwards, to see to it that this calamity never again falls upon the world.

Vision we must have to see clearly that without peace and security for all nations, there will be no peace and security for any one of us.

Courage we must have to carry us through trying delays and temporary misunderstandings and lesser differences to the fulfillment of our common purpose.

Faith we must have in the ability of mankind to make peace with the same resolute devotion that the United Nations peoples have given to fighting this war.

That vision, that courage, that faith inspired the great American leader whose life was given to the cause for which we have here met—Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

It is only with such vision, courage and faith, expressed in a thousand different ways, that the United Nations have been able to travel so far along the hard road to final victory. It is only with this vision, courage and faith that we shall make peace secure for ourselves, and for suceeeding generations.

Foreign Commissar Molotoff

(English translation supplied by the Russian delegation):

On instruction of the Government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics I should like at the very beginning of my speech that I am making on behalf of the Soviet delegation at this historic conference to express my deep gratitude to the Government of the United States of America and to Secretary of State Mr. Stettinius personally for the immense amount of work of preparation carried out by them prior to this conference and also for the excellent organization of the Conference of the United Nations.

At the same time I should like to seize this opportunity to express on behalf of the Soviet delegation my most sincere gratitude to Mr. Lapham, Mayor of San Francisco, for the cordial hospitality extended to my delegation at San Francisco.

The Soviet Government attaches a great importance to the international conference in San Francisco. The end of the war has drawn near at least in Europe. The rout of Hitler Germany, the principal aggressor in this war, has become a fact. The time has arrived to take care of the post-war period, of the future.

This conference is called upon to consider the question of setting up an organization to protect the general peace and security of nations after the war. From this it can be seen how great is the responsibility resting upon this conference.

Today as well as on many other occasions we must remember the great name of President Franklin Roosevelt. His services in the struggle for the achievement of a lasting peace and in the preparation of this historic conference have met with a wide recognition among all the peace-loving nations.

War Crimes of Germany

The second World War by far exceeded the first World War in the magnitude of military operations and the size of the armies involved and in lives lost and in the unusually severe consequences for the life of many peoples.

Hitler Germany, which started this war, did not shrink from any crimes in trying to impose her domination on Europe and to pave the way to the world domination of German imperialism.

Mass murders of children, women and old men, the extermination of nations in their entirety, the wholesale destructions of peaceful citizens who were not to the liking of Fascists, the barbaric destruction of culture and of recalcitrant men, prominent in culture and the destruction of many thousands of towns and villages, the dislocation of economic life of nations and incalculable losses—all this cannot be forgotten.

In the past German fascism not only openly prepared its armies and armaments for a piratic attack on peaceful countries, but Hitlerism cynically adjusted the ideology of many millions of people in its country to the purposes of achieving domination over foreign nations. This purpose was also served by the illiterate misanthropic theories on "the German master-race" in whose service foreign nations were supposed to be.

Long before the direct attack on its neighbors, Hitlerism openly prepared a criminal war which it started at a moment of its own choosing. As is well known, Hitlerism found unscrupulous henchmen and sanguinary accomplices. It is also well known that when German fascism, which had made an easy tour of all Europe, invaded the Soviet Union it faced an unflinching adversary.

Soviet's Reason For Warning

The country of Soviets, which has saved the European civilization in bloody battles with German fascism, with good reason reminds now the Governments of their responsibility for the future of peace-loving nations after the termination of this war. This is all the more necessary to do that before this war the warning voice of the Soviet Republic was not heard with due attention.

This is no time to explain at length why this happened. It can not be proved that there was no desire to prevent the war. It has been fully proved, however, that the Governments which claimed once the leading part in Europe manifested their inability, if not their reluctance, to prevent the war, with the consequences of which it will be not so easy to cope.

The conference is called upon to lay the foundations of the future security of nations. This is a great problem which it has been thus far impossible to solve successfully. Anybody knows that the League of Nations in no way coped with this problem. It betrayed the hopes of those who believed in it.

It is obvious that no one wishes to restore the League of Nations with no rights and powers which did not interfere with any aggressor preparing for war against peace-loving nations and sometimes lulled outright the nations' vigilance with regard to impending aggression.

The prestige of the League of Nations was especially undermined whenever unceremonious attempts were made to turn it into a tool of various reactionary forces and privileged powers. If the sad lessons of the League of Nations have to be mentioned now, it is only in order that past errors may be avoided which must not be committed under the sign of new profuse promises.

It is impossible, however, to count indefinitely on the patience of nations if the governments manifest their inability to set up an international organization protecting the peaceful life of people, their families, their young generations against the horrors and hardships of new piratic imperialist wars.

Pledge for World Organization

The Soviet Government are a sincere and firm champion of the establishment of a strong international organization of security. Whatever may depend upon them and their efforts in their common cause of the creation of such a post-war organization of peace and security of nations will be readily done by the Soviet Government.

We will fully cooperate in the solution of this great problem with all the other governments genuinely devoted to this noble cause. We are confident that this historic aim will be achieved by joint effort of peace-loving nations in spite of all the obstacles in the way of its achievement.

The work which was carried out at Dumbarton Oaks last year, and which is well known to all of us, is an important contribution to this cause. Representatives of created in a day nor by any document however admirable.

It must be the product of time and of constant effort, of learning to work together, of practicing and upholding accepted standards of international conduct.

The important thing is to begin now.

Here let me sound a warning note and make a suggestion.

Let us not attempt too much. We cannot hope here to produce a complete scheme perfect in all its elaborate details for future ordering of the world.

Asks for Attainable Goal

I am persuaded that we should be wise to set ourselves a goal more within the compass of our immediate possibilities.

We shall have taken the indispensable first step if we can now draw up a charter within the framework of our principles.

The details can then be left to be filled in in the light of experience.

I know that this is an Anglo-Saxon conception, which may possibly be challenged by others, but I am convinced that in this particular case it is right, and I would claim that its merit is capable of proof by reference to historical facts.

Now let me turn briefly to the proposals themselves which we are met to discuss. They impose obligations equally on all powers great and small. But I am conscious that a special responsibility lies on great powers in these days when industrial potential is so decisive a factor in military strength.

Great powers can make a twofold contribution.

They can make it by their support of this organization.

They can make it also by setting themselves certain standards in international conduct and by observing those standards scrupulously in all their dealings with other countries.

The greater the power any State commands the heavier its responsibility to wield that power with consideration for others and with restraint upon its own selfish impulses.

Recalls Axis Debasement

What was the most sinister feature of the years which preceded the present struggle?

It was the deliberate debasement of international conduct in which Germany, Italy and Japan engaged to further their own selfish plans.

It was the practice of these powers not only persistently to violate their engagements but to use the new engagements they so readily undertook after each aggression as a cloak to cover their next crime.

This was their technique.

But what was the result? There came a time when the outraged forces of civilization had to call a halt to these practices, and so inevitably the world was plunged into another war.

Great powers have a special responsibility to guard against the recurrence of such practices.

I have laid emphasis on that portion of our task which is concerned with the provision of international machinery for the settlement of political disputes.

But of equal importance with this is the solution of economic problems, which, if untended, can themselves sow the seeds of future wars.

This will be the task of the social and economic council which finds its place in the proposals now before you.

It is our duty to insure that this council shall be well adapted to play its full part in our new structure of peace.

Here then are our two immediate tasks, political and economic.

Let us press them vigorously to a conclusion.

World events of unprecedented magnitude both in the east and in the west crowd upon us every hour.

If we order our labors efficiently and work to the utmost of our strength, it should surely be possible for us to agree to our charter within four weeks from now. We cannot afford to delay.

Sir, I hope that we shall set ourselves such a target date and determine to reach it.

This conference bears heavy responsibilities. It has also splendid opportunities. Let it seize them now.

In the early days of this war I went to Egypt to greet soldiers from Australia and New Zealand who had come to that country to protect the Suez Canal against the imminent threat of Mussolini aggression.

On the evening of their arrival I was speaking to a number of the men of the motives which had made them volunteer for this adventure.

Of the group one man remained silent. At last I turned to him and said "And what made you come here?"

He replied: "I guess there is a job of work to be done."

In the last six terrible years unnumbered men have died to give humanity another chance.

We too have a job of work to do, if we are not to fail these men.

Let us do it with courage, modesty and despatch.

Let us do it now.

Foreign Minister Soong

I wish, first of all, to speak of China's regard for the memory of Franklin D. Roosevelt and I do this with deep emotion. To us he was not only the first citizen of the United States, but the cause of peace and justice among nations. His vision and faith, his statesmanship and courage, have brought the victory of the United Nations within sight. He embodied the ideals and hopes of the peoples everywhere.

He was rightly regarded as the leading proponent and architect of a durable system of peace, which was to crown our joint efforts in the present struggle. Only a fortnight ago he was still actively guiding the work of preparation for this great conference. Although he has left us, his work will continue to guide us. In tribute to his memory and in recognition of all that he has done for us, let us concert our efforts and complete the important task ahead in the fullest measure.

China, perhaps more than any other nation, understands the necessity for the success of this conference. For it is now universally recognized that, when the Japanese invaded Manchuria in 1931, to deprive China of over thirty million of her people and of the rich natural resources so essential to her national existence, the second World War had started.

Lives Lost in Tragic Numbers

Twice in our generation it has been necessary to mobilize the world's resources of men and material to arrest tyranny and preserve freedom. Twice in our generation we have had to learn by bitter experience that in an interdependent world, war cannot be localized or peace isolated.

Twice in our generation we have lost lives in tragic numbers and treasure in prodigious volume that could have been saved if peace-loving nations had united when peace was first threatened instead of waiting until aggression had engulfed half the world in flames.

In the fourteen years of savage warfare since 1931, China has endured every misery that the aggression of a major predatory power can impose. We sought, by all the means which were then available in the existing state of international organization, to obtain redress.

Inescapably we learned that there was no hope of ultimate safety for any nation without a really effective system of collective security. Therefore, at the very inception of the idea of the United Nations, President Chiang Kai-shek advocated the early setting up of an executive council of the United Nations, since without such an authority a new world order cannot function.

Says Long Effort Is Required

Let us face hard facts: A long effort is required of all of us before an effective rule of law is established in world affairs. We in China know it by bitter experience. The rule of law was to have been defended by the old League of Nations, but it was disregarded, as we learned to our cost, despite the most solemn covenants entered into by would-be defaulters.

To insure the fulfillment of our aims for an effective international organization, we must not leave this conference without achieving the high purpose for which we are assembled.

The new world organization will have to deal with security arrangements as varied as the requirements of the situations to be met; there will be problems of what security forces are to be maintained, of manpower, of industrial organization, of military equipment, of security bases under the aegis of the United Nations; and also vital problems of economic recovery and development on which the life of every nation depends.

Says China Will Yield Sovereignty

If there is any message that my country—which has been one of the principal victims of aggression and the earliest victim—wishes to give to this conference, it is that we are prepared, in conjunction with other nations, to yield if necessary a part of our sovereignty to the new international organization in the interest of collective security.

We must all be ready to make some sacrifices in order to have a new international peace organization of any effectiveness. Among nations, no less than among individuals, we must forthwith accept the concept of liberty under law.

We of the Chinese delegation come from a part of the world with teeming populations whom the cataclysm of this war has stirred to the very depths of their souls; they have witnessed the rise and fall of mighty empires; they have gauged by the precepts of their own philosophies the depth of villainies perpetrated by the exponents of brute force, and they have appreciated fully the majestic surge of the power of free men joined in comradeship.

And they now strive ardently to attain the common goal of human liberty within a commonwealth of free peoples.

German Food Stocks Are Low

McCloy Says Supplies in Captured Areas Will Be Exhausted in 60 Days.

Washington, April 26 (A. P.).—Assistant Secretary of War John J. McCloy said today that German food stocks now being used to feed people in captured areas will be exhausted in from thirty to sixty days. And, he said, "the pipeline that is going to feed them after that is not

Mr. McCloy, just back from Europe, told a news conference: "The problem of food, fuel and cover plagues all of Europe."

American forces in Germany are using local food supplies predominately to feed German civilians, he reported, Army supplies being used only in emergencies.

"The great question is going to be food and its distribution," he said. "Frankly, I don't know how it's going to be obtained in light of the shortages. Certainly, the policy will be to get as much as possible out of Germany."

He said that his inspection trip impressed him with the "complete destruction that runs through Germany." Large cities, such as Cologne, are a picture of "complete devastation, gutted and perforated," he said.

Asked how the Big Three Powers intend to carry out punishment for war crimes, Mr. McCloy said that crews are at work now gathering evidence. He said that the "machinery for dealing with depredations in prison camps" already is well organized and that "progress is being made for dealing with the hierarchy."

man's one hour and 48-minute visit at the War Department headquarters across the Potomac yesterday were these factors:

1. He met there with the highest military and diplomatic officials in Washington.

2. At the Pentagon are all the facilities for the closest possible liaison with battlefronts in Europe as well as in the Pacific.

3. This was the Commander in Chief's second meeting in three days with virtually the same officials, suggesting the conferences related to a developing situation, or situations, abroad.

4. Those at the latest meeting with the President included Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff; Secretary of War Stimson; Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of naval operations; Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of staff to the Commander in Chief, and Under Secretary of State Joseph C. Grew, ranking State Department official now in Washington.

Center Of Communication

Interest attached to the fact that the second meeting of the war council was held not at the White House, with its normal communication facilities, but at the War Department. In the latter building are the terminals of both voice and telegraphic communication networks linking Washington with Allied Supreme Headquarters in Europe as well as with the headquarters of land and naval operations in the Pacific.

Moreover, through the use of grid co-ordinates (the military method of identifying by code numbers exact places on battle maps being discussed with field commanders) it would be possible for the President to receive from the European front an exact, up-to-the-minute report on the position of American and Russian forces.

Junction Announcement

This assumed special importance in view of the expected imminent announcement of a junction of American and Russian forces somewhere west of Berlin.

Grew's presence presumably was accounted for at least in part by the close interrelation of diplomatic to military developments, particularly in the linkup of the Allied armies in Europe.

There were some, however, who saw importance in the fact that Grew, former Ambassador to Japan, is a leading authority on matters in the Pacific.

Peace-Offer Speculation

There has been speculation in recent weeks that Japan might be nearing the time when some form of peace offer could be expected. Possibility that the Pentagon conference touched upon this was not discounted.

Officials who watch the situation in the Orient say a Japanese peace overture at this time should not be entirely unexpected. They point to several factors: The near-collapse of Japan's Axis partner; Russia's denunciation of her neutrality pact with Japan; the probability that Japan will test out peace offers on the new President, and, above all, Japan's own military predicament at sea, in the air and ashore.

Also fitting into the speculation over yesterday's gathering is the question of control of Pacific bases, a matter coming up before the San Francisco conference.

this country because of Axis abuses of American prisoners.

In its treatment of an estimated 2,000,000 German prisoners, the General declared, the Army is "firm" because "those Germans, for the most part, react to firm treatment."

The policy toward recalcitrant prisoners, he aded, is "no work, no eat," and after a few days of bread and water diet, the average prisoner will follow orders.

No General "Coddling"

General Berry asserted emphatically that there is no general "coddling' of prisoners, although he acknowledged under questioning that there were isolated cases of too lenient treatment and too many privileges. All such cases, he said, are investigated and corrected as soon as discovered, but many complaints of 'coddling' are unfounded.

General Berry and other witnesses explained the Geneva convention's requirement that prisoners be fed and housed on "the basis of a standard of quality and quantity equivalent to that furnished U. S. troops at base camps," with substitute menus permitted under some conditions.

Should the United States deviate from the Geneva convention, General Bery cautioned, it might face difficulty in sending relief supplies to its prisoners in Germany, since these supplies are handled through convention procedure.

70,000 Held Prisoner

imately 75,000 German prisoners, the total number of Nazi soldiers held being 340,000 in this country and 1,660,000 outside this country.

Less than 6,000 Japanese soldiers are prisoners, he said, 3,250 being detained in this country and 2,500 overseas. Thirteen thousand Italian war prisoners are held here and 5,000 in Hawaii, in addition to 32,500 Italians in service units in this country and 70,000 abroad.

He estimated that between 14,000 and 15,000 American soldiers are prisoners of the Japanese.

The committee deferred until later detailed examination of treatment of Japanese prisoners in this country and treatment of American prisoners by enemy countries.

To Observe Geneva Pact On Prisoners

Army Official Tells Congress Committee U. S. Has No Other Choice Despite Nazi Atrocities—Cites Question Of Law—Says Germans Treated Firmly.

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)—Although there have been "plenty of instances" of German violations, the War Department asserted today its intention to adhere to the Geneva convention for the treatment of prisoners of war.

Has No Other Choice

The department, Brig. Gen. R. W. Berry told the House Military Committee as it opened its study of the war prisoner situation, has no other choice.

"The Army's treatment of German prisoners of war is not a question of Army policy but a question of law," General Berry said when committee members asked if there was any intention to tighten up on treatment of German prisoners in

He estimated that 70,000 United States soldiers still are held prisoner in Germany and that 15,000 others have been released by our armies. How many have been killed or died, he said, is not known because of the recent 'collapse" of the German Army's administrative set-up and the resultant lack of records.

PACKER WARNS OF DANGER IN RAISING PRICES

Spokesman for Wilson & Co. Sees the Little Steel Formula Shattered.

FAVORS HIGHER SUBSIDIES

Senators Also Are Told About Extent of Black Market Operations in Meat.

Washington, April 26 (A. P.).—James D. Cooney, vice-president of Wilson & Co., meat packers, told Senate Food Investigators today that if retail meat prices are raised "the Little Steel Formula will be shattered."

Mayor F. H. LaGuardia of New York had suggested a cent a pound higher ceilings in testimony to the Agriculture Committee earlier this week. Mr. LaGuardia said this would help increase production and eliminate black markets.

But Cooney expressed the opinion that organized labor would view a price boost as justification for knocking down the barriers to wage increases. The Little Steel Formula limits general wage hikes to 15 per cent above the January, 1941, level.

From the "practical and political standpoint," Cooney said, the only way to deal with the wholesale-retail prize squeeze which small packers have complained about is through increased subsidies. (OPA has announced a revised meat program, effective May 1, which it estimated would boost subsidies $35,000,000 a year. Some meat men have asserted, however, that this still will not eliminate their difficulties.)

Cooney was one of several representatives of big meat packers called to tell of conditions in Washington. Viewing the capital as a "sample city," the Senators are endeavoring to trace meat from its arrival here to the consumer.

New Meat Dealers Shut Out.

Both Cooney and Charles Ruppert, local manager for Swift & Co., said their concerns tried to distribute their meat proportionately in accordance with past purchases by retailers.

Under their systems, they testified, it is difficult if not impossible for some one wanting to set up a new establishment as a black market to get any meat from them.

Cooney said his company had discharged some salesmen—though not in Washington—for "taking money on the side" from retailers wanting meat.

Senator Bushfield (R.-S. D.) said Senator Wheeler (D.-Mont.), now conducting a sub-committee investigation of black market conditions in Pittsburgh, had asserted that 80 per cent of the meat sold in the Pennslyvania city was black market. He asked what Cooney thought.

Saying he would not "be surprised" if that were true, Cooney expressed the belief that black marketers were not overlooking any city. They undoubtedly are operating in Washington, he added, although possibly not so extensively as in Boston, Pittsburgh and New York.

STIMSON FINDS NO WEHRMACHT

APR 27 1945

Sees Nazi Military Power Broken With Finality.

Washington, April 26 (A. P.).—Secretary of War Stimson declared today that the might of Allied forces during the past week has "t orn and broken Germany's military power with a flat finality." In his weekly war review, Secretary Stimson summed up the world military situation in this manner:

"First, the entry of Russian troops into the blasted ruins of Berlin, the imminent junction of American and Soviet forces, and the push of the western Allies against the German coastal land on the north and the Bavarian Alps on the south—these developments have torn and broken Germany's military power with a flat finality.

"Second, the 'battles of the pockets' now get under way. The three main action areas are the Berlin Corridor, the North Sea coast, including Bremen and Hamburg, with Denmark behind them, and the south German area embracing Munich and the 'redoubt' of the Bavarian and Austrian Alps.

"Third, the magnitude of American and British power in Germany and the plight of the Reich should be a direct warning to Japan of what is coming to our enemy in the Pacific. While no doubt there is heavy and, perhaps, prolonged fighting yet to be done in sections of Germany, the disintegration of the Nazi military establishment permits us to do more about the next phases of the war against Japan.

"We are going to have to give to our men in the Pacific the same advantages we have held in Europe—superiority over the enemy on the land, in the air and on the sea—an overwhelming superiority such as will shorten the war and cut down our casualties."

Note to Truman From Stalin Reported Delivered at Capital

Message Dealing With Big Three Issues at San Francisco Conference May Be Under Study.

APR 27 1945

Washington, April 26 (A. P.).—Nikolai Novikov, Soviet Charge d'Affaires, called at the State Department today with a diplomatic communication, and Acting Secretary of State Grew conferred immediately afterward with President Truman. The circumstances suggested that Premier Stalin had sent a message to the President concerning Big Three issues up for action at San Francisco.

Wren Novikov left the State Department after two minutes in Grew's office, he said merely: "It is a pity; I can say nothing." Grew then walked across the street with a folded sheet of paper to the White House, where he went at once into President Truman's office. When he came out he declined to make any statement.

Grew carried a folded paper in his hand when he walked across the street to the White House.

Other State Department officials denied knowledge of anything important going on.

Important Message Perhaps Received In Capitol From Russia

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)—The Russian charge d'affaires called at the State Department today, and immediately afterward Undersecretary of State Joseph C. Grew hastened to confer with President Truman. This raised speculation that an important communication had been received from Russia.

"It is a pity; I can say nothing," Soviet Charge Nikolai Novikov told newsmen as he emerged from Grew's office.

The undersecretary, State Department chief in the absence of Secretary Stettinius, also declined to discuss the affair after his call on President Truman.

The speculation on a Moscow communication arose first from the fact that Novikov stayed only two minutes in the acting secretary's office, hardly time for more than the formal delivery of a document.

Truman Requests More Gardens

Washington, April 26 (AP)—President Truman called on Americans today to plant more victory gardens to augment the nation's food supplies for peoples in liberated areas.

In a letter to former Gov. Prentice Cooper of Tennessee, chairman of the National Advisory Garden Committee, Truman said there is a need for more and better gardens than at any time since the war started.

The War Food Administration, with the aid of the committee, is conducting a campaign to exceed last year's 18,500,000 gardens, a drop from 20,000,000 in 1943.

Increased Demands

"Every new victory of our armed forces brings increased demands for food for liberated people," Truman said. "You and all those associated with you in helping to guide the victory garden program are performing a vital war service.

"The need for food is greater now than ever before. We must do everything in our power to produce all we can this year. Our farmers have done a marvelous job of growing food, but they must have help.

"Millions of families who grew victory gardens last year did an excellent service in helping to solve our nation's food problems. We must use this great source of extra manpower to the fullest extent in 1945.

Enough Seeds And Tools

"There is greater need now than at any time since the war began for more gardens and better gardens, whether they are at home, in community plots or in company-employé gardens."

WFA officials said there were sufficient supplies of seeds, fertilizers, tools and other essentials for producing as many gardens as in 1943.

SAY DEMOCRATS HIDE FACTS ON TARIFF ACCORD

Republicans Hurl Charge of 'Gag' and 'Steam Roller' at the Hearing.

WANT SECRET FILES OPENED

Simpson Asks for List of All Concessions Made to Britain but Not Put in Agreement.

Washington, April 26 (A. P.).—Republicans hurled charges of "gag" and "steamroller" today as Democrats objected to what they termed a minority party effort to open secret State Department files on reciprocal trade negotiations.

Representative Simpson (R.-Pa. asked Secretary of Agriculture Wickard to put in the Ways and Means Committee's tariff hearing record a statement of all duty concessions the United States offered Great Britain during the trade negotiations, but not finally put in the trade pact.

Representative Robertson (D.-Va.) objected, saying Mr. Simpson wanted confidential information, and declared: "Never in history has a committee of Congress required the Department of State to open its secret files of treaty negotiations."

A "gag" was charged by Representative Gearhart (R.-Cal.), who asked: "Does the gentleman from Virginia take the position that the Democratic party has repudiated the Wilsonian policy of open covenants openly arrived at?"

Representative Knutson of Minnesota, Republican leader on the Ways and Means Committee, said: "We know the Democrats have fifteen votes to our ten on this committee, and you can run a steamroller over us anytime you want to."

The exchanges subsided and the chairman, Representative Doughton (D.-N. C.) said the matter would be taken up with the State Department later.

Representative Simpson said that he wanted full information on how well "we came out with our Yankee trading" in the British trade pact. He said he also wanted the information to show what tariff reduction might be expected if Congress grants the President broad new authority to trim duties in negotiated trade pacts with other nations.

This battle followed a Democratic charge that Republicans are conducting a fi ister to prevent passage of l lation extending and broadening the reciprocal trade act before it expires June 12.

Representative Dingell (D.-Mich.) proposed that the committee put a limit on the questioning of each witness on the tariff issue. Chairman Doughton said: "We'll take that up in executive session later."

V-E Day Munitions' Cutbacks Underway

Total War Production For March Exceeds Schedule For First Time—Curtailments Will Come Faster, WPB Promises—Draft Drain On Essential Men Will End Shortly.

By Sterling F. Green

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP) — The War Production Board announced tonight that the V-E Day cutbacks in munitions already have starte

Exceeds Schedule

It revealed also that the home-stretch armament drive topped its schedule last month for the first time.

Curtailment in war industry will go faster from now on, the monthly production communique said, even as the war continues on two fronts.

Because of the cutbacks, the draft drain on essential men in industry ""will have ended shortly even without regard to V-E Day," said the report prepared by H. G. Batcheller, WPB chief of operations.

However, $48,000,000,000 worth of weapons and supplies will have to be produced in the year following the official V-E Day proclamation, he said. That total is just 14 per cent below the two-front arms schedule now projected from mid-1945 to mid-1946.

Adjustment Started

"While our armies are still firing shells at German troops, the adjustment of military procurement from a two-front to a one-front war basis has already started with the April ammunition, tank and plane cutbacks, and this adjustment will accelerate from now on," the report stated.

WPB Chairman J. A. Krug said in a statement that armament cutbacks newly announced by the War Department would make possible "a more orderly transition" to a one-front war basis.

Krug said the curtailment would not be great in the next few months, but promised that the controls on civilian manufacturing would be relaxed as materials, manpower and labor are released.

Will Not Hurt Production

He emphasized, however: "No relaxation of WPB controls will be made that will jeopardize war production."

"As the decisions regarding individual reductions are made, management and workers in the affected plants will be notified as promptly and adequately as possible," Krug stated.

March war production beat schedule by 0.6 of one per cent. Batcheller said it was the first excess shown since scheduling began.

The total was 7 per cent over February's, and even the dozen critical program goals were "generally met or exceeded."

Batcheller said the army has adopted a policy of cancelling plant construction projects which will not be needed for a one-front war and cannot be completed by September 1 while the air forces going even further "have already put three types of aircraft on a one-front war schedule."

Will Continue

"This trend will undoubtedly continue," the report predicted. "because of the anticipated nature of the victory in Europe—a piece by piece conquest of the German armies, rather than a surrender of the German nation—it is unlikely that there will be a V-E Day of the kind we were thinking about last Fall x x x.

"By the time the fighting in Europe stops, we may have taken so many successive bites out of the two-front-war schedules that there will be little change remaining to be made."

GUFFEY BACKS TRUMAN IN '48

Wallace Supporter Last Fall Shifts To President

By DEWEY L. FLEMING

Washington, April 26—Senator Joseph F. Guffey (D., Pa.) is taking no chances on missing the Truman bandwagon a second time.

This time he not only is aboard it; he is driving it.

Last summer, when his party was in the throes of selecting a new running mate for President Roosevelt at the Chicago convention, the Pennsylvania Senator was among those who fought to the bitter end for the renomination of Vice President Wallace.

Blamed "Big City Bosses"

He let out shrill cries to the effect that all of the opposition to Mr. Wallace stemmed from the "big city bosses"—namely, Kelly, of Chicago; Flynn, of the Bronx; Hague, of Jersey City, and Hannegan, of St. Louis.

He accused Mr. Hannegan, the national chairman, of misrepresenting Mr. Roosevelt's wishes to the convention and said of him in one blast:

"It is time Mr. Hannegan remembered he was elected chairman of the Democratic National Committee to serve all the members of our party and to give some of his time to the party and not all of it to the candidates of Hannegan, Kelly, Hague and Flynn."

So Did His Sister

But today, on emerging from a short visit with President Truman at the White House, the adaptable Senator from Pennsylvania declared his all-out support of the President for election in his own right in 1948.

So did his sister, Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, national committeewoman for Pennsylvania. So did the State's other Democratic Senator, Francis J. Myers, and David L. Lawrence, State chairman and currently a candidate for Mayor of Pittsburgh; and James P. Clark, party leader in Philadelphia.

Mr. Lawrence, spokesman for the quintet, said they called to assure the new President they were "solidly back of him."

"For 1948?" he was asked.

"Any Time"

"Yes, any time."

"Is he your candidate for 1948?"

"My personal candidate? Yes."

"And does that apply to all of you?"

This time Senator Guffey gave the answer. It was:

"Yes."

The visitors said they told the President the whole State of Pennsylvania is for him and will be for him.

Truman's "Reply"

"And what did the President say?" was the final question.

To which Mr. Lawrence replied: "He said nothing."

Always among the first to declare for another term for President Roosevelt, Senator Guffey was thus in position to claim the same distinction with respect to President Truman.

Wallace Men Give Truman 1948 Support

Democratic Leadership Of Pennsylvania Backs Up New President.

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace's 1948 presidential stock slumped today as Pennsylvania's Democratic leadership hitched up a bandwagon for President Truman's election to a full term.

The action put into the Truman 1948 camp two of Wallace's foremost supporters for the vice presidential nomination at Chicago last Summer, Senator Joseph F. Guffey and his sister, Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, Democratic national committeewoman.

News that the Pennsylvanians had pledged Truman their support during a White House call this morning was revealed under reporters' questions.

Not Made As Usual

It was not made in the fashion which announcements of that type usually follow. The group did not come out of President's office and say "we're for Truman in 1948."

Instead, State Democratic Chairman David L. Lawrence, appointed spokesman for the delegation, started off with:

"We came down here to pledge our suport to the President."

Republicans as well as Democrats have "pledged their support to the President" on current problems of war and peace. The reporters pursued the pledge further.

"Does that include 1948? asked one.

"Any time," answered Lawrence.

For 1948 Election

"Did you pledge your support for his election in 1948?" the questioners continued.

Lawrence hesitated only for a moment, then said "yes."

Since 1928, Pennsylvanian Democratic leaders either started or were among the first to hop on successful presidential nomination bandwagons. They came out early for Alfred E. Smith, and were among the first state group pledged to Franklin D. Roosevelt for his first term. They were also "Winter book" Roosevelt pre-convention supporters three successive times thereafter.

The Truman endorsement today met Presidential silence.

Asked what the President had said to their pledge, Lawrence replied: "He said nothing."

WLB GETS FREER HAND ON WAGES

New Davis Order Affects 'Fringe' Adjustments.

Washington, April 26 (A. P.).—William H. Davis, director of Economic Stabilization, gave the War Labor Board today new leeway in determining limits on "fringe" wage adjustments not affecting basic pay rates.

At the same time he told the Senate Civil Service Committee that workers have about realized all the "gravy" pay hikes allowable under the Little Steel formula, which limits base pay increases to 15 per cent of the January 1, 1941, levels.

In an order supplementing a ruling on March 8 by his predecessor, Fred M. Vinson, Mr. Davis authorized the WLB to grant 4 and 6-cent shift differentials in continuous or around-the-clock industries.

He told the board it could accept area or industry practice in fixing the length of vacation time or the extent of other fringe wage adjustments.

These had not been covered in the original Vinson order. Mr. Davis said that if any of the adjustments would cause an increase in price ceilings or production costs to the Government they should become effective only after his approval.

Applies to Coal Contract.

This would apply to John L. Lewis's new contract with the bituminous coal operators, which the board appproved earlier in the week. The operators and mine workers have joined in petitioning the OPA for a price increase to take up added pay roll costs resulting from the contract.

"This directive," Mr. Davis said, "is a carrying forward of the policy of setting definite firm ceilings on so-called 'fringe' adjustments in all wage cases. It is a further extension of general ules, equally applicable in all cases, in place of the arbitrary determination of such adjustments through price considerations alone

"I believe," he added, "that our citizens now understand the dreadful evils of inflation and that they will willingly accept rules necessary for stabilization if these rules are equally applicable to every one in similar circumstances."

In his testimony before the Senate group, Mr. Davis said wage and price ceilings must be left intact until after reconversion to achieve "a continuing victory over runaway inflation."

Asserting that workers generally have received the base pay increases allowed under the Little Steel formula, he said:

"The gravy is all gone and they're asking for another helping—and you can't blame them for that. Industrial workers are chiefly concerned with what's going to happen to them when the (war production) cutback comes."

WLB Hearing Fails To Settle Strike

Detroit, April 26 (AP)—The regional War Labor Board failed in a show-cause hearing today to settle a strike of 5,500 Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Company employés, one of two disputes that hampered war production in the Detroit area today with nearly 27,000 workers idle.

Output of guns, aircraft engines and parts for tanks, jeeps and other vehicles has been affected by the Kelsey-Hayes strike and a dispute involving 110 inspectors which has resulted in idleness of 16,000 Parkard Motor Car Company employés.

Representatives of union and management in the Kelsey-Hayes strike were summoned before the WLB today but the meeting was adjourend after a short session. The strike started Tuesday following the discharge of 13 employés accused by the management of ejecting a foreman from a Kelsey-Hayes plant.

4,200 Laid Off

In the Cadillac (Mich.) and Detroit transmission divisions of General Motors 4,200 have been laid off because of the Kelsey-Hayes shutdown, and lack of parts from the three Kelsey-Hayes plants was reported today to have caused the layoff of 200 workers in the Massey-Harris Company tank division at Racine, Wis.

The Packard strike centered in a dispute over the number of engines to be inspected on each shift. E. G. Patzkowsky, Packard industrial relations manager, notified the War Labor Board that UAW-CIO officials had refused to conform to an agreemet for a time study, which had been directed by the WLB to end a previous similar dispute.

6-To-1 Vote For Strike

Hazleton, Pa., April 26 (AP)—Pennsylvania's hard-coal miners voted 6 to 1 in support of a strike today in the largest poll ever held in this State's anthracite fields under provisions of the Smith-Connally Act.

Fred V. Krivonos, regional National Labor Relations Board director, announced these official results:

"Yes"—41,952.

"No"—6,997.

Nearly 20,000 of the 68,789 eligible miners failed to vote, he said.

LEWIS BLASTS WORK POLITICS

Says There Is 'No Labor Movement,' Thanks To That

Washington, April 26 (AP)—John L. Lewis broke a long silence on labor issues today in a magazine article provocatively captioned "There Is No Labor Movement."

The leader of the United Mine Workers answered several questions for Collier's magazine and the publication suggested the answers would "make a lot of people mad."

Lewis asserts:

"Politicians" are to blame for the wartime industrial strife.

Partisan Politics

There is no labor movement because other labor groups are mere "political company unions" which have been "bellwethered . . . into the abattoir of partisan politics" by their leaders.

The Government cast aside the "master chart left by a master mariner" — Woodrow Wilson — from World War I, and today actually has no "Government labor policy."

The no-strike pledge adopted in the dark days after Pearl Harbor was not implemented by other principles such as were formulated at Wilson's behest by industry and labor representatives. This has led to a "game of blindman's buff."

Industrial peace could be attained by labor unity, and by ending "the present alliance between certain sections of organized labor and political 'machines' in cities, states and the nation."

If other labor groups followed the principles set forth in the UMWA constitution, the "evils" existing in labor fields could be stamped out. Reforms thus made possible would include "elimination of racketeering and racial discrimination, full financial statements, the right of union members to a free ballot, and protection for the individual against abuse of power by officials."

These were a few of the points Lewis made, but he stood back and unloosed a flurry of punches at the War Labor Board and the Smith-Connally War Labor Disputes Act.

The board earlier this week, unanimously approved his new contract with the bituminous coal operators, and eventually must pass on whatever agreement he writes with the anthracite operators.

A "Fantastic Body"

The WLB, he said, is a "fantastic body" which is "overstaffed, cumbersome" and considers each case "after a careful reading of the political barometer each morning."

"The Department of Labor itself, which might have worked out a sensible procedure, has been stripped of functions until a powerless Secretary now presides over a skeletonized bureau that is the last word in sheer futility."

"As if there were not confusion enough with 26 'labor' boards, commissions, committees, etc., Congress decided to make its contribution to chaos and enacted the Smith-Connally law. No more inflammatory piece of legislation was ever passed, for this grotesque slave statute not only invites industrial conflict, but commands it."

SENATE BACKS CUT IN GOLD RESERVES

Washington, April 26 (A. P.)—The Senate passed today and sent to the House legislation decreasing the required gold reserves of Federal Reserve Banks to 25 per cent of their deposits and notes in circulation. Passage was on a voice vote.

Under present law, the banks must maintain gold reserves equal to 40 per cent of notes in circulation and 35 per cent of deposits.

The legislation also:

1. Extends indefinitely the authority of Federal Reserve Banks to pledge Federal securities against Federal Reserve notes issued by the Federal Reserve agents.

2. Repeals the 1933 authorization for issuance of Federal Reserve bank notes which require no gold backing. About $600,000,000 of such notes have been issued.

3. Repeals the 1933 authorization for issuance of up to $3,000,000,000 in United States "greenback' notes. This authority was never used.

The Senate rejected by voice vote two proposals by Senator oJhnson (D.-Col.) which would have:

(A) Held the required reserve at 30 per cent and limited that to only two years;

(B) Increased the price of gold from $355 an ounce to $56.

Truman Said To Expect Nazi End By July 4

Washington, April 26 (AP)—Representative Snyder (D., Pa.) said yesterday that President Truman had agreed with him that organized resistance of the Germans would end by June 1 and pocket fighting by July 4.

"I expressed this opinion to the President and he agreed with me," Snyder said after a visit to the White House.

Snyder said he believed "we should be prepared for two more years of war in the Pacific," but he "hoped" it might be over in a much shorter time. He said he did not discuss with the President the duration of the Pacific war.

TRUMAN ORDERS PATENT STUDY

Directs Wallace to Look Into Monopoly Angle.

Washington, April 26 (A. P.).—President Truman today directed Secretary of Commerce Wallace to investigate any misuse of patents "to support unlawful monopolies."

The White House made public a letter in which the President asked Mr. Wallace to study patent uses in co-operation with the Attorney-General, Stabilization Direction Davis, the Office of Scientific Research and Development, and the chairman of the National Patent Planning Commission.

The letter to the former Vice-President follows:

"My dear Mr. Secretary:

"Much has lately been said and written to suggest that the patent statutes do not in all respects serve the constitutional purpose to promote the progress of science and useful arts, and that patents have been misused to support unlawful monopolies in contravention of the purposes of the anti-trust laws.

"I believe the Congress would welcome such assistance as the executive branch of the government might be able to give in presenting the results of a full and objective study of the operation and effectiveness of the patent laws and their relation to the purposes of the anti-trust laws and to the post-war economy, together with specific proposals for such legislation as may seem to be appropriate. Thus far the several departments of the Government have made no concerted effort to formulate a policy upon this subject.

"Will you please undertake such study and submit to me your report and recommendations respecting the legislative proposals you think I should lay before the Congress. In so doing will you please consult with the Attorney-General, the director of Economic Stabilization, the director of the Office of Scientific Research and Development and the chairman of the National Planning Commission."

NEWS CODE COVERS TRUMAN'S TRAVELS

Washington, April 26 (A. P.).—White House reporters were asked today to give President Truman the same protection under the voluntary censorship code that was accorded to the late President Roosevelt. The request was made by Jonathan Daniels, press secretary, as a result of premature reports of Mr. Truman's visit to the Army's Pentagon building yesterday.

Daniels said that one news service (not the Associated Press) sent out a story on the President's trip to the Pentagon for a conference with top military leaders before Mr. Truman arrived there, and before an announcement had been authorized. Under the security code, he stated, the President's movements should not be reported until he has returned to the White House—unless the White House authorizes previous disclosure.

At the President's suggestion, a representative from each of the three wire services accompanied the Truman party on the brief automobile trip across the Potomac yesterday.

Truman Puts Off Press Conference

Washington, April 26 (A. P.).—The White House reported today that President Truman probably will not hold a news conference this week because "the news of this country is coming out of San Francisco."

Press Secretary Daniels said that the President is so vitally interested in the United Nations Conference that he thinks nothing should stand in the way of its being given priority in the news.

First Lady Wants No Press Meetings

Washington, April 26 (AP)—Bess Truman, new First Lady not yet in the White House, has broken a twelve-year-precedent — she plans no press conferences.

Mrs. Truman declined even to meet with a representative of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's Press Conference Association to discuss plans for continuing the organization.

A letter and telegram had been sent by Ruth Montgomery, of the New York Daily News, chairman of the organization. These elicited the following written response:

"I wish you would tell the members of your association that I do not expect to hold any press conferences. I am hoping to meet all of you a little later on after we move into the White House.

Party, Not Conference

A secretary explained that this meeting would be in the form of a tea—not a press conference—with invitations to be issued soon after the President and his family move into the White House.

While the Executive Mansion is undergoing a housecleaning the trumans are living at the Blair House, a long block down Pennsylvania avenue.

Early last week Mrs. Truman announced she would hold a press conference for newswomen who were on Mrs. Roosevelt's list. A few minutes before it was to take place, however, it was called off without explanation.

Mrs. Truman, it was revealed tonight, has decided to let the newswomen glean "facts about the family" otmorrow from her personal secretary, Miss Reathel Odum. It was specified that not more than twelve of the 60 members of the original association could attend the meeting with Miss Odum.

Presswomen Draw Lots

The women reporters' association met tonight and decided to accept the invitation to meet with Miss Odum.

A committee of twelve, drawn by lot, was chosen to meet with her to "emphasize the importance and legitimacy of keeping a channel of news open for women of the press," a spokeswoman for the organization said.

The custom of meeting weekly with women of the press was established by Mrs. Roosevelt in 1933. The conferences grew. The association was formed after Pearl Harbor in order to limit the number in attendance for security reasons.

Most Meats Now Rationed; Points Raised

Some Canned Fruits, Vegetables Reduced In Value Effective Sunday.

WASHINGTON, April 26. (AP)—Still more meat was put under rationing control today, effective Sunday, with the average point price higher, but some canned fruits and vegetables were reduced in point values.

Chester Bowles, price administrator, said the point raises for meat, putting about 99 1-2 per cent of the civilian supply under ration control, reflected a supply for May some 2 1-2 per cent less than that of April. About 94 1-2 per cent of the meat supply was rationed this month.

Point prices were reduced on the following processed foods: canned snap beans, tomato catsup and chili sauce, apricots, and tomato juice and vegetable juice combination. The point price of grape juice went up.

Bowles On Complaints

Bowles said today that "numerous and loud" complaints against OPA's new meat distribution program and black market drive "should be regarded with a great deal of skepticism."

In a statement issued at a news conference, Bowles said the campaign to spread meat supplies evenly will be accompanied by such complaints "from those whose wartime profiteering will be halted."

"Although the drive will be welcomed by honest packers, wholesalers and retailers, we expect that in many areas loud cries will be heard that honest men are being persecuted,' 'he said. "Even though occasionally they may be voiced by citizens ordinarily in good standing in the community, they should be regarded with a great deal of skepticism."

Encourages Gardening

Emphasizing the tight food supply which the monthly ration value chart reflected, President Truman meanwhile called on the nation for a big increase in the planting of victory gardens.

Pointing out that "every new victory of our armed forces brings increased demands for food for liberated people," the President said in a letter to former Gov. Prentice Coper of Tennessee, chairman of the National Garden Advisory committee:

"There is greater need now than at any time since the war began for more gardens and better gardens, whether they are at home, in community plots or in company-employe gardens."

Under the new meat chart, civilians must give up red points for all cuts and grades with the sole exception of mutton.

Bowles said civilians can look for a little more veal, mutton and pork, but that 9,000,000 pounds less beef will be available in May than in April.

Added to the ration list are cull and utility grades of veal and lamb and all grades of the less popular cuts of veal and lamb such as breasts, shanks, necks and blanks.

At Minimum

Bowles said the primary purpose of assigning points to the less popular cuts of veal and lamb was to keep point value increases on the more popular cuts at a minimum, and to give everyone a better chance to share in available supplies.

Red point increases run to two points a pound for most cuts of all grades of lamb and veal, and a point a pound on most beef steaks. Decreases of one to two points apply on beef roasts and other beef cuts. Margarine goes up four points a pound and group 1 cheeses which include cheddar, Swiss, brick, and blue, are boosted two points.

Two No. 2 cans of snap beans will require only 10 points instead of 10 points a can, beginning Sunday. A single can however, will continue to cost 10 points since ration stamps have a uniform 10 point value and cannot be broken down into smaller units.

The reduction in the blue point value of tomato juice and vegetable juice combinations applies only to the 24-ounce can. The value of this can is reduced from 20 to 10 points.

SHOE COUPON GOOD AUGUST 1

Inventories Termed Too Low To Okay One On May 1

Washington, April 26 (AP)—The OPA announced tonight that a new shoe ration stamp will be validated August 1.

The agency said several weeks ago that shoe supplies were not adequate to permit validation of another stamp May 1, as planned originally. At that time OPA said there would be another stamp some time this summer.

Airplane stamps 1, 2 and 3 in Book 3, all valid now, will continue to be good indefinitely along with the new coupon, OPA said.

Number To be Announced

The number of the new stamp will be announced later.

"Validation of another stamp is being announced well in advance so that consumers may budget their remaining stamps to fit their own and their families' needs now and in the future," OPA said.

The new stamp will come into use nine months after the last stamp was validated last November 1. This eliminates the two-pairs of shoes a year policy that had been in effect since November 1, 1943.

The longer interval is necessary, OPA explained, because of "extremely heavy military demand for shoes and severe inroads on retail inventories of rationed shoes."

Inventory Drops

The agency added that this inventory had fallen from 200,800,000 pairs on January 1, 1944, to 151,000,000 pairs on January 1 this year.

The War Production Board estimates production of rationed-type civilian shoes this year at about 237,000,000 pairs, compared with 268,000,000 pairs in 1944.

OPA said the principal emphasis this year will be on production of shoes for children under 14.

Meat Ration Is 115 Pounds A Person

Washington, April 26 (AP)—Civilians now are on a meat ration averaging 115 pounds per person per year, as compared with last year's 147 pounds.

The prewar (1935-39) average was 126 pounds. By 1940, the consumption rate had reached 141 pounds and remained stationary in 1941.

It then dipped to 138 pounds in 1942, dropped another pound in 1943, then shot up to 147 pounds last year.

SEAMEN DEFERRABLE

Washington, April 26 (A. P.).—The Maritime Commission said today that it is making every effort to fill merchant seaman quotas without accepting men of 18 through 26, though it has not adopted a flat ban on their enlistment.

"While we are trying to fill our quotas without men 18 through 26," a commission spokesman said, "we still have the power to accept them if necessary to fill quotas." The commission expressed concern lest those already in the maritime service get the impression that they no longer are deferrable from the draft if they are in the 18-26 age bracket.

The spokesman emphasized that all men, regardless of age, who are at sea, or in training, will continue to be deferred so long as they remain at sea, or in training. Reluctance to accept any more men in the 18-26 age group was explained as being due to a desire to leave this class available for essential war jobs, or the armed forces.

U. S. Casualties Now 929,373, Increase of 16,895 for a Week

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP).—Army and Navy combat casualties since the beginning of the war now total 929,373, it was announced today by Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War.

He placed Army losses at 829,001, on the basis of names received here through April 14, and the latest report from the Navy added 100,372 to the total. The total represented an increase of 16,895 since last week's report.

A breakdown on the Army casualties and corresponding figures for the preceding week shows: Killed, 166,104 and 162,505; wounded, 507,018 and 496,803; missing, 82,671 and 83,926; prisoners, 73,208 and 70,636. Of the wounded, 268,957 have returned to duty.

Similar figures for the Navy are: Killed, 39,078 and 38,035; wounded, 46,631 and 45,725; missing, 10,405 and 10,589; prisoners, 4,258 and 4,259.

Mr. Stimson also issued a tabulation of Army casualties by theaters on the basis of names reported through March 31 and reflecting actual fighting through the early part of March. It follows:

House Committee Agrees To Ban On 18 Year Olds

Washington, April 26 (AP)—The House Military Committee agreed today to a Senate ban on sending 18-year-old draftees into combat without at least six months training.

The action was taken in executive session, but some members said the vote to concur with the amendment to legislation extending the Selective Service Act was unanimous.

Had the amendment been rejected, the measure would have had to go to a conference committee. Now its speedy approval by the House seems assured.

The War Department opposed the restriction adopted earlier in the week by the Senate, 50 to 25. It was attached to a measure extending the draft law to May 15, 1946, or to the end of the war, whichever comes first.

Named To Honolulu WLB

Washington, April 26 (AP)—The War Labor Board today appointed Sidney Sugerman, director of the disputes division of the New York Regional WLB, as chairman of the territorial WLB at Honolulu, Hawaii.

First List Of Freed GI's To Be Published

Washington, April 26 (AP)—The first list of American prisoners of war freed by advancing Allied armies in Germany is expected to be ready for publication next week.

But the War Department, in making that announcement, said names are coming through from Europe very slowly and publication may be delayed for months on thousands of the liberated men.

Next of kin, however, are notified in advance of the listing of names for publication, and the freed captives also are given opportunity to write or cable their families.

The first list, including names of men freed by Soviet armies as well as men rescued by British-American forces, will be turned over to the Office of War Information tomorrow, probably for mailing from OWI Saturday and publication the following week.

New Visa Agreement Made With France

Washington, April 26 (AP)—An American agreement with France under which eligible citizens of both countries may obtain passport visas with less delay was announced today by the State Department.

The agreement does not alter present requirements, which in general are that the applicant must show important reasons of national interest.

It eliminates referring visa requests back to either Paris or Washington with consequent loss of time. Similar arrangements are to be provided by the American and French embassies in London for French nationals coming to America or for Americans wishing to cross the Channel into France.

Doubts Approval of M.V.A.

Overton Asserts Senators Oppose Project in Missouri

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP).—Senator John H. Overton, Democrat, of Louisiana, expressed "very much" doubt today that the Senate Commerce Committee will approve a bill by Senator James E. Murray, Democrat, of Montana, to establish a Missouri Valley Authority. He declared that the subcommittee, of which he is chairman, does not favor it. Direct testimony was concluded today. Rebuttal Friday is expected to finish the hearing.

Lachlan MacLeay, president of the Mississippi Valley Association, told the committee today that the Tennessee Valley Authority was a "social experiment and had no value as far as flood control is concerned."

WPB AIDE'S SON KILLED

H. G. Batcheller Jr. Is Reported a Casualty by Navy

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)—The Navy confirmed reports tonight that Hiland G. Batcheller Jr., son of the president of the Allegheny-Ludlum Steel Corporation, had been killed in action.

Young Batcheller, whose father is now on duty with the War Production Board as chief of operations, was killed in action in the Asiatic theatre on April 16, the Navy reported. He was a quartermaster, second class.

The father was reported out of the city tonight, presumably at the family home in Albany.

TAX EVASION CATCHES BLACK MARKET MEN

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)—Secretary Morgenthau said today the Treasury's investigation of income tax evasion by wartime free spenders and black market operators was hitting "pay dirt."

"We've found," he said at his news conference, "that both the big operators and the small ones have been a little careless about filing their income tax returns. They've proved a very fertile field for our work."

He said the country has been covered with agents working in every locality to stifle the over-the-ceiling under-the-counter dealings of black marketeers, and that the campaign against them is proving "very successful."

Mr. Morgenthau declined to give the source of most of the tips but he said that such spots as Miami, Fla., had been "a good start." There were others, he added, which had proved just as fruitful.

Publisher Suggests Roosevelt Memorial

Columbus, Ga., April 26 (AP)—Maynard R. Ashworth, publisher of the Ledger-Enquirer newspapers here, proposed today the establishment of an infantile paralysis hospital at Warm Springs as a memorial to Franklin D. Roosevelt and announced the contribution of $10,000 to launch the project.

The publisher said he hoped "the biggest polio hospital in the world" could be erected at the late President's "second home," where he died April 12.

"We hope that our idea will be acceptable to the committee recently named by Mrs. Roosevelt to decide what form the memorial will assume," he added.

American Legion Fosters Plan to Register Graves

Will Send Committee Abroad to Chart Battle Cemeteries

INDIANAPOLIS, April 26 (AP).—The American Legion intends to help the Army return the dead of this war from abroad for permanent burial in home soil.

A committee of at least four Legionnaires, including National Commander Edward Scheiberling, of Albany, plans to tour battlefield cemeteries the world over to chart the graves of the Americans who have died.

For three years the Nazis held one Belgian and six French cemeteries where lie 30,000 Americans

=. LONDON (KING) - GOERING - HITLER. X X X ~~GERMAN PEOPLE.~~ LEGEN)

VON GREIN, DESCRIBED BY THE HAMBURG RADIO AS THE NEW HEAD OF THE LUFTWAFFE, IS 53 YEARS OLD AND ONE OF ITS SENIOR OFFICERS. HE HAS BEEN IN COMMAND OF ANTI-AIRCRAFT DEFENSES AND FIGHTER PLANES ON THE EASTERN FRONT. HE WAS A CAPTAIN IN THE FIRST WORLD WAR.

GOERING, 52, WAS THE MAN WHO BUILT THE LUFTWAFFE INTO WHAT ONCE WAS THE WORLD'S GREATEST AERIAL FIGHTING FORCE.

HE HAS BEEN ACTIVE IN AVIATION SINCE HE COMMANDED THE FAMOUS RICHTHOFEN SQUADRON AFTER THE ACE, BARON MANFRED VON RICHTHOFEN, WAS KILLED IN THE FIRST WORLD WAR. ONCE THE BE-MEDALED FIELD MARSHAL MADE THE PROUD BOAST THAT NO ENEMY AIRCRAFT EVER WOULD FLY OVER GERMAN TERRITORY.

IN RECENT MONTHS THE USUALLY MUCH QUOTED AIR CHIEF HAS BEEN STRANGELY SILENT WHILE HIS AIR FORCE WAS BEING VIRTUALLY WIPED OUT BY ALLIED PLANES.

WHILE THE NAZI PROPAGANDISTS WERE ASSERTING HITLER AND GOEBBELS WERE STAYING IN BERLIN, NO WORD WAS SAID OF GOERING UNTIL TONIGHT.

BILLOWING CLOUDS OF SMOKE, PUNGENT WITH THE ODER OF BURNING POWDER, ENVELOPED THE SPRAWLING CAPITAL NEAR ITS CENTER. SOVIET PLANES WHICH BOMBED MILITARY DUMPS IN THE HEART OF THE CITY STARTED DOZENS OF FIRES.

"WE REMEMBER HOW IN 1941 THE GERMANS BOMBED MOSCOW. HERE IS THE PAYOFF," WROTE ONE RUSSIAN CORRESPONDENT.

HE SAID THE SOVIET TROOPS HAD TAKEN THE ARGUS AVIATION PLANT, ANOTHER GAS WORKS, A RAILWAY STATION, A PUMPING STATION AND A HOSPITAL.

PRAVDA WAS QUOTED IN A MOSCOW DISPATCH AS SAYING THE ENCIRCLEMENT OF BERLIN HAD DECIDED THE FATE OF THE CITY AND THAT ITS GARRISON WAS DOOMED.

"NO FORCE CAN BREAK THE STEEL RING OF SOVIET TROOPS," PRAVDA SAID. "THE ENCIRCLEMENT INFLICTED ON THE GERMAN ARMY A TERRIBLE BLOW -- NOT ONLY MILITARILY BUT ALSO OF MORAL AND POLITICAL SIGNIFICANCE."

THE ARMY NEWSPAPER RED STAR PUBLISHED PICTURES ACROSS THE ENTIRE WIDTH OF THE PAPER, SHOWING THOUSANDS OF GERMANS, HIGH-RANKING OFFICERS IN THE FOREGROUND, STANDING CAPTIVE IN A BERLIN SQUARE.

SO MUCH OF BERLIN ALREADY IS IN SOVIET HANDS, SAID AN IZVESTIA CORRESPONDENT, THAT SPECIAL SQUADS HAVE BEEN ASSIGNED TO CLEARING UP STREETS AND THOROUGHFARES.

ONE FRONT DISPATCH SAID RUSSIAN SQUADS ASSIGNED TO MARSHAL GREGORY K.ZHUKOV'S FIRST WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY HAD MOVED INTO THE BERLIN AREA WITH THE TASK OF WIDENING GERMAN RAILWAY TRACKS TO FIT RUSSIAN LOCOMOTIVES AND FREIGHT CARS. ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT EDDY GILMORE REPORTED FROM MOSCOW THE PROBABILITY THAT TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH, AS WELL AS RAILWAY CONNECTIONS SHORTLY WOULD BE RESTORED ALL THE WAY FROM MOSCOW TO BERLIN.

A LATE EYE-WITNESS DISPATCH FROM THE BERLIN FRONT SAID SOVIET TROOVS HAD SPEARED INTO THE JUNGFERN HEATH NORTH OF CHARLOTTENBURG, AND HAD SEIZED A RADIO STATION AND AN ARTILLERY RANGE. IN THE SOUTHEASTERN SECTOR OF THE CITY, MEANWHILE, SOVIET DISPATCHES REPORTED THE RUSSIANS SWARMING ACROSS THE SPREE RIVER AND MAKING DEEP PENETRATIONS TOWARD THE DRILL GROUNDS OF THE BERLIN'S GARRISON.

STUBBORN BATTLES RAGED IN THE NORTHWEST SECTOR OF THE CITY, BUT THE HEAVIEST FIGHTING WAS IN THE SOUTHEAST. THERE THE WIDE FORTIFIED

BANKS OF THE SPREE WERE THE MOST FORMIDABLE OBSTACLES--BUT ARTILLERY AND TANKS WERE PLUNGING ACROSS THE RIVER TOWARD THE CITY'S CENTER.

A221

HUNDREDS OF HOUSE-TO-HOUSE BATTLES ERUPTED THROUGHOUT BATTLE SECTORS IN EASTERN BERLIN. SOVIET TROOPS WERE ATTACKING EACH HOUSE AS IF IT WERE A FORTRESS, AND "EACH STONE OF THE CITY, METER OF STREET IS AGAINST US. WE HAVE TO TAKE THEM WITH OUR BLOOD." TROOPS FROM SIBERIA AND MEN FROM THE VOLGA BATTLED DOWN THE BROAD AVENUES, WITH "ON TO BERLIN" EMBLAZONED ON THEIR TANKS, REPORTS SAID. WHEREVER THEY SEE A GERMAN, THEY FIRE THEIR GUNS, POINT-BLANK-- INTO HOUSES, DOORS AND WINDOWS.

THE COMBAT RAGED ABOVE AND BELOW THE CITY, TOO. IT SURGED THROUGH THE SUBWAYS, UNDERGROUND, AND FLARED IN THE SKY AS FIGHTER PLANES LASHED ENEMY POSITIONS FROM ROOFTOP LEVEL. SOME BERLINERS, BELIEVING THEY STOOD A BETTER CHANCE BEHIND RUSSIAN LINES, WERE SEEN EDGING ALONG THE WALLS, BUILDING TO BUILDING, TOWARD SOVIET-HELD AREAS, A FRONT DISPATCH SAID.

Labor Congress Debates Votes

Oakland, Cal., April 26 (AP)—The World Labor Congress debated today the question of how many votes each country will be allowed in the new trade union organization, with discussion hinging largely on the number of votes to be allotted Soviet Russia.

Sidney Hillman, head of the CIO-Political Action Committee, said "we can't give any details until the session is concluded a week or so from now."

He added that "a fine spirit of co-operation" is being displayed by delegates and that "real progress" is being made in forming the congress' constitution.

One proposal considered today, it was learned, was that three votes each on the executive committee be allotted to the United States, Great Britain, France and Russia. Latin America as a whole also would be allotted three.

New Strides Reported In Combatting Typhus

New York, April 26 (AP)—The Rockefeller Foundation today described how it had developed a new method of combating typhus which it said permitted treatment of 1,330,000 persons in a single month and averted threat of a serious epidemic in Naples.

President Raymond B. Fosdick in his annual report said as many many as 80,000 Neapolitans were treated daily at 40 delousing stations set up in the Italian city by the foundation's international health division at the end of 1943.

"The epidemic in Naples which might have taken thousands of lives collapsed with astonishing rapidity," Fosdick declared.

But the principal objective is to inform Gold Star mothers of the location, care and marking of their sons' graves and, whenever possible, help the War Department to return the bodies.

Army officials have promised "1,000 per cent co-operation."

107 Captive Nazis Ask Germans To End War

Dallas, April 26 (AP)—The 8th Service Command said today that 107 German prisoners of war at a Louisiana camp had made a plea to the German people to "discontinue this senseless fight."

The prisoners addressed the appeal to the War Department and urged use of their names in broadcasts to Germany.

The appeal was signed by 107 of 110 prisoners at a branch labor camp operating under Camp Livingston, La.

MOSCOW, APRIL 26-(AP)-THE RED ARMY, AFTER STORMING FOUR MORE BERLIN DISTRICTS TODAY, CONCENTRATED NEW AND HEAVIER ARTILLERY FIRE TONIGHT ON THE CAPITAL'S CENTER FROM POSITIONS AS CLOSE AS 1.8 MILES TO THE WILHELMSTRASSE AND 1.9 MILES TO THE BRANDENBURG GATE AT THE EAST END OF UNTER DEN LINDEN.

THE RUSSIANS CAPTURED THE GOERLITZER RAILWAY STATION IN THE SOUTHEASTERN SECTOR OF THE CAPITAL AND THEN FOUGHT TOWARDS THE TIERGARTEN ABOUT A MILE AWAY.

THE GREAT TEMPELHOF AIRDROME WAS NEARLY OUTFLANKED BY MARSHAL GREGORY ZHUKOV'S FORCES DRIVING WESTWARD FROM THE GOERLITZER STATION.

ANOTHER PUSH TOWARD TEMPELHOF ALSO WAS UNDER WAY FROM THE SOUTHEAST AND SOUTH, BUT THE FIELD ITSELF APPEARED TO BE IN GERMAN HANDS TONIGHT AND POSSIBLY EVEN OPERATING DESPITE CONSTANT SHELLING, STRAFING AND BOMBING BY THE RUSSIANS.

STILL ANOTHER THREAT TO TEMPELHOF WAS SHAPING UP IN THE SOUTH-WESTERN SECTOR OF THE CAPITAL, WHERE THE DISTRICT OF DAHLEM WAS CAPTURED, PUTTING THE FIRST UKRAINIAN ARMY WITHIN THREE MILES OF THE WESTERN END OF THE TIERGARTEN.

NORTHWEST OF BERLIN ZHUKOV'S FIRST WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY'S TANKS AND MECHANIZED CAVALRY CAPTURED SIEMENSTADT, A BIG INDUSTRIAL DISTRICT REACHING WITHIN LESS THAN A MILE NORTH OF CHARLOTTENBURG AND ABOUT 3 1/2 MILES WEST OF THE REICHSTAG.

"THE FIGHT FOR BERLIN IS INCREASING ON LAND AND IN THE AIR," FRONT CORRESPONDENTS BORIS AFANASEV AND GEORGI OSHAROVSKI REPORTED IN A SPECIAL DISPATCH. "HITLER'S AVIATION IS TRYING TO BREAK UP SOVIET TANK THRUSTS MOVING TO THE CENTER OF THE CITY, BUT SOVIET FLIERS TOGETHER WITH TANKMEN ARE SKILFULLY REPULSING THESE BLOWS."

"THE LINE OF THE FRONT CHANGES CONTINUOUSLY," SAID THESE CORRESPONDENTS, EYE WITNESSES TO THE GRIM STRUGGLE INSIDE THE CAPITAL. "THE SMALL SUBDIVISIONS PLAY A VERY IMPORTANT ROLE IN STREET FIGHTING MANEUVERS."

THE RUSSIANS DROVE SO CLOSE TO THE HEART OF THE CITY TONIGHT THAT THEY COMMENCED SPRAYING NAZI POSITIONS WITH MORTARS, TRAINING THEM ON THE INFAMOUS ADDRESSES OF HITLER, GOERING, GOEBBELS AND OTHER LEADERS OF THE CRUMBLED THIRD REICH.

THERE IS EVERY INDICATION, HOWEVER, THAT AS THE SOVIETS CLOSE IN THE RESISTANCE IS BECOMING MORE BITTER, ESPECIALLY FROM VETERAN STORM TROOPERS.

MOSCOW'S GUNS BOOMED TWO SALUTES TONIGHT AS PREMIER MARSHAL STALIN SALUTED MARSHAL ROKOSSOVSKY FOR HIS BREAKTHROUGH ACROSS THE LOWER ODER AND CAPTURE OF THE GREAT INDUSTRIAL CITY OF STETTIN AND MARSHAL MALINOVSKY FOR STORMING AND CAPTURING THE CZECHOSLOVAKIAN ARMS CENTER OF BRUENN (BRNO).

LONDON, APRIL 26-(AP)-PENICCILLIN AIRBORNE IN A FINE MIST AND ABSORBED INTO THE BLOOD THROUGH THE LUNGS SOON MAY BE A COMMON WAY OF APPLYING THIS AMAZING HEALER.

REPORTING IN THE LANCET, A MEDICAL PUBLICATION, BACTERIOLOGISTS FRANK ALEXANDER KNOTT AND W. H. CLARK OF GUYS HOSPITAL TOLD OF TESTS WHERE VOLUNTEERS SAT FOR 15 MINUTES IN A SMALL CLOSED ROOM INTO WHICH HALF A TEASPOON OF PENICCILLIN HAD BEEN SPRAYED.

BLOOD SAMPLES AT THE END OF THAT TIME SHOWED SUFFICIENT CONCENTRATI TO ARREST THE GROWTH OF THE BACTERIA CAUSING BLOOD POISONING.

IT WAS INDICATED THAT PENICILLIN SUSPENDED IN TINY DROPLETS OF PROPYLENE GLYCOL RETAINED GERMICIDAL ACTIVITY FOR 90 MINUTES. THE SPONSORS BELIEVE ITS USE IN THIS WAY IS SUPERIOR TO TAKING BY MOUTH BECAUSE IT AVOIDS THE DESTRUCTIVE EFFECT OF INTESTINAL JUICES ON THE DRUG.

IT ALSO WAS ARGUED THAT CONTINUOUS ABSORPTION OF THE REMEDY THROUGH THE LUNGS WOULD MAKE UP FOR RAPID KIDNEY EXCRETION AND IN MANY CASES--SUCH AS CHILDREN HAVING PNEUMONIA--THE TREATMENT BY BREATING WAS PREFERABLE TO THE PAIN AND DISTURBANCE OF HYPODERMIC INJECTIONS.

THE 50-YEAR-OLD WIDOW, MRS. LUCIE MARIE ROMMEL, TALKED FREELY WITH CAPT. CHARLES MARSHALL AND SGT. THOMAS GRIENER, BUT DECLINED TO DISCUSS LEADING PERSONALITIES IN THE WEHRMACHT OR THE NAZI PARTY.

"I HAVE A 16 YEAR OLD SON IN THE LABOR SERVICE," SHE SAID, POSSIBLY IN EXPLANATION OF THIS.

SHE SAID HER FIELD MARSHAL HUSBAND GOT ALONG POORLY WITH REICHS-MARSHAL HERMANN GOERING AND HEINRICH HIMMLER, THE GESTAPO CHIEF. SHE SAID ROMMEL'S RECORD AS AN INFANTRYMAN WAS THE ONLY FACTOR IN HIS RAPID RISE IN THE GERMAN ARMY, AND THAT HITLER DID NOT KNOW HIM PERSONALLY WHEN HE APPOINTED HIM COMMANDANT OF THE MILITARY ACADEMY AT WIENERNEUSTADT.

AFTER ROMMEL WAS WOUNDED LAST JULY SHE SAID HE WAS HOSPITALIZED IN FRANCE, THEN RETURNED HOME FOR CARE BY HIS PERSONAL PHYSICIAN, DR. ALBRECHT.

ROMMEL EXERCISED DAILY, TRYING TO RAISE HIS EYELIDS, BUT HIS HEART FINALLY GAVE OUT.

"THE MARSHAL WAS WILLING TO FIGHT FOR WHOMEVER GOVERNED GERMANY," WAS HIS WIDOW'S EPITAPH FOR HIM. "HE WAS A SOLDIER."

MRS. ROMMEL SAID THAT WHEN HER HUSBAND RETURNED FROM AFRICA "HE KNEW HE HAD LOST THE BATTLE AND THAT THE ARMY HAD LOST THE WAR, AND HE WAS A BROKEN MAN. HE KNEW FURTHER SACRIFICE WAS SENSELESS, BUT HE WAS A SOLDIER AND HE HAD HIS ORDERS."

SHE ASSERTED ROMMEL WAS NOT PERMITTED TO DISPOSE HIS FORCES AS HE WISHED IN FRANCE, BUT CARRIED ON AS A SOLDIER EVEN WHEN HE KNEW THE WAR WAS LOST.

"MY HUSBAND ALSO BELIEVED THAT IF THE ALLIES WERE ABLE TO ESTABLISH BRIDGEHEADS IN FRANCE THE WAR WAS DEFINITELY LOST FOR GERMANY. EVENTS PROVED HIM RIGHT."

IN A COMMAND POST NEAR THE RIVER STAFF SGT.FRED E.MEISETZ OF 2315 BROOKFIELD BLVD., CLEVELAND, OHIO, TOLD HOW A NUMBER OF VOLKSTURM GUARDS WERE TRYING TO RETURN TO THE HOMES THEY HAD LEFT FOR A SHORT-LIVED STAY IN THE GERMAN ARMY.

"MOST OF THEM HAD THROWN AWAY THEIR ARMBANDS, THINKING IT WOULD BE EASY TO GET ACROSS THE RIVER," HE SAID. "WHEN THEY FOUND OUT THEY WERE STUCK OVER THERE WITH THE RUSSIANS RIGHT ON THEIR TAILS THEY STARTED SCRATCHING AROUND EVERY WAY THEY COULD TO PROVE THEY WERE REALLY SOLDIERS SO THEY COULD SURRENDER AND COME OVER AS PRISONERS.

"ONE MAN HAD TAKEN HIS WIFE ALONG. WE FINALLY TOLD HIM HE COULD COME OVER AS OUR PRISONER BUT SINCE HIS WIFE WAS A CIVILIAN SHE WOULD HAVE TO REMAIN OVER THERE. THEY TALKED IT OVER FOR A LONG TIME AND HE DECIDED AT LAST HE WOULD STICK BY HER. BUT NEITHER IS VERY HAPPY ABOUT IT.

"WE LET A GROUP OF 13 GERMAN WACS OVER. THEY WERE GIRLS WHO HAD BEEN WORKING AS LABOR TROOPS AND ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNNERS. THEY WANTED TO BECOME PRISONERS IN THE WORST WAY. AND WE HAD TO TAKE THEM UNDER THE RULES--THEY WERE SOLDIERS IN UNIFORM."

ARNEBURG, GERMANY, APRIL 26-(AP)-THE WESTERN FRONT DISINTEGRATED ALONG THE ELBE IN THIS SECTOR TODAY, WITH AMERICAN DOUGHBOYS RUNNING THE WORLD'S WEIRDEST AND MOST EXCLUSIVE FERRY UP AND DOWN THE "FRONT LINES" PICKING AND CHOOSING FROM AMONG THE PRISONERS THEY WANTED TO TAKE FROM THE OPPOSITE BANK.

FIRST CHOICE ON THE FERRY SERVICE WENT TO ESCAPED AMERICAN PRISONERS OF WAR, SECOND CHOICE TO BRITISH AND THIRD TO FRENCH, BELGIAN AND DUTCH ESCAPERS. LAST PLACE WENT TO GERMAN SOLDIERS WHO WERE LINED UP PATIENTLY TRYING TO GET ACROSS THE ELBE TO AN AMERICAN PRISON CAMP.

NO GERMAN BELOW THE RANK OF A CAPTAIN HAD A CHANCE TO CLIMB ABOARD THE TINY MOTOR LAUNCH SS ARNEBURG, WHICH FLEW THE RED SOVIET FLAG BUT WAS OPERATED BY AN AMERICAN DIVISION.

A GERMAN GIRL SWAM ACROSS THE RIVER IN SLACKS BUT WAS SENT BACK IN THE LAUNCH TO AWAIT THE RED ARMY'S ARRIVAL. SHE ASKED FOR A GUN TO KILL HERSELF.

TWO GERMAN SOLDIERS TRIED TO SWIM OVER WITH A HORSE BUT WERE DROWNED.

THIRTY-SIX HOURS AGO, TO PUT YOUR HEAD UP OVER THE LEVEE ON THIS SIDE WOULD HAVE MEANT HAVING IT TAKEN OFF WITH ANYTHING FROM AN ARTILLERY SHELL TO MACHINE GUN BULLETS. TODAY AMERICAN GK'S WERE ALL OVER BOTH BANKS, WHILE THE SOLDIERS WHO ONLY A FEW HOURS AGO HAD BEEN TRYING TO KILL THEM NOW WERE BEGGING TO BE TAKEN PRISONER--AND WERE BEING SPURNED BY THE LOFTY DOUGHBOYS UNLESS THEY WERE ABLE TO PICK UP PLENTY OF "RANK."

THERE HAS BEEN NOTHING LIKE IT ON THIS ARMY FRONT IN THIS WAR.

THE LAUNCH FLEW THE RED FLAG IN CASE A RUSSIAN TANK SHOULD SHOW UP UNEXPECTEDLY AND TAKE A FEW POTSHOTS FOR GOOD LUCK.

IT WAS COMMANDED BY CAPT. CHARLES KILLE, OF HAYWARD, CALIF., WHO NEVER DROVE A LAUNCH BEFORE.

"IT WAS SORT OF A TRIAL AND ERROR PROPOSITION," HE SAID. "I GOT STUCK ON SANDBARS A COUPLE OF TIMES, BUT IT'S O.K. NOW. COME ON AND TAKE A RIDE OVER TO THE KRAUT SIDE."

KILLE WHIPPED THE LAUNCH OUT INTO THE RIVER LIKE A PROFESSIONAL PILOT IN ONE OF MARK TWAIN'S STORIES.

AS THE LAUNCH DREW NEAR THE OPPOSITE BANK, A CROWD SURGED TO THE WATER'S EDGE. THERE WERE AMERICAN G.I.'S, SIDE BY SIDE WITH GERMANS WHO HAD BEEN GUARDING THEM SHORTLY BEFORE AS PRISONERS. THERE WERE REPRESENTATIVES OF EVERY NATION IN THE WORLD, AND, CLAMORING WITH THEM, PANIC-STRICKEN CIVILIANS--OLD MEN, YOUNG MEN, BOYS, GIRLS, GERMAN WACS AND WOMEN WITH BABIES IN THEIR ARMS.

ON A SANDBAR WAS STAFF SGT. ROBERT T. SCHAD OF CLEBURNE, TEX., WHO WAS ACTING AS A SORT OF SUBWAY GUARD. HE HAD A POLICEMAN'S CLUB IN HIS HAND AND WAS SHOVING PROSPECTIVE EMBARKEES IN LINE WITH A PROFESSIONAL TOUCH IN THE ORDER OF THEIR PRIORITY.

A TOO-ANXIOUS GERMAN CAPTAIN WHO NOT ONLY WANTED TO SURRENDER HIMSELF BUT HIS COMPANY GOT A SWIFT POKE IN THE RIBS WHEN HE TRIED TO PUSH AHEAD OF ALLIED PRISONERS OF WAR.

THE SANDBAR WAS ALIVE WITH RUMORS.

PREVALENT REPORTS SAID GERMAN PROPAGANDA MINISTER PAUL JOSEPH GOEBBELS HAD BEEN KILLED IN A RUSSIAN BOMBING RAID THE DAY BEFORE YESTERDAY.

ALL AGREED THAT THE BERLIN SIEGE WOULD BE ENDED QUICKLY, AND THAT THERE WAS NOT THE SLIGHTEST SEMBLANCE OF RESISTANCE--ORGANIZED OR DISORGANIZED--BETWEEN HERE AND THE RUSSIAN LINES.

FOR MILES ALONG THE RIVER THERE WERE MOBS OF GERMAN SOLDIERS AND CIVILIANS TRYING TO ESCAPE, AND THE ELBE FRONT WAS QUIET FOR MILES. NEAR MAGDEBURG THERE STILL WAS A LITTLE ACTIVITY, BUT IT WAS DWINDLING FAST.

OVER TWO RAIL BRIDGES SOUTH OF THIS FERRY POINT ESCAPED AMERICAN PRISONERS OF WAR AND GERMAN SOLDIERS WERE CROSSING THE RIVER ON THE TWISTED GIRDERS. AT ONE RAIL BRIDGE, PARTLY COLLAPSED INTO THE WATER A LIEUTENANT TOLD THE GERMANS THAT IF THEY WANTED TO SURRENDER THEY WOULD HAVE TO FIND THEIR OWN WAY ACROSS. SO THEY WALKED OVER ON A NARROW BOARD CATWALK.

YESTERDAY THE NINTH ARMY WAS COLLECTING PRISONERS, BUT NOW THE G I GUARD PLACED ON THE GERMAN SIDE OF THE SPANS IS ALLOWING ONLY ESCAPED ALLIED WAR PRISONERS ACROSS AND SENDING ALL CIVILIANS BACK.

"BOY, IT'S WORTH A MILLION DOLLARS JUST TO SEE A G I AGAIN," DECLARED SGT. CURTIS LAWHORNE OF SCHOOLFIELD, VA., WHO WAS CAPTURED IN ITALY FROM THE 88TH DIVISION IN 1944.

THERE ALSO ARE MANY BRITISH PRISONERS, SOME OF THEM SURVIVORS OF THE DEATH MARCH FROM PRUSSIA. ONE OF THEM TOLD OF MEN ON EITHER SIDE OF HIM DYING ON THAT MARCH, AND DECLARED, "IT WAS HELL, IT WAS."

THURHEIM, GERMANY, APRIL 26--(AP)--FIFTY-ONE AMERICAN SOLDIERS CAPTURED BY THE GERMANS IN ITALY WERE LIBERATED TODAY IN THIS LITTLE FARMING VILLAGE SOUTH OF THE DANUBE.

MAJ. GEN. JOHN W."IRON MIKE" O'DANIEL'S THIRD DIVISION OVERRAN THE TOWN AS IT ATTACKED SOUTH AND EAST FROM THE DILLINGEN BRIDGEHEAD TOWARD AUGSBURG.

ALL OF THE MEN LIBERATED WERE IN GOOD CONDITION. HALF OF THEM HAD BEEN LABORING ON FARMS AROUND THURHEIM FOR THE PAST EIGHT MONTHS. THE OTHERS HAD ARRIVED HERE MONDAY AND STAGED A SITDOWN STRIKE AFTER A 10-MILE MARCH FROM HINTERBUCH.

THE OFFICER, LT. COL. J. D. ALGER (CARE ALAN D. SUTHERLAND, NATIONAL CITY BANK), OF NEW YORK CITY, SAID THE GERMANS COMPELLED 1,200 AMERICANS AND BRITONS TO WALK 297 MILES FROM SZUBIN, POLAND, TO BRANDENBURG, GERMANY, IN 32 DAYS, ALTHOUGH MANY OF THEM WERE ILL.

HE SAID THE GERMANS "ABSOLUTELY REFUSED" TO GIVE THEM MEDICAL CARE, ALTHOUGH HALF OF THE COLUMN SUFFERED FROM DYESENTERY, AND THAT AT LEAST 25 PRISONERS, SEVEN OF THEM AMERICANS, DIED FOR LACK OF PROPER MEDICAL ATTENTION. HE HAD TO DROP OUT OF THE COLUMN AFTER 10 DAYS BECAUSE OF DYSENTERY, BUT WAS FORCED TO MARCH AGAIN AFTER THREE DAYS REST WITHOUT MEDICINE.

WITH THE U.S.3RD ARMY IN SOUTHERN GERMANY, APRIL 25-(AP)-(DELAYED)-THE UNITED STATES 3RD ARMY TODAY LIBERATED A PRISONER-OF-WAR CAMP IN SOUTHERN GERMANY NEAR THE DANUBE WHERE THE MAJORITY OF CANADIAN OFFICERS CAPTURED AT DIEPPE HAD BEEN HELD FOR MORE THAN 2 1/2 YEARS, BUT ALL THESE OFFICERS EXCEPT ONE HAD BEEN MARCHED FARTHER SOUTH 11 DAYS EARLIER.

WITH THE DIEPPE OFFICER LEFT BEHIND WERE TWO OTHER CANADIAN OFFICERS, ONE CAPTURED IN SICILY IN AUGUST, 1943, AND THE OTHER CAPTURED WHILE SERVING WITH THE BRITISH ARMY.

WITH AMERICAN INFANTRY I WENT INTO THE TOWN, WHICH CANNOT BE NAMED, NEAR WHERE THE CAMP IS LOCATED AND MET THE DIEPPE OFFICER IN THE TOWN SQUARE. HE TOLD ME 84 OTHER DIEPPE OFFICERS WERE MARCHED SOUTH APRIL 15 ALONG WITH TWO CANADIANS CAPTURED IN SICILY AND 10 MEMBERS OF THE R.C.A.F. AS WELL AS ABOUT 1,700 BRITISH AND AMERICAN OFFICERS.

THE DIEPPE OFFICER HAD BEEN LEFT BEHIND IN THIS TOWN BECAUSE OF THE RECURRENCE OF AN OLD KNEE STRAIN. HE SAID THE DIEPPE OFFICERS LEFT IN FAIRLY GOOD SHAPE. FOR THE LAST 10 DAYS, IN ANTICIPATION OF SUCH A MOVE, THEY ATE PRACTICALLY DOUBLE RATIONS FROM A BATCH WHICH RECENTLY ARRIVED IN RED CROSS PARCELS. THEY CARRIED MORE RED CROSS FOOD WITH THEM.

THEY WEREN'T DOWNHEARTED. THEY FIGURED THEIR FREEDOM WOULD NOT BE LONG DELAYED.

WITH THE BRITISH SECOND ARMY, APRIL 26-(AP)-THE SHATTERED, BOMB-WRECKED CITY OF BREMEN FELL TODAY TO LT. GEN. SIR MILES C. DEMPSEY'S BRITISH SECOND ARMY.

BY MID-AFTERNOON, THIS SECOND PORT OF GERMANY WAS CLEARED EXCEPT FOR THE DOCK AREA AND BURGER PARK, NORTH OF THE CITY'S CENTER.

UPWARDS OF 5,000 PRISONERS WAVE BEEN TAKEN SINCE THE 52ND AND THIRD DIVISIONS ENTERED THE CITY PROPER YESTERDAY.

OPPOSITION BEGAN DISINTEGRATING ALMOST IMMEDIATELY, AND THIS AFTERNOON IT HAD ALL BUT DISAPPEARED.

BREMEN'S BURGOMEISTER WAS FOUND COWERING IN A CELLAR. TROOPS WHO HAD TO FIGHT TO CAPTURE THE CITY WERE ANNOYED WHEN THEY HEARD OF A BROADCAST THAT SAID THE BURGOMEISTER HAD SURRENDERED THE CITY.

HEADQUARTERS GAVE THEM THIS REASSURING STATEMENT:

"THE BURGOMEISTER DID NOT SURRENDER BREMEN. THE BURGOMEISTER WAS CAUGHT CROUCHING IN AN AIR RAID SHELTER HARDLY IN POSITION TO SURRENDER ANYONE OR ANYTHING--EXCEPT HIMSELF."

THE WORST OBSTACLES NOW ARE DEBRIS OF THE BOMBINGS AND SWARMS OF FREED SLAVE LABORERS, WHO ARE MAKING FREE WITH THE CITY'S PLENTIFUL LIQUOR SUPPLIES.

THE 43RD DIVISION ADVANCING NORTH OF BREMEN ALONG THE RAILWAY IS EXPECTED TO RUN INTO AS MANY AS 1,000 ENEMY TROOPS IN BURGER PARK, WHERE THE GERMAN COMMANDER, A GEN. BECKER, IS SAID TO HAVE HEADQUARTERS IN A LARGE UNDERGROUND SHELTER.

BECKER MAY STILL BE THERE, AND AN UNCONFIRMED REPORT SAYS THE NOTORIOUS NAZI EVANGELIST, BISHOP WEIDEMANN, ALSO IS STILL IN THE CITY.

WHILE THE 52ND DIVISION WAS SEIZING MOST OF THE CITY PROPER NORTH OF THE WESER RIVER, THE THIRD DIVISION WAS CLEARING EVERYTHING SOUTH OF THE RIVER.

THE HAMBURG FRONT WAS QUIET AFTER THE BRITISH BEAT OFF A SMALL COUNTERATTACK YESTERDAY BY A COMPANY OF GERMAN INFANTRY.

THE BRITISH ARE SITTING IN TIGHT POSITIONS IN WOODS TWO MILES SOUTHEAST OF HAMBURG, AND HAD NO DIFFICULTY STOPPING THE ATTACK.

WITH A 69TH INFANTRY DIVISION PATROL BEYOND THE MULDE RIVER, APRIL 26-(AP)-A YOUNG AMERICAN SERGEANT, WHO HAD BEEN AWAITING TRIAL IN THE INFAMOUS FORT ZINNA NAZI MILITARY PRISON WHEN HE ESCAPED, SAID TODAY SEVEN GERMAN GENERALS AND 69 OTHER GERMAN OFFICERS UNDER DEATH SENTENCE OR AWAITING TRIAL ALSO ESCAPED FROM THE PRISON AS RUSSIAN BATTERIES SHELLED TORGAU ON THE ELBE RIVER.

"MORE THAN 30 ALLIED PRISONERS OF WAR AND 30 SICK GERMAN SOLDIERS TOO ILL TO LEAVE THE PRISON ALSO ARE FREE NOW," SAID SGT. DAVID T. COLIN, FORMER NBC CORRESPONDENT, "AND I BELIEVE THAT A COLUMN OF 900 MORE GERMAN ARMY PRISONERS, MOST OF WHOM HAD BEEN SENTENCED TO DEATH, MUST HAVE BEEN OVERRUN BY SOVIET TROOPS AS THEIR GUARDS TRIED TO MARCH THEM TO A PLACE NEAR MUNICH IN BAVARIA FOR EXECUTION."

IT WAS IN NOTORIOUS FORT ZINNA THAT HIGH RANKING GERMAN OFFICERS WHO INCURRED HITLER'S DISPLEASURE WERE HELD IN CHAINS UNTIL THE AXE MAN OR THE FIRING SQUADS ENDED THEIR CAREERS.

IT WAS THERE ALSO THAT THE NAZI ARMY'S HIGHEST TRIBUNAL -- THE SEVEN MEMBER REICHSKRIEGSGERICHT--MET TO ISSUE RUBBER STAMP DEATH DECREES DECIDED UPON BY THE NAZI PARTY TO HOLD THE WEHRMACHT UNDER ITS CONTROL.

"SOME OFFICERS WHO ESCAPED WERE IMPLICATED IN SOME MANNER WITH THE DEATH PLOT AGAINST HITLER LAST SUMMER, ALTHOUGH MOST OF THE MAIN CONSPIRATORS, OF COURSE, ALREADY HAD BEEN EXECUTED," SAID COLIN, WHO REPORTED THAT THE RAPID RUSSIAN APPROACH TO THE ELBE ALSO LIBERATE SIX AMERICANS, EIGHT BRITISH, 10 FRENCH, FOUR ITALIAN AND FOUR RUSSIAN SOLDIERS AWAITING MILITARY TRIAL.

COLIN WALKED TOWARD THE AMERICAN LINES UNTIL HE MET A YANK PATROL.

THE SERGEANT GAVE HIS HOME ADDRESS AS 810 YALE ST., ST.LOUIS, MO. AND 5454 CORNELL, CHICAGO. HE SAID HE WAS CAPTURED LAST OCTOBER 9 ON THE FRENCH-ITALIAN FRONT.

THE SERGEANT, WHO WAS A MEMBER OF THE PSYCHOLOGICAL WARFARE UNIT, ADDED THAT LIKE MOST OTHER PRISONERS HE WAS UNCERTAIN ON JUST WHAT CHARGE HE WAS AWAITING TRIAL.

"AT ONE TIME FORT ZINNA HELD 3,000 MILITARY PRISONERS, MOSTLY GERMAN OFFICERS AND SOLDIERS," HE SAID.

"MOST OF THE MEN WERE UNDER THE DEATH SENTENCE AND NEVER KNEW WHEN IT WOULD BE CARRIED OUT. EACH AFTERNOON AT 4:30 THEY DECIDED ON EIGHT OR 10 MEN OR OFFICERS TO BE KILLED THAT DAY, AND GAVE THEM EXACTLY A HALF-HOUR TO GET READY TO DIE. THAT'S ALL THE WARNING THEY EVER HAD--THEN THEY WERE EXECUTED."

MAGDEBURG, GERMANY, APRIL 26-(AP)-A SMALL BUSINESS-LIKE BANKER HAS ESTABLISHED HIMSELF AS ONE OF THE TOP-FLIGHT AMERICAN GENERALS IN THE U.S.NINTH ARMY'S DASH FROM THE RHINE TO THE ELBE.

HE IS MAJ.GEN.RAYMOND S.MCLAIN, IN PEACE TIME AN OKLAHOMA CITY BANKER AND THE ONLY NATIONAL GUARD GENERAL IN THE AMERICAN ARMY TO REACH THE RANK OF CORPS COMMANDER. HE COMMANDS THE 19TH CORPS.

TO REACH THE ELBE MCLAIN HAD TO CONDUCT ONE OF THE ODDEST AND HARDEST CORPS OPERATIONS OF THE WAR. HE WAS GIVEN THE DUAL TASK OF MEETING THE FIRST ARMY TO CLOSE THE RUHR POCKET AND AT THE SAME TIME PUSH AT TOP SPEED FOR THE ELBE. HE HAD TO GO IN TWO DIRECTIONS AT ONCE.

AT ONE TIME ADVANCE SPEARHEADS OF HIS TWO WINGS WERE FIGHTING MORE THAN 125 MILES APART. BOTH HIS FLANKS WERE EXPOSED WHEN HE REACHED THE ELBE BECAUSE THE CORPS ON EACH FLANK HAD NOT BEEN ABLE TO KEEP PACE WITH THE 19TH.

AFTER REACHING A LINE BETWEEN THE BRITISH AND THE 16TH CORPS BELOW MUENSTER MCLAIN TURNED HIS SECOND (HELL ON WHEELS) ARMORED DIVISION LOOSE. THAT DIVISION BROKE THE NINTH ARMY'S FRONT WIDE OPEN, SWEEPING PAST THE DORTMUND-EMS CANAL AND ENVELOPING THE RUHR FROM THE NORTH.

MCLAIN THEN TURNED ONE OF THE DIVISION'S COMBAT COMMANDERS SOUTH,

WHERE IT MET THE FIRST ARMY AT LIPPSTADT, CLOSING THE RUHR POCKET. WITHOUT LOSING A MINUTE HE TURNED THE COMBAT COMMAND TOWARD THE ELBE AGAIN SO IT COULD CATCH UP WITH THE REST OF THE DIVISION AND HE KEPT THE RUHR TIGHTLY CLOSED BY RUSHING IN THE EIGHTH ARMORED DIVISION AND THE 95TH INFANTRY DIVISION. THEN WITH THE SECOND ARMORED DIVISION SWEEPING ON TOWARD THE ELBE, FLANKED BY THE 83RD AND 30TH INFANTRY DIVISIONS, MCLAIN CONDUCTED TWO BATTLES AT ONCE.

IT PRESENTED A TREMENDOUS PROBLEM OF CROSSED LINES OF COMMUNICATIONS AND VAST UNGUARDED REARS, BUT MCLAIN AND HIS 19TH CORPS STAFF SOLVED IT. WITH THE RUHR FIRMLY ENCLOSED, LT.GEN.WILLIAM H.SIMPSON, NINTH ARMY COMMANDER, ORDERED MCLAIN TO DEVOTE HIS ATTENTION TO THE ELBE. TWO DIVISIONS OF THE 16TH CORPS WERE LEFT IN THE RUHR.

FOUR OF THE FIVE GERMAN PLANES WERE DEFINITELY DESTROYED AND THE FIFTH PROBABLY WAS.

THE OTHER KILLS WERE SCORED BY FIRST LT. JIMMIE LANHAM, 22, OF 2013 RIDGE AVE., PHILADELPHIA, WHO ALSO ACCOUNTED FOR THE PROBABLE, AND SECOND LT. RICHARD A. SIMONS, 28, OF 115 FULTON ST., NEW YORK.

THE FACT THAT AMERICAN TROOPS LIBERATED THIS SOUTHERN TERMINAL OF THE BRENNER RAILWAY LINE LATE LAST NIGHT IS ONLY PART OF THE REASON WH

CITIZENS BLEW THE ROOF OFF BOMB-BATTERED VERONA TODAY.

THE REAL CELEBRATION STARTED A FEW HOURS LATER WHEN A WILD-EYED CIVILIAN CAME CHARGING UP THE MAIN STREET HOWLING ABOUT A RADIO BROADCAST THAT SAID:

1. "GUERRA E FINITO" (THE WAR IS FINISHED)

2. THAT HITLER HAD COMMITTED SUICIDE.

WHEN FINALLY CORNERED, HE SAID HE HAD HEARD A RADIO BROADCAST THAT THE GERMANS HAD AGREED TO UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER.

THIS TOUCHED OFF THE MADDEST COUPLE OF HOURS SEEN IN ANY TOWN ANYWHERE IN THIS WAR.

PATRIOTS AND AMERICAN FIFTH ARMY TROOPS, GRABBING ANY GUN THEY COULD FIND, BEGAN FIRING THOUSANDS OF ROUNDS INSTEAD THE AIR BETWEEN FREQUENT STOPS AT THE WINE EMPORIUMS.

CHURCH BELLS BEGAN RINGING ALL OVER THE CITY.

EVERYBODY BEGAN HOLLERING AT ONCE. AN 80-YEAR-OLD WOMAN GRABBED JACK FOISIE, STARS AND STRIPERS REPORTER FROM SAN FRANCISCO, AND ME, INSISTING ON KISSING US UNTIL WE HAD TO YELL FOR HELP.

GENERAL HODGE SAID AN INSPECTION OF ENEMY FORTIFICATIONS INDICATED THE ENEMY HAD WORKED FOR YEARS TO MAKE OKINAWA A FORTRESS.

THE JAPANESE ARE USING ANCIENT TOMBS FOR GUN EMPLACEMENTS AND LIVING QUARTERS.

A MEMBER OF GENERAL HODGE'S STAFF SAID JAPANESE FORTIFICATIONS ARE "SO INTELLIGENTLY CONSTRUCTED I DOUBT IF GERMAN ENGINEERS COULD HAVE DONE A BETTER JOB."

MAJ.GEN.GEORGE W.GRINER, COMMANDER OF THE 27TH DIVISION, SAID THE JAPANESE ARE SHOWING A NEW ABILITY TO ADAPT THEMSELVES TO CHANGING CIRCUMSTANCES.

HONOLULU, APRIL 26-(AP)-HIGH HOPES THAT THE NATIONS OF THE WORLD WILL HAVE POST-WAR FREEDOM OF THE PRESS AND COMMUNICATIONS WAS VOICED TODAY BY TWO OF THE THREE-MEMBER AMERICAN SOCIETY OF NEWSPAPER EDITORS GLOBE-GIRDLING COMMITTEE.

THE COMMITTEEMEN, RALPH EMERSON MCGILL, EDITOR OF THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, AND WILBUR S.FORREST, ASSISTANT EDITOR OF THE NEW YORK HERALD-TRIBUNE, SAID THEY FOUND EVERYWHERE, AND ESPECIALLY AMONG SMALLER NATIONS, THE ADMISSION THAT THERE IS URGENT NEED FOR A FREE PRESS.

MCGILL AND FORREST ARRIVED HERE ON THE SEMI-FINAL STAGE OF THEIR WORLD TOUR IN THE INTEREST OF THE FREE FLOW OF NEWS IN AND OUT OF ALL COUNTRIES. THE THIRD MEMBER OF THE COMMITTEE, DEAN CARL W. ACKERMAN, OF THE COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM, REMAINED IN CHUNGKING TEMPORARILY BUT IS EXPECTED HERE SHORTLY.

AFTER TALKING TO EDITORS AND GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS THROUGHOUT THEIR TOUR, THE COMMITTEE URGED THAT NATIONS INCORPORATE INTO TREATIES PLEDGES NOT TO USE THE PRESS AS AN INSTRUMENT OF POLICY, NOT TO CENSOR NEWS AT THE SOURCE, AND NOT TO PREVENT THE FREE FLOW OF NEWS IN AND OUT OF ALL COUNTRIES.

"IT WAS ASTOUNDING TO VISIT COUNTRIES SUCH AS ITALY AND BELGIUM, WHERE PEOPLE ARE LITERALLY STARVED FOR NEWS," SAID MCGILL. "A PROFESSOR IN ITALY SAID THEY HADN'T HAD FREE BOOKS FOR YEARS. BELGIUM HAS BEEN UNDER A NEWS BLACKOUT FOR FIVE YEARS. WHEN SOME OF OUR TROOPS ENTERED, PEOPLE ASKED, 'WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE WORLD?' EVEN BEFORE THEY ASKED FOR BREAD."

MCGILL AND FORREST CITED A STATEMENT MADE TO THEM BY DR.EDUARD BENES, PRESIDENT OF THE CZECHOSLOVAKIAN GOVERNMENT IN EXILE, THAT "THE BEST WEAPON, ESPECIALLY FOR SMALL COUNTRIES, IS A FREE PRESS AND FREE FLOW OF NEWS OUT OF THE COUNTRIES."

IN RUSSIA, THEY SAID, THEY FOUND A STRONG WISH FOR PEACEFUL RELATIONS WITH THE UNITED STATES, AND WERE ENCOURAGED BY A CONFERENCE WITH S.A.LOSOVSKY, VICE COMMISSAR FOR FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

THEY QUOTED LOSOVSKY AS SAYING:

"HAVING FOUND A COMMON GROUND ON WHICH TO FIGHT GERMANY AND A COMMON GROUND AT YALTA ON WHICH TO BUILD AN ORGANIZATION FOR INTERNATIONAL PEACE, I SEE NO REASON WHY WE CANNOT FIND A COMMON GROUND ON PROBLEMS SUCH AS THESE (FREEDOM OF COMMUNICATIONS), WHICH SEEM LESS IMPORTANT."

MCGILL AND FORREST SAID THEY WOULD RECOMMEND THAT AFTER THE WAR A WORLD PRESS CONFERENCE BE HELD IN AUSTRALIA, WHICH WAS THE FIRST COUNTRY TO PROPOSE SUCH A MEETING.

THE GOVERNMENT HOWEVER DENIED RUMORS THAT THE MEXICAN CHIEF EXECUTIVE AND PRESIDENT TRUMAN HAVE MADE PLANS FOR A MEETING.

THE ORIGINAL PLAN, SAID JESUS GONZALEZ GALLO, THE PRESIDENT'S PRIVATE SECRETARY, WAS FOR ROOSEVELT TO MOTOR FROM THE SAN FRANCISCO CONFERENCE TO PUNTA PENASCO, ON THE MEXICAN SIDE OF THE BORDER, FOR THEIR SECOND MEETING. THE FIRST OCCURRED TWO YEARS AGO AT MONTEREY

NEW YORK, APRIL 26-(AP)-RETURNING FROM A FLIGHT OVER THE ELBE RIVER, NBC CORRESPONDENT ROY PORTER DECLARED TONIGHT IN A PARIS BROADCAST THAT "THE RUSSIANS AND AMERICANS ARE LINED UP ON OPPOSITE SIDES OF THE RIVER LIKE TWO PICNIC PARTIES WAITING FOR A FERRY TO TAKE THEM ACROSS."

AT ONE POINT, WHICH CANNOT BE IDENTIFIED, PORTER SAID HE SAW THE RUSSIANS BUILDING TWO TEMPORARY BRIDGES. ONE WAS WELL UNDER CONSTRUCTION AND THE OTHER WAS JUST BEING STARTED.

"IT WAS ALL VERY PEACEFUL AND CALM, WITH HARDLY A GERMAN BETWEEN THE TWO ARMIES," HE CONTINUED. "ALL OF WHICH MEANS THAT GERMAN CONTROL HAS CEASED TO EXIST IN THIS AREA, WHICH IS IN THE HEART OF GERMANY."

PORTER DID NOT IDENTIFY THE AREA OVER WHICH HE FLEW OTHER THAN TO SAY "WE REACHED THE ELBE AT A PALACE NORTH OF LEIPZIG."

"AS FAR AS WE COULD SEE FOR MILES ON ONE SIDE," HE SAID, "RUSSIAN SCOUTS WERE HEADING INTO THE RIVERSIDE VILLAGES AND LONG LINES OF VEHICLES WERE MOVING UP ON THE OTHER BANK. THE AMERICANS WERE A LITTLE WAY BACK, BUT NEVERTHELESS WERE READY TO MOVE FORWARD TO GREET THEIR ALLIES.

"IT WAS A BEAUTIFUL SIGHT--PARTICULARLY WHEN YOU REMEMBER THERE WASN'T A GERMAN TO BE SEEN BETWEEN THEM."

PORTER RODE IN A PLANE PILOTED BY CAPT. FRANK ROBISON OF SAN DIEGO, CALIF., WHO ALSO SPOKE ON THE BROADCAST. ROBISON SAID THE RUSSIANS WERE "POURING STUFF IN ALONG THE BACK HIGHWAYS," SUGGESTING THEY WERE PLANNING A MEETING IN STRENGTH WITH THE AMERICANS.

SAN FRANCISCO, APRIL 26-(AP)-THE IMPORTANT TOKYO NEWSPAPER, ASAHI, INDULGED IN WISHFUL THINKING TODAY, ASSERTING THAT THE UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE IN SAN FRANCISCO WOULD RESULT IN ANOTHER WORLD WAR BECAUSE OF "UNBRIDGEABLE DIFFERENCES" BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES AND SOVIET RUSSIA.

THESE ALLEGED DIFFERENCES, SAID ASAHI IN A DOMEI NEWS AGENCY BROADCAST MONITORED BY TPE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION, DATE BACK TO WORLD WAR 1.

WASHINGTON AND MOSCOW MIGHT FIND IT EASY TO "DO WINDOW DRESSING FOR THE WORLD PEACE ORGANIZATION," ASAHI SAID, BUT CONTENDED THAT "THE FACT REMAINS THAT NEITHER THE WASHINGTON LINE OF POLICY NOR MOSCOW'S WILL BE ABLE TO SOLVE THE ACTUAL ISSUES."

THE QUESTION OF "UNIFIED WORLD ORGANIZATION" HAS BECOME "THE SUZUKI, IN THE BROADCAST MONITORED BY THE FCC, SAID THE OKINAWA FIGHTING GAVE THE JAPANESE THEIR "GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY" TO TURN THE TIDE OF BATTLE, AND PREDICTED THE AMERICANS WOULD "FLINCH" BEFORE THE "SPECIAL-ATTACK (SUICIDE) SPIRIT" OF THE NIPPONESE.

OTHER BROADCASTS INDICATED WIDESPREAD DISRUPTION OF JAPAN'S TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES BY AMERICAN BOMBING RAIDS. ONE REPORTED "ALL PRIVATELY-OWNED MOTOR CARS AND DRAFT ANIMALS" HAD BEEN MOBILIZED FOR PUBLIC SERVICE IN AREAS WHERE RAILWAYS ARE NOT IN OPERATION. TOKYO TO YOKOHAMA WAS LISTED AS ONE SUCH AREA.

TOKYO RADIO SAID EMPEROR HIROHITO HAD APPROVED SUZUKI'S SELECTION OF 13 ADVISERS TO THE CABINET. THEY INCLUDED BUSINESS MEN AND INDUSTRIAL LEADERS. SOME HAD BEEN ADVISERS TO THE FALLEN KOISO GOVERNMENT.

DITTMAR SURRENDERS

Predicts Collapse of Germany When Berlin Falls —Meeting Hailed.

By JAMES M. LONG

PARIS, Saturday, April 28. —(AP) American and Russian armies from half a world apart have met in the heart of Hitler's once-proud Reich, leaving Germany crushed and virtually overrun from east and west.

The meeting of the men of Gen. Eisenhower and the men of Marshal Stalin south of Berlin left only pockets of Nazis in Hitler's northern and southern redoubts to be stamped out before Europe's war is declared officially at an end.

Supreme headquarters, officially pessimistic, says organized warfare can last for several months. Front line commanders believe all will be over in a matter of weeks, at the most.

Lt. Gen. Kurt Dittmar, widely-quoted Nazi military commentator, surrendered to the Americans Wednesday, it was disclosed yesterday, and declared that Hitler was in Berlin and would die there.

"When Berlin falls it will be over," he said, predicting the fall within a few days. He said the southern redoubt was a myth and asserted that Hermann Goering, fallen Reich air marshal, had probably been executed.

The juncture brought to a comparative standstill two of the greatest military machines of history and today they faced each other along 200 miles of the Elbe river, where the U. S. First and Ninth armies drew up to a halt seven days ago.

The Russians and the Americans met in late Wednesday afternoon on the U. S. First Army front, and other meetings have not already taken place they will in a few days.

The Americans, three enlisted men and a lieutenant of the 273rd Regiment of the U. S. First army's 69th Infantry division, met patrols of the 58th Soviet Guard division of Marshal Ivan S. Konev's first Ukrainian army group at 4:40 p.m. Wednesday.

The place was near Torgau, on the Elbe river 58 miles south of Berlin.

In two years two Allies had traveled 5,900 miles to make this historic junction—the Americans 3,800 miles from the great ports of America and 700 miles across Europe; the Russians 1,400 bloody miles from the ruins of Stalingrad, where they broke the German Sixth army and turned the whole tide of the war.

Only Pockets of Resistance

Now there no longer was an eastern or a western front. There were instead, north and south fronts—more properly two pockets, for Hitler's once feared armies were left incapable of fighting as integrated units.

The Allies had fought over the breadth of Europe — 2,100 miles from Stalingrad to the beaches of Normandy.

And when they met on the green Elbe plain they shared equally the honor of smashing the most formidable fortress and one of the mightiest fighting forces on earth.

The Americans had come one-third of the hard, difficult way in a little less than one-third of the time.

At 4 p.m. Thursday the commanding generals of the American and Russian divisions met at Torgau to make the junction official, to discuss the repatriation of freed prisoners of war and the problems of tracking down and destroying the Nazis in their last retreats.

While they talked there on the Elbe's west bank, their troops met and cemented the junction.

Allied capitals of the world rang with praise for the historic achievement.

In Moscow, Stalin ordered a salute of 24 artillery salvos from 324 guns—a salute reserved for Russian capture of cities and fortresses—and in an order of the day declared:

"Long live the victory of the freedom-loving nations over Germany."

"Our task and our duty," he said in a supplemental statement, "are to complete the destruction of the enemy and force him to lay down his arms and surrender unconditionally."

In London Prime Minister Churchill, whose island empire once stood alone against the armies of the Reich, declared:

"After long journeys, toil and victories, across the land and oceans, across so many deadly battlefields, the armies of the great Allies have traversed Germany and joined hands together. Now their task will be the destruction of all the remnants of German military resistance . . . the subjugation of the Hitler Reich."

President Truman in Washington hailed the junction as a tribute "to the courage and determination of Franklin Roosevelt as no words could ever speak."

He joined Churchill and Stalin in a joint statement that the operation meant "that the last, faint, desperate hope of Hitler and his gangster government has been extinguished."

Bradley Praises Warriors

Gen. Bradley in an order of the day to his 12th Army group, embracing the U. S. First, Third, Ninth and 15th armies, hailed the contribution of all Allied arms.

Of the Russians, he said their achievements "have given immortality to a people that would not be conquered."

Of the men of his own command, he said that the valor of the Russians had been made "more meaningful by your own deeds."

Of the Russian campaign:

"These armies have come to you from the ruins of Stalingrad and Sevastopol—across the scorched cities of the Ukraine. In two years they have smashed 1,400 miles through German armies to drive the enemy from Russia and pursue him to the Elbe."

Of his own proud armies:

"Across 3,800 miles of an ocean supply line you forced a coast the enemy had been years preparing against you.

"Within four months after landing you destroyed whole armies—to take Paris, free France and give the world a symbol of freedom.

"When the enemy raised a new army and threw it into the winter battle of the Ardennes you smashed it and flung its remnants back. You have beaten and broken down his mighty Siegfried Line. You crossed the Rhine in your stride, encircled and reduced the Ruhr.

"While demonstrating new lessons in mobile warfare, you have annihilated whole groups of German armies in the west on their own German soil.

"In 10 months you have fought your way 700 miles from the beaches. These accomplishments were secured by your courage, your resourcefulness and by your comrades who died to achieve them.

"You have shared in the liberation of your nations, given hope to others and conquered half of Germany.

"The people of America, who armed you, have had great faith in you. You have justified that faith as you will in the battles that follow."

Now the whole war in Europe was turned into a battle of strangulation with the armies of the United Nations able to close shoulder to shoulder on two great pockets and crush the life from Nazism.

With the German armies split into siege pockets in northern Germany and in the mountains of one sliver of Bavaria and in Austria and Czechoslovakia, organized resistance on a major scale was ended.

The junction put the Russian and American armies into closer co-ordination and a closer comradeship of arms than ever before.

Preconditions are created for the same fighting partnership in the Far East should Russia go into action there when the western front no longer exists.

Battle Major Battles

As the announcement flashed around the world, the Allies of the east and west already had buckled to the task of crushing the two major pockets.

The strongest probably is the one of the south, with the Nazis self-styled "national redoubt" as the mountainous core.

The pocket now is some 275 miles wide from the eastern end of Lake Constance to the Russian wedge west of Vienna, and about 300 miles deep from Czechoslovakia to the Po valley in Italy.

It is under swift assault from every side because the Allies know that given time to stock and man it fully, the Germans and their Nazi leaders might hold out until the first snowfall of autumn and wage guerrilla resistance on into the spring.

Of perhaps 200 nominal divisions left to fight for Germany—none is up to strength—the biggest force probably is pinched off in this southern pocket. Here are most of the toughest fighters, the SS (Elite) troops.

Added to them are the 20 to 30 divisions now in flight in Italy. While these divisions may get through the Alpine passes into the fortress, it is doubtful if they can carry their equipment with them.

The remainder of what once was an army that made all Europe tremble is cut off in the northern or Baltic pocket.

This is a pocket 175 miles long from Hamburg to Stettin Bay and about 150 miles deep.

But there are yet more distant strongholds which might have to be reduced even after the collapse in Germany.

There Is Western Holland

There is western Holland, where the Germans wait behind their floodline in the cities of Rotterdam, Amsterdam, The Hague and Utrecht.

There are Denmark and Norway, a natural fortress of its own with its spines of mountains and its moats of straits and sea.

And there still are the pockets of the French Atlantic coasts.

In all these pockets there are altogether perhaps 30 or more nominal German divisions.

The way the hookup was brought about in its last touchy phase illustrated dramatically the effectiveness of the military co-ordination between the Russians and their western Allies.

That co-ordination dealt with essentials and let the rest go. But it worked.

Eisenhower Shifts Attack

As General Eisenhower had said repeatedly: "That co-ordination has lacked nothing that was necessary for the successful conduct of the military operations."

Merge In Heart Of Reich, Splitting German Forces Into Two Great Death Pockets

BERLIN ETAK

Paris, April 27 (AP)—The American 1st Army and the Russians have joined in the heart of Germany near Leipzig, cutting the Reich in two.

Even as troops of General Hodges and Marshal Konev solidified their junction at Torgau, General Patton's 3d Army invaded Austria and established radio contact with the Russians west of Vienna in a swift maneuver which virtually encircled Czechoslo[vakia] and cut the Germans' vanishing hold in Europe into three great deathtraps.

Am[ericans] Russians [join]ed hands yesterday. Their patrols [met] the day before. Torgau, historic town of 14,000, where ancestor[s] [Russ]ians [and] their Western allies nearly two [cen]turies ago in the Seven-Year War, lies 58 miles southwest of Berlin and 28 northeast of Leipzig. The junction outflanked the Saxony capital of Dresden and split German armies for reduction in detail.

General Reinhardt's Fighting 69th Division was the first to join the Russians.

Both Pockets Under Heavy Attack

Both the northern and southern pockets were under violent assault. Three of General Eisenhower's armies attacked the Bavarian redoubt, moving within 31 miles of Munich. Two Allied armies in Italy were driving up from the south past Verona and the Russians were closing in from the east.

The northern pocket was under violent assault from Russians on the east and from the British, Canadian and American 1st and 9th armies on the south and west. The British advanced past captured Bremen in a drive to cut off Denmark and Schleswig-Holstein. Hamburg was besieged. The Canadians broke the Kusten Canal line and moved on smaller North Sea ports.

The German command said the 9th Army crossed the lower Elbe on both sides of Tangermuende, where another junction with the Russians was imminent, if it had not already taken place.

Nazis Still Have 250 Divisions

The White House, the Kremlin and Whitehall jointly announced the junction of the 1st Army and the Russian 1st Ukrainian Army Group, led by Konev who helped turn impending disaster into victory at the gates of Moscow in December, 1941—just before Pearl Harbor.

The end was not yet, but it was inevitably brought closer. The Germans still had 250 divisions, most of them under strength but many of them fighting with the desperation of the doomed. Many were SS units.

The meeting of the 1st Army and the Russians was a dramatic moment. The armies had come from places half a world apart.

APR 28 1945

Except for the incredible fanaticism of the diehard Nazis' last stand, the meeting might have ended the worst war that the world has ever known.

On Threshhold Of Sure Victory

But though the fight went on and may last for weeks, it carried the Western and Eastern Allies to the threshold of sure and imminent victory.

The two armies fought their way to the junction across the whole breadth of Europe—2,200 airline miles from Stalingrad on the Volga and from Normandy coast on the Atlantic, which General Eisenhower invaded last June 6.

When the armies met on the green plain of the Elbe, they shared even in the honors of smashing the most formidable fortress and one of the mightiest fighting forces on earth.

The Americans had come a bit over one third of the way in a little under one third of the time.

Split Into Two Great Pockets

There was one immediate and one longer range significance of the junction. It split the German Army into two great siege pockets—in effect meaning the end to organized resistance on a full sca[le].

It put the Russ[ians] and American armies into closer co-ordination a[nd] raderie of arms than ever before. This poten[tially] d the pre-conditions of partnership in the Far[East] d Russia enter the war against Japan when th[e] s in Europe.

Perhaps the strongest of General Eisenhower's blows were raining down upon the newly created pocket in the south where the Nazis were holed up in their national redoubt. The southern pocket is some 275 miles wide from the eastern end of Lake Constance to the Russian wedge west of Vienna. It is about 300 miles deep across Czechoslovakia to the Po Valley in Italy.

APR 29 1945

North Sea Area Being Mopped Up

It was under attack from all sides because the Allies realized that if they allowed the Germans time to stock and man the Alpine positions to their fullest possibilities the Nazi leaders might be able to hold out in the mountains for months.

The Germans in the northern, or Baltic pocket, were hemmed in an area about 175 miles long from Hamburg to Stettin Bay. The pocket was about 150 miles deep at points. Resistance still existed near the North Sea ports west of Hamburg, but the Canadians were mopping up that area.

There were yet more distant strongholds which might have to be reduced even after the collapse of the major pockets. An estimated 100,000 Germans of the 25th Army were sealed in western Holland. More than that number were holding out in the French Atlantic ports of La Rochelle, St. Nazaire and Lorient; in the channel port of Dunkerque, and in the British Channel isles of Sark, Jersey and Guernsey.

Trapped In Latvia

The Russians had units of 15 to 30 divisions pocketed in Latvia and another large force in Breslau. Other Germans were long bypassed in the Aegean Islands below Greece.

Perhaps the greatest grouping of German divisions left to fight for Hitler was in the southern pocket. These contained most of the remaining SS troops, toughest in Germany.

In the south, last reports, many hours behind the action, placed the 3d Army and Russians west of Vienna 85 miles apart, but Associated Press Correspondent Edward D. Ball reported:

"The two armies are in radio contact and a physical junction appears likely soon."

Patton Closing In On Linz

The ordinary range of Russian radio tanks is 25 miles.

Ball's dispatch was heavily censored but he was allowed to say that "the impending linkup would mean that all southern Germany, with its so-called redoubt, and the

---

The American drive across middle Germany after the great Ruhr encirclement apparently reached its eastern terminal ahead of all expectations. The Russians were just beginning their own drive for the junction.

The general zone of the juncture had been agreed upon in advance. When the United States 1st, 3d and 9th armies reached the merger zone they came to a halt seven days ago. But they didn't just wait.

While the Russians smashed into the German center, Eisenhower shifted the direction of his attack in a series of maneuvers that caught the German armies off balance—just as he had been doing ever since the St. Lo breakthrough.

Same Commands Seen

He hurled the whole weight of the British and Canadian striking forces north against the port belt, and the whole of the United States 3d, 7th and French 1st Armies south against the redoubt.

There had been no announcement here before the hookup at to what the over-all command situation would be after the juncture.

But correspondents have been permitted to say that probably there will be no considerable change—that Eisenhower will remain the supreme commander of the western Allied armies and Stalin in command of his forces in the east.

They both probably will take part in the reduction of both the northern and southern pockets. A merger of troops is unlikely.

The lines between them will be just about the same as the boundary between army groups.

German forces in Italy would be trapped."

Marshal Tolbukhin's forces were reported beyond St. Polten in the area 35 to 40 miles west of Vienna. General Patton's troops were closing swiftly on Linz, the third city of Austria, from last-reported positions 31 miles away. Resistance collapsed, Austrians greeted the Americans with garlands and Bavarian barmaids served them steins of beer. Not a shot was fired in the last 6 miles of advance across the frontier northeast of Passau, the Danube gateway into Austria.

Voice Loud And Clear

Ball said that two miles before reaching the Austrian border, the Thunder bolt (11th Armored) Division crossed the artillerymen's "no fire line"—established to prevent any indirect shooting lest the Americans fire on the Russians.

"This meant there would be no unobserved artillery fire," Ball said. "Tankmen and tank-riding doughboys are permitted to fire on Germans, however, but they found none.

"After the border had been crossed, a Russian voice came in clear and loud over radio saying: 'This is the Red Army. This is the Red Army calling the American Army. We are seeking to establish radio contact."

Six Miles From Augsburg

In the meantime, troops of General Patch's 7th Army moved to within 6 miles of Augsburg in an 18-mile advance. His Tiger (10th Armored) and 14th Division captured Memmingen, 34 miles from the Austrian frontier, and liberated 4,000 Allied prisoners.

Civilians, who said they represented the city officials, Catholic clergy and industrialists of Augsburg, came out of the city 32 miles northwest of Munich under a flag of truce, offering to surrender it to the 7th Army. They asserted they would take care of any fanatics who stood in the way. Teh 4th Division commander ordered them back to the city to fly the white flag, destroy all mines and road blocks and release all prisoners.

Smash Into Italy

Far southward on the Riviera, French forces struck into Italy as far east as Bordighera, on the Mediterranean 6 miles west of San Remo, clearing all the Maritime Alps Department to that point.

The French also captured Constance, where thousands of wounded Allied prisoners had been reported held, and took control of all the Swiss border from the lake to the west. They curled around the inland sea within 13 miles of the large aircraft and Zeppelin center of Friedrichshafen, advancing up to 25 miles in rough country.

Berchtesgaden was menaced by 400,000 or more troops which were rolling through the fringes of the Nazi redoubt within 72 miles of the village.

Ingolstadt Taken

In its drive, the 3d Army captured Ingolstadt, medieval fortress city on the Danube, and moved 2 miles south within 38 miles of Munich.

Third Army troops were within 61 of Salzburg, eastern fortress to the Alpine hideout. The last route into the redoubt leads through Linz.

Other troops of the 3d Army captured Regensburg.

The Texas and Oklahoma (90th) Division captured Furth near the Czech frontier, 38 miles southwest of Pilsan and 90 from Prague.

The 3d Army's invasion of Austria, the ninth country entered by armies of the West, climaxed a swift 130-mile advance by the 11th Armored Division.

With Germany's second port of Bremen conquered, the British Guards Armored Division smashed north toward invested Hamburg in a maneuver which—if successful—would lop off the Schleswig Holstein and Danish peninsula, leaving Germans in that bleak northland no land route of escape.

The capture of Bremen gravely menaced the Germans' northern redoubt because it was one of the main defense points.

When the Canadian 1st Army finally broke the German defense line on the Kusten Canal to the west of the port, the Nazis took up a new line in defense of the North Sea ports of Emden, Wilhelmshaven and Bremerhaven. The line runs from Leer on the Ems River almost due east to Oldenburg and then sharply north to Varel, 10 miles south of Wilhelmshaven. The Canadians were practically within sight of Oldenburg, key to the new line.

Meanwhile, the rapid dissolution of what remains of the German Army continued. Supreme headquarters said 34,237 prisoners were captured Wednesday, running the total for April alone to 1,112,523, and since D-day to 2,442,228. Over 30,000 were captured by three of General Eisenhower's armies yesterday. The 3d Army took 14,300, the 7th Army 11,335 and the British 5,000.

A German regiment surrendered en masse to the 9th Army in the Elbe bridgehead east of Barby. The commander explained in a naive manner that he quit because he understood the Americans and Germans were joining forces to fight the Russians.

The French and 7th armies steadily whittled down hugh pockets far behind the front.

Entered At Lackenharsh

Some 300 miles of the Danube from its source to Austria were in Allied hands; indeed the Germans held only 90 airline miles of that river from St. Politen to bypassed Passau on the Austrian border.

Austria was invaded at Lackenharsh, two miles south of the corner where Austria, Czechoslovakia and Germany meet.

The Thunderbolt Division under a new commander, Brig. Gen. Holmes E. Dager, advanced nine miles to enter Austria.

Outside Lackenharsh, a German boy warned the Americans that a gang of Hitler youths with bazookas had ordered the civilians to "fight it out and die for Hitler."

One column of the 11th Armored Division stabbed 12 miles southeast and entered Gegenbach, a mile west of the border and 17 miles northeast of outflanked Passau. It was this group which was nearest Linz and Salzburg.

It was the 86th Division—a new outfit in the 3d Army—which captured Ingoldstadt, a city on the traffic routes between south and north Germany.

The 86th crossed the Danube at Ingoldstadt and drove 2 miles south to the Munich-Nuernberg superhighway. The 71st Division merged its two Danube bridgeheads east of Regensburg into one salient 8 miles wide and 4 deep.

Bridgehead Expanded

The 65th Division expanded the bridgehead southwest of Regensburg to an area 6 miles wide and 3 deep.

The lack of opposition to the 11th Armored Division's drive into Austria astonished even hardened campaigners. At one town near the border, a task force flushed 11 German officers awaiting capture.

Infantry of the 3d Army advanced up to 16 miles encountering no resistance worthy of the name.

The 14th Armored Division, freshly transferred from the 7th to the 3d Army, gained up to 11 miles and captured Mening, 7 miles east of Ingolstadt, and entered Fordheim, 11 miles northeast.

The 90th Division reached Hohenworth, near the Czechoslovak frontier, 9 miles southeast of captured Furth. The fall of Furth closed the Cham gap leading from Germany into Czechoslovakia.

Error

Washington, April 27 (AP)—The War Department made a four-hour mistake today in reporting the time of the junction of Americans and Russian forces in Germany.

A statement late today said an error in computing time differences resulted in the announcement by officials here that the patrols made contact at 2.40 P.M., Eastern War Time, on April 25, and that the linkup in force was made the following day at 2 P.M., E.W.T.

The correct time of the meeting of the patrols was 10.40 A.M., E.W.T., April 25, and the junction of the two armies took place at 10 A.M., E.W.T., April 26.

Truman Reveals Allied Meeting At Torgau

Washington, April 27 (AP)—The juncture of Anglo-American and Soviet armies in the heart of Hitler's Reich, cutting Germany in two, was triumphantly announced at the White House today.

President Truman gave out the news in a statement released simultaneously in Washington, Moscow and London at a prearranged hour, 12 noon, Eastern War Time.

From military sources, it was learned that the American unit involved in the meeting was the 69th Division, under command of Maj. Gen. Emil F. Reinhardt.

The operation, said the joint statement of the great powers, "means, first, that the last faint, desperate hope of Hitler and his gangster Government has been extinguished."

Final Victory Near

The President emphasized that the juncture does not mean "the hour of final victory in Europe," but with bristling optimism he asserted that the hour for which the United Nations "have toiled and prayed so long" now "draws near."

The text of the statement:

"The Anglo-American armies under the command of General Eisenhower have met the Soviet forces where they intended to meet—in the heart of Nazi Germany. The enemy has been cut in two.

"This is not the hour of final victory in Europe, but the hour draws near, the hour for which all the American people, all the British peoples, and all the Soviet people have toiled and prayed so long.

"All Hope Of Nazis Gone"

"The union of our arms in the heart of Germany has a meaning for the world which the world will not miss. It means, first, that the last faint, desperate hope of Hitler and his gangster Government has been extinguished. The common front and the common cause of the powers allied in this war against tyranny and inhumanity have been demonstrated in fact as they have long been demonstrated in determination. Nothing can divide or weaken the common purpose of our veteran armies to pursue their victorious purpose to its final Allied triumph in Germany.

"Second, the junction of our forces at this moment signalizes to ourselves and to the world that the collaboration of our nations in the cause of peace and freedom is an effective collaboration which can surmount the greatest difficulties of the most extensive campaign in military history and succeed. Nations which can plan and fight together shoulder to shoulder in the face of such obstacles of distance and of language and of communications as we have overcome, can live together and can work together in the common labor of the organization of the world for peace.

"Finally, this great triumph of Allied arms and Allied strategy is such a tribute to the courage and determination of Franklin Roosevelt as no words could ever speak, and that could be accomplished only by the persistence and the courage of the fighting soldiers and sailors of the Allied nations.

"But, until our enemies are finally subdued in Europe and in the Pacific, there must be no relaxation of effort on the home front in support of our heroic soldiers and sailors, as we all know there will be no pause on the battle fronts."

Churchill's Statement

The British Information Service here released this statement by Prime Minister Churchill on the Anglo-American-Soviet juncture in Germany:

"After long journeys, toils and victories, across the land and oceans, across so many deadly battlefields, the armies of the great Allies have traversed Germany and have joined hands together. Now their task will be the destruction of all the remnants of German military resistance, routing out of Nazi power and the subjugation of the Hitler Reich.

"For these purposes ample forces are available and we meet in true and victorious comradeship and with the inflexible resolve to fulfill our purpose and our duty. Let all march forward upon the foe."

Marshal Stalin

Marshal Stalin's Order of the Day, as broadcast from Moscow and reported by the Federal Communications Commission:

Order of the Supreme Commander in Chief to troops of the army in the field:

The troops of the First Ukrainian Front and our allies, the Anglo-American troops, by a blow from the east and west, cut in two the front of the German troops and on April 25 at 1330 linked up in the center of Germany in the area of the town of Torgau. Thus the German troops in northern Germany have been cut off from the German troops in the southern parts of Germany.

To mark the victory achieved and in honor of this historic event, today, April 27, at 1900, the capital of our motherland, Moscow, on behalf of the motherland, salutes the gallant troops of the First Ukrainian Front and our allies, the Anglo-American troops, with twenty-four artillery salvos from 324 guns.

Long live the victory of the freedom-loving nations over Germany!

The Supreme Commander in Chief, Marshal of the Soviet Union, Stalin.

April 27, 1945.

Marshal Stalin's supplement to his order of the day, as recorded by The Associated Press:

In the name of the Soviet Govment, I address you, commanders and men of the Red Army and of the armies of our allies.

The victorious armies of the Allied powers, waging a war of liberation in Europe, have routed the German troops and linked up on the territory of Germany.

Our task and our duty are to complete the destruction of the enemy to force him to lay down his arms and surrender unconditionally.

The Red Army will fulfill to the end this task and this duty to our peoples.

I greet the valorous troops of our allies who are now standing on the territory of Germany shoulder to shoulder with the Soviet troops and who are full of determination to carry out their duty to the end.

General Bradley

ON THE ELBE, Germany, April 27 (AP)—General Bradley's Order of the Day:

Soldiers of the First, Third, Ninth and Fifteenth American Armies:

At 1640 hours on April 25, 1945, in the twenty-ninth month of our war against the German Government, American troops of the Twelfth Army Group joined forces with Soviet elements of Marshal Koneff's First Ukrainian Army Group.

These armies have come to you from the ruins of Stalingrad and Sevastopol—across the scorched cities of the Ukraine. In two years they have smashed 1,400 miles through the German armies to drive the enemy from Russia and pursue him to the Elbe.

Their achievements—and they have given immortality to a people that would not be conquered—are made more meaningful by your own deeds.

Across 3,800 miles of an ocean supply line you forced a coast the enemy had been years preparing against you. Within four months after landing you destroyed whole armies—to take Paris, free France, and give the world the symbol of freedom. When the enemy raised a new army and threw it into the winter battle of the Ardennes, you smashed it and flung back its remnants.

You have beaten and broken down his mighty Siegfried Line. You crossed the Rhine in your stride, encircled and reduced the Ruhr.

While demonstrating new lessons in mobile warfare, you have annihilated whole groups of German armies in the west on their own German soil.

In ten months you have fought your way 700 miles from the beaches. These accomplishments were secured by your courage, your resourcefulness, and by your comrades who died to achieve them.

You have shared in the liberation of four nations, given hope to others, and conquered half of Germany.

The people of America, who armed you, have had great faith in you. You have justified that faith, as you will in the battles that follow.

Genuine Joy Reigns In Russia From Kremlin To Tiny Towns

Moscow, April 27 (AP)—The dramatic announcement tonight of the meeting of Russian and American troops in the heart of Germany—and the warm expressions by Premier Stalin, President Truman and Prime Minister Churchill as to what the great event means in terms of United Nations solidarity—completely captured the Russian imagination.

People here had been expecting the news for several days, but the announcement nevertheless stimulated the whole Russian populace all across this vast land. There was cheering in the streets, toasts in hotels and restaurants and genuine joy from the Kremlin to the little villages on the distant steppes.

City's Streets Thronged

The news came to Moscow on the warmest evening of the year, at a time when the city's streets were thronged with people, many of them without overcoats for the first time this spring.

Broad thoroughfares were choked with people going home from work or doing shopping for the annual May 1 holiday.

Moscow already had a festive air, with brilliant red bunting going up throughout the downtown area and big red stars being placed in prominent places for celebration of May Day.

Loud-speakers boomed on every square.

The first inkling of what was coming was at 6.45 P.M. when the Moscow radio interrupted a musical program to say that news of great importance would be broadcast at 6.55 P.M.

In reporting the linkup, the announcer said simply Marshal Stalin, supreme commander in chief of the Red Army, on this historic occasion, is saluting Marshal Konev and his 1st Ukrainian Army troops and the Allied Anglo-American armies for completing a junction in the heart of Germany at 1.30 P.M. on April 25.

Special Rockets Used

At 7 P.M., as soon as the Kremlin bells had completed ringing the hour, 324 guns began firing 24 volleys in a salute to this memorable achievement. The 324-gun salute is reserved for only Russia's greatest victories.

After each volley special rockets fingered up into the sky, turning pink in an early sunset.

To one who has been listening to these salutes since they first began late in the Summer of 1943, the guns sounded tonight as if they had extra charges for each volley. When the massed guns fired window panes shook and doors rattled as through a full-scale war was being fought in Moscow's streets.

60 Toasts by Russians Stun Brooklyn Private

By The Associated Press.

ON THE ELBE, April 27—Pfc. Leo Kasinsky hitch hiked to the Elbe today, just to be sure Brooklyn was represented at the meeting of the Americans and Russians—and the Russians gave him "the best time I ever had in my life."

Anyone living around 875 Forty-third Street over in Brooklyn who has seen Kasinsky beam will know just how he looked as he hitched another ride back to his unit. He was tired, stuffed with food and drink, and carried memories which he and his pals will never forget.

"They gave us a wonderful meal and we had about sixty toasts," he said. "Boy, they don't even drink like that in Brooklyn."

Americans and Reds Drink Champagne from Beer Mugs

By DON WHITEHEAD AND HAL BOYLE

TORGAU, Germany, April 26—(Delayed)—(AP) Americans and Russians sat in the warm sunshine on both banks of the Elbe today, drinking champagne from beer mugs, pounding each other on the back and toasting the historic occasion of the meeting of the two armies.

There was singing and dancing and the troops of the two nations, seeing each other for the first time, whooped it up and formed firm friendships despite the handicaps of language. It was enough that they were Allies and had whipped Germany.

The stocky, smiling Russians, looking very young and very tough, were ecstatic. They ceremoniously saluted and shook hands with everyone they met. They pumped your hand until you had as many handshakes you could stand. They were filled with spontaneous gaiety.

Almost every Russian had a Tommygun slung across his shoulder. Revolvers were in their high-topped boots and their belts were festooned with grenades and knives. Most of them wore medals on their thick chests. All around there was the sound of shooting as the Russians worked off excess energy and excitement.

"These guys don't need any excuse to start shooting," said Capt. Ralph Phillips of Union Square, N. J., "they shoot at anything, anytime."

It was a celebration unlike anything seen before in this war—one great party, with Doughboys and Russians singing, laughing and dancing and trying to talk to each other in sign language. A few Americans who spoke Russian interpreted for their friends.

Sing Red Army Song

A Russian sat on a stone wall playing an accordian while Sgt. Andrew Marriock of Hudson, N. Y., joined in the Red army song—"If war should come tomorrow we will be prepared on land, at sea and in the air." A Russian woman in uniform sang in a sweet, throaty voice. It was pleasant on the waterfront in the warm sun.

A Russian captain took us across the river and we walked to a Russian regimental command post. Along the road Russian troops snapped smartly to attention and saluted whenever we paused. There was an easy informality between officers and enlisted men, but at the same time it was noticeable that discipline was strict.

Whenever an American approached a group of Russians they smiled broadly, saluted and shook hands. Some of the more enthusiastic ones who had "liberated" stores of German champagne and cognac elaborated on this greeting with a great hug that cracked the ribs.

At the command post there was a milling throng of Americans and Russians about tables loaded with fried eggs, bread, sardines, salmon and spaghetti. One of the busiest men there was Pfc. Walter Haidamacht of Manville, N. J., who could speak Russian.

Maj. Mitri Livitch of Marshal Konev's 58th division welcomed the Americans by saying: "Today is the happiest day in all our lives. The most difficult for us were those days when the Germans were at Stalingrad. Now we meet one another and this is the end of our enemy. Long live your great leader! Long live our great leader!"

Exchange Gifts

Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Huebner, Kansas-born commander of the Fifth American corps, clasped hands with a Russian major general who presented Huebner with a battle-stained red silk flag that flew over Stalingrad throughout the bitter battle there. The Russian also, taking off his own decorations, pinned them on Huebner's blouse, making him an honorary member of the Russian Guards. The American general gave the Soviet commander three bottles of American whisky.

Then toasts were proposed in vodka. Huebner's aides at first just sipped theirs, but when chided by a Russian, Maj. Walter Hillenmeyer, Lexington, Ky., and Capt. Ellsworth R. Clark, Charleston, W. Va., promptly emptied their glasses in a gulp.

S/gt. Max Afanesko, Box 28, Bairdford, Pa., asked a young Russian woman soldier about her experiences, learned she had killed "about 150" Germans.

International Romance

On the nearby river bank a young New Zealander sat on the grass with his arm about a pretty Russian girl, and they were oblivious to all the color of the momentous occasion. They had worked together in a factory near a prison camp and had fallen in love. Now he was planning how to take her home with him.

The entire day was a fantastic, memorable one, crammed with emotional outbursts, from the time a column of the 69th Infantry set out for Torgau on the Elbe, where contact had been made with the Russians the previous day.

the Doughboys marched along and from the Mulde river to the e they met thousands of Ger- an civilians fleeing before the ussians, hoping vainly to find afety within American lines. The pain and misery of defeated Germany was etched in their faces.

On the east bank of the Mulde thousands of civilians were gathered, their belongings stacked into little carts. Bedding, food, clothing, pots, pans and huge bundles burdened carts. It was the first time rican troops had looked on scenes which showed so clearly Germany's defeat.

History Repeats Self

Mothers hauled their children in carts. Women stumbled along with huge bundles on their backs in the choking dust, just as the frightened people of Belgium and France fled before the Nazis five years ago. Fear and fatigue lined their faces and there was frantic urgency in their attitudes.

There were incongruous lines of wagons with their tops covered by rich oriental rugs and wagons pulled by tractors or automobiles or anything that would make them mobile. There were old and young, ill and crippled, with personal belongings hurriedly packed as the Russians drew near. The roadside was littered with the debris of this army of misery.

Columns of German soldiers marched along the road to the west without anyone to guard them. They had had enough and were quitting the fight. Many still carried their sidearms. Liberated British prisoners of war walked in long columns alongside the German soldiers and Hitler youth. It was a league of nations on the march.

And there was no chance for the Germans to pass through the American lines. Orders had been issued that all Germans in the path of the Russian advance must stay east of the Mulde.

As the American column, composed principally of jeeps, rolled into the market square of Torgau, the Russians emerged from the buildings and the Doughboys made a concerted rush to meet the Red army men. From that point of view it was a party.

Each of three American patrols which made the first contacts with the Soviet troops within a few hours of each other on Wednesday afternoon were from the 273rd Infantry which a week before had captured most of Leipzig.

Col. C. M. Adams of Hazleton, Pa., commander of the 273rd, said the honor of being the first patrol to meet the Russians belonged to a 28-man "task force" led by Lt. Albert L. Kotzebue of Houston, Tex. He said Kotzebue and his men met Cossack foot infantry at 1:32 p.m. at a point less than four miles west of Riesa.

Another patrol of 31 men led by Maj. Fred W. Craig of Friendship, Tenn., made contact with Cossack horse-mounted infantry at Clanzschwitz, five miles northwest of Riesa, at 3:45 p.m.

A third patrol of three men led by Lt. William D. Robertson of Los Angeles made contact at 4:40 p.m. in the middle of the Elbe at Torgau. Robertson and a Russian private squirmed across a girder of a bridge blown up by the Germans earlier in the day, shook hands and pounded each other on the back.

Robertson brought four Russian officers back to 69th Division headquarters, and a formal m later was held across the Elb Torgau betweer high Russi American offic

Goodwill and Beer Flow As Yanks and Reds Meet

By HAL BOYLE

WITH MARSHAL KONEV'S FIRST UKRAINIAN ARMY EAST OF THE ELBE, April 26—(Delayed)—(AP) They tried to make the first meeting of Russian and American divisional commanders on the German front a grand opera event today but it ended like the finale of a circus performance.

There was just too much goodwill and wine flowing to keep up military formalities — and that probably was the best thing possible for future international relations.

Arrangements had been made for the first meeting of the Allied divisional staffs on the east bank of the Elbe in the Torgau region at 4 p. m., and Russian work troops began building a triumphal log arch. They had with them a huge Soviet flag and a home made Stars and Stripes to symbolize Allied unity.

While high ranking Soviet officers were back in their barracks giving their boots a final gloss and pinning on every decoration they had won in four years of battle, the American party appeared unexpectedly on the other side of the river.

Both bridges had been blown by the Germans during their defense of Torgau so Maj. Gen. Emil F. Reinhardt, of Detroit, Mich., and his staff, clad in impeccably near-Eisenhower dress jackets, had to be rowed over the swift-flowing Elbe in racing craft. Crowds of refugee Russian men and women waiting to cross the river looked on in wonder.

The American staff walked slowly through a growth of river weeds to the meeting site and stood uncertainly for a moment. They had arrived 20 minutes early.

An interpreter quickly made known their identity, however, and a Russian officer who was helping dig post holes for the triumphal arch dropped his spade and came over and shook hands warmly with Gen. Reinhardt.

The Russian troops saluted the American staff smartly, and handed British and American flags to Reinhardt's two bodyguards. Cpl. Clarence Tate, of Grapevine, Tex., took the Union Jack and Pfc. Frank Kanes of Donora, Pa., took the Stars and Stripes.

After waiting 10 minutes the American staff turned and started marching up the hill toward the Russian barracks.

As they left, the Soviet soldiers still were hammering frantically to complete their triumphal log arch—which never did get erected.

When the Americans were half way up the hill a large body of splendidly clad Russian officers rounded a grove of trees and started down to meet them.

Cheers and Gunfire

As the two colorful processions came closer and closer a great cheer went up from the Russian and American soldiers on both sides of the river, and gunfire echoed as the celebrating troops fired whatever guns were at hand.

It was a news photographer's dream. Besides the regular army photographers the Russians had many representatives from Tass and Pravda news agencies. The Americans had a number of Army Signal corps cameramen and a half dozen newspaper and magazine photographers.

Russian and Yank picture snappers immediately began to vie good-naturedly for closeups of the military staffs, and this historic meeting was certainly well photographed—possibly from more angles than any other in history.

A half dozen photographers were almost trapped and trampled when the American and Russian staffs ran the last few steps to join and shake hands enthusiastically. The meeting for a few minutes then became a melee, with the Russian and American officers and men laughing, trading "short snorter" notes and souvenirs, while a cordon of photographers surrounded the meeting line like Indians circling a wagon train and burrowed in and out of the milling crowd like moles to get close shots.

As the Russian and American officers started back up the hill, the Soviet and Yank cameramen, sweating under the hot April sun, backed up before them and made more pictures. It was like an old fashioned movie "horse opera."

"Head for Eagle Gulch" yelled one grinning photographer.

"Yeah! Cut 'em off at the pass!" yelled another, while the Russian cameramen quipped and their officers laughed.

At a captured German building which the Russians selected for a banquet the American staff was seated before tables as smiling Russian WAC's began carrying in trays full of wine, vodka, champagne, Cognac, fried eggs sunny side up, fresh pork, and a half dozen other dishes.

The commander of the Russian 58th guards division proposed a toast. Standing and turning to Rheinhardt, the 35-year-old dark-haired commander said:

"General, and officers of the American army, I congratulate you on this day of historic meeting. This is a happy day. It means the end of the enemy."

Reinhardt replied with another toast:

"I wish to toast the divisional commander and the 58th guards division.

"It is a great honor to command the American division that has driven through our common enemy to meet you. May the peace for which we fight come early."

No Rationing of Hospitality

Then the Russians really began to pour on the banquet. Food and wines of all vintage flowed like the town pump, and the Americans began to look more and more worried as each dish and bottle arrived. But there was no escaping the Russian hospitality.

The American staff, stuffed to the bursting point, finally was able to back away from the tables after a couple of hours of eating, and make its departure.

As they were being rowed across the river one Doughboy looked at the skiffs and said with a grin:

"The gunwales are at least four inches deeper in the water than when they went over."

324-Gun Salute Is Moscow's Celebration

"I greet the valorous troops of our allies who are now standing on the territory of Germany shoulder to shoulder with the Soviet troops and who are full of determination to carry out their duty to the end."

London, April 27 (AP)—Premier Stalin, proclaiming the juncture of Americans and Russians on the Elbe, tonight ordered a salute of 24 salvos from 324 guns in Moscow—a tribute usually reserved for the capture of capital cities.

Salvos from cannon and the ringing of bells could be heard over the Moscow radio during the broadcast of Stalin's order of the day.

Stalin's Announcement

Stalin's order of the day, addressed to all troops in the field, said:

"Troops of the 1st Ukrainian Front and Anglo-American troops allied to us, by a blow from the East and West, clove through the front of the German troops and on April 25 at 1.30 P.M. (Moscow time) linked up in the center of Germany in the area of the town of Torgau.

"Thus the Germans in northern Germany are cut off from the German troops in the southern districts of Germany. To commemorate the victory and in honor of this historic event, today, April 27, at 7 P.M., the capital of our motherland, Moscow, in the name of our motherland, will salute with 24 artillery salvos from 324 guns the gallant troops of the 1st Ukrainian front and the Anglo-American troops allied to us.

"Long live the victory of the freedom loving peoples over Germany!"

Stalin Addresses Allies

Addressing himself for the first time to the armies of Russia's allies, Stalin supplemented his order of the day to Soviet troops with this statement:

"In the name of the Soviet Government, I address you commanders and men of the Red Army and of the armies of our allies.

"The victorious armies of the Allied powers, waging a war of liberation in Europe, have routed the German troops and linked up on the territory of Germany.

"Our task and our duty are to complete the destruction of the enemy, to force him to lay down his arms and surrender unconditionally.

"The Red Army will fulfill to the end this task and this duty to our people and to all freedom-loving peoples.

Yanks, Reds Sing, Shout, Dance, Drink In Joy Of Meeting

By Don Whitehead

With Konev's 1st Ukrainian Army, East of the Elbe, April 26 [AP—Delayed]—There was singing and dancing and music on the banks of the Elbe today as doughboys of General Hodges's United States 1st Army and jubilant troops of Marshal Ivan Konev's 1st Ukrainian Army celebrated the historic junction symbolizing the defeat of Nazi Germany.

Americans and Russians slapped each other on the back, gave each other bear hugs, and sat in the warm sunshine drinking champagne from beer mugs and toasting the great occasion of the meeting of the two armies yesterday.

No Such Scene In This War

Not in all this long war have there been scenes such as those enacted in the town of Torgau on the west bank of the Elbe and across the river in the Red Army encampment where Russian and American troops saw each other for the first time, and began to get acquainted, despite the handicaps of language.

It was enough that they were allies and had whipped the enemy to open the way for this joining of armies. Parts of the city of Torgau are deserted and ghostly. In other sections Russian and American troops whooped, sang and formed fast friendships within a few minutes of meeting.

Too Fantastic For Belief

The whole day was almost too fantastic to believe from the time a column set out in the morning to meet the Russians until dusk settled over the Elbe—and there was nothing more to be wrung from hours crammed with emotional outbursts.

This is the story of the memorable day which began when a United States column set out from Torgau, where the 69th Infantry Division made the first contact with Soviet troops yesterday.

The road from the Mulde River to the Elbe was a vivid picture of defeated Germany etched in the pain, misery and fear of people fleeing along the roads by thousands before the Russians and hoping vainly to find safety within American lines.

Nazi Defeat So Apparent

Never before have American troops looked on scenes which showed so clearly Germany's defeat. This darkness faced by the German people accentuated the joyful meeting of Allied troops.

These are some of the things we saw as the column moved toward the Elbe and the Russians.

On the east bank of the Mulde, thousands of civilians were gathered, hoping that perhaps the Americans would let them into their lines before the arrival of the Russians. They had stacked their belongings into little carts which seemed as though they would crumple under the weight. Bedding, food, clothing, pots, pans and huge bundles burdened carts hauled along the highway.

Anything That Would Move

There were incongruous lines of wagons with their tops covered by rich Oriental rugs and wagons pulled by tractors or automobiles or anything that would make them mobile.

Mothers hauled their children along in carts, and aged people rode in resignation, staring at passing American vehicles.

Women stumbled along with huge bundles on their backs in the choking dust, just as the frightened people of Belgium and France fled before the Germans five years ago. Fatigue and fear lined their faces. There was frantic urgency in their attitudes.

Old, Young, Ill, Crippled

At one point a bridge was being repaired and hundreds stood in the fields beside the road waiting for a chance to start moving again. There were old and young, ill and crippled with personal belongings hurriedly packed as the Russians drew near.

The roadside was littered with the debris of this army of misery—scattered clothing and trash and boxes and household goods. The burden was too great for many, so they tossed aside the excess weight.

Armed Nazis Harmless

One of the strangest sights consisted of columns of German soldiers marching along the road to the west without anyone to guard them. Some of them still were carrying their arms, but nobody had taken the trouble to disarm them and they made no pretense of resistance. They voluntarily were marching into captivity.

Here on the road was a picture of things to come, with the German Army in complete disintegration. These men had had enough and they were quitting the fight. I saw one walking along with two concussion grenades swinging on his belt. Many men still carried their side arms.

Fear Melts Nazi Bravery

These scenes were comical at times. It was not unusual to see liberated British prisoners of war walking in long columns alongside of German soldiers and Hitler Youth, whose Nazi indoctrination melted in their fear of the Russians. It was a league of nations on the march, with every country of Europe represented and urged forward by differing reasons.

"Where do you think they are going?" asked Lieut. William Gist, of North Platte, Neb. "There isn't enough room for all these people in our lines."

As They Meet

And so it seemed. But there was no chance for some to enter the American lines because orders were issued that no Germans were to pass through. Those in the path of the Russian advance must stay there.

As the column, composed principally of jeeps, rolled into Torgau's market square, Russians emerged from the buildings and there was a concerted rush to greet the Red troops.

These tough, stocky, smiling men of Stalingrad were ecstatic. They ceremoniously saluted and shook hands with everyone they met with genuine pleasure. They would grasp your hand in a crushing clasp until you wondered how many handshakes you could stand.

Almost every man had a Russian tommygun slung across a shoulder. some carried revolvers in their black, high-topped boots, and their belts held grenades and knives. Most of them had medals for valor or their breasts.

Safety-Value Shooting

The crowd in the courtyard froze with surprise once when a Russian soldier, enthusiastically showing a doughboy his tommygun, opened fire without warning against a building across the way. All around there was the sound of shooting—Russians working off excess energy and excitement.

"These guys don't need any excuse to start shooting," said Capt. Ralph Phillips, of Union Square, N.J. "They shoot at anything, anytime."

Down by the waterfront there was a celebration under way unlike anything I have ever seen. It was one great party with doughboys and Russians singing, laughing, dancing around, and trying to talk to each other in sign language, or just slapping each other on the back.

A few Americans who spoke Russian interpreted for their friends.

The Russians looked very young and very tough. They were stockier than the Americans, with thick, sturdy legs and well-built torsoes. They seemed to have more spontaneous gayety and were more voluble. They drank wine and cognac and champagne from beer mugs and exchanged souvenirs with the doughboys.

It was pleasant there on the water front in the warm sun.

Accordion Music

On a stone wall a Russian played an accordion while Sergt. Andrew Marriock, of Hudson, N.Y., joined in the Red Army song—"If War Should Come Tomorrow, We will be Prepared on Land, at Sea and in the Air." A Russian woman in uniform sang in a sweet, throaty voice.

Sergt. William Fraynack, of Flint, Mich., who speaks Russian, said liberated Soviet civilians and troops were shuttling back and forth across the Elbe in racing shells. The Germans blew up the bridge across the Elbe yesterday at 10 A.M., just before the arrival of the Americans, and there was no other transportation over the stream.

Juncture Called Symbolic In London

London, April 27 (AP)—The long-expected announcement of the junction of American and Russian troops on the Elbe, cutting doomed Berlin away from the Nazis' southern stronghold, was viewed in London today as a great psychological and symbolic triumph in prelude to final victory.

Ten days ago this great moment in the climax to 2,100 miles of German retreat would have been acclaimed in London as the likely signal for an almost immediate V-E day proclamation.

Premature Spirit Cooled

But General Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill effectively cooled the premature spirit of celebration, and this severing of the Nazi war machine now is recognized as the last great preliminary to the closing battles in the north and south.

It is true that Churchil himself hinted last week that these battles might be won more quickly than most persons had dared to hope, but the words of caution have taken firm root among naturally conservation Britons. Without minimizing the weight and importance of the linkup, it is unlikely to revive in Britain the optimism of two weeks ago.

Delay in the news of the junction, which many people believed had occurred some days ago, tended to take the edge off exuberance.

Yank, Red Squirm Over Toppled Bridge To Meet

By Don Whitehead

With the U.S. 69th Division, April 25 [AP—12 Midnight, Delayed]—An American infantry officer and a Russian private squirmed across a girder of a blown up bridge in the Elbe River today, pounded each other on the back and shook hands to seal a meeting of General Hodges's 1st Army with Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 1st Ukrainian Army Group.

"Put it there," were the first words that Second Lieutenant William D. Robertson, of Los Angeles, called to his Red Army friend in the bizarre meeting at 4.40 P.M. at Torgau, 28 miles northeast of Leipzig.

At Least Three Junctions

It was one of at least three contacts with the Russians made by men of the 69th Division.

The union of the two great armies climaxed sensational drives from the west and east and ended intense suspense along the front over which unit would be the first to make the junction.

The 69th Division is commanded by Maj. Gen. Emil F. Reinhardt, of Detroit. It won the honor of making the first contact with patrols.

Problem Of "First" Yank

Just who was the first person to meet the Russians was not entirely clear at this writing, but Robertson got a big share of the credit because he was the first to bring back proof to his division headquarters. The proof was a Russian major, captain, lieutenant and private.

One of the first to meet the Russians—if not the first—was Lieut. Albert L. Kotzebue, of Houston, Texas. [AP Correspondent Hal Boyle said Kotzebue was the first.]

The Russians that Robertson met, beaming at everyone, were brought into the crowded command post of the 69th Division for a celebration. Each of them made a speech which was interpreted for the throng.

"A Great Day"

"This is a great day on the meeting of two nations," said Major Anaphim Larinov, of Konev's 58th Guards Division. "We extend warmest greetings and congratulations on the destruction of Nazism. We hope this meeting will be the basis for peace in the world to come."

Capt. Vassili Petrov Nedov added:

"We have wanted to meet you for a long time. This is a great holiday for the whole world."

Meeting Unexpected

This linkup with the Russians was one of the strangest events of the entire war and was not even anticipated wnen a group of Americans set out in a jeep at I0 A.M.

Among the Americans in the jeep were Corporal James J. McDonnell, of Peabody, Mass.; Pfc. Frank P. Huff, Washington, Va., and Pfc. Paul Staub, of the Bronx.

Robertson's Story

This was the story as told by Robertson:

"Our company commander sent us out this morning to chase civilians off the roads. They were piling into Wurtzen in droves, running away from the Russians.

"You have no idea of the number of people on the roads. There were thousands of them, and among them were many Allied prisoners of war who escaped from prison camps.

Britons Encountered

"German troops had thrown their weapons into ditches and were standing waiting to be taken prisoner.

"We kept on the move, now and then getting off the congested roads. We met about 30 British boys who were headed for Wurtzen. We told them where they could get food.

"The British told us they had seen some wounded Americans up the road at Torgau.

"We went on east to Torgau and found these Americans who had been held by the Germans to be shot, because they were accused of espionage. They had been in Bavaria quite awhile. We got some German guns for them and they guarded German prisoners who had thrown down their arms.

Russian Firing Heard

"We could hear small-arms fire very close and they told us the Russians were just across the river.

"We left our jeep and went down on foot toward the river. We rigged up a big white flag so they wouldn't shoot at us.

"We didn't know what the Russian uniform looked like and I wasn't sure the Russians would recognize our uniform.

"Near the Elbe was a very large castle with a high tower.

An Improvised Flag

"We broke into a drugstore and got some paint. I painted four red stripes on our white flag and a field of blue, because I figured the Russians would recognize the American flag better than anything else.

"I climbed into the tower and stuck my head out and waved the flag. They stopped firing for a while.

"I yelled, 'American! Tovarish! Kamerad!'

"They were yelling at me from across the river and fired two flares but I didn't see any flares to fire back.

Freed Russian Aids

"I left the flag flying and went down and found a Russian who had been a prisoner of the Germans. He shouted at the Russians to stop firing and I saw one Russian start across the bridge, which was partly blown."

21 Men In Six Jeeps First To Reach Reds

By Harold V. Boyle

With the U.S. 1st Army Beyond the Mule River, April 25 [AP—Delayed]—A young platoon leader won everlasting fame for the 69th Infantry Division by effecting a linkup with the Soviet forces four miles west of Riesa on the Elbe River at 1.32 P.M. today in a historic meeting of allies that cut Germany in two.

Streaking past long columns of German troops fleeing westward from the Russians and hoping to surrender to the Americans, Lieut. Albert L. Kotzebue, of Houston, Texas, led twenty men in six jeeps to a junction with the surprised Russians near Riesa.

Electrifying Message

He had set out 24 hours before and his laconic message at 3 P.M. today electrified regimental and divisional headquarters:

"Have completed mission and am arranging meeting between commanders."

There were no additional details immediately and staff officers laughed and shook hands with each other celebrating the exploit of the young Taxen who had added fresh luster to the reborn "Fighting 69th," which had proved its right to the famous nickname accorded the 69th New York National Guard Regiment in the first World War by the stirring capture of Leipzig after a five-day siege.

One Of Several Patrols

To assist in arranging the details for a formal meeting of Russian and American commanders, Lieut. Col. Richard J. Conran, of Brooklyn, N.Y., and an interpreter, Staff Sergeant Charles Kulikowski, of Chicago, took off in an artillery cub plane for the junction point.

The patrol which first made contact with the Soviets advancing past the Elbe was only one of several reconnaissance parties sent out by American divisions all along the Mulde River holding line.

It was one of three patrols sent out by the 69th Division to probe between the Mulde and Elbe rivers where the roads are clogged with German troops looking for anyone to surrender to who did not have a Russian accent, thousands of German families trying to flee westward ahead of the Soviets, and other thousands of freed Allied war prisoners and slave laborers.

Just Awarded Bronze Star

The dramatic search of these patrols for the Russian vanguard—in a race won by Kotzebue, a chunky blond, muscular soldier in his early twenties who two days ago was awarded the Bronze Star for battlefield bravery during the Siegfried Line breakthrough—was first told by Lieut. Philip Sinnott, of San Francisco, a fellow officer in the 273d Regiment.

Sinnott himself was the liaison officer who rode a jeep in the wild dash by a tank column into Leipzig last week through a cordon of Nazi SS troops to the steps of the city hall, and he still is sorrowful because he did not get a place on the patrol that met the Soviets.

"Lieutenant Kotzebue and 20 men took off late yesterday afternoon in six jeeps and headed east," said Sinnott. "They didn't have a single armored vehicle and only .30-caliber machine guns on their jeeps.

Sat Down For The Night

"They looked until dark without finding anything and sat down for the night on the other side of the Mulde after reporting no contact. Everyone was disappointed and confused because our cub planes hadn't picked up any big road movements and we didn't know just where the Russians were.

"All we knew was that there were a lot of people running toward our lines to get away from them.

Two More Patrols Sent Out

"This morning at 4.45 A.M. the regimental commander—Col. C. A. Adams, of Hazleton, Pa.—sent out another party of 20 men led by Capt. George J. Morey, of Dumont, New Jersey.

"And at daylight a third patrol, consisting of a regimental intelligence and reconnaissance platoon—24 men in seven jeeps—set out to find the elusive Russians. The third patrol was led by Lieut. Edward Gumpert, of Glen Ridge, N.J.

The last two patrols didn't have any luck," Sinnott said, "but all three groups ran into krauts right and left. They had an eerie sensation driving through lanes of marching German soldiers fully armed an waving them on back to surrender—without even stopping in most cases to take away their guns. There were just too many of them—and they (the Americans) weren't looking for Germans to capture. They were looking for Russians to greet.

Ordered Not To Fire On Yanks

"So far as I know not one German soldier fired on our patrols. One Nazi said an order of the day was given out: 'Do not fire on American troops—fire only to the east where the Rusians are.'

"All along the roads were clogged with wild-eyed German housewives and husbands and children packing their clothes and silver in baby buggies and carts and on the backs of bicycles as they hit out for the Mulde River.

"Thousands of American and French prisoners of war also were whooping along back in every kind of vehicle they could get to run or pull. In some cases they had escaped, but in most they had just been turned loose by the Germans. Some of them brought along German prison-camp guards who pleaded with them not to be left behind to the Russians.

Then Came The News

"Then at 3 P.M. we got a message from Lieutenant Kotzebue that he had contacted the Russians. He had kept pushing forward along roads full of refugees until finally he met Russians. It must have been the surprise of a lifetime for them.

"What a wonderful day—if you were there," sighed Sinnott.

Sinnott described Kotzebue as one of the best platoon leaders in the army and added: "He's really got get up and go."

Also Awarded Purple Heart

Kotzebue landed in England with the division last November and won the Purple Heart and Bronze Star for bravery during the fighting through the Siegfried Line last February 27 at Ramscheid, Germany.

Although wounded in the foot by a rifle bullet, he reorganized his men and took an enemy position under intense fire.

8600 AMERICANS AMONG LIBERATED

Paris, April 27 (A. P.).—Freedom has come to thousands of Allied prisoners of war in camps and hospitals in the narrowing gap between the American and Russian armies.

Hundreds were plodding westward today to the American lines. Others, ill or otherwise unable to travel, were impatiently awaiting arrival of United States Army vehicles to carry them on the first lap of their homeward trip.

A United States First Army jeep patrol, in an extended tour eastward yesterday beyond the Mulde River toward the Russian lines along the Elbe, had overrun eleven prisonet of war camps and hospitals.

In two camps alone were more than 50,000 freed prisoners, including 8,600 Americans.

"I can't even estimate how many were in other camps," said Major Fred Craig of Friendship, Tenn., when he returned from the patrol. "As we were on another mission, there wasn't much we could do on the spot. We told them to sit tight for the next forty-eight to seventy-two hours while plans were formulated to remove them."

From the United States Ninth Army front, where freed prisoners were being ferried across the Elbe, a field dispatch said an investigation had disclosed that an American Negro prisoner of war was killed in the mass murder of 1,100 political prisoners in a barn near Gardelegen.

PARIS RADIO HAD WORLD WIDE SCOOP

PARIS, April 27—(AP) The Paris radio scooped the world 65 minutes on the release of the Russian-American linkup story today because an uncensored piece of news was mixed up in the outgoing censor file at Supreme Allied headquarters.

Agence Presse, the government-controlled French news service that succeeded Havas, received one of its carbon copies of the linkup story at 4:55 and filed it, although the release time was set for 6 p. m., Paris time (noon, E.W.T.) and the copy bore no censor's stamp.

In transmission for continental service, the story had to go through a radio link which was monitored by the Paris radio, also government controlled.

Supreme headquarters said an investigation was being made.

Russian Gives Huebner Stalingrad Battle Flag

By The Associated Press.

TORGAU, Germany, April 26 (Delayed)—Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Huebner, Kansas-born commander of the Fifth American Corps, clasped hands today with a Russian major general who presented to General Huebner a battle-stained red silk flag that flew over Stalingrad throughout the bitter battle there. The Russian also took off his own decorations and pinned them on General Huebner's blouse, making him an honorary member of the Russian Guards. The American general gave the Soviet commander three bottles of American whisky. Then toasts were proposed in vodka. General Huebner's aides at first just sipped theirs, but when chided by a Russian, Maj. Walter Hillenmeyer of Lexington, Ky., and Capt. Ellsworth R. Clark of Charleston, W. Va., promptly emptied their glasses in a gulp.

Patton's Forces Take Regensburg And Ingolstadt

Paris, Saturday, April 28 (AP)—American tank columns invaded Austria yesterday, advanced 26 miles west of the Nazi citadel of Munich, and crashed into the western end of Hitler's Alpine redoubt.

While the United States 3d Army, plowing unopposed into Austria, made radio contact with Russian southern armies less than 85 miles to the southeast, two United States 7th Army armored divisions went on a tear farther west.

The 10th Armored Division sent one column 28 miles east into Landsberg, only 26 miles east of Munich, birthplace of Nazism and now considered the northern outpost for the final death stand.

14 Miles Into Alps

Another column raced 14 miles straight south into the Bavarian Alps, driving 10 miles or so into what is probably Hitler's inner fortress, and reached Kempten, 11 miles from the Austrian frontier.

This push threatened to cut in behind any Germans in the redoubt concentrated around the area of Lake Constance, some 130 miles to the west. The ranks there were 65 miles from the northern mountain border of Italy.

The 12th Armored Division likewise was racing east close on the north flank of the 10th Armored Division and, after straddling the Wurtzel River, was about 30 miles west of Munich.

Both columns, with the endless lines of infantry swinging up ponderously from behind, expected to meet savage resistance in Munich.

Many Danube Crossings

The 3d Army, crossing the Danube repeatedly, also was marching on Munich from the north and last was reported 38 miles away.

While these blows made the formidable and well-defended southern pocket tremble, the battle against the northern pocket was rising in fury.

A field dispatch from the Canadian 1st Army front said waves of young and frantic Germans were hurling themselves at the Canadians in a suicidal version of the Japanese Banzai charge, and were being mowed down "by the thousands."

New Junction Expected

These Germans had no choice but to fight before the naval ports of Wilhelmshaven and Emden, for the fall of Bremen had cut them off from the east.

From the western Holland front came reports that the civilian population had but a three-week supply of food left, which put not only the Dutch but the 100,000 Germans holed up there in dire straits.

A report from the 3d Army front said that a junction with the Russians was expected shortly, shearing Czechoslovakia's arsenals off from the German fortress of the south.

Danube Line Wrecked

The United States 3d Army, while invading Austria, likewise completed the destruction of the Danube River line by seizing Regensburg and Ingolstadt, twin strongholds 35 miles apart on the stream north of Munich.

The French 1st Army, hammering at the fortresses' western battlements, stormed through weak defenses and captured Constance, on the lake of the same name, where high Nazis first took refuge against the Allied storm.

Field Marshal Albert Kesselring's battered armies of the south were falling back all along the great arc closing inexorably on the redoubt of mountains, lakes and rivers.

Kesselring Held Trapped

Reports current on the front said Kesselring had been trapped in Regensburg along with its garrison, but a field dispatch reporting fall of the city made no mention of him.

Ausburg, Bavaria's third city, 32 miles northwest of Munich, was about to fall to the United States 7th Army. When American columns stood 6 miles from the city they were met by emissaries ready to surrender the city.

They were told to return, remove mines and roadblocks and disarm the Nazi garrison, and were warned the city would be razed by artillery if American troops were fired upon.

In the northern segment of the front, the British cleared about half of the dock area of the fallen port of Bremen.

Resistance Savage

Westward, Canadians and Poles battered against savagely resisting German forces bottled up on the peninsula before the U-boat base of Wilhelmshaven by the capture of Bremen.

In the center of the front, the United States 1st Army celebrated its junction with the Russians south of Berlin.

The German communiqué said the United States 9th Army sent small forces across the Elbe at Tangermuende, 47 miles west of Berlin, apparently to await other Red Army troops less than 13 miles away.

Austria, seventh nation of Europe to echo to the tramp of the Allies of the west, was invaded by the United States 3d Army at 6 P.M. Thursday in another surprise dash that caught the enemy off guard.

The Allies had to fight their way into France, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Germany and Czechoslovakia, but they invaded Hitler's native land without firing a shot.

Massing At Passau

Pilots had reported the Germans were massing to meet the dashing 11th Armored Division at Passau, 70 miles northeast of Hitler's Berchtesgaden retreat.

The tanks then roared on east and crossed into Austria 21 miles northeast of Passau, at the hamlet of Lackenharser, 2 miles south of the junction of the Czech-Austrian frontiers.

Thirty-three miles southeast of them was the big Austrian communications center of Linz, whose fall would cut off the last links between the Czech arsenal cities of Pilsen and Prague and the mountain retreat.

Through the field radio the Americans heard a Russian, with Marshal Tolbukhin's 2d Ukrainian Army, pounding westward through the Danube Valley, call:

"This is the Red Army. This is the Red Army calling the American Army. We are now seeking to establish radio contact."

Regensburg Falls Easily

A Russian colonel liberated by the 11th Armored only the day before picked up a transmitter and replied: "Acknowledging your message. The Americans now are in radio contact with you."

Significantly, unobserved artillery fire was forbidden these American spearheads snaking through the forested, snow-laced Bavarian foothills lest they hit a Russian.

THREE QUARTERS OF BERLIN HELD BY SOVIET ARMY

Reds Strike West to Forge New Link-Up with American Forces.

POTSDAM CAPTURED

Enemy Broadcasts Admit Situation 'Critical' as Sweep Continues.

LONDON, Saturday, April 28—(AP) Russian armies, conquering three-quarters of dying Berlin and seizing its last airdrome, left the German capital to dust-choked storm troops yesterday and struck west in twin offensives toward a second link-up with American forces and the isolation of Germany's last Baltic ports.

Berlin, writhing in its final death throes, was a wilderness of crumbled stone and steel swept by flame-tinged winds and, though its defenders resisted fanatically in a vain struggle, its inner and outer defenses were cracking fast.

Potsdam, cradle of Prussianism on the city's southwestern limits, fell and with it went the great western suburb of Spandau and the city districts of Schmargendorf, Steglitz, Neukoelin and Tempelhof. The great Tempelhof airdrome, the last air escape and supply route, was overrun.

Situation "Critical"

Enemy broadcasts admitted that the situation was "critical" as the Soviets battered out advances of a mile and more around the blasted inner core of the capital. The Germans insisted that Adolf Hitler still was there, prepared to die a martyr's death in a battle which Germany's fading radios said would decide the war.

With Germany split by a junction of Russian and American First Army forces along the Elbe northwest of Dresden, the Red army rushed toward a second imminent link-up—this time with the U. S. Ninth Army on the middle Elbe due west of Berlin.

Premier Stalin, in one of four triumphant orders of the day, announced that Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army had captured Rathenow, 33 miles west of Berlin, in a drive that bypassed the great city of Brandenburg.

Zhukov's sweep, in a 22-mile advance from Nauen, carried these Russian troops within 13 miles of the Ninth Army standing on the Elbe at Tangermuende. Additionally, it deepened the band of steel around encircled Berlin and virtually wiped out any Nazi hopes of rushing reinforcements into doomed Berlin through Russian lines.

Brandenburg itself, 16 miles southeast of Rathenow, was under assault from hundreds of Red army tanks and artillery guns, the enemy said.

Stalin meanwhile revealed that Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukrainian army, which took part in the historic American-Russian meeting on the Elbe river at Torgau, had captured Wittenberg, on the Elbe's east bank 26 miles northwest of Torgau.

This indicated that Red army and American patrols may be meeting along a 50-mile front extending from Wittenberg southwest to Riesa. At any rate, Konev's troops at Wittenberg were only 17 miles east of other U. S. First army positions at Dessau.

In New Advance

Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian army at the same time was striking out on a 63-mile front across the planes of Mecklenburg province below the Baltic coast north of Berlin, sweeping westward toward Rostock and Hamburg.

With the apparent intention of cleaning out northern Germany in conjunction with the western Allies, Rokossovsky's army advanced up to 13 miles while Red air force bombers blasted the Baltic seaports of Swinemuende and Greifswald, apparently the next Red army objectives.

On the rail line linking these two ports with Berlin, the Second White Russians captured the big 14-way communications center of Prenzlau, 47 miles north of Berlin, in a 10-mile surge from the Randow canal. Twenty-one miles to the south, they also swept up the rail center of Angermuende, where they were 16 miles northeast of a junction with Zhukov's troops storming the approaches to Eberswalde.

At Prenzlau, Rokossovsky's troops were 86 miles southeast of Rostock and were driving toward the big cities of Neubrandenburg and Neustrelitz, 29 and 31 miles to the west.

North of captured Stettin, the Soviets swept up the west bank of the Oder river mouth and captured Hammer, 22 airline miles across the Stettiner Haff from the port of Swinemuende. They also captured Fahrenwalde, 31 miles southeast of Anklam, capture of which would virtually seal off German communications with Usedom island on which Swinemuende lies.

Potsdam, cradle of Prussianism two miles from Berlin's southwestern limits, with great barracks, military academies and other military training centers, also fell to Zhukov's army. Potsdam stands for every German military ideal—it is there that Frederick the Great is buried and it was the favorite residence of Kaiser Wilhelm before the first World War.

Spandau, one of the oldest areas of Berlin, lies within Berlin's limits seven miles from the city's heart. The big ordnance center collapsed as the Russians were forging an inner ring of encirclement around the trapped Nazi garrison.

As the German radio exhorted Berlin mothers to take up arms against the advancing Russians, Moscow's jubilant radio said Berliners had suffered tens of thousands of casualties in the roaring street battles—battles fought under constant artillery fire with buildings so badly battered that the Germans were incapable of housing their wounded.

German propagandists continued to claim that Hitler personally was directing the defense of Berlin from headquarters which Swedish dispatches said were located in an intricate underground hide-out in the famous Tiergarten.

Moscow Skeptical

The Russians, however, said they did not expect to find the German Fuehrer. "Hitler was in Berlin when he prepared his war of conquest,

Overhead, Moscow dispatches said, the sky was filled with hundreds of clashing planes as Red Army bombers and fighters dipped low over the city and German fighters took off from shell-cratered Tempelhof and swung into the city area from airdromes to the north.

Fighting broke out afresh in the city's subways, Russian front reports said.

3 Cities Adjacent To Berlin Fall To Soviets

London, April 27 (AP)—First White Russian Army troops have captured Spandau, on the western outskirts of flaming Berlin; Potsdam, 5 miles outside the capital area, and Rathenow, 33 miles to the west, Premier Marshal Stalin announced tonight.

Potsdam has been the headquarters of the German army since the days of Frederick the Great. Before World War I it was the home of the Ge[illegible] man royal family.

In his order of the day Stalin described the three cities as "important road junctions and powerful German defense bases in central Germany."

Inner Berlin Defense Cracking

Inside Berlin the Nazis' inner defense core appeared to be cracking under a massive Soviet squeeze operation which already had gained the Russians two thirds of the capital.

Former Manufacturing City

Potsdam (population 136.165) is on the broad Havel River. Often described as the "Prussian Versailles," the city also was a manufacturing center before the present war, its factories supplying chemicals, surgical instruments, furniture, soap, tobacco and other products.

Russian dispatches described the center of Berlin as a desert of wrecked buildings.

Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's forces in the northwest sector had surged forward 3 miles during the night, breaking into the workers' district of Moabit and the fringes of the famed Tiergarten in the center of the capital.

Gains in the south were made by Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 1st Ukrainian Army, which was believed to have completed the occupation of Berlin's main airpoprt at Tempelhof.

At Moabit, the Russians were in the area of the biggest prison in Berlin. The district adjoins the Tiergarten on the northwest and German reports indicated that battles already were swirling over that great park. The Germans now hold only a third of Berlin.

While the most spectacular overnight gains were scored by the north-south nutcracker on the Reich capital, the Germans reported that terrific pressure also was being exerted by the Russians in the southwest, notably at Gruenwalde.

Beelitz Reached

The Nazi war bulletin declared that a German counterattack south and southwest of Berlin cut Russian communications on the Barnow-Zossen line and reached Beelitz, 13½ miles southwest of the Reich capital.

Russian troops advancing south of the captured port of Stettin, on the Oder estuary, were approaching Prenzlau, the German communiqué said. Prenzlau is 28 miles southwest of Stettin.

Russian flame throwers went to work prying out German units which had established machine-gun nests in the ruins. One Russian account said that the fighting was now raging high above the street level in the corridors, on the staircases, in the attics and on the roofs of the larger buildings. Fighting also continued underground in cellars and in the tunnels and stations of the Berlin subway system.

Berlin's bloody street battles paled three other Russian successes—the conquest of the great Baltic naval base of Stettin, the capture of the Czecho-Slovakian armament center of Bruenn (Brno), one of Hitler's last remaining war production centers, and an advance in the long-besieged Silesian city of Breslau, but now in his hour of defeat and reckoning one can be sure that Hitler is as far from Berlin as possible," said Moscow.

Over the Hamburg radio, German commentators broadcast promises that Berlin would be relieved and declared that a German relief army was "rapidly nearing" the encircled capital.

The German high command claimed that the relief army was striking from the area southeast of Berlin and had cut across the Russian supply line from Zossen to Baruth and reached Beelitz below Potsdam. But these were enemy forces which in fact were only attempting to battle their way out of a Red army trap southeast of Berlin.

Flooding Berlin with irresistible waves of tanks and infantry, the Russians were squeezing the trapped Nazi garrison into the built-up center of the city where Nazi fanatics put up vicious resistance against Soviet troops pressing in from all sides.

Behind Russian soldiers pouring down streets and avenues leading toward the Wilhelmstrasse and Unter Den Linden and the famous Tiergarten, Red army artillery concentrated artillery and mortar fire on the core of German resistance.

Around this core, enemy broadcasts admitted that fighting was raging in the populous Moabit region after Zhukov's troops broke across the Spree river and threatened to burst through Moabit to the fringes of the Tiergarten.

COMPROMISE ENDS CONFERENCE ROW ON CHAIRMANSHIP

U. S., Britain, Russia and China Representatives to Be Co-Chairmen.

PEACEFUL MEETING

Hotly Disputed Polish Question Sidetracked — Russia Given Three Votes.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27 — (AP) The United Nations put their Polish, Russian and leadership rows behind them today and strode forward together on the road they mean to build toward a durable peace.

Without a ripple of dissension which had boiled up earlier between Russia on one side and the United States and Britain on the other, the World Security conference voted to:

1. Make the foreign secretaries of the four sponsoring powers—the United States, Britain, Russia and China—co-equal chairmen of the conference. They will preside in turn and consult regularly among themselves on a conference program.

2. Hand the chairmanship of the all-important Steering and Executive committees to Secretary of State Stettinius. These are the agencies which will do most of the conference work. They will draft policies and recommendations which the full conference will forge into peace-keeping machinery.

3. Grant representation in a general assembly of a projected world organization to the Ukraine and White Russia. Since the Soviet Union itself will have an assembly vote, this will mean a total of three for Russia.

4. Put 14 members on the conference executive committee.

5. Make the Dumbarton Oaks Peace plan, engineered in Washington by the four sponsors, the agenda for the conference.

Sidetrack Polish Question

In addition, the conference effectively sidetracked Russian efforts to have the present Warsaw government of Poland invited to this conference. This was accomplished by adopting a resolution expressing hope that Poland might be represented when it had a government recognized by all four sponsoring nations.

Russia recognizes the present regime but the United States, Britain and China do not. The result is to place the Polish issue back where it was before the conference began with the Big Three trying to reorganize the government in accord with the Yalta agreement.

For Russia, the day's developments added up to a victory on the three assembly votes, a compromise on conference leadership, and a setback on seating the present Polish regime in Warsaw at this conference table.

For the world, they meant that the conference finally had achieved enough harmony so it could buckle down to work.

The fight over issues had been restricted to the Steering committee. It found solutions without too much trouble today and unanimous votes of the full conference quickly sealed the agreements.

On three-votes-for-Russia and on the Polish question, delegates had pretty well called the shots in advance.

Four Chairmen

But a 24-hour tug of war over leadership ended only when Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov agreed to four chairmen and the appointments for Stettinius—a compromise the Russian previously had spurned.

This is the language on that point ratified by the full conference:

"The meeting recommends that there be four presidents, who will preside in rotation at the plenary sessions. These four may meet from time to time, with Mr. Stettinius presiding over these meetings and Mr. Stettinius to be chairman of the Executive and Steering committees, the three others delegating full powers to Mr. Stettinius for conducting the business of the conference."

On Poland, the conference adopted this resolution:

"The governments of the United Nations express to the people of Poland their sympathy and admiration. They hope that the constitution of a Polish government, recognized as such by the sponsoring nations, will make it possible for Polish delegates to come and take part as soon as possible in the work of the conference."

Once the conference had ratified Steering committee action, delegates settled down in red velvet chairs in San Francisco's luxurious opera house to listen to speeches by delegation chiefs. They spoke alphabetically, Australia's Francis M. Forde first.

Forde opposed a "too rigid constitutional form" for the forthcoming peace organization.

Proposing seven varied amendments to reinforce his point, Forde said:

Seek Era of Peace

"The Dumbarton Oaks plan as it stands bears many characteristics of a mere prolongation into the years of peace of a type of great power leadership that has been found necessary to win the war."

Forde bid for Australian representation on a security council which is slated to wield the major power for peace.

Belgium's Paul Henri Spaak urged that the conference give smaller nations a role more vital than that assigned them under the Dumbarton Oaks proposals.

While it may be true, Spaak said, that world security can be guaranteed by large powers, experience has shown that the best way of reaching this objective is through the cooperation of all nations.

Bolivia's Victor Andrade asserted:

"In the community of nations the possession of power and strength imposes upon the powerful, obligations and duties, the neglect of which would bring immediate damage upon the smaller nations, and would in the end bring ruin or the threat of ruin upon the powerful nations."

Foreign Minister Pedro L. Velloso told the conference that "Brazil has never hesitated, when wounded in its sovereignty, or in virtue of international obligations, to assume the responsibilities and the burdens of war.

"The time is past when nations situated at a distance from the initial field of struggle could stay aloof, in selfish isolation, safe from destruction, from the crimes and monstrosities of war."

The day's last speaker, Canada's W. L. Mackenzie King, declared that "nations everywhere must unite to save and to serve humanity." He added:

"The people of Canada are firm in their resolve to do whatever lies in their power to ensure that the world will not be engulfed for a third time by a tidal wave of savagery and despotism."

To give more delegation heads an oratorical opportunity, two sessions of the full conference were scheduled for tomorrow, at 10:30 a. m. (PWT) and 3:30 p. m. (PWT).

In accordance with the rotating chairmen plan, Chinese Foreign Minister T. V. Soong will preside in the morning, Molotov in the afternoon. British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden gets his chance to bang the gavel at another meeting Monday.

Parley Leaders Meet To Settle Chairmanship

San Francisco, April 27 (AP)—Settlement of the big power fight over chairmanship of the United Nations conference appeared to be close at hand today with China playing a leading role in effecting a compromise.

San Francisco, April 27 (AP)—Secretary of State Stettinius went into a huddle with the British, Russian and Chinese foreign ministers today in a new effort to settle the chairmanship of the United Nations Conference.

British and American leaders were hopeful of reaching an agreement with Foreign Commissar Molotov along the lines of the compromise proposed yesterday by Foreign Secretary Eden. But some conceded it might not be possible to clear up this vexing deadlock in time to get the conference down to business today.

The Big-Four meeting was called preliminary to a meeting of the conference steering committee. Stettinius met with Eden, Molotov and Soong in the Veterans War Memorial conference headquarters where the steering committee was scheduled to meet half an hour later.

Scene Of Molotov's Stand

It was in this building that Molotov blocked an Eden motion to make Stettinius chairman of the conference. Eden then proposed that the job of presiding over the big open sessions be rotated among the Big Four—which Molotov approved—and that Stettinius be made chairman of the key steering and executive committees—which Molotov disapproved.

Molotov wanted all three assignments to rotate. However, both British and American leaders were reported firmly opposed to this idea as unworkable. Today's session was awaited with extraordinary interest by conference delegates for a possible clue on the amount of give-and-take to be expected of Molotov.

Americans Puzzled

Puzzlement and anger spread through the American delegation over the Russian rejection of Stettinius as chairman of the conference.

Those members who are inclined to be outspoken show signs of soreness under the diplomatic restraint they have to maintain.

The chairmanship matter came up at a two-hour session of the delegation late last night. It was decided that Senators Vandenberg (R., Mich.) and Connally (D., Texas) should attend today's steering committee meeting at which the issue is to be settled.

"What's Behind It?"

By custom, the Foreign Minister of the country in which a conference is held presides over it. That is a bit of procedure that diplomats the world over accept as routine. But the Russians differed.

"I'm glad the story is out," one United States delegate told a reporter. "I think we ought to blast this situation apart and find out what's behind it."

It was believed that Molotov came with instructions from Stalin to insist upon thorough recognition of Russia as an equal in the meeting's leadership and had used this means of letting the delegates know it. Molotov spoke of the nations fighting the war and their "prestige."

Molotov's Pledge

But others recalled Molotov's promises at yesterday's conference session, and also at a meeting with newsmen, of complete Soviet cooperation in forming a workable peace-keeping organization.

They could not reconcile the two attitudes.

Before yesterday's developments there had been complaints within the eight-member United States group that none of the plums of the conference—the chairmanships of important commissions—could go to Americans because Stettinius was slated to be the head man.

Norway Offered One Place

For instance, the Norwegians had been offered the chairmanship of the important security council commission under this plan.

Then came the disclosure that Molotov had blocked a motion to make Stettinius the permanent chairman and had held up action on the proposed compromise.

The Americans, however, took some encouragement from Molotov's statement that the Russians are not opposed to changes in the formula for international organization worked out at Dumbarton Oaks last year.

The American delegation agreed yesterday to propose means by which the world organization could change its charter in much the same way the United States can amend its constitution.

Under the plan, if three fourths of the general assembly members and seven of the eleven members of its security council agree, a new convention can be called to change any of the organization's rules in the future.

Trusteeship Plan

The delegation meeting last night went into the matter of trusteeships for conquered enemy areas — especially Pacific island bases—and made these decisions:

1. That strategic area trusteeships should come under the security council, which is empowered to use force against aggression.

2. That areas where strategic matters are minor and the matter is largely one of dealing with populations should be a responsibility of the general assembly of the world organization.

Truman Letter Supports Three Russian Votes

Message to Stettinius Cites Roosevelt View on War Aid of 2 Soviet Republics

APR 28 1945

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27 (AP).—Edward R. Stettinius jr., Secretary of State, made public today the following letter from President Truman, instructing the United States delegation to support Russia's request for three votes in a world assembly:

"April 22, 1945.

"The White House, Washington.

"My dear Mr. Secretary:

"As you are aware, at the Crimean Conference President Roosevelt on behalf of the government of the United States agreed that at the San Francisco Conference the United States would support a Soviet proposal to admit the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic and the White Russian Soviet Socialist Republic to initial membership in the proposed international organization.

"You have explained to me that in agreeing to support the proposal of the Soviet government on this question President Roosevelt felt that the importance of the Ukraine and White Russia among the Soviet republics and their contribution to the prosecution of the war and the untold devastation and sacrifices which their people have undergone in the cause of the United Nations entitled them to special consideration. The decision as to the admission of these two republics as initial members in the proposed international organization is, of course, a matter for the conference itself to decide. In the loyal execution at the conference of the obligation assumed on this question by President Roosevelt on behalf of the United States government, I direct you to cast the vote of the United States in favor of the admission of the Ukrainian and White Russian republics as initial members of the international organization. Very sincerely yours,

"HARRY S. TRUMAN.

"The Hon. Edward R. Stettinius jr., Secretary of State."

AERIAL PICTURES REVEAL HITLER'S CHALET IN RUINS

LONDON, April 27—(AP) Hitler's luxurious Swiss chalet at Berchtesgaden was blown apart by three hits with six-ton earthquake bombs and other high explosives, air reconnaissance revealed today.

The air ministry said photos taken after Wednesday's RAF raid on der Fuehrer's Alpine retreat show part of the main building and his home were destroyed, and both wings were severely damaged.

Barracks on the grounds housing his hand-picked bodyguard of Storm Troopers also were wrecked. One entire block of these quarters was demolished and another section levelled by a direct hit, and more than half the top story of a third was destroyed.

Other important buildings close to the chalet were hit and a large section of the residence of the head of the Obersalzburg SS administration was knocked down and the rest of the building badly damaged. Baron Von Schenck's administration headquarters and the air raid control center were gutted.

Simultaneously with Wednesday's attack on Berchtesgaden by about 350 RAF Lancasters, 200 Flying Fortresses of the American Eighth Air Force inflicted severe damage on the huge Skoda armaments works at Pilsen.

An Eighth Air Force communique said today direct hits were made on at least 22 buildings of the sprawling 325 acre plant.

Skoda is one of the largest armament producers in the world, and is by far the largest remaining in German hands.

R. A. F. BLASTS NAZI AID FOR HAMBURG

London, April 27 (A. P.).—An attempt by the Germans to reinforce their garrison at Hamburg from the sea was broken up late yesterday by rocket-firing Typhoons of the R. A. F.

Just before dusk, the Nazis sped several heavily laden barges into the port and started unloading them. A reconnaissance pilot reported the activity, two attacks were made and a number of barges was sunk. Many explosions indicated the craft may have carried ammunition.

The Germans were fighting bitterly in the defense of Hamburg, not only to hold the port but to keep open the escape highways to Denmark. Signs of a general movement north toward the Danish frontier were reported by Allied flyers. Between seventy-five and 100 vehicles were destroyed.

The naval base of Kiel was bombed last night by Mosquitoes for the seventh time in six months. Other Mosquitoes made sweeps over the remaining Nazi airfields in northern Germany without loss.

Three Beaufighters were missing from a series of attacks on enemy shipping off the coast of southern Norway yesterday afternoon. Two large merchant ships were set afire.

Three buildings believed to be headquarters from which the Germans are directing operations against the Canadian First Army south of Oldenburg were destroyed or badly damaged by dive-bombing Spitfires.

SWISS REPORT IL DUCE HELD

Said To Be Patriot Prisoner; No Allied Confirmation

London, April 27 (AP)—Swiss dispatches reported tonight that Benito Mussolini, "yellow with fear and fury," had been arrested in northern Italy by Italian Patriots after being refused entry to Switzerland with his wife and eight confederates. There was no Allied confirmation of this report.

At the same time the French press agency reported that former French Premiers Paul Reynaud and Edouard Daladier, and Gen. Maurice Gustave Gamelin, former commander in chief of the Allied land armies, had crossed from Germany into neutral Switzerland. These men have been German captives for years.

Capture of the fallen Fascist eagle, Mussolini, who in communion with Hitler dreamed of establishing an Axis world of conquest, was announced by the "Free Milan" radio and also was reported for the second straight day in dispatches from the Swiss-Italian frontier.

Wife Reported With Him

An Italian Socialist party spokesman was quoted by the Milan radio as demanding that Mussolini be turned over to the Italian Peoples' Tribunal for trial.

Mussolini arrived at the Swiss border with a convoy of eight automobiles at 3.45 A.M. yesterday, Bern reports said.

"In the first car were Mussolini and his wife, Rachel," the Swiss radio said. "In the second car was the wife of a Fascist minister and her child. There were also eight other Italian officials whose names were not known.

A Milan newspaper reported one of the officials was Roberto Farinacci, former secretary of the Fascist party, and that he, too, had been seized by Partisans.

Return Toward Italy

"After discussions with Swiss customs officers, they were told that entry into Switzerland had been refused. The convoy then disappeared in the direction of Italy," the Swiss radio said.

The Swiss newspaper Gazette de Lausanne also reported that Mussolini's son, Vittorio, attempted to cross the Swiss border at Ponte Tresa recently with a Spanish passport and papers identifying him as "Don Carlos de Castilla." He also was turned back. The Tribune de Geneve, in another dispatch, said "several members of Mussolini's family have tried to flee abroad."

The Swiss border remained open for French citizens and both the Paris radio and French press agency reported that Reynaud, Daladier and General Gamelin, had crossed the Swiss-German border along with former Premier Edouard Herriot.

Herriot Freed This Week

Herriot was released by the Russians earlier this week from a German concentration camp west of Berlin. Daladier, who resigned as Premier March 20, 1940, amid criticism of France's prosecution of the war, was arrested by the Vichy Government for prosecution at the abortive Riom "war guilt" trial and transferred to a German jail in April, 1943.

Reynaud, who succeeded Daladier as Premier and then resigned in favor of Pétain three months later, was arrested by the Vichy Government in September, 1940, and taken to Germany as a political hostage in 1942.

Gamelin, who was succeeded as Allied commander in chief by Gen. Maxime Weygand in May, 1940, was arrested by the Vichy Government and transferred to a German jail in 1943.

No details were given of the return of the four prominent Frenchmen.

The French press agency also reported former French Premier Leon Blum and King Leopold of Belgium were in the "neighborhood of Hoechst, near St. Margarethen and the Swiss frontier."

The Swiss radio said the stream of refugees entering Switzerland through St. Margarethen had reached "great proportions" and Bern reports added that today an estimated 5,000 to 6,000 refugees, mostly foreign workers, were approaching the frontier of the small principality of Liechtenstein on the eastern Swiss border. The Swiss Army and Red Cross were helping care for the homeless.

BRITONS FOE DEGRADED

Party at Nazi Camp Found Hundreds Dying.

London, April 27 (A. P.).—The British parliamentary delegation which inspected the Buchenwald concentration camp said today that this and other Nazi camps marked the "lowest degradation to which humanity has yet descended."

The Britons visited the camp at the suggestion of Gen. Eisenhower to get "first hand proof" of Nazi atrocities.

They told of half naked victims tottering painfully along "as though on stilts" and yet able to muster enough strength to smile; of others watching the inspection party through half closed eyes as they lay in a semi-coma awaiting death.

A life sized effigy of Adolf Hitler now hangs from a gallows near the entrance to the Buchenwald camp, the delegation reported, with the inscription in German: "Hitler must die that Germany may live."

The delegation said that a report presented to them by representatives of an anti-Fascist committee stated that up to April 1 the number of those who had died or been killed at Buchenwald totaled 51,572, at least 17,000 of them since January 1. The maximum capacity of the camp was listed at 120,000 as of April 1.

With the liberation of the camp by the Americans, the delegation's report said, deaths immediately fell off from 100 to thirty-five daily, though a large percentage of the patients were so starved that they could not be expected to survive.

"It is our considered and unanimous opionion on the evidence available to us," the report said, "that a policy of steady starvation and inhuman brutality was carried out at Buchenwald for long periods of time and that such camps as this mark the lowest degradation to which humanity has yet descended."

Members of the delegation said that they were told that Nazi doctors conducted scientific experiments "such as the infecting of prisoners with typhus in order to obtain serum" but added that they had "obtained no direct and unchallengable evidence of this."

"We saw a laboratory with a large number of glass jars containing preserved specimens of human organs," the report said. It added that the walls of the laboratory were decorated with the death masks of prisoners "many with features of remarkable nobility and refinement."

000,000. The Russians said the Germans doubtless had proclaimed Goering's resignation to hide the fact of his sudden disappearance.

Long ranked as the No. 2 Nazi and heir to Hitler's power, Goering asked Hitler to be "relieved of his command as chief of the Luftwaffe at a time when his strength is needed" and the "Fuehrer has granted his request," a German broadcast said last night.

The radio announcement said he had been replaced by Gen. Ritter von Grein, who was promoted to field marshal. Von Grein once was reported head of the German air force in Russia.

A German general, newly captured by the United States Ninth Army, said that Goering probably already had been executed.

The general, who came across the Elbe River under a flag of truce and surrendered to American infantrymen, said he had just come from the German capital.

Many Allied quarters believe Hitler already has taken refuge in his Alpine retreat, but German broadcasts steadily assert that both he and Nazi Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels remain in the capital. Broadcasting material for German newspaper use today, the German news agency DNB said both were supervising "every detail of the struggle."

The Allied-controlled Luxembourg radio said today that the commander of Nazi S. S. (Elite Corps) troops in Denmark, identified as a Gen. Panke, had committed suicide.

Reds Report Goering Flees

Say Nazi Has Boarded Plane With Wife for Unknown Destination.

London, April 27 (A. P.).—A German announcement that Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering had resigned as chief of the now-impotent German air force because of an acute heart condition was followed today by a Moscow report that he had fled by air to an unknown destination.

The Moscow report asserted that the portly Reichsmarshal was said to have taken with him his wife and loot valued at $20,-

NEW PENICILLIN TREATMENT FOUND

London, April 27 (A. P.).—Penicillin airborne in a fine mist and absorbed into the blood through the lungs soon may be a common way of applying this amazing healer.

Reporting in The Lancet, a medical publication, bacteriologists Frank Alexander Knott and W. H. Clark of Guys Hospital told of tests where volunteers sat for fifteen minutes in a small closed room into which half a teaspoon of penicillin had been sprayed.

Blood samples at the end of that time showed sufficient concentration to arrest the growth of the bacteria causing blood poisoning.

It was indicated that penicillin suspended in tiny droplets of propylene glycol retained germicidal activity for ninety minutes. The sponsors believe its use in this way is superior to taking by mouth because it avoids the destructive effect of intestinal juices on the drug. It also was argued that continuous absorption of the remedy through the lungs would make up for rapid kidney excretion and in many cases—such as children having pneumonia—the treatment by breathing was preferable to the pain and disturbance of hypodermic injections.

MRS. LUCE PREDICTS V-E DAY BY JULY 4

London, April 27 (A. P.).—Representative Clare Boothe Luce (R.-Conn.), who recently returned here from the Continent, said today that the war in Europe is over except for large-scale mopping up operations which ought to be over by the Fourth of July.

En route home after a tour of battlefronts of Italy and Germany, and of Nazi internment camps, she expressed a conviction that the Germans would be unable to hold out for long either in the Bavarian mountains or in Norway. She attributed the disintegration of organized enemy resistance to the "tremendous tempo" of the Allied advances.

Shooting Of Americans Laid To Warsaw Poles

London, April 27 (AP)—Commander R. T. M. Bower, Conservative member of Commons, charged today that special police of the Warsaw Polish Provisional Government shot two American citizens of Polish descent April 15.

Giving no details, he made the allegation in the form of a question laid down for an answer by the Churchill Government Wednesday.

In addition, Bower contended that on April 14 representatives of the provisional government announced at Siedlce that forthcoming elections would be on a one-party basis and when 24 Poles objected to this they were executed in the market place.

Paris Radio News Break Will Be Investigated

London, April 27 (AP)—The head of British censorship today said there would be an investigation of the premature announcement by the Paris radio of the linkup of the Americans and Russians.

"News of high security value has been prematurely released by the Paris radio several times in the past," he said. "I cannot explain how the linkup announcement was made almost an hour before its official release. But I intend to take the matter up strongly with SHAEF."

Nazis Kill 4,000 At Bratislava Camp

London, April 27 (AP)—The Czechoslovak Press Bureau said today the Germans exterminated all 4,000 men, women and children in a Jewish concentration camp at Petrzalka, trans-Danubian suburb of Bratislava, just before the Russians liberated the Slovak capital.

At the same time, more than 400 Slovak and Czech political prisoners held at Bratislava were declared killed.

Czechs Protest Russian Pact

LONDON, April 27 (AP)—The newly formed "Czechoslovak National Committee in London" of General Lev Prchala announced today it did not wish "to replace Nazi dictatorship by a directorship of commissars" through what it termed President Eduard Benes' "puppet government" which has concluded a treaty with Russia. The committee said it "expresses the firm will and resolution of Czech nationals to live in a free democratic state without a "protectorate" and that "the last hope is the American Army which has approached Czech lands from the west."

Britain Faces Coal Supply Cut

LONDON, April 27 (AP)—As a result of a decrease in coal production, Britain today faced a 5 per cent cut in household supplies and an increase in prices of about 72 cents a ton, effective May 1.

Nazi Army Held Nonexistent

London, April 27 (AP)—As far as the Luxembourg radio is concerned, the German army has ceased to exist. The station, controlled by Allied supreme headquarters, announced today that from tomorrow on daily transmissions to the German Army will stop and messages will be addressed instead to German prisoners of war in Allied hands.

Coal Supply Down, Prices Up In Britain

London, April 27 (AP)—As a result of a decrease in coal production, Britain today faced a five per cent cut in household supplies and an increase in prices of about 72 cents a ton, effective May 1.

Announcement of the program by Fuel Minister Gwilym Lloyd George in the House of Commons yesterday brought a storm of protest from members of Parliament, which Prime Minister Churchill cut short with the observation:

"It's better to face the facts."

General's Suicide Reported

London, April 27 (AP)—The Allied-controlled Luxembourg radio said today that the commander of Nazi SS troops in Denmark, identified as a General Panke, had committed suicide.

CRIMES COMMISSION INSPECTION ENDED

LONDON, April 27—(AP) Lord Wright, chairman of the United Nations War Crimes commission, and 11 other commissioners returned today from an inspection of Buchenwald, German concentration camp, reporting they had authentic information that 51,000 prisoners perished there since 1937.

Wright said the delegation had found evidence of atrocities committed by the Germans which have no counterpart in history.

He said U. S. military authorities have exhibited remarkable efficiency in correcting the appalling conditions they found in the camp, and have reduced its death rate from 300 a day to 20 to 30.

The party conferred with Gen. Eisenhower before returning to London.

Churchill Candidate Beaten In Election

London, April 27 (AP)—Coalition Government candidates were beaten for the third time in a row in a byelection today when Wing Commander Ernest Millington, of the Left Wing Commonwealth party, won an Ipswich seat, defeating Conservative Flight Lieutenant Brian Cook, 24, 548 to 18,117.

Cook had the personal endorsement of Prime Minister Churchill. The seat previously had been held by a Conservative.

TASS REPORT HINTS DELAY ON POLAND

London, April 27 (A. P.).—A hint that settlement of the Polish dispute would be blocked until the special three-man tribunal returns to Moscow was contained today in the Soviet version of Foreign Commissar Vyascheslav Molotov's press conference in San Francisco.

Tass quoted a correspondent as asking whether all meetings of the Polish commission must be held in Moscow and said Molotov replied that the commission must not only hold meetings, but must see the Poles.

"He added that it was impossible to settle the Polish question without the Poles," Tass said.

The news agency reported him also as saying that the question of an agreement depended not upon negotiations between different groups of Poles, but between the commission and the Poles.

Molotov's remarks were interpreted in diplomatic quarters here as indicative of a Russian desire to take the question out of the hands of the Big Three's foreign ministers and return it to the commission, set up at the Crimean Conference, consisting of Molotov, United States Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and British Ambassador Sir Archibald Clark Kerr.

NEW ZEALAND V-E PLANS

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, April 27.—(AP) The government today proposed that New Zealand workers receive a two-day holiday with pay and schools be closed for two days when the war in Europe is officially declared at an end.

GENERATORS HURL V-BOMBS NO MORE

With the U. S. Second Infantry Division, Germany (A. P.)—The old Rock of the Marne Regiment is lighting its headquarters with powerful portable generators once used by the Nazis to launch their V-weapons against England, since Sergt. Cecil R. Bracey of Wichita Falls, Tex., discovered more than fifty of them hooked up by cables to a German field launching ramp. They weigh more than a ton and generate 15,000 to 20,000 watts—enough to light a small town. The generators are mounted on two-wheel frames and a small vehicle can tow them easily.

18,000 PRISONERS FREED BY SOVIETS

By DON WHITEHEAD

WITH THE RUSSIAN TROOPS ON THE ELBE, April 27—(AP) Russian troops have liberated 18,000 Allied prisoners of war, 3,000 of them Americans, from the Luchenwald prison camp south of Berlin.

Cpl. Darrell Durfey, of Portland, Ore., who was liberated from the camp, brought the story through the Russian lines. He had been captured by the Germans Feb. 17, 1943, when they broke through the lines of the 34th and 168th divisions in the battle of Faid pass.

A Russian tank accompanying an armored car crashed through the barbed wire enclosures and brought liberty to the thousands of prisoners who had been crowded into a compound built to accommodate not more than 4,000, Durfey said.

Amon Carter, Jr., son of the Fort Worth, Tex., publisher, was believed to have been held at Luchenwald, but Durfey said he did not know Carter and could not say whether he was among those waiting in the camp to be sent to the American lines. Durfey said he had not been at Luchenwald long enough to learn the names of many other prisoners.

"The Germans treated me O. K.," he said, "but they gave many of the boys some brutal treatment. There were men taken prisoner in the big German drive last December who were stripped of their shoes and marched barefoot through the snow.

NAZI POISON GAS STOCK NOT USED

WITH THE U. S. 65TH INFANTRY, April 27—(AP) The Germans assigned to defend the Regensburg area had huge quantities of poison gas on hand, but made no effort to use it.

Instead, they sent emissaries carrying white flags into the American lines with exact information on the location of the poison gas so that American artillery would not turn loose the deadly vapor.

The Americans first learned of the poison gas when Germans entering the line said five barges on the Danube were filled with enough gas to cover 18 square miles. They asked that they not be fired upon. The Americans complied quickly, and seized the barges a few hours later.

Three other emissaries some time afterward said a five-square-mile area south of Regensburg contained millions of cubic feet of poison gas, and suggested the area be declared neutral. It was.

The 65th encountered only token resistance in taking ancient Regensburg. The Germans had blown the Danube bridges leading to the city, but these demolitions delayed the Americans only a few hours.

HIMMLER LEADING REDOUBT DEFENSE

ON THE GERMAN - SWISS FRONTIER, April 27.—(AP) Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler, orgaging the southern German redoubt for a last Nazi stand, has succeeded in jamming the Alpine retreat with the best of the Wehrmacht's surviving legions and a heavy stock of armaments, reliable reports reaching here said.

Himmler expects to have at least 30 divisions—some 300,000 to 450,000 men — available. Nearly 20 divisions already are in the redoubt, the report said. Ten of these are classed as SS (Elite Guard) troops and the others are Wehrmacht units that have shown themselves both good fighters and loyal Nazis. The Germans also expect to rescue four or five divisions from Italy and the rest of the planned reinforcements are expected to fall back from the north and Czechoslovakia.

The armaments available are described as excellent including important quantities of field and mountain artillery. There was said to be plenty of ammunition for all except machine guns and mortars.

BRITISH MOPPING UP BREMEN AREA

BREMEN, Germany, April 27—(AP) Two generals, complete with staffs, and a vice admiral, 16 submarines and a destroyer were captured today by British troops mopping up Bremen.

General Becker, operations commander of the Bremen area, was taken this morning. I saw him at the headquarters of the 43rd division inside Bremen awaiting escort to the prisoner cage.

Maj. Gen. Werner Siber, garrison commander, was made prisoner shortly afterward. His threatened "last stand" at Burger park collapsed before combined flame thrower, tank and infantry attack.

The vice admiral and his surface and undersea craft were captured later in the dock area.

Bremen now is clear except for some docks and submarine pens. The rest of Germany's second port—a shattered, burnt-out shell of a city—now is firmly controlled by three British divisions which had expected savage defense of the city but found the going fairly easy.

Tonight the British controlled all but the lower dock areas.

The big slips where the famous ships Bremen and Europa docked are in British hands.

Gen. Bradley Praises His Men For Achievements

By J. W. Gallagher

On the Elbe, Germany, April 27 (AP)—Three enlisted men and a lieutenant of a reconnaissance and intelligence platoon of the 273d Regiment of the 69th Infantry Division met the elements of Marshal Konev's Ukrainian Army Group in the Russian-American linkup.

In an order of the day General Bradley, of the 12th Army Group, announced that American troops contacted Konev's army at 4.40 P.M. on April 25.

The next day, April 26, commanding generals of both sides met to discuss the repatriation of prisoners and other problems.

In a review of American and Russian achievements in reaching the Elbe, Bradley's order of the day to United States troops said: "America, who armed you, had great faith in you. You have justified that faith, and you will in the battles that follow."

1,400 Miles In Two Years

The text of Bradley's order:

"Soldiers of the 1st, 3d, 9th and 15th American armies:

"At 1640 hours (4.40 P.M.) on April 25, 1945, in the twenty-ninth month of our war against the German Government, American troops of the 12th Army Group joined forces with Soviet elements of Marshal Konev's 1st Ukrainian Army Group.

"These armies have come to you from the ruins of Stalingrad and Sevastopol — across the scorched cities of the Ukraine. In two years they have smashed 1,400 miles through the German armies to drive the enemy from Russia and pursue him to the Elbe.

"Their achievements—and they have given immortality to a people that would not be conquered—are made more meaningful by your own deeds.

The Yank Achievements

"Across 3,800 miles of an ocean supply line you forced a coast the enemy had been years preparing against you. Within four months after landing you destroyed whole armies—to take Paris, free France and give the world the symbol of freedom. When the enemy raised a new army and threw it into the winter battle of the Ardennes, you smashed it and flung back its remnants.

"You have beaten and broken down his mighty Siegfried Line. You crossed the Rhine in your stride, encircled and reduced the Ruhr.

"While demonstrating new lessons in mobile warfare, you have annihilated whole groups of German armies in the west on their own German soil.

700 Miles In 10 Months

"In ten months you have fought your way 700 miles from the beaches. These accomplishments were secured by your courage, your resourcefulness, and by your comrades who died to achieve them.

"You have shared in the liberation of four nations, given hope to others, and conquered half of Germany.

"The people of America, who armed you, have had great faith in you. You have justified that faith as you will in the battles that follow."

Kesselring's Train Taken

U.S. 3d Army in Austria, April 26 [AP—Delayed]—Field Marshal Albert Kesselring's private train has been captured in Cham, near the Czechoslovak border, and the commander of South Germany was reported today in virtually surrounded Regensburg, under guns of General Patton's 3d Army.

The officers in charge of the fifteen-car train said it was en route to Regensburg to bring out Kesselring.

The Americans captured 50 Messerschmitts on the big airport at Cham. While a force commanded by Lieut. Col. William J. Scott, of Pasadena, Cal., was mopping up the field, three more planes landed and the surrendering pilots said they were out of gasoline.

Dittmar Surrenders, Says Reich Has Lost the War

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WITH THE U. S. NINTH ARMY IN GERMANY, April 25.—(Delayed)—(AP) Fox-faced, wasp-waisted Lt. Gen. Kurt Dittmar, most widely quoted strategist of the German high command, surrendered today and told American officers that the Reich lost the war militarily when it failed to stop the Normandy invasion and lost it politically when Hitler escaped assassination last July.

Dittmar, whose shrewd commentaries on German military movements were quoted by Allied press and radio for five years, gave up to U. S. Ninth army troops guarding the Elbe. Crossing the river in a rowboat under a white flag, the nervous little expert said he wanted to negotiate the surrender of a number of German troops who were terrified by the approach of the Russians.

The quality of German resistance since last summer was minimized by the slight, shriveled man, generally known as the voice of the German army and the Wehrmacht's most informed spokesman. Patting his balding head nervously, he insisted that the war was bound to end in a few days and asserted there had been no Wehrmacht strategy for the past six months.

Correspondents had asked him his opinion of Allied tactics.

"We've made it easy for you since July," he replied.

Redoubt a Myth

Dittmar said Germany had suffered too many casualties to be able to continue the war after Berlin falls and added that the highly-touted southern German redoubt was mostly a myth.

His favorite theme was that things might have been different had Hitler been assassinated. His face lighted eagerly when he discussed the bomb plot to eliminate the Fuehrer. Had it succeeded, he said, the army leaders might have engineered a surrender.

Insisting Hitler was still in Berlin, Dittmar said the Nazi leader would either be killed or commit suicide there, that he would never face an Allied trial as a war criminal. The only important German resistance left, he said, was that sparked by the Gestapo, storm-troopers and Elite Guard which would cease upon Hitler's death. He said Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering probably already had been executed.

American authorities, although admitting the possibility that Dittmar's surrender was an enemy plant, seemed to entertain little doubt that the information he gave was genuine or that the man himself desired to seek grace with eleventh hour honesty.

General Staff Member

A member of the Wehrmacht for 40 years and of the German General Staff since the war's outbreak, Dittmar helped plan and execute the Maginot Line breakthrough in 1940. After a brief tour of duty in Finland, he was chosen to aid in strategy work for the general staff and has always been in closest contact with the German High command.

He said that Stalingrad was the Wehrmacht leaders' first intimation of their eventual doom and that the Normandy invasion was the turning point of the war. Failure of the Avranches counter-attack in Brittany last summer ended their last hope of stopping the Allies in the west and when Hitler took over the strategy, army leaders knew they had lost the war.

Dittmar wore the uniform of a lieutenant general — equivalent rank to that of a U. S. major general—and was accompanied across the river by a German major, two enlisted men and his 16-year-old son, Berndt, a military academy student. He surrendered to Capt. Henry Abbee, Glendale, Queens, N. Y., commander of Co. K.

He professed to know nothing of the military situation in this area, said the German soldiers and civilians were panicked by the Russian advance.

The 54-year-old expert disclosed that he had never spoken on the air waves because of a bad radio voice. He said he wrote the scripts, however, and a Nazi captain faked his speeches for him.

THREE ARMIES NOW ARE OUT OF JOBS

PARIS, April 27—(AP) At least one Russian and two American armies were temporarily out of jobs tonight, what with Germany being virtually overrun from the west and east, and speculation as to where these powerful forces would be used next ran rampant in Allied military circles.

Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' U. S. First and Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson's U. S. Ninth armies fulfilled their missions when they reached the Elbe river days ago. Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukrainian group had at least one army on the Elbe with more to come.

Konev's men had 1,400 miles of fighting behind them when they reached the Elbe while the Yanks had come 700 miles from the beaches of Normandy, through the Siegfried Line and across at least seven major rivers.

The questions being asked tonight included:

Would they take new positions somewhere else in Europe and stay on at least until the last Nazi was pulled from his lair?

Would they be pulled out of the line and sent home?

Or would they be used—Russians and Americans alike—in a final shattering blow in the Pacific?

URGE CLERGY SEE HORROR OF NAZI PRISON QUARTERS

By NORMAN CHANDLER
Publisher of the Los Angeles Times
Written for The Associated Press

PARIS, April 27.—(AP) Gen. Eisenhower asked the War department to send over here a delegation from the United States Senate and House and another group of American editors to see at first hand conditions in the Nazi prison camps.

His purpose was simple. Having seen one of these horror institutions, he found it difficult to believe the evidence of his own eyes. He wanted the American people to know that the American war correspondents were accurate in their reports, that this was not propaganda but the plain unvarnished truth.

I have just returned from Weimar. With the rest of the newspaper delegation I have seen the prison camp at Buchenwald. I have talked with the prisoners there, the dying and the little children. I have seen the human bodies piled up like cordwood, waiting their turn in the crematories. I have seen the gallows on which many were hanged.

There is no need of going into details. They have all told. My purpose is merely to testify as to the accuracy of the American correspondents—they have told the truth. They have not exaggerated. Exaggeration, in fact, would be difficult.

So deeply impressed have been members of this group that we have today cabled Secretary of War Stimson urging him to send still another delegation to these camps —this time the clergy of all denominations.

Personally I wish that every American could see what we have seen. Then our country would have a complete understanding of the nature of the enemy we fight and the idea behind that enemy, which will not die when the guns cease firing.

Buchenwald is only a symptom of a horrible philosophy which has dominated the soul of Germany since the rise of Hitler.

FRENCH PUZZLED OVER STUTTGART WITHDRAWAL RULE

PARIS, April 27 — (AP) The whole question of France's role in the post-war occupation of Germany probably will be brought to a head by the reported American request that the French withdraw their military government from Stuttgart, responsible diplomatic quarters said tonight.

Supreme Allied headquarters declined any comment on war minister Andre Diethelm's statement to the French council of ministers that the United States army asked officially to take over the military government of Stuttgart. The council expressed its opposition to the change.

The French Government maintained an official silence beyond announcing what Diethelm told the council. However, both surprise and irritation were obvious in official quarters.

The affair seemed likely to develop into another French-American mix-up similar but more serious than the one resulting from the abortive invitation to Gen. De Gaulle to see the late President Roosevelt at Algiers following the Crimean conference.

The French failed to understand the reason for the request regarding Stuttgart. Government circles said they have not been informed who signed the order nor has its motive been explained.

French First army troops occupied Stuttgart a little over a week ago and pushed on across the upper Danube—down Napoleon's historic invasion route—on the flank of the U. S. Seventh army.

The council of ministers expressed itself as favoring the keeping of French military control of the city pending the establishment of a specific accord among the Allied governments on what is to be France's zone of occupation in Germany.

Asks U. S. Control Of Stuttgart

Paris, April 27 (A. P.).—Andre Diethelm, Minister of War, told the French Council of Ministers today that Allied Headquarters had asked the French Government to relinquish control of Stuttgart to the American Army. The Council expressed opposition to the change.

SHAEF had no comment.

Soldier Gets Death In Gas Case In France

Paris, April 27 (AP)—Staff Sergt. John P. Carter, 21, (Serial Number 17032194) was sentenced to death before a firing squad today after court martial conviction on charges of desertion, conspiracy against the United States and illegally disposing of Army gasoline into black market channels.

Six other soldiers previously had received death sentences and one was sentenced to life imprisonment in the same case which involved more than 5,000 gallons of gasline. While awaiting trial Carter broke a leg in an attempted escape from prison.

Plan to Feed Dutch By Plane Delayed

Paris, April 27 (A. P.).—Supreme Allied Headquarters said today that it still intended to supply food to civilians pocketed in Nazi-held areas of Holland, though the original plans to drop supplies by parachute had not materialized. NO planes have been sent yet on these food missions, which Gen. Eisenhower said were to start immediately when he announced the plans three days ago.

SHAEF declined to comment, however, on a Netherlands Aneta agency report in London that the arrangement had been dropped or suspended. It is assumed that the delay is because the Germans refused to accept Gen. Eisenhower's demand that they not fire on the mercy planes, which he said would fly in low and unarmed.

PETAIN IN PARIS TO STAND TRIAL

ICENERY

Marshal Assigned To Room In Fort De Montrouge

Paris, April 27 (AP)—The great gray doors of Fort de Montrouge slammed shut behind Marshal Philippe Pétain today as the 89-year-old former Vichy chief of state entered that place of detention on the outskirts of Paris to await trial on charges of high treason.

As he passed slowly through one village en route from Switzerland to Paris, crowds shouted, "Death to Pétain," and "Down with Pétain," the French news agency said. The agency added that if the one-time leader of France had any illusions as to the affection of the French people "it must have vanished now."

NOT

Asks For De Gaulle's Picture

Pétain's first request upon entering the severely furnished little room in the fort was for a picture of General de Gaulle to hang on the wall. Policemen assigned to guard him gaped with surprise but immediately borrowed a photograph from a young lieutenant.

Before crossing over into France from Switzerland, Pétain heard the charges of high treason formally read to him by officials of the High Court of France.

May Conduct Own Defense

He now will be given time to prepare his defense which, it is generally expected, he will conduct himself. Officials in Paris said it would be several weeks and possibly months before the trial begins.

Pétain's place of incarceration is both a barracks for gendarmes and a school where recruits are trained. His wife has chosen to remain with him. The marshal has received no visitors.

Fifteen armed guards were stationed in the corridor outside his room and on the staircase leading up from the ground floor. The grounds of the fort were heavily patrolled and more than twenty gendarmes flanked the giant wooden gates that pierce the medieval outer wall.

Seemed Almost Jocular

When Pétain arrived he was wearing a black civilian suit without decorations or insignia of any kind. The emblem he invented—the double ax—was missing from his lapel. It represented his authoritarian "French State," as opposed to the Republic of France during his years at Vichy.

Appearing to be in excellent health, Pétain's manner seemed almost jocular. A convoy of fifteen automobiles accompanied him to Paris. The party included the marshal, his wife, two nurses and Maj. Gen. Jean Debeney and Admiral Leon Blehaut, former Vichy officials, as well as French officials.

Petain Reaches Paris Fort To Await Trial

MORIN

Paris, April 27 (AP)—A severely furnished room in the Fort of Montrogue received Marshal Pétain at dawn today when he was returned to Paris to stand trial on a charge of treason.

APR 28 1945

His wife and two nurses accompanied the 89-year-old former Vichy Chief of State.

Pétain's first request when he entered the room, virtually a cell, was for a picture of General de Gaulle to hang on the wall. Police assigned to guard him gasped with surprise, but got him the photograph.

DAY

Wife To Stay With Him

The grim gray fort is a police establishment on the outskirts of Paris. It has both a barrack for gendarmes and a school where recruits are trained. The Marshal will be held there until after the trial.

His wife chose to remain with him. They were placed in a chamber about the size of an ordinary hotel room, furnished with two beds, two chairs and a desk.

Crowd Calls For Death

Petain entered France after crossing Switzerland from Germany.

[The French Ministry of Information announced in a broadcast, recorded in London, that crowds at the Pont Arlier railway station cried, "Death to Petain! and "Down with Petain!" as the marshal's train passed through on the way to Paris.]

Fort Heavily Guarded

Fifteen armed guards were stationed in the corridor outside Pétain's room and on the stairs leading up from the ground floor. The grounds of the fort were heavily guarded and patrolled. More than 20 gendarmes flanked the giant wooden gates at the medieval outer wall of the fort.

Pétain was wearing a black civilian suit without decorations of any kind when he arrived. The double-ax emblem he invented was missing from his lapel. It represented his authoritarian "French state."

He appeared to be in excellent health and his manner was almost jocular. He was brought to Paris in a convoy of fifteen automobiles. He was accompanied by French Surete officials and some of the French officers who followed him into Germany upon the approach of the Alliesd armies last summer. Among them were Maj. Gen. Jean Debeney and Admiral Leon Blehaut, both former Vichy officials.

The two nurses remained near the aged marshal, although he insisted that he did not need them. He is refusing to take any medicine. As the convoy entered Paris, Petain remarked about the city's appearance. Persons present said that he seemed completely at ease, although obviously aware of the grave charges confronting him.

The fort's doors slammed behind him at 6:30 A. M. He asked for breakfast for himself, his wife and the two nurses. It consisted of broth, toast and a coffee substitute which is what plain Frenchmen drink after meals nowadays.

The charges against him were formally read by officials of the high court of justice before he crossed the frontier into France. He will now be given an opportunity to name his defense counsel and prepare his defense. It is generally believed that he will conduct his own case. It will be several weeks or possibly months before the trial begins, authorities said.

Fifth Army Enters Genoa; Report Il Duce Arrested

Milan Radio Declares Trapped Nazis Seek to Surrender.

By NOLAND NORGAARD

ROME, April 27—(AP) American Fifth Army troops smashed into the great port of Genoa today, a special Allied headquarters communique announced, as the "Free Milan" radio declared German commanders were trying to negotiate a general surrender of their hopelessly trapped forces in northern Italy.

Allied headquarters did not confirm the surrender report, but conceded that American and other Allied armored columns slashing across the final miles to the Alps were meeting only "generally weak and disorganized" resistance.

An unidentified spokesman of the Italian Socialist party in Milan and the Italian Patriot newspaper La Liberta said Benito Mussolini, "yellow with fury and fear," had been arrested as he attempted to cross the Swiss frontier. The newspaper said Roberto Farinacci, former secretary of the Fascist party, also was arrested.

Crushing pockets of resistance, the American Fifth and British Eighth Armies battled across the Adige line "at many points," the communique said, and on the British Eighth Army front the enemy was pressed so closely he had no opportunity to reorganize his scattered and demoralized forces.

A task force consisting of American 473rd and 442nd Infantry and elements of the 92nd Infantry division made the Genoa entry.

"Italian Partisans had previously captured a large part of the city and facilitated the entry of our troops into the city," the communique reported. "The condition of the port has not been determined yet."

The Allied command said nothing of new gains toward Milan, another great city, where the Partisan radio said the Germans and Fascists had been ousted.

Mop Up Resistance

Systematically the Fifth and Eighth armies mopped up resistance pockets left far behind the advance elements in their swift northerly thrusts.

Heavy clouds prevented Allied warplanes from continuing their large scale battering of the fleeing Nazi columns, but one Thunderbolt formation got through and destroyed or damaged every vehicle in a 30-car motor convoy near Lake Como.

Reports from northern Italy said all of the villages of Como province near the Swiss frontier were in Italian Patriot hands and that customs officials loyal to the Rome government had taken over the Italian customs offices.

The Milan radio said American Fifth army troops had captured the great port of Genoa on the west coast along with its Nazi garrison, and other patriot-held stations broadcast detailed accounts of Italian Partisans seizng control of all northwestern Italy, including the provinces of Lombardy, Piedmonte and Liguria.

An American armored column sprinting up highway 9 passed through Piacenza and pounded into the last 36-mile stretch to Milan from the southeast. Other Fifth army tanks driving west from captured Verona were reported by the Patriot radio to be at the "gates" of Brescia, 37 miles west of Verona and 50 miles east of Milan.

Seek to Cut Escape Route

The progress of the two wild-running Allied armies as they fanned out to cut the Brenner Pass line and other Nazi escape routes into Hitler's southern Germany redoubt was limited more by the difficulties of keeping tanks supplied with fuel than by sporadic enemy resistance.

Frontline dispatches told of the astonishment of entire German units as they pulled onto highways to begin their flight, only to discover that the roads already were crowded with Allied vehicles pouring northward in steady streams.

One flustered Nazi Messerschmitt pilot landed at the Verona airfield and was greeted by a cluster of well-armed Americans who told him to "step down, brother, this is old home week."

Verona itself was a shattered city, what with the heavy Allied bombings of recent months aimed at blowing out the southern terminus of the Brenner Pass line and the fearful concussion caused when the Germans demolished all the bridges across the Adige river through the city yesterday.

Railyards Wrecked

Verona's huge rail yards and modern station were total wrecks. It was disclosed that a column of American tanks and tank destroyers loaded with Doughboys dashed the final 35 miles across the Lombardy plains into Verona in 17 hours. Only one armored car was lost in the drive into the city at the foothills of the Alps.

An Allied spokesman cautioned that there might still be heavy fighting in northeastern Italy before Allied forces broke the enemy's long-prepared Adige line defenses, but there was no evidence tonight that the Nazis could hope to reorganize their routed forces sufficiently to check Gen. Mark W. Clark's rampaging troops.

American forces at Verona were astride the Brenner Pass rail line into Austria at its southern terminus and were within some 180 miles of Allied troops closing toward Munich on the other side of the Alps.

French forces from the Riviera joined in the squeeze on the harassed enemy, driving across the border into northwestern Italy and reaching the Tenda Pass, some 62 miles south of Turin. The French press agency declared that the Alps maritime department of France had been "completely liberated."

5th Army Enters Genoa; Yanks Near Milan

MORAN

Rome, April 27 (AP)—American 5th Army troops entered Genoa today.

The historic north Italian port was reached in a swift advance as the whole Italian front surged forward toward a seal-off of the Nazis' Alpine redoubt from the south.

Other Americans had pushed to within 35 miles or less of Milan, and on the British 8th Army front the enemy has been unable to break off contact with the pursuing Tommies sufficiently to permit him to reorganize his demoralized forces.

Genoa Partially Cleared

In some sectors the Americans were meeting strong resistance, but on the whole, the resistance has been slight, headquarters said.

Genoa already had been partially cleared by Partisans who rose up against the Nazi garrison.

Swiss dispatches cited mounting indications that the Nazis were abandoning Mussolini's Blackshirt troops to their fate and withdrawing rapidly toward the German border to join in the Bavarian deathstand.

100 Miles From Brenner Pass

At captured Verona, where the Americans broke through the German Adige River line, the Allies were about 100 miles from the Brenner Pass, northern Italy. The 5th was some 180 miles from the western Allied vanguards on the north side of the Alps.

[French forces south of the Alps were but 78 miles from the Brenner Pass.]

DAD

While the British 8th Army consolidated positions along the southern banks of the Adige, where the Nazis have been expected to make some semblance of a stand, a new thrust was launched from the west.

French Lunge Over Border

French forces from the Riviera lunged across the border into Italy as far east as Bordighera, on the Mediterranean 6 miles west of San Remo. This was 100 or more winding coastal miles from Genoa.

A task force of the 10th Mountain Division, under Col. William O. Darby of Ranger renown, had captured the airport of Villafranca intact after a forced march, and 5th Army troops lunged on toward Genoa.

Swiss advices said the Germans apparently made little if any effort to aid Fascist forces defending Genoa, Turin and Milan against the attacks of Italian Patriots. Between the Americans at Verona and the Brenner Pass columns of trucks were reported spotted moving north.

Still Mopping Up

A communiqué disclosed mopping-up activities still were in progress in Verona and said "our troops encountered road blocks and snipers in the vicinity of Vigasio"—nine miles southwest of Verona.

On the 5th's right flank, the 91st Infantry Division captured Legnago on the Adige River, 22 miles southeast of Verona, and Cerea, 4½ miles west of Legnago, against some opposition.

The communiqué limited its report on 8th Army activities to the disclosure that these troops had crossed the Canale Esianco at several points, capturing many bridges intact, and had reached the Adige against moderate resistance, including tanks.

New Yorker Led Verona Spear.

Verona, Italy, April 26 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Verona celebrated wildly today after the Fifth Army, in a seventeen-hour, thirty-five-mile march from the Po sliced off the upper Lombardi Plains to take this southern terminal of the Brenner Pass railway. The lid blew off when a false armistice rumor spread through the town and Yanks and townsmen alike began shooting wildly in the air and the church bells rang out.

Before retreating, the Germans blew up the town's seven bridges, the concussions damaging the knocking out its stained glass windows. Earlier Allied bombings had wrecked the adjoining Palazzo dei Canonici, the ancient Roman arena, City Hall and the modern station with its huge yards where train traffic was marshaled toward Austria.

A company commanded by Lieut. John Ebel of Long Island, who took over when the company commander was wounded, spearheaded the smash to Verona along with tank destroyers which carried infantry on their backs. On the way in they ran into a German tank which knocked out one of our armored cars before it was blown wide apart. This miniature task force caught up with a German convoy trying to pull out just inside Verona, and spattered it like eggs all over the road.

At one spot on the Mantua-Verona Highway Capt. Mark Reardon, combat engineer officer of East 57th street, New York, caught up with a roadblock waiting for Jerry vehicles coming south. He said that three enemy command cars were caught by bursts of machine-gun fire "and all the occupants, German soldiers, were dead."

Italy Hunts Ancona's Gems

ROME—(AP) Italian workmen under Allied Military Government control are digging in the ruins of much-bombed Ancona in Italy's greatest modern treasur hunt—a search for several million dollars worth of precious gems.

Under the ruins of Ancona's Museo Nationale and the Campanile of San Francesco, devastated in 132 air raids, workmen are seeking gold objects, church vestments, medieval and renaissance sculptures and other valuable pieces.

The museum received several direct hits from Allied bombs when Ancona was still in enemy hands. Seventy per 'cent of the museum library's books have been saved.

Objects from the Old and New stone ages and the Iron and Bronze ages, as well as Roman, medieval and renaissance sculptures, have already been recovered.

Partisan ... Power In Italy

Rome, April 27 (AP)—The Milan radio said today that the Committee for National Liberation for North Italy had announced it "has assumed all powers of government in the name of the people" and was negotiating with the German command for a "general surrender" of Nazi forces.

The committee notified the Rome Government, the broadcast said, that "problems in the democratic rebirth of the nation must be entrusted to the men who fought Fascism from its first moments."

Clark Cautions Partisans

The radio also transmitted an order by General Clark, 15th Army Group commander, directing the Partisans to maintain order and "avoid indiscriminate acts of violence." Clark was quoted as saying that "several days probably will elapse before Allied troops reach liberated zones."

While other broadcasts reported a mounting Partisan revolt throughout northern Italy, the "free Genoa radio" said Partisans were wiping out the last centers of resistance in the big port.

"The enemy fleet in the harbor surrendered unconditionally to CNL forces," the broadcast said. "Fifteen hundred German prisoners were marched through the streets of the city."

Umberto Is Cheered, Report

A dispatch to the United States Army newspaper Stars and Stripes said Crown Prince Umberto was cheered in Bologna.

"No one yelled out against him," Sergt. Tom McRae, the army reporter, said.

In Rome today, Col. Charles Poletti, preparing to assume the post of Allied commissioner for the Lombardy region, had a half-hour private audience with Pope Pius XII.

WOMEN SNIPERS BATTLE SOVIETS IN BERLIN FIGHT

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, April 27—(AP) With Berlin in its death throes special Nazi brigades of women snipers late today took up rifles against Red army invasion columns smashing into the center of the city.

In the burning wasteland that is Berlin there are other scenes of direct contrast. Long lines of civilians stand gazing hopefully into empty shopwindows amid famine conditions. Food is running low. Sometimes the hungry civilians break into stores but find nothing.

The front correspondent of Red Fleet said three Soviet soldiers were killed at one point by the specially recruited snipers. Breaking into a house whence the shots were fired other troops were met by three women who offered them flowers and candy. Searching the house the Red army men found rifles and three machineguns. The women admitted they were snipers, the correspondent said.

NIGHT

Elderly men also were found hiding machineguns which they had been using against Soviet rear guards flowing into Berlin; these oldsters also were serving as artillery spotters for the German army but none wore uniforms.

Dense clouds of rolling black smoke envelop Berlin and hardly a house stands intact. For 14 days no newspapers have appeared.

Red flags of the Soviet Union fly from many buildings. Many are torn from bullets fired by maddened Nazis. From other buildings hang white flags. Some have been strung up by German civilians anxious to surrender. Bursts of machinegun fire beat against the armored sides of Red army tanks.

Soviet correspondents reporting from the city say the capital is unrecognizable while two great streams of people are seen on the streets. One stream goes into the capital, the other comes out. "The ones from Berlin are liberated people; on the other side of the road are Germans—pale, grim, frightened and silent—returning to the city."

"The struggle is mounting high above ground—in corridors and on staircases and even in attics," Red Star correspondent Capt. Edward Gekhman said. "Now fighting has broken out afresh underground—in the concrete cellars, tunnels and stations of the Berlin subway."

An Izvestia correspondent asked a commander on one street: "Why do we go forward without cleaning all blocks?"

"It is a difficult situation," the commander replied. "It is not difficult to blow up those upper floors. I have the ammunition and the explosives, but I also have information that the Germans are holding hostages there. We can't destroy our own people—there are Ukrainians and White Russians there."

Mass of Ruins

Pravda correspondents Vishevsky and Zoliin said that Berlin "is a mass of ruins from Anglo-American bombings." They said that Nazi storm troopers "more and more are changing into civilian clothes and we have a problem because we don't know whom to take prisoner." The Nazis then hang out white flags and fire from behind them.

"If many Berliners are quiet," one correspondent said, "it is not because they have not learned to fire on tanks and thow grenades from corners and shoot our officers and men in the back but because they have concluded that further resistance is useless."

As the Russians move forward, firing their artillery point-blank into German buildings, Pravda said that "one hears the cry 'where is the Reichstag?' from hundreds of Russian tank drivers in the front lines."

One German civilian protested about the firing into his house. Pravda said he was shown a copy of a Wehrmacht order dated Aug. 27, 1941, in which pictures were printed of "bombs on Moscow" with the caption "the destructive force of German aviation."

Berlin 'Gigantic Junk Heap'

Moscow, April 27 (AP)—Russian storm units, breaking into the center of Berlin under clouds of rolling smoke, found it looking more like a gigantic junk heap today than the heart of the capital of the Third Reich.

Izvestia Correspondent Vsevolod Ivanov quoted a Red Army officer from Stalingrad as saying: "You can't recognize Berlin. Not that I was here before, but if this is the center there should be some buildings."

Fighting also broke out afresh in the subways under the city, said Capt. Edward Gekhman, a correspondent for the army newspaper Red Star. He said struggles also raged high above the ground "in the corridors, on the staircases and even in the attics and on the roofs of the bigger buildings" and added:

"The situation on the Berlin front appears in official dispatches like this—'The infantry has gained Square No. 281. The enemy continues to resist in the upper floors of the square. Between Square 306 and 274 in a subway tunnel we have gained about half a kilometer (one third of a mile).'"

"Going In, Coming Out"

"Two great streams of people are seen in the streets of Berlin," he said. "One is going into Berlin and the other is coming out. The ones from Berlin are liberated people. On the other side of the road are Germans—pale, grim, frightened and silent—returning to the city."

The Izvestia correspondent asked a commander why Soviet forces penetrated forward without cleaning all the blocks.

"It is a difficult situation," the commander replied. "It is not difficult to blow up those upper floors. I have got the ammunition and explosives, but I have information that the Germans are holding hostages there, Ukrainians and White Russians. We can't destroy our own people. Another thing, there are all sorts of German arms bearers in these houses. There are policemen, firemen and schoolteachers. They don't know how to fight and often when the front line has passed them by they put up a white flag."

Pravda Correspondent Vishevsky and Zollin gave this description of what has happened to Berlin life:

"For fourteen days no newspapers have been issued. Recently there have been long lines of German civilians before shops looking for bread. White flags hang from many Berlin windows, but shots come from them, too. The city is a mass of ruins from the British-American bombings. We see signs—'Berlin Won't Be Surrendered.'

"Artillery, tanks and self-propelled guns are firing point-blank at attics where there are snipers. Going along streets our men are hurling bottles of inflammable liquid grenades into cellars from whence they (the Germans) are shooting."

Swedes Name New Envoy to U. S.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 27 (AP)—Herman Eriksson, former Cabinet member, will become Sweden's Minister to Washington on Oct. 1 when the present Minister, Wollmar F. Bostreom, retires on pension, it was announced today.

Swedish Parliament Backs 'Waiting' Policy

Stockholm, April 27 (AP)—The Swedish Parliament, meeting in secret session today to discuss the question of intervention in Norway, decided to accept the Government's policy of "watchful waiting" rather than commit Sweden to armed action at present, responsible sources said tonight.

There have been hints in newspapers and from Government officials during the last two weeks that Sweden is hopeful German troops in Norway and Denmark will surrender peacefully and that the Swedes might even be working actively toward that end.

U.S. Honors ... Prince

Brussels, April 27 (AP)—The Legion of Merit, the highest decoration the United States can bestow on a non-American, was awarded today to the regent, Prince Charles, by Ambassador Charles Sawyer, in recognition of his achievements in Belgian resistance to the Germans.

Mussolini Said To Be In Monastery

Bern, April 27 (AP)—Rapid withdrawal of Nazis into Germany to reinforce Hitler's Bavarian redoubt, leaving Benito Mussolini and his Black Shirts to their fate in north Italy, was indicated today.

Mussolini, abandoned by the Nazis, was said to have fled to a monastery in the border town of Como, where bitter fighting later was reported between Partisan and Fascist forces.

The Swiss Telegraph Agency carried a report that Mussolini already had been arrested, but there was no confirmation of this.

[The Rome radio, in a broadcast heard in London, said today there apparently was no foundation for reports of Mussolini's arrest. The broadcast asserted, however, that the entire Swiss-Italian border from Como to Domodossola—75 miles westward on the Simplon Pass route—was in Patriot hands.]

MINDANAO ISLAND DRIVE CONTINUING

Americans Within Sight of Davao Bay—Airforce Aids Advance.

MANILA, Saturday, April 28.—(AP) Yank forces have advanced to within sight of Davao gulf, on Mindanao island, and in northern Luzon island have seized commanding positions overlooking important Balete Pass, a strong point in the Japanese defenses, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported today.

U. S. air forces, working closely with ground troops, hit the enemy in the Cagayan valley, beyond Balete Pass, with an unusually large cargo of bombs, 730 tons, and with strafing tactics.

They also attacked Basco airfield in the Batan islands north of Luzon, one of the guardians of the north Luzon shore.

Although the communique did not mention it, American assault units landed on southern Negros island Thursday in a move to wipe out a long-existing Japanese pocket. This was the second invasion thrust at Negros, in the central Philippines.

Medium and attack bombers again struck Formosa, aiming their missiles at the Taito, Koshun and Heito industrial areas and the western coastal plain. Patrol planes harassed Taihoku airdrome on Formosa and sank five enemy freighters off the Nansei (Ryuku) islands, between Formosa and Okinawa.

The advance on Mindanao by the 24th Division carried through the rugged Apo mountains to a point overlooking Digos, on Davao gulf. Davao city, largest and most important on the big island, lies about 25 miles north of Digos.

A surprise night attack by the 24th Division achieved the important height overlooking Balete Pass, which the Japanese have held grimly as a bottleneck between the central Luzon plains and the Cagayan valley. Since their defeat in central and southern Luzon they have been backing up through Balete into the valley, possibly in preparation for a final stand.

Fighting for positions in the Balete area has been going on for weeks.

Air activity reached to Saigon, French Indo-China, where heavy United States bombers attacked the water front, destroying a freighter, setting fire to a 3,000-ton transport and achieving near misses on a submarine.

Bombers In Wide Range

Other bombing units ranged widely over enemy positions, including Shanghai, the Netherlands East Indies, Borneo, the Celebes and the New Guinea-Solomons area. Their bag included four freighters, five coastal vessels, six barges and several smaller craft.

The second landing on Negpos within less than a month was aimed at a Nipponese pocket which has held out for months.

Landings on excellent beaches ere made without opposition, Associated Press War Correspondent ichard Bergholz reported. He flew er the city of Dumaguete a few urs after the Yanks established beachhead and pushed columns and to cut off the enemy's reat line.

New Landing on Negros Island

Japs Start Destruction of Philippine City of Dumaguete Near Yank Troops.

Manila, April 27 (A. P.).—American amphibious forces have invaded Negros in the second assault on that Philippine island since last March 29.

Shortly after the first troops hit the beach at Dumaguete, on the southern tip of the island, the Japanese—apparently prepared for such an evantuality—systematically began destroying the city.

Explosions rocked Dumaguete as assault forces began the invasion yesterday, and a smoke pall rose from the beautiful seaport city. Dumaguete had been damaged early in the war but had been rebuilt extensively by the Filipinos.

Associated Press correspondent Richard Bergholz, who flew over the city four hours after the invasion began, reported it still looked "fairly intact," and that a Catholic church in the heart of the city "loomed clearly through the smoke of nearby fires."

Imperil Manila Water.

Negros was invaded first on the northwest coast March 29, and three days later swiftly-advancing troops of the Fortieth Division captured Bacolod, a provincial capital. American forces struck so rapidly then the Japanese had no time to carry out their scorched earth policy.

A Japanese menace to Manila's dwindling water supply commanded renewed attention today even though American forces appeared to be driving the enemy from two major objectives elsewhere in the Philippines.

Two Yank regiments continued to battle intrenched Nipponese in the mountains east of Manila, trying to liberate the water source before a shortage materializes.

Davao Advance Gains.

Elements of the Sixth Division, whose objective was Wawa Dam on the Marikina River, fought a heavy Nipponese force in a score of pillboxes on the crest of vital Mount Pacawagan, fourteen miles from the capital. The peak is 1,680 feet high and the Yanks hold all but the crest.

Another force was driving toward Ipo Dam on the Angat River, twenty miles from Manila. Pipelines from these two dams feed the Novaliches reservoir, from which the capital gets water.

On Mindanao Island, the Twenty-fourth Division advanced another twelve miles to come within eighteen miles of Davao Gulf and within forty-five road miles of Davao, important hemp center. The Thirteenth Air Force gave vigorous support to the ground force, which reported meeting moderate resistance.

The Thirty-third Division fought on the outskirts of Baguio, Philippine summer capital on northern Luzon, while another contingent smashed into its environs from the west and northwest. The two American forces were 2,200 yards apart.

Nipponese Defenders Retreat to Secondary Lines on Island.

By LEIF ERICKSON

GUAM, Saturday, April 28—(AP) Japanese forces made a hurried withdrawal from their first line of fortified defense in southern Okinawa, frontline dispatches indicated today, and are now fighting from secondary defense lines.

Vern Haugland, Associated Press war correspondent, reported that U. S. patrols were working around the north end of Yonabaru airfield on the east coast and had killed only three Japanese.

In the center of the line, Maj. Gen. James L. Bradley's 96th division, captured two key hills—196 and 143—in an advance against unexpectedly light ground resistance. The Japanese left stores in caves and even abandoned horses and pack saddles in their hasty retreat.

Mortar and machinegun fire, however, continued heavy against Yanks advancing, Thursday after almost four weeks of continuous naval and field artillery bombardment, Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz reported.

The attack was resumed Friday morning.

Haugland indicated that Maj. Gen. John R. Hodge's 24th Army corps troops may have reached the north ends of both Machinato and Yonabaru airfields.

Maj. Gen. George W. Griner's 27th division cleared heavily defended Gusukuma village in their drive toward Machinato airfield, about 2 1-2 miles north of Naha city.

Veteran Seventh division troops, commanded by Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold, pushed beyond the villages of Ishi and Ouki to near important Yonabaru airstrip. The capture of strongly fortified Hill 178 cleared the way for this advance.

Japanese have not made any sizeable air strikes for several days, their mainland staging bases in southern Kyushu having been under steady bombardment by Marianas-based Superforts.

Yanks Cut Front-Line Defenses On Okinawa

Guam, April 27 (AP)—Closely supported by relentless warship shelling, Maj. Gen. James L. Bradley's 96th Division infantrymen were through the first line of Japanese defenses on southern Okinawa today and hammering a wedge deeper into tough secondary positions.

New high ground in the center of the line, captured by the 96th yesterday, gave the doughboys command of all dominating terrain on the outer rim of the thick belt of fortifications defending Naha, Okinawa's capital.

Resistance Light

The 400-foot height was stormed after the Japanese made a general withdrawal under heavy artillery shelling. Resistance was surprisingly light.

On the east coast, meantime, Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's 7th Division sent patrols to the northern approaches of the Yonabaru airstrip. On the west coast Maj. Gen. George W. Griner's 27th Division, moving toward the Machinato airstrip, was reducing a pocket around Gukuma village.

Maj. Gen. John R. Hodge, commander of the 24th Army Corps, termed yesterday's progress "a good day's work all along the line."

The elevation captured by the 96th Division furnished the Yanks an excellent observation site. Capture of the hill will aid direction of artillery fire, which heretofore has relied on airplane spotting.

Hill Gives Good View

Capt. Lauren Soth, of Ames, Iowa, 10th Army public relations officer, climbed the captured elevation and reported:

"There's a lot of rough country ahead but it was good to get up there and look back at the tough terrain we have taken. I could see how the Japanese from this hill had perfect observation of everything we did since we landed."

The sizable town of Shuri is about one mile south of this point of deepest penetration.

Enemy artillery, mortar and small arms fire still was heavy.

Admiral Nimitz made no mention of the new buzz bombs of the Japanese in today's communiqué. The pilot-guided bomb with a heavy explosive warhead was first used against American positions and ships April 12.

Marines of the 3d Amphibious Corps, commanded by Maj. Gen. Roy S. Geiger, of Guadalcanal fame, continued their patrols of northern Okinawa Thursday and Friday.

Desperation Grows

That the enemy may have thrown several suicide bombers at the United States force was indicated by the score of three planes knocked down by one minesweeper—a comparatively lightly armed vessel.

The new pilot-guided bombs promptly called for a new name—and the navy boys called them "baka bombs." Baka is Japanese for fool.

Revealed information on the "baka bomb" gave emphasis to Admiral Nimitz's recent remark that the enemy would make increasingly desperate efforts to check the Americans as they draw closer to Nippon.

The bomb was a less expensive variation of the Japanese suicide pilot attack with a conventional plane, diving at American ships or land installations with intent to explode the plane's bomb in the crash and spread fire with flaming gasoline.

Suicide Rocket Bomb Used By Japs in Okinawa Fight

GUAM, Saturday, April 28—(AP) A rocket bomb guided by a pilot with a one-way ticket is Japan's new weapon hurled into the battle of Okinawa in a desparate effort to halt the American march on Nippon.

The appearance of the 19-foot winged bombs, launched from the underside of bomber aircraft, was reported by fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz yesterday.

But the Nipponese sacrifice of men and material in their new weapon, which the Yanks promptly called "Baka bombs" from the Japanese word meaning "fool," has not affected the batle to conquer Okinawa.

Japan's rocket bomb carries an explosive warhead in the nose, like Germany's V-1 rocket which blasted southern England for several months. It has a 16-foot forward wing, an eight-foot tailplane and a canopied space for the pilot.

Vern Haugland, Associated Press war correspondent, said the Baka bomb first appeared April 12 when the Japanese staged an aerial attack on American war and supply vessels off Okinawa.

The Nipponese lost heavily in planes that day, but succeeded in sinking an American destroyer and Haugland said the Baka bombs damaging several small craft. appeared to be difficult to maneuver against ships circling or zigzagging in evasive action. He added:

"They attain high speeds but the boys who fly them don't get a chance to practice and so there are lots of misses."

Revealed information on the Baka bomb gave emphasis to Admiral Nimitz' recent remark that the enemy would make increasingly desperate efforts to check the Americans as they draw closer to Nippon.

The bomb was a less expensive variation of the Japanese suicide pilot attack with a conventional plane, diving at American ships or land installations with intent to explode the plane's bomb in the crash and spread fire with flaming gasoline.

But these enemy tactics, Nimitz said, "cannot prevent our continuing success in the war in the Pacific."

SUICIDAL JAPS GUIDE NEW BOMB

Guam, April 27 (A. P.).—Airplane-launched rocket bombs piloted by suicidal Japanese are being used in the battle for Okinawa, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today. Already the erratic, explosive-loaded craft have been labeled "baka bombs," a Japanese word meaning "fool."

The little ships, launched from the undersides of bombing plane fuselages, have a wingspan of about 16 feet, are more than 19 feet long, and have an 8-foot tailplane. They resemble tiny, single-seated airplanes. Pilots sit under a teardrop canopy. A warhead of explosives is carried in the nose of each plane as it swoops inaccurately toward a target.

While the baka bombs attain high speeds they are difficult to maneuver, and ships dodge them by evasive action.

Nimitz said a full study of their effectiveness has not been possible since the Japanese thus far have used them in limited numbers.

Associated Press Correspondent Vern Haugland reported from Okinawa the Japanese first used baka bombs April 12 in an all-out attack against American shipping which cost them hundreds of airplanes.

James Strebig, Associated Press aviation editor, discussing the varied uncomplimentary meanings of "baka" and its combinations, noted that "bakawarai means a horse laugh. That is just what officials are giving the Japanese bomb."

RAID OF SUPERFORTS HAS 'GOOD RESULTS'

WASHINGTON, April 27—(AP) A third attack by Superfortresses in three days against air installations in the Japanese homeland today (April 28 Japanese time) met with good results, 20th Air force headquarters announced.

The B-29s—perhaps as many as 150—carried out their bombing by visual means. One American plane was lost to enemy action.

Headquarters said anti-aircraft fire generally was moderate over the six airfield targets and fighter opposition was weak.

6 Airfields Hit At Kyushu

Guam, April 27 (AP)—At medium altitude in good bombing weather, 100 to 150 superfortresses bombed six southern Kyushu airfields by daylight today.

The fields are staging bases for Japanese aircraft raiding American forces at Okinawa.

Lieut. Frederick A. Dimit, of Bartlesville, Okla., hand-bombed the Japanese mainland during yesterday's raids.

When a 500-pound bomb stuck in its rack during a B-29 raid, Dimit, who weighs 200 pounds, crawled back from his bombardier's post. He found a bomb shackle stuck and no way to free it.

So Dimit just lifted the 500-pounder and dropped it through the open bay to the Japanese mainland, 14,000 feet below.

Radio Tokyo said the main strength of the "150 Superfortresses" had flown in over Satsuma and Osumi peninsulas while others winged their way through the Bungo channel which separates Kyushu from the island of Shikoku.

REFUGEE FROM REICH A HERO ON OKINAWA

AT THE SOUTHERN OKINAWA FRONT, April 27 (AP)—A slim, wiry boy who fled Nazi intolerance is rapidly becoming a legend in the fighting for Okinawa.

India - Burma Headquarters, April 26 (Delayed) (A. P.).—They are American officers who "went native" in the north Burma hills. Back home they were college professors, taxi drivers, reporters, engineers, but out here, for two years, they lived as Burma tribesmen, eating native food and speaking the simple dialect of the north Kachin Hills. They lived far behind the Japanese lines—and raised cain with the enemy war effort.

Headquarters disclosed their guerrilla activities today. Their mission has been a most closely guarded war secret in this theater. The merest whisper would have jeopardized the whole operation, which paved the way for reoccupation of the area.

The detachment, created by Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, led bands of North Kachin tribesmen who bombed bridges, destroyed railway communications, radioed espionage reports, and harassed the enemy with sharp attacks.

Officers of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps volunteered for the assignments.

Some infiltrated through the Japanese lines, others parachuted. Quickly word spread among the tribesmen that an American-led resistance movement was organizing. The natives flocked to join. Midget airfields were scratched out of the hills and the volunteers were flown to India for guerrilla training, then flown back. All became experts with light automatic weapons. The force became one of the strongest factors in the Burma campaign.

The identity of the American officer-leaders is still secret. They have been called the "forgotten men" of the service.

DRIVE FOR RANGOON RUSHED BY BRITISH

Hundreds of Allied Planes Aid Ground Troops—Burmese Join Pursuit of Japanese

CALCUTTA, India, April 27 (AP)—British Fourteenth Army tank columns, dashing southward from Toungoo along the 150-mile road to Rangoon, made "considerable progress" today as American and British planes, ranging ahead, raked southern Burma and set scores of fires amid Japanese installations.

Hundreds of Allied planes struck throughout southern Burma, ordered to "fire on anything moving." Two trains in the Rangoon area exploded under fire as the fighters wrecked enemy communications.

The British thrust into lower Burma was so swift that it caught the Japanese completely unprepared. In the vicinity of Toungoo the British and Indian troops occupied Japanese fortifications that were the strongest yet seen.

Troops of the Burma National Army, trained by the Japanese, joined British and Indian troops along the railroad and highway toward Rangoon, mopping up Japanese troops that had been left behind. Hundreds of Burmese guerrillas also aided the British.

Heavily loaded Japanese coastal ships have been observed making quick trips from Rangoon to the coast of Malaya in the last few weeks.

Planes of the Eastern Air Command have been shooting up trains loaded with troops moving from Rangoon toward Thailand.

HEADING FOR RANGOON

Calcutta, April 27 (A. P.).—British Fourteenth Army tanks, advancing at a pace that may put them in Rangoon by May 15, have made considerable progress south of the newly captured Burmese railway town of Toungoo, Allied headquarters announced today.

Pyu, forty-eight miles south of Toungoo, was the next major objective as the armor rolled along the axis of the Mandalay-Rangoon railway through disorganized Japanese resistance. A communique reported only artillery activity on the Fifteenth Indian Corps front east of Taungup in the west coast area.

BASE THREATENED

CHUNGKING, April 27.—(AP) Forward elements of Japanese pushing toward the American air base at Chihkiang were reported by an Army spokesman today to be within 65 miles of their objective.

Chihkiang is 250 miles southeast of Chungking.

EDITORS FIND NEED FOR FREE PRESS

Honolulu, April 27 (A. P.).—High hopes that the nations of the world will have post-war freedom of the press and communications was voiced today by two of the three-member American Society of Newspaper Editors globe-girdling committee.

The committeemen, Ralph Emerson McGill, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, and Wilbur S. Forest, assistant editor of the New York Herald Tribune, said that they found everywhere, and especially among smaller nations, the admission that there is urgent need for a free press.

McGill and Forrest arrived here on the semi-final stage of their world tour in the interest of the free flow of news in and out of all countries. The third member of the committee, Dean Carl W. Ackerman of the Columbia University School of Journalism, remained in Chungking temporarily but is expected here shortly.

"It was astounding to visit countries such as Italy and Belgium, where people are literally starved for news," said McGill. "A professor in Italy said that they hadn't had free books for years. Belgium has been under a news blackout for five years. When some of our troops entered, people asked, 'what's going on in the world?' Even before they asked for bread."

In Russia, they said, they found a strong wish for peaceful relations with the United States, and were encouraged by a conference with S. A. Losovsky, Vice-Commissar for Foreign Affairs.

McGill and Forrest said that they would recommend that after the war a world press conference be held in Australia, which was the first country to propose such a meeting.

PLOT CHARGED IN ARGENTINA

Retired Army Officers Held, Government Announces

Buenos Aires, April 27 (AP)—Several retired army officers, including Gen. Adolfo S. Espindola, have been arrested on charges of plotting a revolt against the Argentine Government, it was announced today.

A special communiqué said there was ample evidence that the leaders planned to assassinate officials of President Edelmiro Farrell's Administration and to eliminate all army officers who refused to participate in the coup.

The fall of Berlin was to be the signal for the revolt, the communiqué stated, adding that the plot was conceived by politicians identified with the clandestine organizations "Patria Libre" and "Asociacion de Mayo," who hoped to regain the power they lost when the present military regime took control after the 1943 revolution.

Espindola, whom the communiqué named as the man designated to become president of the proposed provisional government, is best remembered as the officer who was photographed with his hand upraised in a "V for victory" sign when welcoming the late Gen. Augustin P. Justo back from Brazil three years ago after Justo had offered to join the Brazilian army in the war against the Axis. Justo, President of Argentina from 1932 to 1938, was an outstanding Argentine friend of the United Nations at the time of his death early in 1943.

The communiqué listed a number of retired army officers who had been taken into custody, but said the names of others would be released later.

Although his name was not included on today's list, Gen. Arturo Rawson, who led the 1943 revolt and served two days as President before himself being ousted, was known to have been arrested.

Sabotage-Supervision Confession Reported

Rio de Janeiro, April 27 (AP)—Federal police said today that a 53-year-old German engineer, George Friedrich Blass, who has been under arrest since April 9, had admitted being the "supervisory chief" of a German sabotage ring whose activities extended into practically every capital in South America.

Blass acknowledged his connection with the ring in a deposition, police declared, but denied that he actually had committed any acts of sabotage himself.

Three alleged accomplices also were arrested.

PROTESTS NEW CUT IN TARIFFS

Mine Association Fears Low Foreign Costs.

Washington, April 27 (A. P.).—Colorado mining interests, claiming serious injury from operation of the reciprocal trade program, asked Congress today to deny the administration additional authority to cut tariffs.

Robert S. Palmer of Denver, manager of the Colorado Mining Association, appealed before the House Ways and Means Committee as the first witness opposing the administration's request for new duty-trimming powers.

"We can't compete with foreign low cost labor," he said. "It doesn't seem fair to place social security costs, workmen's compensation, occupational disease, and all the other costs on American producers and expect them to compete with foreign producers who pay low wage scales and are not subject to any of the other costs so recently imposed on American producers."

Palmer said that injury to mining in Colorado, that State's largest industry, resulted from reduction of tariffs on certain mine products in trade agreements with Canada and Mexico.

Five Recommendations.

Palmer made five specific recommendations to the committee:

1. Extend the provisions of the present reciprocal law for one year.

2. Grant no additional authority to reduce tariff rates.

3. Make provision in the extension of authority to the executive department that no competitive raw materials be permitted entry unless costs of production and duties are the equivalent of American costs of production when American goods of equal utility are commercially available.

4. Make provision for equalization of foreign exchange in computing protection required for American goods in competition with foreign goods.

5. Make provision for automatic enforcement of escape clause provisions where harmful effects are clearly shown by American producers or where, as provided in the present law, serious injury is threatened to domestic producers.

Cites Zinc as Example.

Palmer followed six administration witnesses who pleaded for the additional tariff-trimming authority as a means of expanding American trade, increasing employment and contributing to world peace.

"Many of our mines will be closed down," Palmer said, "unless we have some protection from foreign competition."

He said that after the trade agreements were made with Mexico and Canada, cutting the tariff on zinc 20 to 50 per cent, the price of this American metal dropped $2.50 a ton. He added that "our please (to the Government) fell on deaf ears."

Representative Mills (D.-Ark.) introduced figures intended to show that the production of zinc has increased many fold in recent years.

CAPITAL BUZZING WITH REPORTS OF CABINET CHANGES

WASHINGTON, April 27—(AP) The Capital buzzed again tonight with reports of a possible cabinet shakeup after President Truman played host to two former Senate associates.

The Chief Executive talked with Ex-Senator Samuel D. Jackson of Indiana at the White House and had former Senator Lewis B. Schwellenback of Washington to breakfast and lunch at the Blair House.

Jackson, permanent chairman of the 1944 Democratic convention, has been mentioned as a possibility for various posts, including that of attorney general.

Schwellenbach was reported in congressional circles to have been asked to come to Washington. His name has figured in speculation on possible choices for both attorney general and secretary of labor. He is now a Federal district judge in his home state.

Meanwhile, Henry A. Wallace, now commerce secretary and generally regarded as likely to stay in that post as long as he wants to, told reporters after talking to Mr. Truman:

"We seem to understand each other perfectly."

Wallace did not comment on the endorsement of President Truman for a second term by a delegation of Pennsylvania Democratic leaders who called at the White House yesterday.

Jackson, who said he asked to see the President to "pay my respects," told reporters he was returning to Indiana tonight after handling some private matters here.

He said "I wouldn't have any idea" when reporters asked whether he was under consideration to replace Attorney General Francis Biddle.

Schwellenbach said he had not discussed any position with Mr. Truman, and that he would "be around for a few days."

Secret Service men were told to permit Schwellenbach to come and go at the White House as he pleased.

PAULEY IS NAMED TO WAR DEBT BOARD

WASHINGTON, April 27—(AP) Edwin W. Pauley resigned as treasurer of the Democratic National committee today and accepted appointment by President Truman as American member of the Allied Reparations commission.

The 42-year-old California oil man also will be Mr. Truman's personal representative in reparations dealings with other "interested nations." His assignment now is to the commission dealing with restitution from Germany, but Pauley said it will carry over to whatever group deals with reparations from Japan. He will have the rank of ambassador.

Pauley will take the place of Isador Lubin, Commissioner of Labor Statistics, who was appointed American member of the commission March 12 by Secretary of State Stettinius. Lubin was chosen by Mr. Truman today as Pauley's associate with the personal rank of minister.

The President called a special news conference to announce the appointments. He made no explanation why Pauley is supplanting Lubin, who long had been doing economic studies for the late President Roosevelt.

Lubin had been engaged on reparations preliminary studies since he returned to the United States March 4 from a study of labor and general economic problems in France, Holland, Belgium and Germany.

President Truman said Pauley and Lubin will cooperate with W. Averell Harriman, ambassador to Moscow. The Allied Reparations commission, Pauley said, will meet in the Soviet capital some time after May 10. Britain and Russia also will be represented on the commission.

In a formal statement, Pauley emphasized he was "not a 'soft peace' man."

But he added that whether there is a hard or soft peace is a question for all the United Nations to decide. He said he would do everything in his power to prevent it from being a "brittle" peace—one that may be hard in the making "but will not hold together under the strain of postwar economics."

SEC DECLARES IT HAS LIFTED FINANCE ETHICS

Tells the Congress a New Concept of Fair Dealing Prevails in Nation.

Washington, April 27 (A. P.).—The Securities and Exchange Commission reported to Congress today that "a higher standard of ethics in the handling of other people's money" exists as a result of the administration of six statutes intrusted to it since its creation in 1934.

The commission submitted to Congress a 252-page survey of activities in its first decade, ended June 30, 1944. The statutes are the securities act of 1933, the securities exchange act of 1934, public utility holding company act of 1935, the trust indenture act of 1939, the investment company act of 1940 and the investment advisers act of 1940.

"There now prevails new concepts of fair dealing, of adequate disclosures and of the duties of management and insiders," the report continues. "The general acceptance of these ethical standards by the business community is reflected not alone in the policies and outlook of those subject to the commission's jurisdiction but . . . in many respects in the practices of businesses not within the jurisdiction of the commission."

The SEC issued more than 2,000 orders in its first decade, the report discloses, against which 100 petitions for review were filed. Objections raised in eighty-four of these were denied by courts, thirteen cases are pending and the commission's decision was set aside in the remaining three.

The only original appointee of the five-man commission still serving is Robert E. Healy, 62-year-old former chief counsel to the Federal Trade Commission.

Utility Holding Company Record.

Of the administration of the public utility holding company act, under which fifty-three holding company systems with consolidated assets of nearly $16,000,000,000 are registered, the commission reports:

"Complex capital structures are being replaced by simple capital structures. Holding company debts are being paid off, risky holding company preferred stocks with their huge accumulations of dividend arrearages are being converted to common stock so as to permit once again a flow of income to the security holders.

"Holding companies are going through a shrinking process. . . . They must slough off their scattered holdings, and their security holders are receiving, either in exchange or as liquidating dividends, common stocks of sound operating companies. Under these conditions in the years to come, the operating utility industry will have a greater ability to raise equity capital on a sound basis to finance its ever-growing needs; and the investors who furnish that capital will receive their dividends direct, without being subjected to the expense and risk of supporting an outmoded holding company organization."

Some SEC Statistics.

The survey includes the following statistics for the 10-year period:

Registration statements under the Securities act totaled 4,337 and covered $25,345,393,000 of securities with 221 statements aggregating $1,759,700,000 filed with the year ended June 30, 1944.

A total of $118,588,393,000 in stocks and $21,478,630,000 in bonds was traded on nineteen registered stock exchanges.

About 4,364 brokers were registered under the Securities Exchange act and 213 registrations were revoked, suspended or denied for violations.

The commission enjoined 1,057 firms and individuals for violations and indicted 2,316 defendants. Of these, 1,100 were convicted. The SEC violations filed include the names of 44,399 persons.

Japan Admits Fuel Shortage Hampering Plane Operations

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27—(AP) A shortage of fuel and light metals is imposing difficulties on operations of Japanese military aviation, Tokyo radio conceded today in an admission that the Allies have severed Nippon's China Sea supply line.

"Japan is cut off from resources of the southern regions," said the broadcast monitored by the FCC.

The broadcast, however, hastened to assure the homeland that aircraft would be manufactured from wood and light metals in storage, and plane fuel would be produced from potatoes and pine root oil.

A spokesman for the Japanese board of information was quoted in another broadcast as stating that Nippon will make a formal protest to the United States, through the Swiss government, over the sinking of the relief ship Awa Maru. The Nipponese claim the vessel was torpedoed by an American submarine.

Japanese newspapers continued their potshots at the San Francisco United Nations conference. The Yomiuri-Hochi predicted a "pitched diplomatic battle" between the United States and Russia. The paper's editorial was read over Tokyo's radio.

Making a special appeal to the Brazilian delegation, "because of her many admirers in Japan," Tokyo said:

"We hoped the Latin-American delegates will be aided by other conference delegations in their attempts to frustrate the big powers' schemes for usurping Latin-American rights.

"The U.S.A. wants to rule the world.

"We are the real Pan-Americans. The Yankee variety is designed to filch air and naval bases only."

TRUMAN HEARS OF FOOD NEEDS

British Production Minister Calls on President.

Washington, April 27 (A. P.).—Oliver Lyttelton, British Minister of Production, told President Truman today that some progress had been made in supplying the critical needs of liberated countries; but he told reporters he had informed Mr. Truman that the situation remains serious regarding some items, particularly food and transport. Mr. Lyttelton heads a British mission which has been discussing the relief situation here with Canadian and American members of the Combined Production Board.

Col. John Llewellyn, British Food Minister, has been discussing the food phases with representatives of the Combined Food Board. The rapid rate with which countries have been liberated, Mr. Lyttelton told reporters, has caused critical shortages in coal, transport, food, and cotton textiles.

He said that he had had fruitful discussions with his colleagues on the combined board and that they were taking all the means they could to accelerate production in the world pool. As for food, he said that the three countries had made up a world balance sheet.

This shows wheat to be in good supply, with progress being made in its movement. Items still short, but which plans have been made for increased production, are oils and fats, sugar, meat, and some dairy products.

Mr. Lyttelton said that trucks were needed to get things moving to the liberated areas after the supplies reach contineutal Europe. He emphasized that the economic life of these countries must be re-established as quickly as possible to prevent them from becoming a "drain on the rest of the world."

Mr. Lyttelton described President Truman as having a complete grasp of the situation. He said that he was leaving soon for London to lay before Prime Minister Churchill the plans to speed up relief, and he voiced a hope that before long it would be possible for the three countries to issue a statement dealing with the major part of the program.

OPA Challenges Right To Talk, Thomas Says

Washington, April 27 (AP)—Senator Thomas (D., Okla.) declared today that OPA was challenging the right of citizens to testify before a congressional committee. He said he was "surprised" that a Federal agency would take such an attitude.

The chairman of the Senate Agriculture subcommittee investigating food shortages read into the record a news release from the Boston OPA regional office quoting Director Eldon C. Shoup as saying that testimony before the committee represented "the most vicious pressure-group tactics yet undertaken."

Shoup referred to witnesses who complained about the Administration of Price Control.

Statement Called "Propaganda"

Thomas said the statement was "propaganda," that it "simply attacks the constitutional right of a citizen to testify before a congressional committee."

The administration's new ten-point program designed to step up meat output and protect the packer against loss came in for fresh criticism at today's hearing. Thomas read a number of telegrams from packers who said the plan offered them no relief. A Utica (N.Y.) firm said it was "surrounded by an enormous black market" that the program wouldn't halt.

Wilbur La Roe, Jr., general counsel of the National Independent Meat Packers Association, testified that the "so-called relief" in the plan "is utterly inadequate." In some cases, he said, it would reduce losses but other packers would be "worse off."

Classification Called Unfair

Classifying the long-established intrastate packers, numbering about 362, with the "new, mushroom slaughterers—26,100" is unfair, he said. Many of the latter group, La Roe asserted, are in the black market.

War Food Administration issued permits "so recklessly" to these new slaughterers, he declared "that literally hundreds of plants have been closed by state authorities to protect the health of the citizens."

Other Moves On Food Front

Elsewhere on the food front:

1. The OPA reduced blue-point ration values on canned snap beans, tomato catsup, chili sauce and 24-ounce cans of tomato and vegetable juice and hiked the point value of grape juice.

2. Chairman Anderson (D., N.M.) and his House Food Investigating Committee returned from an eastern inspection tour and began work immediately on a report that may be critical of OPA's handling of the meat situation.

Said Anderson: "The meat black market is a very well established institution—and nothing much is being done about it."

"I would say that the meat supply in New York is certainly more than 50 per cent black market, probably is 75 per cent and may be as high as the 90 per cent some have estimated."

TRUMAN ASKS VIGIL ON HIS OWN REGIME

Washington, April 27 (A. P.).—President Truman today invited the Senate War Investigating Committee to keep the same watch on his administration as he kept on the Roosevelt administration when chairman of that committee.

Senator Brewster (R.-Me.), a member of the committee which long bore Mr. Truman's name, reported the President's invitation after a White House call.

"I asked him if he thought we should keep the same watchful eye on this administration as he did on home-front war activities of the last one," Mr. Brewster told reporters. He added that the President indicated that he would welcome such a watch.

Senator Brewster recalled that the President's mother has always said her boy "plowed the straightest furrow" of any farmer in Missouri and said he told the President that if the latter followed all the advice he laid down when chairman of the committee there would be no doubt of the success of his administration.

Senator La Follette (Prog.-Wis.), another White House caller, told reporters he simply came to pay his personal respects and wish the President well.

TWO EX-SENATORS CALL ON TRUMAN

Washington, April 27 (A. P.).—President Truman conferred with two former Senate colleagues today amid increasing reports that he is planning early changes in his Cabinet.

His visitors were:

Former Senator Samuel D. Jackson of Indiana, who served as permanent chairman of the 1944 Democratic convention. He has been mentioned for Attorney-General.

Federal Judge Lewis B. Schwellenbach of the State of Washington, who has figured in current reports both as a possible choice for Attorney-General and Secretary of Labor.

Neither professed to have any idea what plans the President might have in mind for them.

Mr. Jackson, who said he had called to pay his respects, replied "that's just talk" when asked if there was any prospect of his replacing Francis Biddle as Attorney-General.

AFL Asks Labor Voice In World Money Plan

Washington, April 27 (AP)—AFL President William Green today urged Congress to approve the Bretton Woods monetary agreements after adding provisions that he said would protect labor.

Terming approval of plans for a world bank and currency stabilization fund of "vital importance" in implementing the proposed peace-keeping organization, Green suggested to the House Banking Committee that these two policy declarations be inserted:

1. That consultation with the International Labor Organization be made a basic administrative procedure before deciding upon use of funds.

2. That in considering bank loans, the recipient be required to guarantee observance of prevailing wages and hours, safety and health standards and, in general, the labor standards recommended by the ILO.

Senator Also Asks Changes

Green's appearance before the House group came after Senator Thomas (D., Okla.) told reporters he would propose amendments to the Bretton Woods agreement calling for inclusion of silver and use of a theoretical gold coin as a world monetary unit.

"The American Federation of Labor," Green said in a statement prepared for the Banking Committee, "believes that it is both a matter of human decency and also a matter of enlightened self-interest on the part of the United States to share . . . in restoring the pre-war economic status of our allies.

"Substantial Contribution"

"It will be necessary to take action in other important fields, such as food, cartels, surplus commodities, aviation and others, and it is not to be expected that the Bretton Woods agreements alone will afford a complete solution to postwar chaos in international trade.

"We do believe, however, that these agreements can make a substantial contribution toward solving immediate and long-term problems of exchange and international investment."

The Agencies Proposed

Worked out at the Bretton Woods (N.H.) international monetary conference last July, the agreements provide for:

1. A stabilization fund from which member countries could borrow money of other countries in order to meet short-term shortages of those currencies.

2. An international bank that would guarantee loans for development and rehabilitation projects throughout the world.

What Thomas Wants

Thomas said he would propose that dealings under the agreements be in the gold ounce as the theoretical monetary unit. An ounce of gold is worth $35.

Then, if a country borrowed Italian lire, for instance, and the lira's value was lowered in terms of gold, he said, the debtor nation would be required to pay back lire to the amount of the gold value.

The Silver Proposal

As for silver, Thomas said he would have silver-holding nations put the metal into the bank at the price at which silver was then selling on the world market in terms of gold. That price at present is about 50 cents an ounce.

If this were done, Thomas predicted, silver would increase in price until it reached a value comparative to its production ratio with gold. Silver production is now about six to eight times that of gold by weight, he said.

Parley Turned That Down

Thomas expressed the belief that there is a good chance the Senate will approve his amendments. There are eleven major silver producing States, and so "there should be 22 votes right there," he said.

The Bretton Woods conference itself rejected a similar silver proposal.

Both the Treasury and the State Department have indicated fear that the whole plan will collapse if any major changes are made by Congress. They take the view that a major alteration would necessitate a new international conference and would be regarded by other nations as an invitation to make changes of their own.

SEWELL RENAMED WARD PRESIDENT AT ANNUAL MEET

CHICAGO, April 27—(AP) Montgomery Ward and Company stockholders today indorsed the administration of Sewell L. Avery whose defiance of the WLB prompted Army seizure of company properties in seven cities.

Chairman Avery and his slate of 14 directors were re-elected at the annual meeting which rejected a minority stockholders group candidate for a directorship and quashed two resolutions criticizing management policies.

The minority group attempted to elect James G. Patton, Denver, Colo., president of the National Farmers union. He polled 1,848,000 votes compared with 3,703,875 for Avery whose vote total topped the company slate.

Heavy totals were piled up against the resolutions attacking company policies, especially with regard to labor relations.

One, submitted by Frank W. McCulloch of suburban Evanston, demanded that the management "cease their defiance of and noncompliance with orders of the National War Labor board." It drew 159,886 votes to 3,468,533 against.

The second resolution, by Miss Zara DuPont of Cambridge, Mass., asked the stockholders to condemn the management's policy in WLB disputes. She contended the Avery regime had wasted stockholders money through "prolonged and unreasonable litigation, extravagant newspaper advertising and destruction of public good will."

The vote was 156,390 for and 3,472,029 against.

When a stockholder endeavored to table both resolutions, Avery declared "I am not uncomfortable amid criticism" and called for a vote. He said most of those represented by the critics "have no interest in the company whatsoever."

The meeting was moved from the company's main building, where the Army is making other use of the stockholders' room, to the Drake hotel to accommodate the attendance.

The Army has retained supervision of most of the seized properties since Dec. 28 although Judge Philip L. Sullivan of the Federal District Court, Chicago, ruled on Jan. 27 that President Roosevelt had no statutory or constitutional authority to order seizure because of defiance of WLB directives.

Sales, Profits Up

The Treasurer Harold L. Pearson reported 1945 first quarter net sales of $153,000,000 were 18 per cent higher than for the corresponding 1944 period and the largest volume in any comparable period.

Net profit before taxes, he said, was $12,600,000 or 60 per cent higher than last year, and net profit after taxes was $5,000,000, compared with $3,400,000 last year.

EXTENDING DRAFT LAW IS APPROVED

WASHINGTON, April 27—(AP) After approving unanimously a restriction against use of 18-year-old inductees in combat, the House sent to President Truman today legislation extending the draft law.

Without the extension, the act under which the United States has conscripted the biggest Army and Navy in its history would have expired on May 15.

The continuance is until May 15, 1946, or until the end of the global war, whichever comes first.

The House action was by voice vote on the question of concurring in a Senate amendment to an earlier House bill extending the draft law without change.

The Senate's amendment prohibited the use in combat of inducted men under 19 until they have had at least six months of training. It grew out of complaints of members of Congress that youths had been killed in action less than six months from the time of their induction.

While the Army had opposed the curb when the House first acted on the bill last month, it was understood to have withdrawn its objection in the light of recent developments on the war fronts.

AFL Asks Bretton Fund Pact Be Voted After Adding Provision to Protect Labor

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, urged Congress today to approve the Bretton Woods monetary agreements after adding provisions which, he said, would protect labor.

SUBSIDIES ON MILK ADVANCED BY WFA

Year's Payments to Be $541,000,000 as Compared With 1944 Total of $384,000,000

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—The War Food Administration announced today an upward revision in dairy production subsidy rates committing the Government to pay farmers about $541,000,000 over a twelve-month period ending April 1, 1946. This amount compares with total payments of $384,000,000 during 1944.

The WFA said the increased rates were designed to encourage "the highest practicable level of milk production" for wartime needs without increasing consumer prices of dairy products.

An important feature of the new subsidy rate schedule are changes which increase payments on butterfat in relation to payments made on whole milk. This increase was directed by Congress in recent legislation extending the life of the Commodity Credit Corporation, the WFA's banking agency.

Sponsors of the Congressional action contended that the previous rate schedule tended to discourage butter production. Hereafter, butterfat rates must be equivalent to one-fourth of the national average rates on whole milk. Previously they were about one-sixth.

Under the new schedule the rates for butterfat were set at 17 cents a pound for April, 1945; 10 cents in May and June, 13 cents in July, August and September, and 17 cents from October through March, 1946. They previously were 10 cents a pound on a year-around basis.

The rates on whole milk range from 25 to 55 cents per 100 pounds in May and June; 45 to 75 cents in July, August and September, and 60 to 90 cents from October through March, 1946. Rates are generally highest in higher cost production areas, which include areas which must import feed. They are lowest in areas where feed supplies are ample and cheaper.

HOUSE VOTES ON DRAFT LAW

Approves Combat Restriction For 18-Year-Olds

Washington, April 27 (AP)—After approving unanimously a restriction against use of 18-year-old inductees in combat, the House sent to President Truman today legislation extending the draft law.

Without the extension, the act, under which the United States has conscripted the biggest army and navy in its history, would have expired on May 15.

The continuance is until May 15, 1946, or until the end of the global war, whichever comes first.

Amended By Senate

The House action was by voice vote on the question of concurring in a Senate amendment to an earlier House bill extending the draft law without change.

The Senate's amendment prohibited the use in combat of inducted men under 19 until they have had at least six months of training. It grew out of complaints of members of Congress that youths had been killed in action less than six months from the time of their induction.

While the Army had opposed the curb when the House first acted on the bill last month, it was understood to have withdrawn its objection in the light of recent developments on the war fronts.

The restriction does not prevent the Navy or the Coast Guard from assigning 18-year-old inductees to training on combat ships. Presumably—although the bill does not say so—such trainees would be kept out of actual combat if possible.

Volunteers Not Affected

Neither does it require the recall from combat of men now in fighting units without six months of training.

Representative Sparkman (D., Ala.), who handled the bill for the House Military Committee, obtained approval for an expression of congressional intention that the legislation should not interfere with the Army or Marine Corps program of training new inductees outside this country. Such men, however, would not be called upon to face the enemy until they had been trained at least six months.

Sparkman explained also that the legislation would not preclude the use in combat of volunteers under 19 without six months of training.

Schwellenbach May Join Cabinet

Washington, April 27 (AP)—The Capital buzzed again tonight with reports of a possible Cabinet shake-up after President Truman played host to two former Senate associates.

The Chief Executive talked with former Senator Samuel D. Jackson, of Indiana, at the White House and had Federal Judge Lewis B. Schwellenbach, former Senator of Washington, to breakfast and lunch at the Blair House.

Jackson, permanent chairman of the 1944 Democratic convention, has been mentioned as a possibility for various posts, including that of Attorney General.

Now A Federal Judge

Schwellenbach was reported in congressional circles to have been asked to come to Washington. His name has figured in speculation on possible choices for both Attorney General and Secretary of Labor. He is now a Federal district judge in his home State.

Meanwhile, Henry A. Wallace, now Secretary of Commerce and generally regarded as likely to stay in that post as long as he wants to, said, after talking to Mr. Truman:

"We seem to understand each other perfectly."

Order To Secret Service Men

Jackson, who said he asked to see the President to "pay my respects," told reporters he was returning to Indiana tonight after handling some private matters here.

When reporters asked whether he was under consideration to replace Attorney General Francis Biddle he said, "I wouldn't have any idea."

Schwellenbach said he had not discussed any position with Mr. Truman, and that he would "be around for a few days." Secret Service men were told to permit Schwellenbach to come and go at the White House as he pleased.

CIVILIAN GOODS GET GO SIGN

APR 28 1945

WPB Makes Spot Reconversion Plan Nation-Wide

Washington, April 27 (AP)—The War Production Board today restored to nation-wide effect its "spot" reconversion plan for civilian goods production.

The action, a major step in WPB's program to get partial reconversion under way as rapidly as munitions cutbacks occur, puts the plan back in operation in 184 cities and major industrial areas where it had been suspended.

Under the spot plan, any manufacturer who can prove he has labor and machinery not needed for war work may apply to his WPB field office for permission to commence the manufacture of civilian and consumer products.

Plan Had Been Suspended

When Allied armies stalled at the German West Wall late in 1944, and armament demands soared in consequence, the plan was suspended in tight labor areas in order to prevent the diversion of labor from war production.

The progress of the European war and the announcement of recent and impending cutbacks in war production prompted WPB to restore the plan as a means of absorbing plants and pools of labor left idle by war-contract cancellations.

The action, however, did not make available allotments of copper, steel and aluminum for use by spot manufacturers. In the initial stages of the plan, allotments were granted if the metal producers had already filled priority-rated war orders. Such allotments have been withheld in recent weeks and are not yet being granted.

Originated By Nelson

"However, attention is called to the fact that idle and excess stocks [of metals] may be used for the production of civilian type goods under the procedure, and these items may be used immediately for authorized production," WPB's announcement said.

It was pointed out also that WPB's machinery for allocating the three basic metals would be relaxed when military cutbacks permit.

The spot plan, originated by former WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson on August 15, despite army and navy opposition, already has resulted in several thousand plants receiving permission to make more than $700,000,000 worth of various civilian articles. These authorizations extend through all of 1945.

To Be "Very Gradual"

Because of the recent stringency of metal supply, only about 30 per cent of the authorized production has gone ahead.

The manpower limitations placed on the plan on December 1 suspended its operation in Group 1 and Group 2 labor areas—those with critical or serious labor shortages—unless members of the local production urgency committee unanimously agreed to permit the civilian production; this was tantamount to a complete prohibition in the tight labor areas.

In announcing that all areas now would be on the same footing, Chairman J. A. Krug emphasized that the relaxation of WPB controls would be "very gradual" because of the need for maintaining full war production necessary to complete the victory in Europe, and keep abreast of quickening operations in the Pacific.

Clearing The Decks

Controls over textiles, leather, lumber, rubber, many chemicals and some other strategic materials will continue for some time, possibly throughout the Japanese war, he said.

Major effect of the new action, it was believed, would be to clear the decks for civilian goods when labor and materials are released by war-contract cancellations, thus permitting unemployment and plant shutdowns in areas hit by contract cancellations.

Simultaneously WPB announced the restoration of almost the entire tonnage of steel slashed on April 10 from the farm machinery production program. Lowering of military demands for steel made the action possible, it was stated. It means that the steel allocation of 195,000 tons for the April-May-June quarter will be increased by 53,600 tons of carbon steel and 2,140 tons of alloy steel.

Farm Machinery Affected

For the July-August-September quarter farm machinery producers will get an additional allotment of 52,600 tons of carbon steel and 747 tons of alloy, along with the 193,000 tons previously allotted.

The tonnage is less than necessary to complete 100 per cent of the authorized farm machinery production, WPB said, but will render it unnecessary for farm machinery companies to cancel orders on steel mills.

69th, A New Unit, Meets Russians

Washington, April 27 (AP)—One of the Army's new divisions, the 69th, made the historic junction with the Russian forces at Torgau.

The outfit, led by Maj. Gen. Emil F. Reinhardt, of Detroit, made its first announced appearance on the Western front March 8 as part of the 5th Corps of the 1st Army.

With the 11th Armored Division, it advanced on Leipzig, took Leuna on April 15, captured Leipzig four days later and reached the Mulde River east of Leipzig April 22. Three days later, division patrols made the first contact with the Soviets.

Started At Camp Shelby

The division, made up of soldiers drawn into the Army through selective service, was organized at Camp Shelby, Mississippi, May 15, 1943, and received its training there.

There was no 69th Division in the first World War, but there was a New York regiment known as "The Fighting 69th."

Reinhardt, 56-year-old native of Bay City, Mich., is a regular army man and a graduate of West Point. During the first World War, he served at various posts in this country and in 1919 was sent to Mayen, Germany, staying there until March, 1922, when he was transferred to Coblenz, Germany.

At Fort Leavenworth

Upon his return to the United States in the autumn of 1922, he entered the command and general staff school at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and was graduated the following year. He subsequently served as a military instructor at the University of Dayton in Dayton, Ohio, served at Fort Snelling, Minn., at the Army War College in Washington, and at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

In 1933 he was adjutant of the Texas district of the Civilian Conservation Corps at Fort Sam Houston.

Instructor In Pa.

In 1934, he was assigned as an instructor of the Pennsylvania National Guard at Washington, Pa., serving there until he returned to Washington, D.C., in August, 1938, as executive officer of the Washington provisional brigade. In the next three years he was stationed at Fort Francis E. Warren in Wyoming and at Fort Ord, Cal.

He took command of Camp Wolters, Texas, late in 1941 and then became commanding general of the 76th Infantry Division at Fort George G. Meade, Maryland, in May, 1942. The following November he assumed command of the 13th Corps at Providence, R.I., and a year later was named commander of the 8th Corps at Brownwood, Texas. A short time later he went overseas on an unannounced assignment.

Reinhardt's wife lives in Decatur, Georgia.

PEWS ASK PROOF OF FASCIST CLAIM

Washington, April 27 (A. P.).—Joseph N. Pew Jr. and his brother, J. Howard Pew, today termed "a detestable lie" a statement placed in the April 19 Congressional Record by Representative Sabath (D.-Ill.) which listed "the Pews" as among "outstanding American Fascists."

The Philadelphia brothers—top officials of the Sun Oil Company—wrote Sabath demanding that he substantiate the charge or expunge their names from the record.

The Pew brothers demanded that Sabath place any evidence before the House Committee on un-American Activities "in a public hearing where we can confront you, or, lacking such evidence, that you move to have the names 'The Pews' expunged from the statement you inserted in the Congressional Record."

The Pew letter, as distributed in the House press gallery, told Sabath that "had you made such a scandalous and libelous statement outside of the halls of Congress, where you are protected by immunity we would bring action against you immediately in a court of justice." The letter asserted that the Pew family has "consistently opposed national socialism, Communism and all forms of Statism."

PRESIDENT TRUMAN IS PRESENTED POEM

WASHINGTON, April 27—(AP) Senator Brewster (R-Me.) brought a prayer to the White House today for President Truman.

It is a poetic plea by the poet, Henry Van Dyke. The President had expressed a desire for it only three days before former President Roosevelt's death sent him into the White House.

"It seems to express what I have in my heart'" Mr. Truman, vice president at the time, was quoted as having told Brewster. "'I want that little poem'."

From Van Dykes's, "The Tercentenary of Henry Hudson's Last Voyage," Brewster had used it last year in a speech to Missouri Masons where he made an address at the invitation of Truman, who presided as Grand Master.

The poem follows:

"The world is round and God is everywhere and while our shallop floats, we can steer. "So pointer up, John King, nor'west by nor' we'll keep the honor of a certain aim admidst the pearl of uncertain ways and sail ahead and leave the rest to God."

Brewster said that he thought that the poem was symbolic of America and that it was one of his favorites.

Brewster, a member of the Senate War Investigating committee formally headed by Mr. Truman, is one of the President's closest personal friends on the Republican side of the Senate.

Interior Department Bill Okayed By House

Washington, April 27 (AP)—The House passed by unanimous voice vote and sent to the Senate today a $101,242,628 appropriation bill for the Interior Department for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

Only $1,360,000 was chopped by the House during several days of debate from the total funds recommended by its Appropriation Committee. The reduction was in the allotment for engineering and investigations of proposed Federal reclamation projects.

The total in the bill was approximately $40,000,000 below budget estimates and $3,100,000 more than the department received for the current fiscal year.

TELLS NEWSWOMEN NO

APR 28 1945

Washington, April 27 (A. P.).—Mrs. Harry S. Truman will not continue Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's custom of meeting weekly with newswomen.

Announcing yesterday that she plans no news conferences, Mrs. Truman said that the women of the press could obtain facts about the family today from her personal secretary, Miss Reathel Odum.

It was specified that no more than twelve of the sixty members of Mrs. Roosevelt's Press Conference Association could attend the meeting with Miss Odum.

A secretary said that this meeting would be in the nature of a tea and not a news conference.

Lauds AP on Flag Photo Sale

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—Representative Cole of New York told Congress today that The Associated Press is giving to the Navy Relief Society all proceeds from sale of the photograph showing the raising of the American flag on Mount Suribachi, Iwo Jima, by United States Marines. He said: "Such action by The Associated Press is most hightly commendable and entirely in keeping with the fine traditions of that organization."

War Picture Outlined For President Truman

Washington, April 27 (AP)—The entire war situation was outlined with maps today in a two-and-one half hour session at the White House between President Truman and his top military advisers.

Admiral Ernest J. King, fleet commander in chief, told reporters the group gave the President a "picture of the war situation in all parts of the world."

Assistant Announced For Secretary Of War

Washington, April 27 (AP)—Assignment of Brig. Gen. Kenneth C. Royall to succeed Julius H. Amberg, who resigned as special assistant to the Secretary of War, was announced by the War Department.

APR 28 1945

General Royall, a former attorney at Raleigh and Goldsboro, N.C., entered the Army in 1942 and since May 15, 1943, has been deputy fiscal director for the army service forces. He is a veteran of World War I and served in France with the 317th Field Artillery. He was president of the North Carolina Bar Association in 1929-30.

Ship To Be Named For Ernie Pyle

Washington, April 27 (AP)—The Maritime Commission will name a ship for Ernie Pyle.

The name of the war correspondent killed in the Pacific recently will be assigned to a C-4 military-type cargo vessel, the commission announced today. This is one of the commission's largest ships.

Pentagon Visit Cleared Up

Washington, April 27 (AP)—Announcement of the juncture of American and Russian forces apparently cleared up today the matter of President Truman's hurried visit to the Pentagon on Wednesday.

It was on that day, the White House statement disclosed, that American and Russian patrols made their first contact at 2.40 P.M. (E.W.T.). Mr. Truman, obviously told that a junction was imminent, arrived at the army headquarters an hour earlier and remained well past the time of the actual linkup at Torgau.

Presumably, the Chief Executive went to the communications center to talk with General Eisenhower and possibly other Army leaders in the field and to study detailed maps of the area where the patrols met.

that the library served as the sole source of English and American books for Parisiens during the occupation. He said Germans bought all book stores containing English language books.

Lord recently completed a three months trip to Paris as reorganization director of the American library. He is on leave from his Boston post.

He said the Germans' behavior toward official libraries and institutions was "officially correct," but that private libraries, especially those of Jews, were expropriated. The Jewish and Polish libraries were looted and dismantled, Lord said.

There is a "living need" for American books and periodicals in France to bring the French people up to date on world happenings since 1940, according to Lord. He cited the example of one French woman who had never heard of the battle of Tarawa.

New York, April 27 (AP)—Mutiny in th[illegible]erman Navy, desertion in the Luftwaffe and revolt in the Wehrmacht have been reported to Hitler by a group of Nazi generals, admirals and party leaders, the Stockholm newspaper Tidningen said tonight in a dispatch reported by the Office of War Information.

Meeting at the Führer's headquarters, the leaders reported German airmen were going over to the Allies with their planes and troops were revolting in the south and northeast, the dispatch said, adding:

"The meeting agreed to advise Hitler immediately to cease completely the hopeless struggles."

The newspaper commented that "no Government authority exists any longer nor any united army leadership. The collapse is total, as never before in the history of war."

FRENCH LIBRARIES ARE REORGANIZED

NEW YORK, April 27—(AP) Milton E. Lord, director of the Boston Public Library, said today the Germans banned about 50 books, among them works by John Steinbeck, Ernest Hemingway and William L. Shirer, from the shelves of the American Library in Paris, but otherwise did not interfere with its operation.

He said at a press conference

Text of Dewey's Report on State Affairs

ALBANY, April 27 (AP)—Following is the text of Governor Dewey's "report to the people" by radio tonight:

The tremendous news of the final juncture of the Allied and Russian armies in Nazi Germany makes this a day which will gladden our hearts. It is also a day to reaffirm our solemn determination to bring about complete and crushing defeat for our remaining enemies in Germany and Japan and to impose rigorous punishment on their war criminals.

At the same time, the United Nations work earnestly at San Francisco to make the peace to come secure and lasting. Every one of us has his job to do in bringing the war to final victory, in working for future peace and also in making our own home community a happier place to live in after the war.

The New York Legislature adjourned last month and I have now completed dealing with the 1,272 bills passed at this session. So I continue tonight my annual custom of reporting to the people on what has happened in our State government. For this will be a major factor in determining the future of our thirteen million people.

The most careful planning for our returning veterans and the husbanding of our resources was, of course, uppermost in our minds. A million and a half of the sons and daughters of New York are in this war all over the world. Many of them who come home to us will have new physical handicaps and all will be entitled to the best possible opportunities in civilian life.

Reports on Veterans' Affairs

So New York led all forty-eight States in the nation this year in providing for its war veterans. Upon my recommendation, there was created a separate division of the State government devoted exclusively to veterans' affairs. With a $2,800,000 appropriation this division will have an office in every county to bring the service of the Government to the veteran right where he lives. There will be trained counselors to advise the returning veteran and his family on their problems and to put them in touch with expert services in every field, from factory jobs to agricultural opportunities, from psychiatric services to Government business loans.

I have insisted that the cold, mechanistic treatment of veterans and their families as objects of charity by a distant bureaucracy shall not and must not be permitted in our State. To direct this service, I have appointed Mr. Edward Neary, long a distinguished public servant in our State, former State Commander of the American Legion, a veteran of the last war, who knows from personal experience the differing types of problems our veterans will face.

In addition to the personalized counseling service, there will be rest camps and 2,400 scholarships for veterans.

Says Roads Were Neglected

There is another aspect of the future of those who have fought for liberty in this war. That involves their opportunities for jobs, to build businesses, to be free of excessive taxation and regimentation. Because of the shortage of manpower and of materials, a great many essential services have had to be suspended in the last few years.

For example, no modern community can live and grow without rapid communication furnished by fine roads. The products of labor, industry and agriculture are largely transported on our public highways. Yet our 13,000 miles of highways have been gradually crumbling under neglect for some fifteen years and in the last four years the war has greatly speeded their deterioration and made construction impossible. The same is true of many of our institutions, as well as our barge canal system and agricultural services and public works.

Who is going to pay for the mighty program which must be undertaken immediately after the war, when manpower and materials are again available? Did we send a million and a half New Yorkers away just to bring them home to pay for the repair and reconstruction of our State? Did we, during the period of large income, squander it and add further to the deadly causes of inflation? Your State administration has answered these questions with an emphatic no.

There are those who wanted all taxes radically reduced. There were others who, in order to catch votes here and there, wanted to give away $10,000,000 here or $75,000,000 there to be spent now, leaving the returning veteran to pay the cost of these maneuvers for political profit. I am happy to report that all of these efforts have been steadfastly rejected by the majority of the Legislature and by your State administration.

Report on Post-War Fund

As a result, we have accumulated a post-war reconstruction fund which now amounts to more than $323,000,000. It is here to restore the physical plant by which the State renders its services, to pay for our great veteran program, to bring business and agriculture in our State to the highest possible level—all, I believe, without the necessity for imposing new taxes to pay for these accumulated needs. I hope the fund will be over $400,000,000 by the end of this year and New York State can proudly say to its returned veterans: "We are not asking you to come home and pay for the things we could not do and the services we could not maintain while you were away at war. We carried the burdens while you were away. You are coming home to a State in good shape. We have kept the faith."

In addition, we have launched our State on a pay-as-you-go plan for the first time. By that I mean we earnestly hope to avoid the folly of the Nineteen Twenties, when we piled up hundreds of millions of dollars of State debt. Today we are still paying interest and principal on the cost of ancient, crumbling roads and worn-out firetraps long after their usefulness has come to an end.

Two years ago the net debt of this State was $496,000,000. We have already reduced the debt of the State by $75,000,000. During just this last fiscal year our people paid $48,000,000 in interest and principal on old debts. It is my hope that so far as the State's business is concerned we can look forward to a debt-free future in which we pay as we go and do not put our burdens on future generations.

Explains Housing Program

In the field of housing and slum clearance we are making steady progress. By 1944 the Legislature had authorized a total of $185,000,000 for new housing, of which $135,000,000 was made available for use in New York City. In addition, legislation has been passed enabling private capital to build great centers which will provide fine housing for thousands of people in previously blighted areas.

This year three more important steps were taken. One authorized an additional $35,000,000 for housing in the city of New York. The second, which you will be asked to approve at the polls next November, authorized additional periodic subsidies for metropolitan housing. The third bill authorizes to condemn large areas of land, clear them, rearrange streets, and build modern housing or other facilities suitable to the neighborhood.

As every citizen of New York knows, our State has long been a pioneer in maintaining high labor standards and enlightened relationships between labor and management. We took another great step in that field this year by placing on a permanent basis New York State's own school of industrial and labor relations at Cornell University.

The interests of labor and of business are, of course, the same—an ever higher living standard for all our people. Through this school, we will develop educated, trained leadership which will bring to the day-to-day relationships between working people and their employers a progressively higher level of understanding and capacity to work together for the common good.

Reports on Workers' Claims

In the same way, we have this year extended for the first time the benefits of workmen's compensation to all workers in restaurants and have enacted sweeping reforms in the administration of workmen's compensation to provide fair and prompt payment of claims to injured workmen.

Another old and knotty problem in the field of unemployment insurance was finally solved this year. For ten years our State under successive administrations collected unemployment insurance without giving any recognition to employers who made an earnest effort to maintain steady payrolls. Large, stable employers wanted to pay a very low rate for unemployment insurance because they caused very little unemployment. On the other hand, the seasonal industries thought they should pay no higher rate because they were in a seasonal business. Thus the building industry, the clothing industry and others of similar nature, together with their employes, were arrayed against any experience rating whatsoever. Yet a solution had to be found, in order to permit fair competition with business in other States and to prepare for the great job and business problems and opportunities after the war.

The problem was made more difficult because a few—a very few—of those hired lobbyists who swarm down on Albany were busy misrepresenting both the nature of the problem and the various bills before the Legislature.

Thus there was one bill which would have given merit rating, but at the same time it would have cut in half the reserves of our unemployment insurance fund. We have painfully accumulated that fund over ten years to almost a billion dollars, to take care of the working people of our State in just such an emergency as we may soon face, with large temporary unemployment following the war. I could not and would not permit that fund to be dissipated.

Describes Cuts in Payments

Finally, a sound, fair solution was worked out in a form of experience rating which, in addition to giving recognition to a stable, year-round payroll, also rewards stability of employment in the seasonal industries. It will permit reductions in this year's payments on unemployment insurance of $80,000,000, and more in the following year. The bill gave fair treatment to all business and saved the clothing business—the largest industry in the State.

This plan also saved our unemployment reserves and increased the maximum benefits from $18 to $21 a week, decreased from two weeks to one week the waiting period for the unemployed worker, and extended the benefit period from twenty to twenty-six weeks.

With 911 new laws and a great number of administrative changes, I cannot fully report on your State's business tonight. I will make another report next Friday night at this time, dealing with some more of the other problems of the State which we have met this year in the handling of your business, including the much-discussed anti-discrimination bill.

Of one thing you may be sure: your State administration has given progressive and financially sound administration. The rights of our workers have been advanced and the opportunities in business and employment have been increased. Our returning veterans will be welcomed home with every aid at our command to a State which has carried its own burdens during the war and has preserved liberty and opportunity for all.

Japanese Predict Battle at Conference

San Francisco, April 27 (A. P.).—Continuing a propaganda trend established by the powerful Tokyo newspaper Asahi, the Japanese paper Yomiuri-Hochi, predicted today a "pitched diplomatic battle" between the United States and Russia at the United Nations conference in San Francisco.

The Yomiuri-Hochi article, broadcast by the Domei news agency and recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, asserted that "Moscow's demand for the Warsaw regime's participation in the confab boils down to Russia's request for Anglo-American recognition of Soviet policy toward southeastern Europe."

JAPAN PROTESTS SINKING

Tokyo Reports Note on Awa Maru, Lost After Relief Voyage

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27 (AP)—Japan is making a "formal protest" to the United States over the sinking of the Awa Maru, Sadao Iguchi, spokesman for the Japanese Board of Information, said today.

The protest is based on the assumption an American submarine torpedoed the Awa Maru after she carried relief supplies to American prisoners and internees in Japanese-held territory.

Iguchi said the protest was transmitted through the Swiss Government and is "now on its way" to Washington. His statement was reported by the Japanese Domei News Agency in a dispatch monitored by the Federal Communications Commission.

THE TANKS COMMANDER ASKED HOW MANY RUSSIAN PRISONERS WERE IN GOOD CONDITION AND COULD WALK, DURFEY SAID, ADDING THAT "THOSE WHO COULD, WALKED OUT AND PICKED UP GERMAN RIFLES AND MACHINE PISTOLS AND MACHINE GUNS, AND WENT RIGHT INTO THE BATTLE WITH THE OTHER RUSSIAN TROOPS."

THE RUSSIANS ADVISED THE OTHER ALLIED PRISONERS TO STAY IN THEIR COMPOUNDS UNTIL THEY WERE EVACUATED THROUGH NORMAL PROCEDURES, BUT SOME SLIPPED OUT AND BEGAN MAKING THEIR WAY TO THE AMERICAN LINES. PARIS, APRIL 27-(AP)-GERMANY HAS BEEN SPLIT IN TWO BY THE JUNCTION OF AMERICAN AND RUSSIAN ARMIES, BUT HITLER STILL HAS ABOUT 15 DIE-HARD GARRISONS SCATTERED IN POCKETS IN THE CORNERS OF EUROPE.

HE MAY HAVE 100 DIVISIONS LEFT IN THE SOUTHERN SECTOR, INCLUDING WHAT IS LEFT OF AUSTRIA AND CZECHOSLOVAKIA. OBSERVERS SAY HE CANNOT HAVE MORE. THESE TROOPS HAVE NOT YET REACHED THE BAVARIAN ALPINE REDOUBT. MANY PERSONS BELIEVE HITLER HAS ONLY A HANDFUL OF TROOPS NOW IN THE ACTUAL REDOUBT AND IS HOPING TO DEFEND IT WITH OTHER TROOPS RETREATING BEFORE GEN. GEORGE S.PATTON, JR., AND LT.GEN.ALEXANDER M. PATCH.

ANOTHER 100,000 GERMAN TROOPS PROBABLY STILL ARE IN THE OCCUPIED CHANNEL ISLANDS, FRENCH PORTS AND HOLLAND. FRENCH PORTS YET HELD BY THE GERMANS INCLUDE ST.NAZAIRE, LORIENT, DUNKERQUE, AND LA ROCHELLE.

NAZI STRENGTH IN NORWAY AND DENMARK HAS BEEN ESTIMATED AT APPROXIMATELY FIVE DIVISIONS IN EACH COUNTRY; THESE MIGHT BE AUGMENTED BY WITHDRAWALS FROM WHAT IS LEFT OF NORTHERN GERMANY, WHERE THERE ARE POSSIBLY 20 DIVISIONS.

BEHIND THE RUSSIAN FRONT GREATLY DEPLETED REMNANTS OF 30 NAZI DIVISIONS REMAIN TO BE MOPPED UP ON THE COURLAND PENINSULA IN LATVIA.

Western Front--Situationer

By Wes Gallagher

On the Elbe, Germany, April 27-(AP)-The German military situation has become impossible, now that Gen. Eisenhower's armies have linked up with the Russians.

Official pessimism at supreme headquarters, as voice by Lt. Gen. Walter Beadle Smith, Gen. Eisenhower's chief of staff, that organized warfare can last for several months, is not shared by front line fighting commanders who see the end of Germany in a matter of weeks at the most.

Now does the pessimism ~~[illegible]~~ jibe with the expressed belief of German generals now flowing into allied prison camps. They dismiss Hitler's redoubt area as "a medieval idea" with no place in modern warfare.

Almost without exceptipn, frontline soldiers now predict an early end to the European war--even the most pessimistic prognosticators.

In front of this American ninth army, there is complete disintegration of the German front and soldiers' morale. American motorboats cruise the Elbe which is the front line unmolested, scorning even to pick up German prisoners.

Escaping American prisoners say there is nothing between the Americans and Russian lines west of Berlin except fleeing German civilians and soldiers.

A linkup in this area has not taken plage (as of 5:45 p.m. Friday) because the Russians are busy with encircled Berlin and the Americans are halted along the Elbe, pushing only patrols across. One patrol had not gone a mile before it had taken so many prisoners it had to return to ninth army lines.

And this sort of situation exists all up and down the western front.

Some 40 to 50 German divisions or remnants of divisions are pocketed in the north in Berlin and Denmark.

In Czechoslovakia, 50 to 60 divisions are threatened with isolati between The converging American third army and the Russians west of Vienna.

In the Bavarian redoubt area, there are another 20 divisions more them truthfully--remnants thereof.

The German failure to defend the Danube speaks for itself erman disintegration and manpower shortage.

IT HAPPENED JANUARY 21 WHILE CARRIER PLANES WERE RETURNING FROM A STRIKE ON FORMOSA. TWO 500 POUND BOMBS ACCIDENTALLY DROPPED FROM THE RACK OF A PLANE LANDING ON THE FLIGHT DECK OF THE U.S.S. MANCOCK. THEY EXPLODED 42 FEET FROM WHERE JAMES, UNITED PRESS CORRESPONDENT LLOYD TUPLING AND LIEUT. CMDR. DON THORBURN WERE LOOKING DOWN FROM THE FLAG BRIDGE.

THE PILOT AND REAR GUNNER, AND A NEARBY FLIGHT CREW WERE KILLED. THERE WERE OTHER INJURIES, SOME FATAL. THORBURN ALSO SUFFERED AN EAR DRUM FRACTURE. SHRAPNEL BOUNDED OFF TUPLING'S FOREHEAD AND A 75 POUND NAVIGATION INSTRUMENT WAS BLOWN OFF ITS STANDARD STRIKING HIM.

ALL JAMES REMEMBERS IS THAT ONE MOMENT HE WAS STANDING WITH PENCIL AND NOTEBOOK IN HAND AND THE NEXT HE WAS LOOKING DOWN ON THE BURNING PLANE. DEAD AND CRITICALLY INJURED WERE SCATTERED OVER THE DECK AND THE BRIDGE. BULLETS SPLATTERED WILDLY OVER THE SHIP AS BURNING GASOLINE SET OFF THE PLANE'S MACHINEGUN AMMUNITION.

LATER IN THE DAY RESULTS ON THE FORMOSA STRIKE CAME IN AND JAMES AND TUPLING WROTE STORIES. THE NEXT DAY THE FORCE HIT OKINAWA AND AMAMI O SHIPA, 175 MILES FROM JAPAN.

BY JAMES STREBIG
ASSOCIATED PRESS AVIATION EDITOR

GUAM, APRIL 27-(AP)-APPARENTLY THE NAVY DID ITS UTMOST TO FIND A DERISIVE TERM FOR THE HUMAN-PILOTED JAPANESE ROCKET BOMB. AMERICANS NAMED IT "BAKA BOMB."

KENKYUSHA'S NEW JAPANESE-ENGLISH DICTIONARY CARRIERS TWO PAGE OF DEFINITION OF THE WORD BAKA AND ITS COMBINATIONS, NONE OF WHICH IS FLATTERING. BASIC MEANINGS OF BAKA ARE LISTED AS FOOL, SIMPLETON, ASS, $9.(36, GOOSE, DUNCE, BLOCKHEAD, DULLARD, DOLT, NINNY, OAF, BOOBY, CHUMP AND IDIOT.

ADDING THE LETTERS "N" AND "A" MAKES BAKA AN ADJECTIVE MEANING FOOLISH, STUPID, IDIOTIC, WEAK-MINDED, DULL-WITTED.

SAMPLES OF COMBINATIONS SHOW BAKA-GOJO MEANS PIGHEAD OR VERY STUBBORN. BAKASU MEANS TO BEWITCH, ENCHANT OR DELUDE. BAKAWARI MEANS A HORSE LAUGH. THIS IS JUST WHAT OFFICIALS ARE GIVING THE JAPANESE BOMB.

THEY ATTAIN A HIGH SPEED, BY THE BOYS WHO FLY THEM DON'T GET A CHANCE TO PRACTICE, SO THERE ARE LOTS OF MISSES.

BERGHOLZ REPORTED THE CITY APPEARED FROM THE AIR TO BE "FAIRLY INTACT" BUT THAT THE JAPANESE HAD SET OFF EXPLOSIONS SOON AFTER THE AMERICANS GOT ASHORE, THREE MILES TO THE NORTH. HE COUNTED TEN FIRES BY NOON THURSDAY.

ALTHOUGH DAMAGED EARLIER IN THE WAR, THE FILIPINOS HAD LARGELY REBUILT THE CITY.

THE FORCE WHICH TURNED SOUTH OVERRAN A BOMB-CRATERED AIRDROME NORTH OF TOWN AND THEN SWEPT INTO DUMAGUETE BEFORE NIGHTFALL.

THE OTHER COLUMN KNIFED INLAND, TO THE WEST, ALONG THE OCOY RIVER TO CUT OFF THE ENEMY'S RETREAT TO THE HILLS.

TROOPS OF THE 40TH INFANTRY DIVISION FIRST INVADED NEGROS LAST MARCH 29, LANDING ON THE WEST COAST. THEY ADVANCED SWIFTLY, CAPTURING THE PROVINCIAL CAPITAL OF BACALOD BEFORE THE JAPANESE COULD DESTROY IT. WITHIN TEN DAYS THEY HAD SEIZED ALL SEVEN OF THE MAJOR AIRFIELDS ON NEGROS. ON APRIL 12, GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR ANNOUNCED CIVIL GOVERNMENT WAS BEING RESTORED TO THE ISLAND, "NOW PRACTICALLY FREED FROM ENEMY CONTROL AND OCCUPANCY."

EXISTENCE OF THE DUMAGUETE RESISTANCE AREA WAS FIRST ANNOUNCED BY MACARTHUR LAST DECEMBER 16. AT THAT TIME, IN A REVIEW OF GUERRILLA ACTIVITIES IN THE VISAYAN ISLANDS, HE SAID THE SOUTHERN HALF OF NEGROS HAD BEEN CLEARED EXCEPT FOR THE DUMAGUETE SECTOR, WHERE THE JAPANESE HAD BEEN POCKETED.

ADVANCES TOWARD THE JAPANESE STRONGHOLD OF DAVAO, ON SOUTHERN MINDANAO ISLAND, AND IN THE DRIVE FOR BAGUIO, SUMMER CAPITAL ON NORTHERN LUZON, WERE REPORTED BY FRIDAY'S COMMUNIQUE.

RENEWED ATTENTION WAS GIVEN TO THE EFFORT TO REMOVE THE JAPANESE MENACE TO MANILA'S DWINDLING WATER SUPPLY IN THE MOUNTAINS EAST OF THE CAPITAL. ELEMENTS OF THE AMERICAN SIXTH INFANTRY DIVISION BATTLED ENTRENCHED ENEMY FORCES WHICH CONTINUED TO RESIST STUBBORNLY. MANILA, APRIL 27-(AP)-A JAPANESE MENACE TO MANILA'S DWINDLING WATER SUPPLY COMMANDED RENEWED ATTENTION TODAY EVEN THOUGH AMERICAN FORCES APPEARED TO BE DRIVING THE ENEMY FROM TWO MAJOR OBJECTIVES ELSEWHERE IN THE PHILIPPINES.

TWO YANK REGIMENTS CONTINUED TO BATTLE ENTRENCHED NIPPONESE IN THE MOUNTAINS EAST OF MANILA, TRYING TO LIBERATE THE WATER SOURCE BEFORE A SHORTAGE MATERIALIZES.

ELEMENTS OF THE SIXTH DIVISION, WHOSE OBJECTIVE WAS WAWA DAM ON THE MARIKINA RIVER, FOUGHT A HEAVY NIPPONESE FORCE IN A SCORE OF WELL-INTEGRATED PILLBOXES ON THE CREST OF VITAL MT.PACAWAGAN, 14 MILES FROM THE CAPITAL.

THE PEAK IS 1,680 FEET HIGH AND THE YANKS HOLD ALL BUT THE CREST. THEY ASSAULTED THE PEAK WEDNESDAY BUT LOST A NUMBER OF MEN AND HALTED THEIR ADVANCE UNTIL A PATH COULD BE CLEARED FOR TANKS AND TANK DESTROYERS.

ANOTHER FORCE WAS DRIVING TOWARD IPO DAM ON THE ANGAT RIVER, 20 MILES FROM MANILA.

PIPELINES FROM THESE TWO DAMS FEED THE NOVALICHES RESERVOIR, FROM WHICH THE CAPITAL GETS WATER.

MANILA WAS WARNED SOME TIME AGO THAT ONLY A FEW WEEKS SUPPLY OF WATER REMAINED IN THE RESERVOIR. THE FIGHTING FOR THE SUPPLY DAMS HAS BEEN SLOW AND BITTER. ENEMY ELEMENTS HAVE HELD FORTH THERE EVER SINCE THE NIPPONESE LOST MANILA, IN FEBRUARY.

THERE NEARLY TWO CENTURIES AGO--IN 1761--RUSSIANS MET ANOTHER WESTERN ALLY, THE AUSTRIANS, TO RESIST FREDERICK THE GREAT OF PRUSSIA, THEIR MUTUAL ENEMY IN THE SEVEN YEARS WAR. FREDERICK HAD DEFEATED THE AUSTRIANS AT TORGAU A YEAR EARLIER.

Truman Denies Reports of Nazi Surrender, Touched Off by U.S. Official at San Francisco; Russia Says Himmler Is Trying to End War

Truman Calls Reporters to Deny Rumor

Says Story Is Unfounded After First Having Leahy Telephone Eisenhower

Connally Is Source, Insists He's Right

Russians Say Himmler Tried Vainly to Yield to U. S., Britain Alone

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 28.—A report of German unconditional surrender was denied tonight by President Truman.

The report had literally circled the globe in the wake of a statement by a high American official at the United Nations Conference in San Francisco that an announcement of Nazi capitulation could be expected momentarily.

Tension gripped Washington, and President Truman, who had left the White House in the early afternoon for his temporary residence in near-by Blair House, returned to the executive offices. He summoned an emergency news conference to say that "there is no foundation for the rumor" that Germany had finally given up.

Statement by President

As the military debacle in the Reich mounted hourly following the junction of American and Russian Armies south of tottering Berlin, Mr. Truman told the assembled reporters:

"Well, I was over here, as you can see, doing a little work, and the rumor got started.

"I had a call from San Francisco and the State Department called me.

"I just got in touch with Admiral Leahy (Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy, his personal chief of staff) and had him call our headquarters (commander in chief in Europe (General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower)—and there is no foundation for the rumor.

"That is all I have to say."

The President was then asked, "Are you going to stand by?"

"I am going to finish this work," he said.

Departing from custom, the President authorized use of his remarks in direct quotes.

His statement, while denying that a surrender had taken place, did not rule out the possibility that a capitulation is in the offing.

Origin of the Story

The Associated Press, in explaining the origin of the surrender report, issued the following statement:

"The report of German surrender, transmitted by the Associated Press tonight from San Francisco and attributed to a 'high government official,' was an accurate and factual account of a statement to Associated Press staff men by Senator Connally, vice-chairman of the United States delegation to the United Nations Conference and chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Another member of the U. S. delegation supported Senator Connally's statement.

"Senator Connally at the time stipulated that his name not be used. After President Truman in Washington said the report was unfounded, the vice-chairman of the United States delegation in San Francisco again said the announcement of German surrender was expected momentarily, and removed the stipulation that he not be quoted directly."

In San Francisco, Senator Tom Connally, Democrat, of Texas, said tonight that he expected a surrender announcement 'momentarily."

Senator Connally, in making the statement, was aware of the White House announcement.

Senator Connally said his information was that the German offer to meet the Allied terms—that is, unconditional surrender to the three big powers, the United States, Great Britain and Russia—had come from Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler, reported to be acting for Adolf Hitler, described as ill.

Earlier Senator Connally had told a reporter his information was that the surrender had been received and that an announcement, probably by General Eisenhower, was expected.

Another member of the San Francisco delegation said the announcement was expected "hourly."

[The Moscow radio said last night in a broadcast recorded by the Columbia Broadcasting System that the Soviet Tass news agency "has been authorized to state" that reports of Heinrich Himmler's offer to surrender to the United States and Great Britain are "confirmed in responsible Soviet quarters."

[The Moscow broadcast text:

["On April 28 Reuters issued a statement published by the offices of the British Foreign Minister stating that Himmler has declared that Germany is ready to surrender unconditionally to Britain and the United States of America. This statement declares that the governments of Britain and the United States declared that they will accept the offer of unconditional surrender only when it has been made to all the Allies, including the Soviet Union. Tass has been authorized to state that this report is confirmed in responsible Soviet quarters."

This information was received in London on a telephone line held open between the Paris and London bureaus of The Associated Press.

Connally Is Quoted

Shortly after 4:30 p. m., Pacific war time, Senator Connally told a reporter in San Francisco that Germany's surrender had been received and that an announcement was expected—probably from the headquarters of General Eisenhower.

At that time, Senator Connally added that the announcement was to have been made earlier this

Call To General Eisenhower Reveals Rumor Unfounded

Washington, April 28 (AP)—President Truman tonight said rumors of Germany's unconditional surrender were unfounded. He told a news conference that he had had Admiral William D. Leahy, his personal chief of staff, telephone Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and that the latter reported the rumor unfounded. The President told the hurriedly summoned conference at 9.35 P.M. tonight that he was working when he heard of the start of the rumor in San Francisco and elsewhere. He said he had just gotten in touch with Admiral Leahy and he called the commander in chief. The latter told him the report that Germany had surrendered unconditionally was unfounded.

APR 2 9 1945

The disappointing news was given to a crowd of reporters who thronged into the oval room of the White House expecting to hear a proclamation on the end of the war in Europe. Back of the President as he spoke were Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King, Democratic National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan, Matt Connelly, the President's confidential secretary; Coll Harry H. Vaughan, his military Aide, and other prominent figures. The President sat calmly signing some of his mail when reporters entered his office. He started to begin his announcement and then asked if all the reporters were yet in the room. Told that they were not he held it up until the scores who had waited expectantly for hours for word from him had crowded into the room, shoving and pushing each other to gain points of vantage. Turning with a smile to Stephen Early, special assistant, and Jonathan Daniels, press secretary, and getting the nod from them, he proceeded. He said he was over at the White House doing a little work when the unconditional surrender rumor got started.

He said that the report apparently had come from San Francisco and elsewhere and that he immediately got in touch with Admiral Leahy and asked him to call the commander in chief of the forces in Europe. He added that the report was totally without foundation.

afternoon in Washington—but for some reason was held up.

Senator Connally's earlier statement was given with the stipulation that it be used without attribution, pending the formal announcement he predicted. But he removed the restriction after the Washington denial. He declined to disclose the source of his information, but said it came from authoritative quarters.

Senator Connally said his information was that the surrender offer originated with Himmler with the explanation that Adolf Hitler was ill and that Himmler was acting in Hitler's stead.

From Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, however, came —and that indirectly—only the word that he had made no statement and would have none. He is head of the United States delegation in San Francisco.

Told that they were not, he held it up until the scores who had waited expectantly for hours for word from him had crowded into the room, shoving and pushing each other to gain points of advantage.

Turning with a smile to Stephen T. Early, special assistant, and Jonathan Daniels, press secretary, and getting the nod from them, he proceeded.

The whole interview lasted little more than a minute, and the reporters made wild dashes for their telephones.

After the conference Mr. Daniels told the reporters that he wished there were some way to "stop these rumors."

"Full arrangements have been made for the press to be informed as soon as there is any announcement to make," he said.

"We could save a hell of a lot of time if everybody will remember that. Arrangements have been made for the White House press room to be notified immediately when there is announcement to be made."

Asked again if he thought there would be anything tonight, he replied:

"I do not think so."

The White House had said earlier tonight (at 8:30 P. M. Eastern war time) that no official confirmation had then been received on the reports that Germany had surrendered unconditionally, but that if such confirmation came, President Truman would issue a proclamation and read it over the radio.

President Truman returned to the White House from his temporary living quarters across the street in the Blair House at 7:35 p. m. after an absence since 1 p. m.

Tension, which had been noticeable around the White House offices most of the day, increased hourly as the night wore on.

Word that the President had returned to his offices spread through the city and excited crowds gathered outside the White House gates.

They were orderly, but as new groups joined them there was fear that they might create a traffic jam on Pennsylvania Avenue.

Inside the lobby near the President's offices scores of newspaper men stood around anxiously waiting any official word from the President.

The radio networks set up their microphones in the White House Oval Room where Presidential broadcasts usually are made.

The Allies were reported in San Francisco earlier to have delivered to the German government an ultimatum to surrender by Tuesday.

Truman To Read It Over Radio

Washington, April 28 (AP)—The White House said tonight (at 8.30 P.M.) that no official confirmation had been received on reports that Germany had surrendered unconditionally, but that if such confirmation came, President Truman would issue a proclamation and read it over the radio.

President Truman returned to the White House from his temporary living quarters across the street in the Blair House at 7.35 P.M. after an absence since 1 P.M.

He had gone to his temporary home in the Blair House for lunch after finishing his daily calling list.

Soon after the President came in tonight, Special Assistant Stephen T. Early arrived, followed by Press Secretary Jonathan Daniels.

No Confirmation From Any Source

Early received newsmen shortly before 8.30 P.M. and said:

"There has been no official confirmation yet.

"The War Department has no confirmation.

"The map room has no confirmation.

"As soon as we get official confirmation, the President will read the proclamation over the four networks."

The Army public relations office at the Pentagon building said that "absolutely nothing official had come there.

"All we know about it is what has come on the ticker," was the answer to inquiries.

Top War Department officers said there was no indication to their knowledge of unusual activity around the Pentagon.

The State Department had the same "no comment" reaction that had greeted earlier, less direct reports of surrender offers.

Crowds Jam Pennsylvania Avenue

None of the top officials left in Washington had returned to their offices at 8.45 P.M. Information officers there asked inquiring newsmen for a fill-in on the reports.

Tension, which had been noticeable around the White House offices most of the day, increased hourly as the night wore on.

Word that the President had returned to his offices spread through the city and excited crowds gathered outside the White House gates.

They were orderly but as new groups joined them there was fear that they might create a traffic jam on Pennsylvania avenue.

Inside the lobby near the President's offices scores of newspaper men stood around anxiously waiting any official word from the President.

The same anxiety pervaded embassies here. Half a dozen telephoned the Associated Press for information.

San Francisco, April 28 (AP)—Germany has surrendered to the Allied governments unconditionally and announcement is expected momentarily, it was stated by a high American official today.

The official said that announcement of the surrender presumably would be made through Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme Allied commander.

The announcement had been expected at 4 P.M. in Washington, he said—but was delayed.

'There Were No Strings Attached'

The American official said:

"There were no strings attached to the surrender."

He said that while he was not informed of all the details, the surrender was made to all three of the major Allied powers.

One other equally high official said he had the same information, but others in the American and in other delegations here declined comment or said they knew nothing of the reports.

Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., suddenly left the United Nations conference by a side door at 4.43 P.M. (Pacific War Time).

To a reporter Stettinius said he could state only that he was going to "an important meeting."

Previous Offer Reportedly Rejected

A previous offer of the Germans to surrender only to the United States and Great Britain was rejected promptly, it was said, and an ultimatum served upon the Nazis to give up by Tuesday at the latest.

The fourth plenary session of the United Nations conference was thrown into an uproar and delegates celebrated prematurely when a newspaper was held up with big red headlines, "Nazis quit."

For five minutes there were yells, applause and the flash of hundreds of flash bulbs as cameramen swarmed over the floor.

As Julian Caceres, chairman of the Honduran delegation, held up the newspaper for colleagues to see there was a moment of bewildered silence. Then pandemonium.

Not realizing what was happening, Chairman V. M. Molotov, rose to his feet. There was a bewildered look on his face, but he applauded along with the more than 300 delegates in the hall.

Premature Reports of 'V-E' Day Put Security Conference in Uproar.

SAN FRANCISCO, Apr. 28—(AP) Senator Tom Connally, Texas Democrat and chairman of the U. S. Senate Foreign Relations committee and vice chairman of the American delegation to the United Nations conference, said tonight that he expects "momentarily" an announcement that Germany has surrendered unconditionally.

Connally made his statement to a reporter after he had been informed that President Truman, in Washington, had said reports of Germany's unconditional surrender were unfounded.

Earlier in the day—shortly after 4:30 p. m., (P.W.T.), Connally told a reporter that Germany's surrender had been received and that an announcement was expected—probably from the headquarters of General Eisenhower.

Says Announcement Expected

At that time, Connally added that the announcement was to have been made earlier this afternoon in Washington—but for some reason was held up. Connally's earlier statement was given with the stipulation that it be used without attribution, pending the formal announcement he predicted. But he removed the restriction after the Washington denial.

Another member of the delegation, reached after Connally's earlier statement, also said the announcement was expected "hourly."

The Texan declined to disclose the source of his information, but said it came from authoritative quarters.

The Senator told a reporter he believed the official word of Germany's military collapse would be forthcoming in a matter of hours

Sen. Connally's Explanation

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—After he had authorized the Associated Press tonight to say that he expected announcement of the German surrender "momentarily," Senator Connally met with representatives of the International News Service and the United Press as well as the AP.

The UP representative began by saying that Senator Connally was being quoted by the AP. Senator Connally said he had not intended that a statement which he had issued for release after the surrender announcement should be published.

When it was established that this had not been published, but only the statement Senator Connally had authorized the A. P. to carry, the I. N. S. and the U. P. reporters asked if Connally had said he expected an announcement of the surrender "momentarily."

Senator Connally said, after being reminded by The Associated Press reporter that he had authorized the quotation, that it was correct.

The United Press reporter then asked if it was not true that Senator Connally had made this statement on the basis of rumors and information which had been current at the United Nations session today.

The A. P. newsmen objected that the U. P. reporter was attempting to place words in the Senator's mouth.

The AP reporter made several such protests to leading questions and at one point the INS reporter said, "I don't blame you for trying to get off the hook."

When the AP reporter replied that he had written the quotations just as Senator Connally gave them, the Senator said: "That is right."

The UP and INS reporters then framed a series of questions. They suggested that Senator Connally was speaking only on the basis of Rumors, and without any foundation in fact.

Senator Connally replied: "I know what all of you boys know. The Germans can't last long. On the basis of information that has been given to me and what I have been told, I expect the announcement of the surrender to be made momentarily."

When the A. P. reporter noted that Senator Connally, who sat beside Secretary of State Stettinius at this afternoon's sessions of the conference, had access to information that was denied reporters, Senator Connally replied that this was true.

Senator Connally said during the course of the interview that he was sorry he had said anything about the surrender, that he had no intention of making a formal announcement.

He said, however, that he had authorized the statement as quoted by The Associated Press and had no wish to change it at that time.

At the opening of the session, the United Press reporter stated that his service had not carried either the earlier story in which the AP quoted a high government official or the later story in which Senator Connally was quoted by name. The INS reporter followed suit.

The reporters in the conference were Jack Bell, head of the Associated Press Washington Senate Staff now assigned to the United Nations Conference here; Charles B. Degges of the United Press and William Theis of Internationl News Service.

At the beginning, Senator Connally asked reporters for two San Francisco newspapers to leave the room and talked only with the three.

Senator Connally several times said that there was no use to have arguments. The conference broke up when Connally observed that "there isn't any use going on with this conference any longer."

By Charles B. Degges
United Press Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28 (UP).—Senator Tom Connally denied tonight that he had any official information on the reported end of the European war or that he had made any statement upon which false reports of the war's end could have been based.

"No, I didn't say anything like that," Senator Connally told this correspondent.

Grave-faced and obviously shaken, Senator Connally protested to this correspondent and to Jack Bell, reporter for the Associated Press which carried the false report, that all the information he had was from "various sources."

"Of course," Senator Connally said, "I expected the announcement momentarily — just like everybody else did."

Senator Connally said this expectation was "based on everything I'd heard."

"You mean from all sources?" this correspondent asked.

"Yes," Senator Connally replied, "from all sources. I had no official information."

"The Associated Press is quoting you as saying you expect the peace announcement momentarily," this correspondent said. "The implication, Senator, is that the Associated Press is revealing you as the unnamed high government official who said the war would end with Germany's unconditional surrender."

Later, this reporter took a copy of The Associated Press statement naming Senator Connally as the source of the false report to Senator Connally's apartment.

Mrs. Connally said the Senator was not in but she would telephone him to inquire whether he would make a further statement. A few minutes later Mrs. Connally said: "I am very sorry but the Senator is not available to anyone tonight."

Before Senator Connally could reply to this correspondent's statement about the implication of the first Associated Press statement Bell interrupted, saying: "That's just your own implication that you're drawing yourself because you didn't have the story."

"Well, let the Senator say that himself," this corespondent said.

"No," Senator Connally sighed, "I didn't say anything like that. I'm not saying anything more about it."

Bell implied that Senator Connally had obtained official information from Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius jr., during the course of this afternoon's plenary session of the security conference.

"But you had heard things we hadn't heard?" Bell interposed. You were sitting right there beside Stettinius."

Bell referred to the fact that Secretary Stettinius and Senator Connally occupied adjoining seats in the Civic Opera House during the conference session when a communication was handed to Secretary Stettinius by a messenger and the Secretary of State left the conference followed immediately by Senator Connally. Senator Connally's answer to Bell was: "Well, I'm not saying anything about it."

After a moment's pause Senator Connally added that he had tried to "help you boys out" with conference news and "I've just got myself in trouble."

RUMORS OF PEACE OPEN FESTIVITIES

Many Cities Celebrate as Reports of German Surrender Spread.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The report from San Francisco that Germany had surrendered unconditionally touched off subdued and short-lived demonstrations in most of the nation's cities last night.

The demonstrations, for the most part a mixture of skepticism and jubilation, quickly subsided after President Truman described as unfounded the report given the Associated Press by Senator Connally (D-Tex), vice chairman of the U.S. delegation to the security conference.

Many of the nation's newspapers greeted the first report with extra editions and screaming headlines. In some towns church bells pealed and whistles and horns blared. Crowds thronged the squares of many towns, and gathered in front of newspaper offices.

The jubilation lasted about half an hour in New York's Times Square and traffic was halted on Seventh avenue and 42nd street. All New York police officers down to the rank of captain were called to duty and other members of the force were ordered to stand by.

Many motion picture theaters interrupted regular programs with special "V-E Day" film clips, and in huge Grand Central Station, filled with many servicemen, the atmosphere was tense and expectant.

"Well, it's all over now," was the most frequently-expressed comment.

In Chicago's loop district, crowds, surprisingly quiet and subdued, surged into stores but without demonstration. All police leaves were cancelled but the order was rescinded after the President's announcement. In servicem[illegible]nters, sailors at first were [illegible]d back to their stations by [illegible] patrol details, but were [illegible] to gather again after the official denial. The Chicago Tribune and the Times published extra editions.

Whistles in Independence, Mo., the President's home town, blew for 20 minutes when Mayor Roger Sermon gave the signal after hearing the report. Stores immediately closed and most of the community flocked to churches. Even after the President's statement, crowds continued to celebrate.

A newsreel theater in San Francisco heralded the report with "Germany Quits" across its marquee but quickly changed it to read "Germany Crumbling." One newspaper emblazoned the words, "Nazis Quit," in red letters across the front page of its extra edition.

V-E Report Excites City For 2 Hours

Street Crowds, Recalling 1918 False Armistice, Hold Up Celebrations

Truman's Denial Ends Tension and Throngs Call Off Jubilation

New York City seethed with rumor, bubbled with disbelief and waited to boil over last night if it received official confirmation of the report that Germany had surrendered. The suspense and mounting excitement lasted nearly two hours—and then it was just another Saturday night.

The city was ready to go wild, but seemed to dread a false start and disillusionment. When their dread and skepticism proved well founded New Yorkers sighed, shook their heads and went home sadly, remembering that other false armistice of 1918.

Times Square was the center and the symbol of the pent-up emotions waiting to be released. Radio broadcasts had told of the unofficial report of an unconditional surrender and the word spread slowly through the usual Saturday night crowds thronging Times Square.

The reaction was: Is that so? Maybe it is so. Hope so. Wait and see.

Then, at 9:05 p. m. police stopped north and south traffic from Forty-second to Forty-sixth Street, and a couple of newspaper photographers came out on a ledge of the Times Building and flashed a few bulbs.

Rumors Spread Rapidly

Rumors began to spread faster then and there . . . surge of excitement. The easy movement of the Saturday night crowds on Seventh Avenue began to slow down and spill from the sidewalk and into the street at Forty-second Street. Every time a flash bulb went off, a shout went up from the crowd, but it was more interrogation than jubilation. They still didn't believe it. Remember 1918.

A newspaper truck rolled up and dumped its bundles. Scores scrambled for them and there were signs of disappointment as they read headlines which still said there was nothing official. The rumors, however, came quickly after the newspapers. "President Truman has announced it." "The Germans surrendered to the Russians, because the British and Americans wouldn't accept them."

Police had been alerted by telephone to borough commanders and told to stand by their radios to carry out the previously prepared VE-Day plans. Shore Patrol and Military Police were waiting upon the official announcement, before going into action.

Crowds Skeptical

In taverns and cafes, patrons looked at one another hopefully but skeptically. An exception was Jack Dempsey's Restaurant on Broadway, near Fiftieth Street. William McNulty learned of the radio announcement by telephone and instantly ordered the cafe's orchestra concert stopped for the announcement. Everybody cheered, and some excitable patrons kissed and shook hadns. The jubilation didn't last long. It wasn't official, the radio said. Remember 1918.

Telephone booths were filled by people telephoning their homes to tell members of their families, not that the war was over in Europe, but that it was unofficially reported to be over, and to advise the mto listen to the radio.

Motion picture houses had on hand special V E-Day film clips, for projection of which regular programs were to be interrupted. The managers were cautious, however, and there had been no interruptions at last reports from the major houses. They decided to wait for an official announcement. Remember 1918.

In Pennsylvania Station and Grand Central Terminal, there were a few who exclaimed, "Well, it's all over now," eliciting from friends and relatives a fervent, "Thank God," but for the most part the reaction was, "I hope it's true."

Reaction in the Village

Down in Greenwich Village, the hot musicians were stopped and the loud speaker blared the announcement, "I know you will all be glad to hear that the shooting in Europe has stopped."

The crowded place became silent. The orchestra played the national anthem, the patrons stood, but as soon as it was over, they returned to their tables and to the bar, looking thoughtful but doubtful.

At 10 p. m. traffic was resumed in Times Square. The denial of the rumor by President Truman [illegible] been broadcast and had been [illegible]rd by all of those anxiously awaiting confirmation.

New York City regretfully went about its Saturday night business, remembering 1918.

City Plans Perfected

Plans to mobilize the Police and Fire Departments and all the auxiliary services to handle the V-E Day celebration were perfected last September by Commissioners Lewis J. Valentine and Patrick Walsh, with other city officials.

Confidential orders covering the activities of 245,861 men and women were sent out to all borough commanders and transmitted down the line to the individuals involved, with each man and woman told exactly where to go and what to do at the proper time.

The 14,531 members of the Police Department were ordered to report, upon public announcement of surrender in Europe, to commanding officers, or to previously assigned positions. The Fire Department was to sound its "five-sixes" alarm, recalling all of the 8,000 firemen not on duty and 20,000 auxiliary firemen.

The largest group to be mobilized were 200,330 air-raid wardens, who were to be alerted as in the air-raid drills. Other organizations scheduled to operate in the prepared plan included 3,000 City Patrol Corps men; four companies of Military Police from the 2d Service Command, and 1,100 members of the Shore Patrol of the 1st Naval District. A total of 1,462 police vehicles were ready for instant use, plus Navy and Army trucks.

Twenty-eight bus terminals also were mobilized to provide facilities for quick shifting of men to any section where trouble threatened.

Drawing upon the experiences of Armistice Day in 1918, and the false armistice two days earlier, it was decided to concentrate man power in the midtown, Times Square, Harlem and the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn.

The principal function of the air-raid wardens and auxiliary firemen was to stand guard before fire boxes and large plate glass windows.

Detectives had been ordered to equip themselves with regulation uniforms for the occasion, to lend ready authority to their orders in handling crowds.

touched off a series of reactions that brought President Truman to the White House at 7:35 p. m., Eastern war time, prepared to issue a proclamation.

"The New York headquarters of the A. P. later declined to comment on its bulletin. 'No statement to make,' the A. P. said when asked about the source of its San Francisco announcement.

"Shortly before 8 p. m. radio networks across the country had interrupted their programs to bring an expectant world the news' it had been waiting for. Not until after 9:30 was the A. P. report labeled by President Truman as without foundation.

Even G. I.s in Paris began celebrating in the night clubs on the basis of the report which had been cabled across the Atlantic by the A. P.

"Shortly after the A. P. bulletin was broadcast crowds began to gather in New York's Times Square.

"By 10 p. m. it was estimated that 15,000 to 20,000 persons crowded the small area. Even after the President denied the rumor, the crowd still was cheering wildly, throwing hats in the air and taxing an augmented police force rushed to the area to maintain order."

The United Press had been waiting since 1 p. m., Nov. 7, 1918, for an opportunity to give its subscribers such a statement. On that date The United Press made an announcement of the end of the first World War, which was premature by four days.

Washington Comment

Washington, April 28—(AP)—The White House press secretary said today it is "perfectly clear" that there can be no unconditional surrender by Germany unless it is made to all the Allies.

Secretary Jonathan Daniels made this comment in connection with reports—not confirmed by any Allied official—that Heinrich Himmler, Nazi leader, had offered to surrender to Great Britain and the United States, but not to Russia.

Daniels also had seen Prime Minister Churchill's statement that offers of this kind, if made, could not be accepted because unconditional surrender would have to be made to all three major Allies.

"It is perfectly clear" Daniels told newsmen," that at time like this there will be lots of rumors.

"It is also perfectly clear that there can be no unconditional surder unless made to all the Allies."

Daniels said he knew nothing about any surrender "proposals."

"This government," he repeated, "has nothing to say at this time. We all know there are and will be many rumors."

Asked whether President Truman's long conference yesterday with military chiefs had any bearing on the surrender rumors, Daniels replied:

"No, not specifically."

Churchill Says Any Capitulation Must Be Accepted by Big Three.

LONDON, April 28—(AP) Prime Minister Churchill declared today that rumors of a German offer to surrender were "in harmony with the enemy's desperate situation," and strongly reaffirmed that any German capitulation would be accepted only on a joint basis by the Big Three.

NIGHT

APR 28 1945

The London Sunday Times political correspondent said flatly tonight he had been reliably informed "Germany may cease fighting during the next 24 hours."

Refers to Reuters Dispatch

The Prime Minister's unusual announcement followed and referred to a Reuters dispatch from San Francisco that Heinrich Himmler had offered to surrender Germany unconditionally to the United States and Britain, excluding Russia. The Luxembourg radio broadcast a similar report.

Reuters said in a later dispatch from San Francisco that Himmler had sent a message to London and Washington through Stockholm channels that Hitler was very ill and that the shock of any announcement of Germany's unconditional surrender would cause his death.

In Washington the White House said the American government had "nothing to say at this time" about any surrender proposals, adding that it was "perfectly clear" there can be no unconditional surrender by Germany unless it is made to all the Allies.

Paul Giesler, gauleiter of Munich and upper Bavaria, disclosed today in a Munich radio broadcast that German army deserters had attempted to arrest him and seize the government of Bavaria last night in an unsuccessful coup.

Reports reaching the Swiss-German frontier from Munich, Salzburg and elsewhere in Germany said heavy fighting was in progress in Salzburg between the Wehrmacht and SS troopers following an attempt by Walter Funk, and five other former members of the old

Reich government, to form a new government April 24 at Salzburg.

Churchill neither specifically confirmed nor denied the reports of Germany's peace offer but said: "His Majesty's government have no information to give about any of them at this moment. But it must be emphasized that only unconditional surrender to the three major powers will be entertained and that the closest accord prevails between the three powers.

Hitler Reported in Berlin

Whether Himmler had split with Hitler and could deliver, even if he sought peace in good faith, was problematical—as evidenced by the fact that the battle for Berlin has raged for a week with Der Fuehrer reported by Nazi propagandists leading the fight inside the dying capital.

The Stockholm Svenska Daghladet quoting "reliable circles" said that Hitler had suffered a cerebral hemorrhage and was near death in Berlin and that "it was believed an immediate announcement of Hitler's death would mean mass capitulation of a great number of troops."

Lt. Gen. Kurt Dittmar, well known Nazi military commentator, who surrendered recently to American troops, reiterated that Hitler was still in Berlin and would remain in the tottering city until he was killed or committed suicide. At the death of Hitler, he said, the German army would attempt total surrender.

Geisler, in reporting the attempted coup in Munich and Bavaria said: "a revolt was instigated by treacherous and irresponsible elements and has now been supressed. It is our duty to apply ourselves once more with all of our energy to the defense of the upper Bavarian Gau."

Geisler said the "traitors" temporarily seized the Munich radio—one of the Nazis last big transmitters long enough to broadcast a call to the Wehrmacht to lay down its arms.

White House Aid Says It's Clear Anglo-American Partners Won't Act Apart From Reds.

London, April 28 (A. P.).—Reuters in a dispatch from San Francisco said today that Heinrich Himmler had sent a message to the United States and Great Britain declaring that Hitler was dying and would not live forty-eight hours.

Himler was earlier reported to have offered unconditional surrender to Great Britain and the United States.

Reuters said that its information was received from officials attending the San Francisco Conference, who said that the surrender offer had been made through Stockholm.

Reuters explained here that what was meant when Himmler said that Hitler would die was that Hitler is now very sick and that any announcement of Germany's unconditional surrender would produce such a shock as to cause his death.

Churchill's Retort.

Meanwhile today, Prime Minister Churchill—commenting on the earlier Reuters report—declared in a special statement that none but unconditional surrender to all three of the big Powers would be accepted by the Allies. The Prime Minister neither confirmed nor denied the assertion that a surrender had been offered to the Anglo-American Allies.

His statement follows:

"It has been reported by Reuters that unconditional surrender was offered by Himmler to Britain and the United States only; further, that Britain and the United States have replied saying they will not accept unconditional surrender except on behalf of all the Allies, including Russia.

"No doubt, at a time like this, all kinds of reports of proposals for German surrender from various parts of the German Reich are rife, as these are in harmony with the enemy's desperate situation.

No Information to Give Out.

"His Majesty's Government have no information to give about any of them at this moment. But it must be emphasized that only unconditional surrender to the three major Powers will be entertained, and that the closest accord prevails between the three Powers."

Unofficial reports of the German offer were published prominently in the British press today and there was no tendency to discount their possible authenticity. Even, before Mr. Churchill spoke it was emphasized in strong terms that neither Britain nor the United States had any intention of accepting any offer separately or even of conducting any negotiations with the enemy without the knowledge of and consultation with Russia.

The London Evening Standard said: "Some sources here state that discussions have gone so far as to take into consideration specific conditions, such as how soon the surrender of 150,000 German troops in Norway and the laying down of arms by German garrisons trapped in various pockets, can be arranged."

White House Comment.

Washington, April 28 (A. P.).—The White House press secretary said today that it is perfectly clear that there can be no unconditional surrender by Germany unless it is made to all the Allies. Jonathan Daniels made this comment on Prime Minister Churchill's statement:

"It is perfectly clear that at times like this there will be lots of rumors. It is also perfectly clear that there can be no unconditional surrender unless made to all the Allies."

Mr. Daniels said he knew nothing about any surrender proposals.

"This Government," he repeated, "has nothing to say at this time. We all know there are and will be many rumors."

Asked whether President Truman's long conference yesterday with the military chiefs had any bearing on the surrender rumors, Mr. Daniels replied: "No, not specifically."

In reply to an inquiry, Acting Secretary of State Joseph C. Grew said he had nothing to say at this time.

Nazi Surrender Offer Confirmed by Moscow

LONDON, Sunday, April 29—(AP)—A Tass official news agency dispatch broadcast over the Moscow radio said today that it had been "confirmed by responsible Soviet circles" that Nazi Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler had made an offer to surrender Germany unconditionally to the United States and Britain and that the Western Allies had rejected the proposal.

The dispatch said that the "governments of Britain and the United States have noted that they will accept unconditional surrender only to all Allies, including the Soviet Union."

This was the first official confirmation that such a surrender proposal had actually been made.

It was regarded as possible, however, that he may have carried the Allies' answer to the capitulation offer.

Bernadotte is known to have met Himmler several times on his trips to Germany. The Dagens Nyheter said the Red Cross officials last saw Himmler on April 21 and added that he could not refuse to relay the German message because "it is of humanitarian significance."

It was impossible to check immediately whether Bernadotte relayed the message through the Americans or the British.

There have been frequent reports here lately that Himmler has been acting on his own recently without consulting Hitler regarding release of Jews and other persons held in concentration camps.

Last Fourth Of Berlin Being Won By Soviets

Russian Forces Advance Block by Block in Crumbling Nazi Capital—Tempelhof Airdrome Is Captured —Germans Still Claim Relief Is on Way

London, April 28—(AP)—Russia's conquering armies crashed into the last German-held fourth of Berlin today—advancing block by block against crumbling resistance—as other Soviet troops speared westward in a campaign to isolate the last Nazi Baltic ports.

The German High Command reported resisting Soviet writers said tricky Nazi Storm Troopers were camouflaging themselves in civilian clothes but continuing the battle.

"Hardly a building" was still intact, a Russian war correspondent reported, and food supplies were steadily running out. A Soviet writer said the Spring sun over the city was blacked out "from the dust of hundreds of thousands of houses breaking asunder."

The ruin was so vast, Moscow said, that the enemy was unable to house his wounded.

Dog Fights Over City

Dogfights raged in the smoke-laden sky as Soviet planes battled the feeble remnants of the German Air Force.

A Moscow communique said more than 8,000 German officers and men were wiped out yesterday. The Russians also claimed 11,500 prisoners and the seizure or destruction of 111 planes, 200 tanks and 290 field guns.

The suburban city of Potsdam, cradle of Prussian militarism, fell yesterday, together with the suburban ordnance center of Spandau and the city districts of Tempelhof, Schmargendorf, Streglitz and Neukoelln. Russian flame-throwers were burning out defenders established in the ruins near Alexander Platz, a principal commercial center.

The westward sweep by Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian Army carried toward a junction with the U. S. Ninth Army and an apparent Russo-American joint cleanup in Northern Germany.

Rokossovsky advanced 13 miles while Russian bombers plastered the Baltic ports of Swinemuende and Greifswald, apparently the Reds' next objectives. Prenzlau, on the rail line linking the two cities with Berlin, was captured in a 10-mile Russian surge from the Randow Canal.

North of captured Stettin, the Russians rolled up the west bank of the Oder River and seized Hammer and Fahrenwalde.

Swedish Red Cross Official Carried German Peace Offer

STOCKHOLM, April 28—(AP)—Nazi Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler sent his surrender offer to the United States and Britain through Count Folke Bernadotte, vice chairman of the Swedish Red Cross, the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter said tonight.

At the same time, the Swedish foreign office confirmed that Himmler's peace offer came through Stockholm by an unnamed private person "some days ago and appears to have been delivered to the Allied ministers here."

Bernadotte, who has been in Germany frequently on mercy missions in recent weeks, left Stockholm today on another trip to the Reich which was described as "in connection with Red Cross work."

It was reported that the army was "rapidly nearing" the ruined and flame-swept city after breaking out of a Russian trap to the southeast. However, such an escape appeared highly improbable since the Soviets moved strong forces out of that area for a twin offensive toward Hamburg, Rostock and other port cities, and toward a second linkup with American troops on the middle Elbe.

While the Reds hammered out gains of a mile and more around the city's bomb-pulverized inner core of 49 square miles, the Nazis' fading radios conceded the situation was "critical" and said the battle of Berlin would decide the war.

Say Hitler Still There

Nazi propaganda insisted that Adolf Hitler was still in the surrounded capital, from which escape by air was cut off with the fall of Tempelhof Airdrome yesterday. Moscow ridiculed the story, but Swedish dispatches said the Fuehrer's headquarters were established in a fortified underground hideout in the famous Zoological Gardens. Enemy broadcasts admitted that Russians fighting in the populous working class section of Moabit, were threatening the Gardens' outer fringes.

As the eight-day-old battle neared its dramatic climax, Nazi radios called on Berlin's mothers to take up arms and a Moscow dispatch said brigades of women snipers already were in action. Aged men, frail children, clerks, teachers and other unskilled fighters also were

REDS CORNER BERLIN NAZIS; MANY GIVE UP

Five Towns Fall In North; Paris Says Soviets Are In Reichstag

London, Sunday, April 29 (AP)—Soviet armies, taking a final stranglehold on Berlin, hurled its defenders back into a shell-raked 25-square mlie pocket in the city's center yesterday while thousands of German troops gave up the suicidal struggle and surrendered.

German resistance was fanatical but it was tottering. Almost all the city but the central pocket, which was forged by a Red inner ring of encirclement, was in Russian hands.

The Paris radio said early today that the Russians had occupied the Reichstag in the center of Berlin, adding "it is believed that the end of German resistance in the capital is imminent." By Moscow's account, however, the Russians were 2 miles from the Reichstag.

Pasewalk Captured

While the city reeled in its death agonies, Soviet forces north of the capital smashed out across the Mecklenburg Plains on an expanding 81-mile front and gained up to 22 miles toward Rostock and Hamburg in a cleanup of the isolated northern half of Hitler's "now-bisected Third Reich.

These forces captured five major towns, including Pasewalk, where Hitler, blinded by gas, in November, 1918, resolved in a military hospital to become a politician, rebuild Germany's military power and avenge the Versailles treaty.

Three major Berlin city districts and parts of three others were captured by the 1st White Russian and 1st Ukrainian armies as they battled up to 3 miles through blazing streets and linked up in western Berlin, Moscow revealed.

Only Fanatics Fight

More than 13,000 enemy troops straggled through desert-like clouds of dust to Russian lines where they surrendered, while southeast of Berlin another 14,000 enemy troops were taken prisoner in a giant trap which had been forged several days ago.

In two days more than 32,500 enemy troops of the Berlin garrison have been killed or captured. The majority have preferred to end the vain struggle. Front dispatches to Moscow afternoon newspapers yesterday reported wholesale German efforts to escape the holocaust in the heart of the capital, where only fanatical, Nazi Elite Guards were forcing a prolongation of the battle.

German officers and commanders of entire battalions, unable to persuade the Nazi overlords—who, the German radio continued to report, were personally led by Hitler—to end the struggle, were going over to Red Army lines and all German resistance appeared to be disintegrating.

Moabit District Taken

The German radio itself admitted the final battle for Berlin had begun and announced that Russians had broken into the city's inner defense ring as they plunged toward Hitler's underground headquarters in the Tiergarten.

Slashing through streets obstructed by overturned busses, trolleys, cars and carts and furniture from wrecked stores, Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's 1st White Russian tanks an dtommyguners hammered within pistol range of the Tiergarten, Moscow revealed.

Zhukov's troops captured the western half of the northwestern city district of Moabit on the north bank of the Spree River across the Tiergarten.

Lunge Across Spree

At the same time, they lunged across the Spree and seized the northwestern part of the great western district of Charlottenburg, reaching Bismarckstrasse after engulfing Adolf Hitlerplatz and many important buildings. In this area they were 3 miles west of Berlin's famed bricked-up Brandenburg Gate and were rolling westward toward Unter den Linden on the broad east-west axis.

In the southern part of the city, Zhukov's troops smashed through the eastern part of blazing Schoeneberg west of the captured Tempelhof airdrome, and the Nazi high command said the Russians had smashed a mile and a half north of the airport and reached Halleseches Tor (gate).

Hallesches Tor is less than a mile from Hitler's Reichs-Chancellery and Potsdamer Platz and stands at the southern end of Friedrichstrasse whose intersection with Unter den Linden marks the city's true center. The Germans also said that fighting was swirling around Alexander Platz, where the Russians were in the heart of one of Berlin's old commercial centers and were less than a half mile from the eastern end of Unter den Linden.

Reinforcements Claimed

In southwestern Berlin, meanwhile, Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 1st Ukrainians captured the city district of Friedenau, and at the same time pushed 3 miles north through Grunewald to join Zhukov's army on the south bank of the Spree at Ruhleben.

Trapped in the dwindling 2[illegible] square-mile central pocket, the Germans were fighting under blanket Red Army artillery and aerial bombardment. The Nazi high command claimed that reinforcements and supplies were being dropped by air.

The enemy also asserted that German troops west of Berlin had withdrawn from the American 9th Army front on the Elbe and were fighting eastward in an effort to relieve the city. The Hamburg radio claimed spearheads of these forces already had reached the area of Ferch, 8 miles southwest of captured Potsdam.

72 Miles From Montgomery

Meanwhile, Premier Stalin announced that Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's 2d White Russian Army tanks and cavalry north of Berlin were plunging westward toward the last enemy-held Baltic ports and captured the towns of Eggesin, Torgelow, Pasewalk, Strasburg and Templin.

Templin was taken in a 22-mile surge from Angermuende and it carried Rokossovsky's men within 72 miles of Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British 2d Army on the Elbe River bend near Wittenberg.

Far to the south, Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's 2d Ukrainian Army dug deeper in Moravia, capturing eleven places on a 35-mile front between Bruenn (Brno) and the Morava River.

Germans On Elbe Rushed To Berlin

APR 29 1945

London, April 28 (AP)—The Germans have withdrawn all their troops from the middle Elbe River line facing the Americans and have thrown them into the battle for Berlin but still have been unable to prevent deepening Russian penetrations into the city, the Hamburg radio said tonight.

This broadcast by the Nazi station said the Germans had practically stopped fighting the Americans in north central Germany "to concentrate all the remaining strength of the Reich against the Bolshevik flood rolling westward."

Supreme Headquarters Denies German Surrender Offer Has Been Received.

LONG

CLOSE ON REDOUBT

Munich, Cradle of Nazidom, Is Reported Torn by Revolt.

PARIS, Sunday, April 29—(AP) American armies crushed down today on Germany's last major stronghold, rolling an unstoppable wall of tanks to within 22 miles of Munich, cradle of Nazidom that already was reported torn by revolt.

President Truman announced at Washington, after checking with General Eisenhower, here, that a report from San Francisco that Germany had agreed to unconditional surrender was unfounded. Senator Tom Connally (D-Tex.), vice chairman of the American delegation to the San Francisco conference, asserted, however, that the surrender was expected "hourly."

NIGHT

Surrender Offer Denied

Supreme headquarters said no German capitulation offer had been received here but that did not mean none had been made directly to one or more Allied capitals. The San Francisco reports said an ultimatum had been delivered to Heinrich Himmler after the Gestapo chief asserted Adolf Hitler was dying and he (Himmler) wanted to give up to the United States and Britain.

The Allies were reported to have said Germany must surrender completely to the United States, Russia and Britain or face intensified destruction of her remaining physical assets and military forces.

The hour for such tactics was growing late, for the Reich now was split into two traps, one on the north barely the size of Indiana and one on the south little larger than Colorado.

The southern one was crumbling badly at its very core under the blows of the U. S. Third and Seventh and French First armies.

The Seventh Army was but 22 miles west of Munich, considered the northern bastion of the Alpine redoubt, and the U. S. Third Army was 27 miles away on the north.

As the tide of Third Army tanks and troops struck down a superhighway toward Munich, their field radios picked up a broadcast on the city's wavelength announcing a "free action of Bavaria" revolt and asking the Americans to bomb Field Marshal Albert Kesselring's headquarters at Pullach, six miles south of the city.

Later gauleiter Paul Giesler of Munich went on the air and declared the revolutionaries had been dispersed and that a "treasonable transmitter" was trying to spread confusion.

Meanwhile, Munich was being deeply outflanked by Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's rampaging Seventh Army which seized 23,000 prisoners and with lightning blow captured Augeburg, third city of Bavaria 35 miles northwest of Munich.

Tenth Armored division tanks in a 20-mile dash drove up to Fuessen on the Austrian frontier 50 miles southwest of Munich, then poured on across.

Here, 37 miles northwest of Innsbruck—northern gateway to the Brenner pass leading down to Italy—the Americans stood at the entrance to the Austrian Tyrol, through which pass all the main east-west communications in the Alpine redoubt.

Seven miles to the west, the 44th Infantry division began pouring across into Austria at Berg after an 18-mile southward push.

While the 10th Armored division cleaned up in the Landsberg area, 25 miles almost due west of Munich, the 45th Infantry division stormed across the Baar river 30 miles northwest of the city.

Other Seventh Army forces were closing the pincers from the south and were in Schongau, 40 miles southwest of Munich.

Gen. Patton's Third Army, which bagged 28,434 prisoners Saturday, joined the squeeze from the north.

The 86th Infantry division reached Hirnkirchen, 27 miles north of Munich and 22 miles from Dachau, site of the most notorious of all Nazi concentration camps.

While there was no further word from the 11th Armored division, which had jabbed into Austria northeast of Hitler's Berchtesgaden, it was gouging into rear supply lines of strong German forces facing the Russians west of Vienna.

It was possible that some German troops already had turned to meet this menace. The British radio reported enemy troops moving westward toward the Americans.

Farther north the Third Army made two new crossings into Czechoslovakia, one at Maxhov, 32 miles southwest of Pilsen, and another at Karlbach, 34 miles southwest of that munitions city. The latter forces were three miles inside Czechoslovakia.

The 13th Armored division, a newcomer to the Third Army, rumbled 13 miles along the south bank of the Danube into the outskirts of Aiterhofen, 25 miles southeast of the fallen city of Regensburg.

Three Allied Armies Close In on Nazi Bastion From Three Sides.

SEVENTH REACHES AUSTRIA

Third Drives Nearer Russians—Reds and Americans Widen the Elbe River Gap.

Paris, April 28 (A. P.).—The American Seventh Army closed today to within twenty-five miles of Munich on the west today, while the Third Army drove forward up to thirteen miles on an eighty-five-mile front with one column reaching within twenty-seven miles of the city on the north.

DAY

Other troops of Gen. Patton's Third Army plunged across the Czecho-Slovak border at a new place, entering Karlbach, thirty-four miles southwest of Pilsen, and advanced to within twenty-two miles of Dachau.

Augsburg, third city of Bavaria, fell to Lieut.-Gen. Alexander M. Patch's troops. The Seventh Army reached the Austrian frontier at Fuessen, fifty-five miles over the towering Alps from the Brenner Pass after charging forty-five miles into the western end of the German National redoubt. The French First Army was forty miles southwest of Munich and deep in the Nazi redoubt.

Patton Nearss Reds.

Gen. Patton sent his tank divisions down the Danube valley in Austria toward an imminent junction with the Russians west of Vienna to seal off Czecho-Slovakia and carve bisected Germany into three death traps.

Third Army troops were chattering back and forth by radio with Russians in Austria. At last reports, the Americans were barely twenty-five miles from Linz, one of Hitler's favorite cities and on the last intact route into the redoubt from the Pilsen-Prague munitions area.

Germany was cut in two in the center, and the Russians reported new junctions with American forces on the Elbe. The iron band between the southern and northern German pockets was perhaps fifty miles wide.

Gen. Huebner Gets Red Flag.

Supreme Headquarters disclosed that Major-Gen. Clarence Huebner, commander of the Fifth Corps which includes the First Army's Sixty-ninth Division, had received a battle flag from the major-general commanding the Russian corps which fought all the way from Stalingrad to the junction Wednesday and Thursday at Torgau, twenty-eight miles northeast of Leipzig. Operations of the First and Ninth armies along the Elbe were mostly blacked out.

The Tiger (Tenth Armored) Division of the Seventh Army reached the Austrian border at Fuessen in a twenty-mile dash which overran forty-five miles of the western end of the Bavarian redoubt. Fuessen is fifty miles southwest of Munich and fifty-five miles across the Alps from the Brenner Pass, which Allied armies in Italy were approaching. It is forty-five miles east of Lake Constance, western limit of the redoubt. Munich was threatened with encirclement by the tank division.

The French First and American Seventh armies between them have conquered or sealed off more than 12,000 square miles of southwest Germany west of the line from Fuessen to Augsburg. This includes such places as Friedrichshafen, Lindau, Ravensburg and Immenstadt.

Archbishop of Kiev Freed.

The French beat down the last organized resistance in the death traps in the Black Forest and south of Stuttgart. All southwest Germany north and west of Fuessen was sealed off. This included such places as Friedrichshafen, Lindau, Ravensburg and Immenstadt. In the mopup of the trap south of Stuttgart, the French liberated the Archbishop of Kiev and several Ukrainian clergymen from Nazi concentration camps.

The disintegration of the confused and beaten German armies continued apace.

Supreme headquarters noted that 46,694 Germans surrendered Thursday, raising the April total for Gen. Eisenhower's armies to 1,159,217 and the aggregate since D day to 2,488,922. The Seventh Army took 23,000 prisoners yesterday and the British seized 3,000, including two generals and a vice-admiral at Bremen. A completed submarine and nine on the building ways were captured at Bremen along with a damaged and unfinished destroyer.

Nazis Regain Control of Munich Radio—Funk Attempts to Form New Reich Government in Salzburg.

London, April 28 (A. P.).—German soldiers revolted today in Munich, birthplace of Nazism and scene of another revolt in 1923—the Hitler beer cellar putsch. Anti-Nazi troops, attempting to seize the Bavarian Government in the waning hours of Hitler's power, actually won control of the city's radio station long enough to broadcast a call to German troops to lay down their arms.

Leaders of the attempted coup declared in their broadcast that Gen. Ritter von Epp, long a staunch Nazi and Governor of Bavaria, had decided to break off the fight against the Allies as senseless.

Paul Giesler, gauleiter of Munich, broadcasting personally after the revolt apparently was almost stifled, declared "a party of deserters who are still calling themselves soldiers, I am sorry to say, tried to arrest me and use me for their dirty business."

Revolt Still Seething.

This "traitorous element" under a Capt. Wernecke, "has been made harmless," Giesler said. But indicating that the Nazis still had not fully regained control, Giesler exhorted Germans to "not let yourselves be disturbed during the next hours, days and weeks by misuse of broadcasts."

The insurrectionists broadcast their appeal earlier under the name of the "Free Bavarian Movement." American troops driving on the Bavarian capital heard the anti-Nazi broadcast calling on the Allies to bomb Field Marshal Albert Kesselring's headquarters at Pullach, six miles south of Munich.

Nazis Denounce Coup.

A field dispatch from Associated Press correspondent Edward D. Ball with the Third Army quoted the Munich radio as saying the revolt started with Von Epp seizing power.

"The hour of freedom has struck," the broadcast said, asking calm faith in the new leadership, exhorting Germans to stop fighting and French prisoners to leave work.

Giesler declared "These traitors wanted to stab us in the back in this most difficult of all hours. We can only survive if we remain faithful to our Fuehrer."

A parade of Nazi officials came to German microphones denouncing the attempted coup There was no word from Von Epp himself. He once ordered death for hundreds of workers in Bavaria to stamp out a Socialist movement. Ernest Roehm, Brown Shirt captain slain by Hitler's purge at Munich over a decade ago, was a protege of Von Epp, however.

The Munich station broadcast a proclamation accusing Capt. Wernecke of perpetrating the "hoax." It declared that since he was unknown, he had used names of high German officers.

"No one has any intention of ending the struggle," the Nazis' proclamation declared. Giesler said all Government institutions in southern Germany remained in Nazi party hands.

Unconfirmed By Allies

Reports reaching Bern, Switzerland, said street fighting had broken out in Munich, but there was no Allied official confirmation.

The reports regarding the move by Funk to set up a new government said the former Reich members issued a proclamation which said the Reich Government had ceased to exist and "local authorities are requested to act as they see fit to avoid further bloodshed.

"The German Army is capitulating and any further resistance will only worsen the future of the German people."

The proclamation was said to have been signed by Funk as "provisional Reichschancellor," and by Field Marshal Walther von Brauchitsch, former army commander in chief, as "Minister of War."

Dittmar previously had listed von Rundstedt and Col. Gen. Heinz Guderian as two of three German generals who were strong enough to assume control of the army upon the death of Hitler. Any one of the three, he said, might seek an immediate peace on almost any terms.

Gestapo Breaks It Up, But Leaders Escape

The frontier reports said the effort by Funk was broken up by the Gestapo, who arrested two members. Four others including Funk and von Brauchitsch, escaped with the aid of the Wehrmacht.

The German radio later in the day commenting on the Munich disorder, charged that the "attempt of a few miserable traitors this morning to broadcast over the German radio was nothing less than a stab in the back—only criminals and fools can wish an end of the war."

The Himmler report of a separate peace with Britain and the United States was regarded in some quarters as a desperate last-minute Nazi attempt to sow dissension among the "Big Three." Churchill's prompt disavowal of any separate peace quickly dispelled any doubts that the Big Three would carry through together to the end.

Practically The End, London Paper Says

Early editions of British Sunday morning newspapers hailed the reported surrender offer as a sure sign that the war was as good as over in Europe.

"This is practically the end," said the London Sunday Dispatch.

"Yesterday's sensational developments in Germany mean the war is as good as over," said the tabloid London Sunday Pictorial.

The London Sunday Express, owned by a Cabinet Minister, Lord Beaverbrook, said "unconditional surrender would be acceptable even from a Nazi leader if he could make it effective but there can be no question of any agreement being signed with anyone connected with the Nazi regime.

The fact that the reported peace bid came from Himmler raised the speculation here again that he either had seized power from Hitler and considers himself Führer, or that Hitler is dead. Reports reaching London from Stockholm said that Hitler and Paul Joseph Goebbels were shot three days ago.

BERLIN BATTLE IN FINAL STAGE

MOSCOW, Sunday, April 29—(AP) The battle for Berlin is in its final stage. Mass surrenders are sweeping the thinning ranks of weary German troops, short of food and water in a burning capital whose defenses appeared to have cracked wide open.

All reports reaching Moscow this morning told of the desire of most of the once-fanatical garrison to end the suicidal fight.

In the last hours of Berlin, the Russians have turned hundreds of gigantic searchlights—some of them captured and some of their own—on the center of the city.

With the center of the capital caught in this white glare, the Russians last night poured tons of projectiles from mortars and artillery and thousands of rockets from katushas into the mass of humanity jammed in a Red army trap.

The trap was forced when Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army put on a tremendous spurt westward from the Tempelhof airdrome sector and joined up with Marshal Ivan S. Konev's [illegible]

Zhukov's [illegible] marching [illegible] captured [illegible] toward the Reichstag. [illegible] one to two miles from that building and were smashing ahead toward Unter Den Linden and the Tiergarten.

Battle Rages in Subways.

Moscow, April 28 (A. P.).—With the capture of Tempelhof airdrome and the blocking of all roads, two Red armies worked their way into the main streets of Berlin today as fanatical fighting wrecked the capital.

As Soviet tommy gunners, backed up by the incessant hail of mortars, battled through several sectors from the southeast to the southwest less than a mile from the zoological gardens, a strange warfare raged up and down the steel and concrete caverns of the dark subways.

Russians said nothing as to what information they may have pointing to the presence of Hitler and other Nazi leaders in the toppling capital, but there was a feeling here that some of the most dramatic history of the war would develop in the next few days.

The death of 8,000 Germans was illustrative of the bitterness of the struggle, which now has surged near the Reichstag, Chancellery, War Ministry and other famous places in the very center of the city.

Russian units can see Unter den Linden down some streets on which they are battling. It is less than a quarter of a mile from some forward points. Brandenburg gate, which the Nazis have stoned up in an effort to keep the Russians from holding a victory parade through it, is within rifle range.

Fighting rages around the State Opera House.

Battles moved into the Reich theater in the sector of the captured Reichsbank, and there were many hand-to-hand fights near the public library.

Bayonet clashes took place near Berlin University in the same sector.

To the east of this hotly contested region, Russians drove the Nazis down some main streets leading into Wilhelmstrasse.

Hand to hand struggles moved close to the old palace of Kaiser Wilhelm I and the house of Wilhelm II.

Russian storm units were four blocks fro mthe main post office and about eight blocks from the central market. The Stock Exchange and National Galleries and the old Kaiser Frederick Museum were four to six blocks distant.

Large fires were raging in this central area. No effort was being made by the Germans to put them out. The Germans merely retreat to another building or house or go down under the ground.

ONLY TEN CITIES LEFT TO GERMANS

By Associated Press.

Germany retained only ten of her cities today and half of these were invested. Allied armies of the west have captured forty-two of the fifty-eight cities of 100,000 or more peacetime population and the Russians have taken six.

Fighting progressed in Berlin and Breslau and within sight of the edges of Hamburg, Chemnitz and Harburg. Other German cities still under the Nazi banner are Munich, Dresden, Kiel, Luebeck and Rostock. The first two were imminently threatened.

Gen. Eisenhower's armies have captured Cologne, Leipzig, Essen, Frankfurt on the Main, Duesseldorf, Dortmund, Hannover, Stuttgart, Duisburg, Nuernberg, Wuppertal, Bremen, Magdeburg, Gelsenkirchen, Bochum, Mannheim, Halle, Kassel, Brunswick, Oberhausen, Karlsruhe, Augsburg, Weisbaden, Krefeld, Erfurt, Aachen, Mainz, Hagen, Muenster, Ludwigshafen, Solingen, Mulheim, Saarbruecken, Bielefeld, Muenchen-Gladbach, Dessau, Darmstadt, Freiburg, Plauen, Wuerzburg, Remscheid and Bonn. The Russians have taken Koenigsberg, Stettin, Potsdam, Hindenburg, Gleiwitz and Beuthen.

London, April 28 (A. P.).—Coalition Government candidates were beaten for the third time in a row in a by-election yesterday when Wing Commander Ernest Millington of the Left Wing Commonwealth party won a Chelmsford seat, defeating Conservative Flight Lieut. Brian Cook, 24,543 to 18,117.

Cook had the personal indorsement of Prime Minister Churchill. The seat previously had been held by a Conservative.

Camp Head Beaten.

London, April 28 (A. P.).—Josef Kramer, commander of Belsen prison camp where he captured last week, has had to be isolated from German political prisoners in a British compound after they almost beat him to death, it was related today. An R. C. A. F. officer who visited the compound said that guards had to use rifle butts to drive off a large group of prisoners who recognized Kramer as they were marching out of the compound and beat him into unconsciousness.

Dr. Peter Zenkel, last Lord Mayor of Prague before the German occupation, arrived in London today after six years' imprisonment in the Buchenwald concentration camp.

Swiss Report Mussolini in Milan for Trial

Cardinal Schuster Pleads Against Violence; Graziani Is Captured by Partisans

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 28.—The Swiss radio reported tonight that Benito Mussolini has been taken to Milan, Italy, as a prisoner and turned over to a court martial of patriots, as Allied headquarters at Rome announced that Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, Mussolini's No. 1 assistant and "heir," also has been captured.

The Swiss broadcast said that Alfredo Ildefonso Cardinal Schuster, Archbishop of Milan, had appealed to the Milan populace in a pastoral letter to refrain from violence and vengeful measures against Mussolini, and to leave his judgment in the hands of the court martial of the Italian Committee of National Liberation, which is directing the insurrection of anti-Fascists in northern Italy.

Graziani, a stalwart in the Fascist government, was Minister of War for Mussolini's puppet government in north Italy.

Czech Group Bars Red Dictators

London, April 28 (A. P.).—The newly formed Czecho-Slovak national committee in London of Gen. Leyorchala announced yesterday that it did not wish "to replace Nazi dictatorship by a directorship of commissars" through what it termed President Eduard Benes's puppet government.

The Benes government recently concluded a treaty with Russia.

Hunt Civilian Clothes

LONDON, April 28 (AP).—Front dispatches to Moscow afternoon newspapers reported wholesale German efforts to escape the holocaust in the heart of Berlin.

German officers and soldiers, said Nikolai Asanov, Soviet war correspondent, were breaking into apartments hunting for civilian clothes. The "quantity of abandoned uniforms scattered in backyards and entrances of houses is amazing," he added.

Asanov said these men had been unable to surrender in organized fashion because of the death threat from high Nazi officials, but in civilian clothes they would surrender with white flags.

Northwestern Germany Town Pounded By RAF

London, April 28 (AP)—Royal Air Force Spitfires and Typhoons of the 2d Tactical Air Force bombed the town of Leer, in northwestern Germany, today, where stubborn resistance of the defenders has been blocking the Canadian Army's advance toward Emden.

The attacking force flew through heavy rain to reach the target, but bad weather kept Allied planes on the ground along most of the front.

British Legislators Shocked By Nazi Camps

London, April 28—(AP)—The British Parliamentary delegation which inspected the Buchenwald Concentration Camp said yesterday that this and other Nazi camps marked the "lowest degradation to which humanity has yet descended."

The Britons visited the camp at the suggestion of Gen. Eisenhower to get "first hand proof" of Nazi atrocities.

They told of half naked victims tottering painfully along "as though on stilts" and yet able to muster enough strength to smile; of others watching the inspection party through half closed eyes as they lay in a semi-coma awaiting death.

FRENCH HOLD TO STUTTGART

SHAEF Hints Yanks May Get Inferior Base

Paris, April 28 (AP)—Supreme headquarters declared today the French were obstructing the United States 7th Army drive on the Nazis's southern redoubt by occupying Stuttgart, and unless they moved out the Americans would have to find "a less desirable and less efficient" supply base.

At last reports the French 1st Army, which captured the Wuerttemberg province's capital, was still there, backed by the French Council of Ministers.

Linked To Post-War Claims

The council disapproved of the request to move [illegible] troops on the grounds that the Big Three had not taken any action on France's postwar occupation zone claims in southwest Germany.

A SHAEF statement said the withdrawal was requested by headquarters of Gen. Jacob L. Devers's 6th Army Group, which embraces both the 7th Army of Lieut. Gen. Alexander M. Patch and the French 1st Army of Lieut. Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny.

Nothing in the nature of a clash had been reported, and the statement itself indicated that to avoid one the Americans might look elsewhere.

Mission To Destroy Enemy

"In the event Stuttgart is not available to the requirements of the 7th Army, a less desirable and less efficient communications and supply center will have to be developed to serve the needs of the 7th Army in their assigned mission of destroying the enemy in their zone of advance," the statement said.

French officials took the position that the Stuttgart incident at the moment of the San Francisco conference serves to underscore France's unanswered request to the Big Three for a clearly defined postwar occupational zone, including policing of the cross-Rhine country from the Ruhr to Lake Constance.

The Paris press and radio rushed to the support of the French position.

A Paris domestic broadcast affirmed that "it is now, more than ever, necessary to defend France's interest."

Statement From SHAEF

The statement by supreme headquarters, which originally had declined to comment, on the ground that the disagreement was political, said at the outset:

"The instructions of the 6th Army Group to the 1st French Army in reference to their presence in Stuttgart were concerned not with the future territory or zone of occupation of Germany by French troops, but that Stuttgart was included in the operational boundary of the zone of operations of the 7th United States Army and not in the operational zone of the 1st French Army.

"Stuttgart is an important rail communication and supply center which was selected to serve the military requirements of the 7th Army in order that operations of that army in the defeat of the common enemy would be facilitated."

"Raised By Our Friends"

In the chorus of press indorsements of the Cabinet's stand, Gabriel Robinet, of the conservative daily Le Figaro, said "what we do not understand is that this problem should be raised by our American friends in the midst of battle."

L'Aurore said that "for the time being it has been tacitly agreed that each army would occupy the territory conquered by it," while an editorial in Le Pays said flatly, "The French Government announced the areas it would like to see attributed to it. As no reply has been forthcoming so far, it naturally established French military administration in those territories conquered and occupied by its armies."

An article in L'Ordre was most outspoken, affirming "our contribution to this hard 30 years' war has been sufficiently heavy and great for us to believe that we have acquired the right of not being denied the honors and security we have won with our arms."

Yanks Say French Impede Drive

Paris, April 28 (A. P.).—A Supreme Headquarters statement today declared the French First Army was obstructing the Allies' drive southeast against the Nazi redoubt by its persistence in continuing to occupy Stuttgart.

The statement said Sixth Army Group Headquarters had asked the French First Army to move out of the city, capital of Wuerttemberg, which the French captured. At latest reports, the French still were there—backed by the French Council of Ministers, which voiced disapproval of the request on grounds that the Big Three had not taken any action on France's post-war occupation zone claims in southwest Germany.

The Sixth Army Group includes the American Seventh and French First armies. It is commanded by Gen. Jacob L. Devers.

What French Want.

The French have asked for virtually outright occupation of the Saarland plus defined occupational and policing rights after the war on the whole cross-Rhine belt from the Ruhr to Lake Constance. They take the position that French military administration of Stuttgart serves to underscore that request. French officials regard the situation as timely, coming while world delegates are convened at San Francisco.

But Supreme Headquarters, which at first had declined to comment on the controversy on the grounds that it is primarily political, now declared that the request for the French to move out of Stuttgart was made in line with military operations.

The situation, fraught with potentialities, thus far has brought about nothing in the nature of a clash. The headquarters statement indicated that rather than bring about such a clash, the American zone and the supply and communications line might be changed, should the French simply refuse to budge.

The text of the Supreme Headquarters statement:

"The instructions of the Sixth Army Group to the First French Army with reference to their presence in Stuttgart were concerned not with the future territory or zone of occupation of Germany by French troops, but with the fact that Stuttgart was included in the operational boundary of the zone of operations of the Seventh United States Army and not in the operational zone of the French First Army.

"Stuttgart is an important rail, communication and supply center which was selected to serve the military requirements of the Seventh Army in order that operations of that army in the defeat of the common enemy would be facilitated.

"In the event that Stuttgart is not available for the requirements of the Seventh Army, a less desirable and less efficient communications and supply center will have to be developed to serve the needs of the Seventh Army in their assigned mission of destroying the enemy in their zone of advance."

U.S. 15th Army To Take Over South Germany

Gerow to Command Zone; Limits Civilian's Food to 1,150 Calories a Day

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Forces, Paris, April 28 (AP).—Lieutenant General Leonard T. Gerow's American 15th Army will take over the occupation of the American section of Germany and see to it that there is no pampering of the vanquished, Allied headquarters indicated today. Its field of occupation is expected to embrace much of southern Germany.

General Gerow's headquarters said German civilians will be allowed a maximum diet of 1,150 calories a day, about a third as many calories as in the diet of American soldiers in the German theater, and slightly more than half as many as in the average diet for civilians in liberated countries.

How well the Germans will depend largely on how [illegible] they are to help themselves by producing the foodstuffs, it was made clear, because the plans call for importation of food into Germany only if necessary to avert famine and disease.

The Germans will be expected to produce enough to feed themselves and displaced Russians, Frenchmen, Belgians, Poles and other nationals awaiting transportation home, a spokesman said.

At the office of Colonel Thomas J. Moroney, former banker of Dallas, Tex., assistant chief of staff of G-5 under General Gerow, an officer said the maximum diet of 1,150 calories means lean meals, but that not all Germans receive that much now.

The average American soldier in the theater to be occupied will receive 4,000 calories a day. In the United States in peace time the average civilian diet was 2,500 to 3,000 calories a day.

Control of the German diet by the occupying forces will be exercised through civilian provincial and local officials, it was said.

GOEBBELS BROTHER ALLIES' PRISONER

United States First Army, Germany, April 28 (A. P.).—Hans Goebbels, brother of the German Propaganda Minister and himself a high-ranking Nazi, was taken into military custody today by infantrymen. The brother of Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels was arrested at his home in the conquered Ruhr at Mildrath. Apparently anticipating the arrest, Goebbels had two suitcases packed when troops knocked at his door. He looks like his brother.

His wife protested tearfully as he was led away, but Goebbels was meek and frightened and made no objection.

He first denied any connection with the Nazi party, but later acknowledged that he was an Oberfuehrer (Major-General) in the Neiderrhein SS anti-aircraft group. He said he had received no word from his brother since last January because of communication and transport difficulty.

Buchenwald's Aim Political, Army Reports

Official Inquiry Says Nazis Killed Off Europe's Best 'Leadership Personnel'

PARIS, April 28 (AP).—Buchenwald concentration camp is termed an "extermination factory" in an official report to Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, by Brigadier General Eric F. Wood, Lieutenant Colonel Charles Ott and Chief Warrant Officer S. M. Dye, who inspected it on its liberation by American troops.

Not only were prisoners exterminated by starvation, abuse, beatings, torture and unsanitary conditions, but many internees were used as "guinea pigs" for testing new toxins (and antitoxins) dying as a result, the report declared.

The investigators were accompanied on their inspection tour by Commandant Rene l'Hopital—former aide-de-camp to Marshal Foch and personal friend of many Americans—who had been interned there during two months before the camp was freed. In that time his weight fell from 175 to 95 pounds.

Founded by Nazis

The report said the camp was founded by the Nazi party when it came into power in 1933 and had been in continuous operation since then, although it had had its largest populations only since the beginning of the war. Its S.S. guards decamped the night of April 11, and the American armor overran the area the next day.

Twenty thousand prisoners were found, including 2,900 French, 3,800 Poles, 1,240 Hungarians, 570 Yugoslavs, 4,380 Russians, 324 Dutch, 622 Belgians, 550 Austrians, 242 Italians, 2,105 Czechs, 1,800 Germans and 1,467 anti-Franco Spaniards and miscellaneous nationalities.

"Character of surviving population: Males only, including 1,000 boys under fourteen years old. Intelligentsia and leadership personnel from all of Europe," the report continued.

"Any one and every one of outstanding intellectual or moral qualifications, or of democratic or anti-Nazi inclinations, or their relatives. For instance, as to French inmates, they included four anti-Vichy members of Parliament.

"Professors of the Pasteur Institute, the University of Paris, the University of Caen, etc., eight high ranking anti-Vichy generals, including General Vermeau, who was at one time chief of staff, and the son of one of them, and French engineers, lawyers, editors and other professional men of higher brackets."

Jews Treated Worst

The prisoners included 4,000 prominent Jews, and "Jews were given even worse treatment than the others."

"A few inmates were from time to time liberated to spread word among other leadership or intellectual anti-Nazi personnel throughout Europe as to the penalties (internment in this and similar camps) for anti-Nazis.

"Mission of the camp: An extermination factory. Mere death was not bad enough for anti-Nazis.

"Means of extermination: Starvation complicated by hard work, abuse, beatings and tortures, incredibly crowded sleeping conditions and sickness—for instance, typhus was rampant in the camp and many inmates were tubercular.

"By these means many tens of thousands of the best leadership personnel in Europe, including democrats and anti-Nazis, have been exterminated.

"For instance, six of the eight French generals originally committed to the camp and the son of one of them died there. The recent death rate was about 200 a day. Five thousand seven hundred had died or been killed in February, 5,900 in March and about 2,000 in the first ten days of April."

Camp Annex Described

"The main elements of the installation included the little camp, regular barracks, hospital, medical experimentation building, body-disposal plant, and ammunition factory immediately adjacent to the camp and separated from it only by the wire fence of the little camp. Prisoners here slept on triple-decker shelves, each shelf about twelve feet by twelve feet, six prisoners to a shelf, clearance height between shelves being little over two feet.

"The cubage figured out to about thirty-five cubic feet per man as against a minimum for health of 600 cubic feet prescribed by United States Army regulations.

"All arriving new prisoners were initiated by spending at least six weeks here before being graduated to the regular barracks. During this initiation the prisoners were expected to lose about 40 per cent in weight.

"Jews, however, seldom if ever graduated to the regular barracks.

"Camp disciplinary measures included transferring recalcitrant prisoners back to the little camp. As persons became too feeble to work they were also sent back to this camp or to the hospital.

"Rations here were less than at the regular camps, and the death rate was very high here—recently 2 to 4 per cent a day.

"Regular barracks: Dormitory rooms were approximately 42 by 23 feet and about 10 feet high, or content of less than 9,500 cubic feet. In such rooms there were installed triple-deck, thirty-eight stacks of three cots each, or a total of 114 cots, each cot 30 by 72 inches outside measurement. Most of these cots were double, two parallel cots occupying a space 60 by 72 inches. Aisles were too narrow to permit movement except with the body edgewise. One thousand forty cots into 9,500 makes less than eighty-five cubic feet per person.

"But since the war 250 persons have been made to sleep in each such room, five persons on each 60 by 72 inch double cot, or less than 40 cubic feet per person. There was less than one blanket per prisoner. Blankets were thin, shoddy and undersize. There was no heat in these dormitories.

"Hospital: The building where moribund persons were sent to die. No medicines being available, no therapy was possible. Typhus and tuberculosis were rampant in the camp. About half of the wards were about 15 feet deep with one window at the outside end, and 5½ feet wide. From six to nine patients occupied such a ward, lying crosswise on the floor, shoulder to to shoulder. The room was too narrow for most of them to stretch their legs. The death rate in the hospital was from 5 to 20 per cent per day."

Medical Experiment Building

The report then described the medical experiment building, saying "medical scientists came from Berlin periodically to reinforce the experimental staff. In particular, new toxins and anti-toxins were tried out on the prisoners. Few prisoners who entered this experimental building ever emerged alive."

The report characterized the body disposal plant as "a striking example of German industrial efficiency.

"It had a maximum disposal capacity of about 400 bodies per ten-hour day. All bodies were reduced to bone ash, thus destroying all evidence. All gold or gold-filled teeth were extracted from the bodies before incineration. This plant was entirely enclosed within a high board fence.

"No one except the small operating force of S. S. personnel was allowed even to look inside this fence and no prisoner who passed within it as a member of a fatigue party or for any other reason ever came out alive."

There were two batteries of three fire-brick incinerators, each incinerator having a capacity for three bodies. This permitted the incineration of 18 bodies simultaneously and the operation took 15 to 20 minutes, the report said.

Arbitrary Condemnation

"Roll call was held every evening outside the dormitory buildings. Internees were required to strip and bring to roll call the bodies of all comrades who had died during the previous twenty-four hours. After roll call a motor truck drove around the camp and picked up the bodies and was driven to the front yard of the incineration plant to await the next day's operations.

"But this was not [the word "not" was underlined] the only source of bodies. Emaciated prisoners who had been around long enough, who committed infractions of discipline or who 'knew too much' or who refused to be broken in mind were arbitrarily condemned to death . . . in a little camp where prisoners slept sixteen on a shelf. Infraction of discipline, particularly attempt to escape, not [word "not" underlined] infrequently resulted in all sixteen being condemned. Such persons were immediately marched on foot . . . to the incinerator."

Here they were pushed through a door and into a shaft through which they usually fell thirteen feet to the concrete floor of the basement of the incinerating plant, the report said.

"This room was the strangling room. As they hit the floor they were garroted with a short-double-end noose by big S. S Guards and hung on hooks along a side wall. . . . When the consignment had been all hung up, any who were still struggling were stunned with a wooden mallet. . . . Bodies were left on hooks until called for by the incinerator crew."

Buriers Buried

For a ten-day period in March, the report said, the incinerator was out of coal and the bodies were stacked up in the camp like cordwood until 1,800 were collected.

"A fatigue detail of internees was then organized. The bodies were loaded in trucks and hauled out of camp. The fatigue detail dug one huge burial pit and threw the bodies into it, filling it, except for one end, and covered the bodies. Then S. S. guards shot all members of the fatigue detail and threw their bodies into the vacant end and covered them up."

The report said that the ration at the regular camp was 600 to 700 calories daily and 500 calories in the little camp. For adult health, 3,000 calories are required. It was an unbalanced diet containing no meat, greens or fresh vegetables.

"Red Cross packages were almost entirely appropriated by the camp commander and distributed to suit himself to S. S. personnel, to citizens of Weimar and even to Nordic German camp prisoners."

As the American Army approached, the Nazis rounded up some thousands of more "valuable prisoners. They were marched off in columns, with any who fell out being shot. It was estimated that 3,000 were killed this way.

Others escaped and are now being rounded up by the Americans. The report said that published accounts of the use of tattooed human skin as souvenirs by S. S. personnel were "true in every respect."

Confirmed by Lieutenant

"The wife of one of the S. S. officers started a fad that any prisoners who happened to have extensive tattooing of any sort on his body was brought to her and that if she found the tattooing satisfactory the prisoner was killed and skinned and that the skin with the tattooing was then tanned and made into souvenirs such as lampshades, wall pictures, book ends, etc., and that about forty examples of this artistry were found in S. S. officers' quarters. This statement was confirmed by Lieutenant Walter Emmons. And we ourselves saw six examples at camp headquarters, including a lampshade."

The report also confirmed the statement made to The Associated Press a week ago by French repatriates that an order had been given to kill all 20,000 remaining internees at the last moment but was not carried out.

"This concentration camp was by no means unique nor were its methods different from similar camps which were or still are operated at Dachau near Berlin, Kleine Glattbach east of Karlsruhe and at other points. When the French Army overran Kleine Glattbach they found only 700 emaciated survivors, some of whom are beyond rehabilitation and about half of whom are in advanced stages of tuberculosis of various types, according to the considered opinion of an Army surgeon."

The report concluded that as a result of the policy followed in such camps, "Continental Europe, including Germany, has been systematically deprived of hundreds of thousands of its best liberal or democratic leadership personnel."

EDITOR VIEWS BUCHENWALD

Urges Special Attention To Punishing SS, Gestapo

APR 29 1945

This dispatch was written by a member of the group of editors invited by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to see at first hand conditions in Nazi prison camps.

By BEN McKELWAY

[Associate Editor of the Washington Star]

Paris, April 28 (AP)—After what Hitler's Germany has done to the world, the details of what it did at the Buchenwald concentration camp for civilians near Weimar, in central Germany, seem relatively trivial and important only as a symbol.

The more lurid details of conditions found in the camp when it was liberated have been adequately reported by conscientious and accurate war correspondents on the spot. By the time we reached the place, some of the visual evidence had been removed by a necessary clearing up and much of what we learned was necessarily hearsay.

But nothing could picture the camp and what it represented as any worse than what it undoubtedly was.

A Pretty Sentiment

The crematorium, capacity 400 bodies per ten-hour day, was spotlessly clean, evidently the pride of its supervisors. The furnace doors were ajar, and inside were the unconsumed portions of recent dead skulls, bones and fragments of flesh.

On the wall hung a sign, tastefully lettered in gold on varnished wood. It read: "Let not worms eat my body. Let it be consumed by pure flame. I love always warmth and light. Therefore burn, but do not bury me." A pretty sentiment.

Downstairs was what was said to be the Gestapo execution chamber. Victims were said to have been tied, hand and foot, and thrown down a 13-foot chute to the concrete floor of this chamber, picked up and hanged by the neck to iron hooks in the wall, their feet barely above the floor. There were 45 hooks.

Well-Worn Mallet

A wooden mallet, like a large potato masher, was exhibited as the instrument with which the victims were knocked on the head to complete the hanging. It was pretty well worn down.

According to Louis Lochner, the former chief of the Associated Press bureau in Berlin, the camp at Buchenwald was notorious as long ago as 1938. It was established in 1933, according to an official statement by investigators, for political prisoners, and Mr. Lochner told me stories of the death of many people sent there were circulating underground in Berlin before the war.

The congressmen and the editors would like to see a camp just liberated to compare it with Buchenwald.

At The Top Of The List

But what happened in these camps was merely the result of what was begun when men, women and children were torn from their homes and sent there because of their race or their politics.

Once begun, once accepted by the people of Germany, that policy would degrade any people to the level found at Buchenwald. Their punishment as a people will come in the natural course of events, with or without trials of individuals.

But a special priority of punishment should be assigned to any man or woman who belonged to the Gestapo or the SS. troops. They belong at the top of the list.

and filth at Buchenwald is the cultural center of Weimar which adjoins the camp. The town suffered some bombing damage but is spick and span except for rubble around the buildings that were hit. Well-fed, well-dressed Germans go about their business through the streets, paying little attention to American occupation forces.

The natives are aloof and dignified. They comply with rules and regulations readily. Whether they were merely indifferent to conditions in the camp during the many years it was operated or ignorant of them is debated by the officers in town. Certainly there is no evidence visible that any of them feels any guilt or responsibility. But perhaps their placidity will suffer a shock if the town is turned over to the Russians for permanent occupation when V-Day arrives.

Horror Stories Told.

Obviously in the short time given the editors for inspecting the camp there was little opportunity to weigh evidence and decide on the reliability and credibility of witnesses. Horror stories by the score are told. One block of buildings was used for medical experiments with prisoners serving as guinea pigs in tests of various serums. Few "prisoners who entered this building ever left alive," prisoners say.

The death rate must have been tremendous during the ten years the camp was in operation. Evidence of this is the elaborate crematory. This had a capacity of 400 bodies in twelve hours and it is not likely that the Germans, with the shortage of material facing them and the efficiency

Freed P[illegible]rs Still Dying

Buchenwald ex-C[illegible]ives So Weakened They Succumb at Rate of 15 a Day.

APR 29 1945

By M. E. WALTER.

Managing Editor of the Houston Chronicle. Written for the Associated Press.

Paris, April 28.—The prisoners left in the notorious German labor camp of Buchenwald are still dying at the rate of fifteen a day although it has been two weeks since the American Army opened the camp.

When captured, the camp had a population of about 20,000 and those able to be taken away were removed so that only about 6,000 were there when a party of editors visited the place. They were sick and starving, most of them past saving.

In contrast to the starvation

[illegible] second nature to them, [illegible] have provided any excess [illegible]acity.

More than 1,000 children from 6 to 14 years old were found in the camp. They were mostly Polish orphans and were put to work as soon as the SS (Elite Guard) officials in charge decided they were old enough. This was usually at 12, the children said.

The plight of these children arouses the deepest resentment. In the case of the men, they had opposed the Nazis and might be said to have warred against them. This mistreatment—horrible as it was—could perhaps be understood or explained as revenge or fear by Nazis who believed the men's death was necessary to their own safety. But in the case of children there could be no explanation that a reasonable mind can understand.

For Political Prisoners.

Buchenwald prison should not be confused with the prison camps where American soldiers were kept. This camp was for political prisoners—that is, for citizens of Germany and France, Poland and Czecho-Slovakia, who had opposed the Nazis or, as they phrased it, were "politically unreliable." And they included many outstanding men of the countries named. They were noted physicians, military men, professors and in fact the brains of the opposition. That is why the Nazis feared them and sought their destruction.

In Weimar were several thousand liberated American soldiers awaiting transportation. They will be flown to the coast and sent from there to their homes as soon as possible. While their treatment has been far better than that given civilians in the labor camp, they had been treated far from the way that should be expected from a civilized enemy in keeping with the Geneva agreement. All complained of inadequate food and agreed that without Red Cross parcels they probably would not have survived. They also told of frequent floggings, of forced marches without food and of being worked at hard labor for unreasonable hours.

Worse Than Last War.

To me an interesting feature of the inspection was seeing how the German has deteriorated in character in the twenty-seven years since the last war. I had been a prisoner shortly before the last war ended and by and large had been treated well. The food was poor but so also was the food of the native population. Hence I was somewhat dubious of the horror stories that had come out of Germany during the present war, wondering how much exaggeration was in them.

But I soon found there is little similarity between the government headed by the Kaiser and that headed by Hitler insofar as treatment of prisoners is concerned. The beast in man is chained lightly, some poet once said. And it seems that the Nazis have broken the chains in the case of a large segment of the German people.

Buchenwald's Horrors Called Beyond Belief

Representative Back After Inspection Calls a Full Description Unprintable

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP).—Representative John C. Kunkel, Republican, of Pennsylvania, returned to Washington today from an inspection of the Buchenwald concentration camps, where he witnessed evidence of Nazi atrocities.

"Anything you hear about conditions of Buchenwald will be an understatement," he told reporters. "The full truth would get into the realm of obscenity and filth—so low you couldn't print it."

Mr. Kunkel is the first of several members of Congress who have toured the German prisons to get back to Washington. He was not a member of the official Congressional committee which went to Europe last week at the request of General Dwight D. Eisenhower. In Europe on other business, Mr. Kunkel went to Buchenwald at the Army's invitation five days after it was liberated by American troops.

"The Army has done a wonderful job of cleaning it up," he said, "but the smell of death is still over the place."

More than 100 of the liberated prisoners died the night and morning of his visit. "Two of them had committed suicide, even though freedom had come," he said. "It shows the mental derangement that came to prisoners in the place."

Saw Germans Strip Three French Girls and Then Beat Them to Death

Paris, April 28 (A. P.).—Three French girls were stripped and whipped to death in the presence of 250 American soldiers in a German prison camp, M. E. Walter, managing editor of the Houston Chronicle and a member of the editors' party investigating German camps, said today. Walter quoted Sergt. William Sandler, a Kentuckian, who said that he witnessed the murders and later saw the whips.

"The sergeant said that the Germans had discovered the Frenchwomen and the Americans were mutually helping each other in the camp and they were determined to halt it," Walter related. "The prisoners were assembled one morning, and the women, all of whom were young, were lined up in front of them and forced to undress.

"German guards then took cat-o'-nine-tails and beat them until they died. The sergeant said that it took only about twenty minutes."

Captives Slain by Nazis Buried in Leipzig Park

Religious Service Is Held by American Army Chaplains

LEIPZIG, Germany, April 28 (AP).—The blackened bodies of 120 German political prisoners massacred at suburban Theyla by Nazi S. S. men (Elite Guards) and the Gestapo on the day the Americans entered Leipzig have been buried in one of this cultural center's loveliest parks. Their graves will become a perpetual monument to remind the German nation of one of the war's worst atrocities.

The flower-wreathed coffins were lowered yesterday in a park in southeastern Leipzig near the monument to Napoleon. Religious service was held by American Army chaplains — Catholic, Protestant and Jewish—and the ceremony was attended by 300 officials of the new Leipzig civil government and representatives of the Allied Military Government.

Lining the parkways were former slave laborers from France, Belgium, Holland, Russia and Czechoslovakia, all carrying their national colors. An American bugler closed the services by sounding taps for Allied dead.

British, French Seamen Freed By Second Army

With the British Second Army in Germany, April 28—(AP)—Approximately 4,000 British and French Naval Merchant Seamen were liberated today when the Guards Armored Division captured a prison camp at [illegible]rtinke, six miles southwest of [illegible]

Nazi Gives Up, Asks to See Wife

AN R. A. F. FIGHTER BASE IN GERMANY, April 28 (AP).—A German fighter pilot who apparently had had enough of war landed his undamaged FW-190 plane here today and surrendered. His immediate request to be taken to see his wife in a near-by town was denied.

Nazis Parade In 'Surrender Through Channels' At River

In Germany (AP)—The Germans started a parade and now it's only a matter of time until that lieutenant shows up on this side of the Elbe River.

The general was German. He came across the river in a rowboat under a white flag and insisted he wanted only to arrange the surrender of some wounded soldiers and to transport some civilians to this side.

Makes Decision—To Stay

But when the American officers refused to deal unless all enemy soldiers in the vicinity surrendered, the Wehrmacht officer seemed loath to return. Under the rules of land warfare, he had a perfect right to return since he had come under a flag of truce.

Slowly he walked to the river bank. On the other side he had only angry Gestapo and Storm Troopers, or else the approaching Russians to face, and neither prospect seemed likely to lead to a ripe old age.

Finally he made his decision—to remain on this side of the river as a prisoner of war.

Time passed and another boat bearing a white flag appeared. It was a Wehrmacht colonel sent to see what had happened to the general. They told him.

Colonel Also Decides

Thoughtfully he considered the situation. Then he, too, decided it would be healthier to stay on this side and asked permission to surrender. It was accepted.

A short time later a third boat was rowed across. A major had been sent to see what had happened to the colonel. After talking to his superior officers he also decided to cash in the return half of his round-trip ticket.

By the time the tired-looking Wehrmacht captain showed up, grinning GI's were laying odds as to how far 'surrender through channels" would go. Naturally the captain was looking for the major and naturally he, too, voted in favor of staying on the "safe side of the river."

"It's only a matter of time now until that lieutenant gets here," said a sergeant on the river bank.

Poses As Civilian

The surrender of generals reached virtually a dime-a-dozen basis as the gap slowly closed between the Russian and American forces and each star-bedecked officer usually had some new and logical-sounding reason for calling it quits.

But one general reached Allied hands without surrendering. He was a high-ranking Gestapo official who had been given general officer status in the Wehrmacht in order to help keep army men in line. When things got too hot he doffed his uniform, sneaked through the lines and posed as a civilian police officer in a General town United States troops had occupied.

He had burned most of his papers before he was picked up, but enough were left to identify him definitely.

He remained cocky during the first part of the questioning, even when certain atrocities in which he was believed implicated were mentioned. When asked if he had any idea how many thousands of human beings he had been responsible for killing, he shrugged his shoulders and replied:

"I merely did my duty as a Gestapo officer."

Fears For His Family

A little later, however, he undertook to justify and even minimize Gestapo tactics. Despite his careful control he paled slightly when remnants of the uniforms of some tortured and slain political prisoners were displayed before him.

But it was not until mention was made of his family still in Germany that he completely lost his poker-faced calm. He begged questioning officers not to reveal that he had talked, or else not to connect him with his family back in the Reich. They asked him what difference it would make.

"The Gestapo," literally stuttered the erstwhile Gestapo chief, "you can't conceive what they would do to them."

FRENCH ELECTION IS SCHEDULED FOR TODAY

PARIS, April 28—(AP) France will vote tomorrow for the first time since 1936, and for the first time in the history of the republic women will be allowed to cast their ballots.

No issues of national policies are involved. The French were electing municipal councillors.

But this was the first liberated soil anywhere in Europe where the electorate has been permitted to vote on its representatives.

Nearly 24,000,000 French, more than half of them women, were registered and were expected to vote.

Hundreds of women throughout France were candidates for office, exercising the rights of voting and holding office granted by the De Gaulle government after liberation.

Since each candidate was limited to one election poster because of the paper shortage, few were used at all and most candidates wrote their electi[illegible] appeals on the sidewalks with [illegible]

French Woman Fined Total Of $97,500,000

Valenciennes, France, April 28—(AP)—The Committee for the Confiscation of Illicit Profits has levied a fine of almost a half billion francs ($97,500,000) on a woman for trading with the enemy and profiteering.

The committee charged that Mlle. Fromont made 92,000,000 francs in her wholesale wine and liquor establishment at Fresnes-Sur-Escaut in illicit trading and fined her five times that amount.

Nazis Reported Ready With Post-War Party Plan

Are Set to Try Again 5 Years After the War Ends

AT THE GERMAN FRONTIER, April 28 (AP).—Plans for a post-war Nazi party contemplate work by a directive committee that will not get started until five years after the end of hostilities, it was learned today through reliable channels from Berlin.

The reports said Nazi Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, Labor Front Director Dr. Robert Ley and Nazi party chancellery chief Martin Bormann laid the plans at a meeting April 12 in Berlin.

It was decided to divide Germany into four "groups"—north, south, east and west, the reports said. Each group was to be headed by a "vorsteher," or chief. The new organization was expected to follow the Communist party plan of creating "cells."

Tried to Form New Regime.

On the German-Swiss Frontier, April 28 (A. P.).—An effort to establish a new German Government under leadership of Walther Funk, president of the Reichsbank, at Salzburg, failed last Tuesday, it was learned reliably tonight.

Heavy fighting between German Army troops and SS men was reported in Salzburg—twelve miles north of Berchtesgaden—and the situation was said still to be chaotic.

Reports from across the frontier from sources usually reliable said that Funk and five other members of the old Reich Government met at Salzburg on April 24 and issued a proclamation that said "the Government has ceased to exist," and urging Germans to stop all resistance.

The proclamation said "local authorities are requested to act as they see fit to avoid any further bloodshed. The German Army is capitulating, and any further resistance will only worsen the future of the German people."

The reports said the proclamation was signed by Funk as "Provisional Reichs C[illegible]ncellor," and by Field Marsha[illegible] Walther von Brauchitsch as "M[illegible]er of War." Funk has served [illegible]inister of Economics and [illegible]ember of the Wartime Mi[illegible] Council.

Belgian Sculptor, Freed

WITH THE NINETY-NINTH INFANTRY DIVISION, April 28 (AP)—Richard Struyf, Belgian sculptor who decorated a number of buildings during his seventeen years' residence in the United States, was liberated today from the Trossenfurt concentration camp. He had been forced to work in a fertilizer factory. He did sculptural decorations for the Bowery Savings Bank and Roxy and Capitol Theatres in New York and the Florida homes of Henry Ford and Thomas A. Edison.

Foe's Elbe 'Fleet' Yields: Tugs, Barges, Houseboats

30 Boats Sail From Berlin to Give Up the Fight

WITH THE UNITED STATES 9TH ARMY, on the Elbe River, April 28 (AP).—American doughboys on this topsy-turvy front have now seen everything. Last night a German "fleet" sailed up the Elbe and surrendered. It had come from Berlin via inland waterways.

The fleet consisted of six tugboats, ten river barges, three houseboats and eleven assorted escorts loaded with wounded and marked with red crosses. The entire fleet surrendered to Lieutenant Andrew Gadek, of 43 Fremont Street, Woodbridge, N. J.

A German major in charge said they feared the approach of the Russians because of their "inhumanity."

In Hitler's Hands?

With the United States Ninth Army in Germany, April 28 (A. P.).—Lieut.-Gen. Kurt Dittmar, widely quoted Nazi military commentator now in American hands, has predicted that the German Army will attempt a total surrender after Adolf Hitler's death. He said that control of the German Army, which is still strictly in Hitler's hands, could be seized by any of three generals upon Hitler's death, and that any of the three may seek an immediate peace on almost any terms.

He listed them as Field Marshal Walther von Brauchitsch, former commander in chief; Field Marshal Karl von Rundstedt, former commander on the western front, and Col.-Gen. Heinz Guderian, chief of the General Staff.

Generally known as the voice of the German Army and its best informed spokesman, Dittmar surrendered to Ninth Army troops on Wednesday. Apparently glad to discuss the plot to kill Hitler, Dittmar indicated that Der Fuehrer must have been warned in advance since he "carefully circled" the spot where the bomb was planted, and was well protected from the blast at the time it exploded. He said his cousin, Major-Gen. Brandt, was one of those killed by the bomb.

NAZI ESCAPE CUT IN ITALY

Allies Placed At Swiss Border; Brescia And Bergamo Fall

Rome, April 28 (AP)—United States tank troops racing across northwestern Italy captured Brescia and Bergamo at the foot of the Alps today, blocking the last two German escape routes to the Brenner Pass into Austria, and an unofficial Milan radio report said they already had reached the Swiss frontier at Como, 30 miles beyond Bergamo.

[The Swiss radio said that the Germans had agreed to surrender in the provinces of Lombardy and Piedmont, which border on southern Switzerland and embrace northwest and north central Italy. This report was without confirmation in Rome or elsewhere.

[Another unconfirmed Swiss radio report said the fallen Duce, Benito Mussolini, had been taken to Milan by Italian Patriots and would be tried by a Patriot court-martial.]

Genoa Cleared

The last German troops were cleared from Genoa, last big west coast port held by the enemy, and 6,000 prisoners were taken, a special Allied communiqué said.

Simultaneously it was announced officially that Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, Fascist commander in chief of Benito Mussolini's crushed forces, had been captured by Italian Patriots, but there still was no confirmation of reports that Mussolini himself and Fascist confederates had been seized.

Milan Freed Of Nazis

German troops in the north-central and northeastern parts of Italy were trying desperately to rally their smashed forces on the north bank of the Adige River, or so-called Venetian line, but the communiqué said both 5th and British 8th Army forces were across that barrier in strength.

The fall of Brescia and Bergamo was accomplished by overwhelming American forces spearheaded by veteran tankmen of the United States 1st Armored Division. They took Brescia and rolled on 30 miles northwest through Bergamo, outflanking the big Italian city of Milan, 26 miles southwest of Bergamo.

Milan itself was reported freed of German troops by powerful Italian Patriot forces, and so was the big industrial city of Turin, according to Italian Partisan stations.

French Employ Pincers

French forces, smashing over the northwestern Italian border in the Maritime Alps on a 50-mile front, were inside Italy to a depth of 5 to 10 miles, putting a gigantic pincers into operation against the demoralized Germans.

The Allied air command announced, meanwhile, that its planes had dropped more than 5,000,000 pounds of equipment since November 22, 1944, to Italian Partisans whose uprisings have spread throughout the northern zone.

Nearly two and one half tons of supplies were dropped into Bologna the night of April 19, a few hours before Allied troops and Partisans routed the enemy from there and began the big offensive across the Po plain.

Bad weather hampered aerial operations, but one American Thunderbolt got through and killed approximately 100 Germans and destroyed or damaged nearly 70 vehicles in attacking a convoy near Milan, the communiqué said.

The enemy garrison on Monte More in the Genoa area held up operations 24 hours and then surrendered to Americans driving toward the French Riviera coastline.

Marshal Graziani, former governor of Libya and Somaliland, one-time chief of the Italian general staff, and commander of North Africa forces, was taken by Italian patriots who reported their prize catch to headquarters of the 15th Army group. No details were given as to when or where the capture was effected.

YANKS REACH FRONTIER, SAYS MILAN RADIO

U. S. Forces Spear Close to Bergamo—Link With Partisans

Rome, April 28 (A. P.).—Allied troops today captured Bergamo, thirty miles from the Swiss border and 125 from the Brenner Pass. Brescia, thirty miles southeast of Bergamo, was also taken, Allied headquarters announced in a special communique.

The Milan National Liberation radio said earlier that the Americans had reached the Swiss frontier, had entered Como and had cut off all of northwestern Italy from exits to Germany.

Americans earlier speared close to Bergamo, 125 miles southwest of the Brenner Pass and 30 miles from the border in a swift dash to outflank Milan, 26 miles to the southwest. This placed the Fifth Army almost at the southern tip of Lake Como.

A First Armored Division spearhead that seized the Ghedi airport near Bergamo in a 31-mile advance moved in the field so fast a German sergeant assigned to blow the installations was captured before he could touch off a fuse.

Enter Pontremoli

On the Ligurian coast a special task force entered Pontremoli, 20 miles north of La Spezia, en route to Parma, Allied headquarters disclosed.

Other Fifth Army troops smashed into the port of Genoa. The "free Milan" radio declared German commanders were endeavoring to negotiate a general surrender of their hopelessly trapped forces in Northern Italy.

(A broadcast by the partisan radio at Busto Arstzio in Northern Italy, recorded by the FCC, said patriot forces had "linked up" with Allied troops north of the Po and that all roads leading to the Brenner Pass had been "barred.")

British Eighth Army units were mopping up a number of isolated enemy pockets south of the Adige River, but met determined resistance from positions north of the river.

Fifth Army troops north and south of the Po River continued their pursuit of the enemy against light, scattered resistance. Some enemy positions and fortifications were found abandoned.

Armored Divisions Lead

The First Armored Division spearhead scored the greatest advance on the Fifth Army sector, rolling forward about 31 miles and capturing the airport near Bergamo.

The Eighth Army was meeting stubborn resistance along the so-called Adige or Venetian Line, where the enemy was expected to rally remnants of his disorganized forces.

The Allied Headquarters communique reported that Lieut. Gen. Richard Heidrich, commander of the crack first Nazi Parachute Corps, swam the Po River from the south and the north bank, dressed down his troops and told them the British must be stopped.

In an effort to blunt the Eighth's punch the Germans threw fresh troops from their 155th Division into the line, where the parachutists and panzers seemed to have plenty of fight left.

No Confirmation

There was no confirmation that Milan had fallen, despite persistent partisan radio reports that the city was in their control.

Allied headquarters disclosed that German coastal batteries in Genoa had not yet surrendered, although Allied armies control the city.

Troops of the 34th Infantry mopped up pockets around Piacenza and southwest of Parma. Allied units cut Route 62, a main enemy escape artery from the Ligurian coast.

About 1,000 additional prisoners were seized on the Eighth Army front.

Poor weather limited aerial activity, but last night tactical planes destroyed or damaged 352 German vehicles. One Allied plane was missing.

Nazis Ambushed

London, April 28 (A.P.)—A force of German soldiers estimated at 1,500 battled Italian patriots near Switzerland's southern frontier throughout the night in an attempt to cross into that neutral country, the Swiss radio announced today.

The Swiss overnment quickly evacuated residents of the border region when fighting broke out near Chiasso, the broadcast said.

The German troops arrived in the frontier area early last night expecting to cross over and be interned, the announcement said. The Italian patriots, however, ambushed them. An all-night battle ensued.

French Invade Italy.

Sixth Army G[illegible], April 28 (A. P.).—The French forces have driven to or over the Italian border along a stretch of fifty miles and up to a depth of ten miles inside Italy in the Maritime Alps sector south of Switzerland, it was announced today.

ALLIES ANNOUNCE GRAZIANI CAPTURE

Rome, April 28 (A. P.).—Allied headquarters announced tonight that Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, former commander of Italian armies in North Africa, had been taken prisoner.

[An Associated Press dispatch from London said that Roberto Farinacci, Mussolini's delegate to the German command in Italy, has been tried and shot by Partisans, according to the Milan radio.]

Guido Buffarini-Guidi, former Secretary of State and Minister of the Interior in the Fascist government of Benito Mussolini, has been captured by Italian patriots at Fortezza while attempting to escape into Switzerland and will be brought before a people's court, a patriot-controlled radio station in north Italy said today in a broadcast recorded by the FCC.

Buffarini-Guidi also served for a time as home minister in the Fascist Republican government in north Italy.

Mussolini was arrested on the west shore of Lake Como, disguised as a German soldier and traveling in a car mixed up with a German Column of about thirty vehicles," the Milan [illegible] so said.

Arrested at the same time in a nearby town were said to be Alessandro Pavolini, former secretary of the Fascist party and Secretary of State in Mussolini's puppet regime in north Italy, and Francesco Mario Barraco, undersecretary of the ministerial council.

PIUS' ADVISERS REDUCED TO 41

Number Of Cardinals Small For Modern Times

Vatican City, April 28 (AP)—The cardinals of the Catholic Church—advisers of the Supreme Pontiff and, at his death, electors of his successor—now number only 41 out of a normal 70, a new low for modern times that raises the question of holding a consistory. Well-informed Vatican circles expect this to take place as soon as the war in Europe ends.

Despite the fact that Pius XII has been Pope for more than six years, this would be the first consistory under his pontificate. Several times the number of cardinals fell even lower, but no other Pontiff has allowed such a long period to elapse without creating new ones.

Dropped To 18 In 1517

The Popes have generally followed the custom of leaving one or two seats vacant, but in 1517 the number of cardinals dropped to eighteen. Pope Leo X called a consistory and created 31 new cardinals, the most ever created at one time.

In December, 1935, Pius XII created nineteen new cardinals bringing the total up to 69. Since then there have been on proclamations and the death of 28 men has accounted for the present low figure.

Of the 69 cardinals in 1935, 39 were Italian, three German, four American, six French, three Spanish, two Polish, two Czech and Belgium, Hungary, Portugal, Ireland, Brazil, Canada, Austria, the Middle East, Argentina and Great Britain each had one.

Three Nations Without Cardinal

Of the 28 that have died since 1935, fourteen were Italian and fourteen non-Italian, including three American, two French, two Spanish, one Portuguese, one Brazilian and one British. This leaves Portugal, Brazil and Britain without a cardinal, while the United States has lost three of its four.

It is believed generally that the vacant seats will be filled the way they were in 1935, although some Vatican sources believe the number of seats—70—fixed by Sixtus V in 1586—may be increased. Some think less important cardinal sees may be abolished and new ones created.

May Name Some In U.S.

It is here pointed out that the greater part of the voluntary aid for Italian relief has been supplied by American Catholics, wherefore the Pope may be induced to consider creating new sees in the United States. The same can be said for South America, which, although predominantly Catholic, has only two cardinal sees.

The death, August 22, 1944, of Luigi Cardinal Maglione, formerly Secretary of State, deprived the Sacred College of Cardinals—supreme council of the church—of its cardinal camerlengo, which post Cardinal Maglione held.

On the death of the Pontiff the cardinal camerlengo has the administration of the affairs of the Holy See until the election of a new Pope.

Pope Pius XII's reluctance to call a consistory has not come as a surprise to students of Vatican affairs, for the war came shortly after his coronation. A consistory is generally an occasion for festive rejoicing in the church, and this would have violated the austere atmosphere of mourning maintained in the Vatican because of the Pontiff's repeated denunciation of the war.

Prince Umberto's Visits Rouse Italian Leftists

Rome, April 28 (AP)—Prince Umberto's visits to newly-liberated Italian towns and cities with Allied permission were attacked by Leftists today as Cabinet ministers and members of the National Committee of Liberation met a flat refusal from Allied authorities to journey north.

An Allied official said the Prince, lieutenant general of the realm, had been allowed to visit Bologna and other places because he technically was a "head of a state" and not a political figure.

Leftists, however, charged that the monarchy was battling for its survival in Italy today and therefore any activities by Umberto were political.

SWEDEN KEEPS NEUTRALITY

Stockholm Goes Slow On Norway Plea For Action

Stockholm, April 28 (AP)—Cautious Sweden is clinging today to her policy of official neutrality and making no commitments to any Allied power to fight the Germans in Norway.

The sure-thing bet in Stockholm was that Sweden will continue juridically intact the tradition of 130 years of peace.

The controversy over intervention was brought into the open by the Norwegian Government in exile. It is only the latest of many embarrassments the Swedes endured in this war without slipping from the tight rope of nonbelligerency.

Anywhere one wishes, a Swede can be chosen at random—in drawing rooms, on street corners, in the shops—and he will reflect the unmistakable majority opinion on the question whether the country should fight now for Norway's sake.

"Why should our sons be killed merely to end the war a month or two earlier?" replies the aristocratic lady active in Norwegian charities.

Prays For Agreement

"Our Government has been wise all the way along, and we trust it," says the textile manufacturer.

"We don't want any V-2's falling here," snaps the taxi driver.

In the crowded restaurant at lunchtime a waitress just married to an army reservist sighs, "I'm praying there will be an agreement without any fighting."

It is not in the foreign correspondent's estimate alone that the official neutrality policy appears to have solid public support. This is what Allied diplomats have been telling their governments.

Yet, neutrality as Sweden practiced it for more than five years is like a rubber band. It is elastic. It covered the presence of 8,700 Swedes on the Finnish front in the 1939-1940 "winter war" with Russia. It also covered until the Summer of 1943 the railway passage across Sweden of numerous German divisions which otherwise would have been targets for Allied submarines and bombers off the Norwegian coast.

Volunteers Recruited

This neutrality today cloaks the recruitment of 3,000 to 4,000 Swedish volunteers for combat in Norway, and the supplying of all necessary facilities to the Norwegian "police corps" of 12,000 men, equipped with mortars, field artillery and small arms.

One fact is likely to be overlooked in asking why Sweden has not gone to war for Norway. The Norwegians did not demand exactly that.

What the exiled Norwegian Government sought recently was Swedish assurance of armed intervention if required, and Sweden balked at a hypothetical question. The Cabinet in effect approved weeks ago the idea of intervention under the guise of "police action."

KING NOT LIBERATED, BELGIAN CABINET SAYS

BRUSSELS, Belgium, April 28 (AP)—The Belgian public, in a high state of excitement and expectation over rumors of the impending return of King Leopold, was told by its Government today that reports of the monarch's liberation were "without any foundation."

The Cabinet statement, striking for its lack of elaboration on such an important subject, had the effect of increasing rather than quieting the hubbub.

Reports originating in Switzerland this week said that the Nazi-held ruler was expected to enter that neutral country. Since circulation of the rumor, many Belgians have wondered whether the King would continue to reign after his return from captivity.

The Government communiqué said:

"The Council of Ministers announced officially that all the rumors concerning the King are without any foundation."

Most Belgians are believed strongly in favor of a monarchy. But the idea that Leopold could serve both the reigning house and his country better by abdicating in favor of his heir, young Prince Badouin, with Prince Charles as regent, is gaining ground.

It still is held against Leopold that as chief of the state he did not flee to an Allied country in 1940 to carry on the fight against the Germans with his remaining forces, as the Queen of the Netherlands and the King of Norway did.

Leftist groups are preoccupied with constitutional problems that will have to be dealt with when the King returns. Parliament elected a regent when it found Leopold was unable to reign because of his absence. Therefore it is for Parliament to decide whether Leopold is in a position to fulfill his constitutional duties, it is contended.

Swiss, Handling U.S. Interests, Leave Berlin

Bern, Switzerland, April 28 (AP)—The Swiss delegation which represents the interests of the United States and Britain in Germany has left Berlin and entered the Germans' Bavarian redoubt area, the Basel National Zeitung reported from St. Margarethen, Switzerland, today.

The delegation will join whatever Nazi Government is there in an effort to continue its activities on behalf of British-American interests, especially for the protection of some 30,000 United States and British prisoners said to be within the redoubt area, the account said.

Spanish Right United By Fear

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ

Madrid, April 28—(AP)—The Spanish Rightists are a frightened family walking along through the graveyard of totalitarian Europe.

Not just Generalissimo Francisco Franco and the Falangists, but the entire element of Rightists—including the Monarchists—are whistling a tune entitled: "No, we are not Nazi, nor Fascists are we."

The Spanish Right is a united family—united in fear and in the knowledge that in unity it is strong. In that sense it is much stronger than the Spanish Exiles and the Spanish Republicans at home.

Franco, the Falange, the Permanent Officer Corps, the Spanish Catholic Church and its allied civilian organizations, the Monarchists and Don Juan Carlists and all their leaders and pretenders, landowners and industrialists—all these are united.

They give their opponents a collective name—"Communists"—and what they really oppose are free elections.

The Right can not be justly called unpopular—it has too much to offer. It has too many irons in the fire.

Under the Right, Spain can have Fascism like the 1937-1945 Franco-Falange regime, a military dictatorship like the Primo De Rivera rule, constitutional monarchy like the Alfonso XIII pre-dictatorship government, absolute monarchy such as the Carlists propose, a regency such as Horthy invented in Hungary, a monkist democracy which one section of the Church suggests, or even a republic such as Vargas in Brazil or Salazar in Portugal initiated with such success.

The Leftists, however, can offer only a republic, right of center or left, depending on the vote.

But what the Right in Spain fears more than a republic is the elections.

The Right has a powerful permanent army of perhaps 500,000 well-armed and well-trained men. The Right conquered and now governs. The Right holds the keys to the jails in which 500,000 persons have languished. The Right commands the firing squads which destroyed tens of thousands. The Right controls all food and still controls almost all jobs.

The opposition has no arms, nor money to buy arms; no freedom nor means of protesting the lack of it.

And still the Right is afraid—afraid like Scrooge of the ghosts of past events.

From the end of 1938 until the middle of 1940, the Right was not afraid. From 1940 until the end of 1942, the Right was afraid only that it would be cheated out of a share of the spoils of the World War. From 1942 until France was liberated and the Battle of Germany started, the Rightists tried to catch the Allied bandwagon.

Now the Rightists are afraid of being considered the last of their kind in the world.

The Spanish Right is preparing to change. The Falange probably will go and the dark blue shirts may be changed for Army khaki or monarchist white. Franco, who often has been called a monarchist, may summon a king. There will be some sort of constitution, something resembling elections and suggesting the death of the old and the birth of the new—but the Spanish Right which won the civil war against the Republic, plans no suicide.

Rightists can say truthfully that material living in Spain is better than anywhere else in the world at the present. There's food a-plenty, though expensive; the Franco regime rebuilt much of the war damage and constructed many new homes; jails are being slowly cleared of political prisoners, although perhaps 60,000 remain; the regime promised that the era of comparative liberty had begun.

Surface Gaiety

Seville celebrated its gayest fair in years this week. Cafes and bar are filled with rich and poor. Shop windows are packed with butter, cheese, ham, beef steak, canned goods, eggs—all unrationed, but expensive. The poor find fish, vegetables and even sausages and candies with their reach.

All these are Spain's today, with the promise of a tremendous post-war tourist business and yet, the big family which is Spain is not a particularly happy family.

On the immediate political horizon there is the San Francisco conference, to which Spain was not invited, and where, perhaps, somebody may say something about Spain. Then come the French municipal elections on April 29. Should these go against Gen. Charles De Gaulle and toward the Left the municipal elections might upset De Gaulle France as the Spanish Monarchy was upset in 1931, and perhaps the French Leftist flame might leap across the Pyrinees and sweep through Spain.

But many Rightists, worried though they may be, are convinced that Britain will be even more determined to prevent a Leftist government influenced by Moscow in Spain between London and Gibraltar than in Greece between Gibraltar and Suez. They hope the United States will want to keep Spain an American stepping stone into Europe and the Middle East.

They know the exiled Left is divided, with little or no influence among the Spanish masses. They know these Spanish masses so far have been too repressed to organize efficiently.

Chances are nothing will happen in Spain, but the fact remains that the Rightists are afraid, and fear makes one's enemies strong.

FRANCO EXECUTES 7 MEN

Madrid Withholds News but Surrenders Bodies to Families

MADRID, April 28 (AP)—Seven men convicted by a military tribunal of having killed two Falangists Feb. 25 were shot by a firing squad in Madrid's Carabanchel Prison at dawn, it was learned today.

Neither news of the executions nor the court judgments has been published, but the bodies of those executed were surrendered to their families this afternoon.

Three other defendants were sentenced to serve thirty years in prison and the lone woman among the eleven accused, Rufina Murillas, was acquitted and released, it was learned. Her husband was one of those executed.

Timoshenko Shown As Attack Engineer

Moscow, April 28 (A. P.).—Marshal Semon Timoshenko was today decorated with the coveted Order of Sovorov for "carrying out the assignment of the Supreme Commander-in-Chief in the cause of co-ordinating the activity of the Second and Third Ukrainian armies."

The Second Ukraine army is commanded by Marshal Malinovsky and the third by Marshal Tulbukhin. The presentation of the award indicated that Timoshenko guided the Russian sweep in Hungary, Austria and Czechoslovakia.

AMERICAN TROOPS CAPTURE BAGUIO

Philippine Summer Capital Falls After Long, Bitter Battle.

MANILA, Sunday, April 29—(AP) Baguio, mile-high Philippine summer capital and onetime Japanese military headquarters on northern Luzon, fell to the 33rd and 37th U. S. Infantry divisions Friday after one of the longest and bitterest fights of the Philippine campaign.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's announcement today said the important city, one of the greatest gold-mining centers of the entire archipelago, was taken by the 33rd division under Maj. Gen. Percy W. C. Clarkson, newly-augmented by the 37th under Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler. The 37th helped conquer Manila in February.

Mountainous Baguio, prime objective of MacArthur's men since their Jan. 9 invasion of Luzon island at Lingayen gulf, was taken in a gradual encircling move with artillery and aircraft strongly supporting the foot soldiers.

The Japanese garrison was destroyed, MacArthur said. American casualties were termed "amazingly light."

Twenty-fourth Division troops, meantime, completed their crossing of southern Mindanao from Moro gulf to Davao gulf by reaching Digos, 25 road miles south of Davao city, a principal port of the Philippines.

MacArthur announced the 31st Army division had joined the 24th for the push to Davao, where the enemy is expected to make a strong stand. Davao is the last major Japanese strongpoint in the Philippines.

In announcing the fall of Baguio, MacArthur declared that "this mountain citadel which the enemy considered impregnable was gradually encircled and reduced by the combined action of our infantry, artillery, armored units and air forces and resulted in the complete destruction of the fanatical enemy defenders, with amazing light casualties to our own forces."

He said members of the Filipino government who assertedly collaborated with the Japanese puppet regime and had taken refuge at Baguio "have either surrendered or fled."

Thirty-seventh Division Yanks joined the 33rd in completing occupation of Baguio, shell-wrecked city which once was a popular summer resort for Manilans.

Heavy bombers swept Formosa and attacked shipping the length of the China Sea, despite poor flying weather.

U. S. SOLDIERS GAIN ON LUZON AND MINDANAO

Manila, April 28—(AP)—Embattled Yanks inched forward Friday on three major Philippine fronts—Baguio, Balete and Central Luzon—and raced ahead against little opposition in a fourth sector, the approaches to Davao, on Mindanao Island.

They smashed forward slightly against the continuing strong resistance from the Japanese defending Baguio, the Philippine Summer capital.

Typical of the bitterness of the Baguio battle, five Japanese tanks broke through a road block and reached American front line fox holes, doing considerable damage before tank destroyers finished them off.

Civilians In City

The Yanks said they could see hundreds of civilians, who had been unable to get through the lines and out of danger, in the city.

Some of the skirmishes in that area were fought well up in the mountains, above the clouds, and soldiers were wearing field jackets for the first time in this phase of the Pacific war.

In another laborious gain, the 25th Division attacking Thursday night won a height overlooking Balete Pass, the bottleneck to which the Nipponese have been clinging grimly as an avenue of escape from Central Luzon to the Cagayan Valley on the northern part of the island.

Overcoming strong resistance, Yanks at Balete captured five enemy tanks intact and turned them on the enemy. They sealed many cave positions, one containing a 70 mm gun.

Monkeys Take Part

One annoyance in these Northern Luzon operations is the frequent bombardment of troops by monkeys hurling small stones. Pfc. Carmel Migneco of St. Charles, Mo., said one such rock shower set off a Japanese booby trap.

The better part of two divisions continued the slow fight for the liberation of two Central Luzon dams from which Manila draws its water supply. The Japanese have been holding the dam areas since their defeat in Manila.

American assault forces which made a second landing on Negros

30.24 25247

Island Thursday began a mop up of the enemy around the beautiful city of Dumaguete. Word from the 40th Division, which first landed there March 29, said Brig. Gen. Robert O. Shoe, of Long Beach, Calif., deputy division commander, had been thrice wounded by machine gun bullets but that he was not seriously hurt.

Ten-Mile Gain

A ten-mile forward lunge by the 24th Division on Mindanao Island put the Yanks within sight of Digos, important town on Davao Gulf, Thursday morning. Digos is on the main road leading to Davao City, 25 miles to the north. Davao is the great hemp center of the Philippines.

Associated Press Correspondent Richard Bergholz said the Yanks met only two Japanese rear guard forces. In the first encounter 80 Nipponese tried to stop the doughboys at Bulatukan, and in the second about 25 of the enemy decided to shoot it out near Dalupay.

JAP PLANES HIT YANK WARSHIPS

Sink Auxiliary Surface Craft, Damage Other Ships off Okinawa.

GUAM, Sunday, April 29—(AP) Japanese aircraft attacked U. S. warships off Okinawa Friday night, sinking an auxiliary surface craft and causing some other damage, Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

Twenty-five Japanese planes were destroyed and two probably shot down in that attack. On Saturday, carrier airplanes shot down 32 Japanese planes around Okinawa, Kikai and Yaku islands in the Ryukyus. Presumably, these latter enemy planes did not reach American forces, as Nimitz did not mention any attack by them.

On the southern Okinawa front 24th Army corps troops "moved slowly forward, destroying pillboxes, caves and strongpoints," the communique said.

Heavy artillery was employed against Japanese troop concentrations in rear areas and land-based Marine planes joined carrier aircraft in giving close support to the American Doughboys.

With the Japanese having withdrawn from many sectors of the front lines, the fact that Yank fliers were able to find them concentrating to the rear would indicate the bombardment-shocked Nipponese were trying to regroup for a strong defense along a second line.

Naval guns continued their heavy bombardment, destroying strong defensive positions.

Nimitz' communique gave no details about ground action. Maj. Gen. John R. Hodge's 24th Army corps are closing in on Machinato airfield on the west coast and Yonabaru on the east.

Tokyo radio, without confirmation, reported the Friday attack on the American ships off Okinawa cost the United States two cruisers, including the Savannah, sunk and a third cruiser damaged and four transports sunk.

The night attack was made by two groups of Japanese planes on ships lying off Okinawa beaches.

There was considerable activity during the night by Japanese small craft off Okinawa. A number were destroyed.

Land-based search planes sank three small Japanese cargo ships and damaged several in sweeps through the Ryukyus.

Aircraft from escort carriers bombed and strafed airfields in the Sakishima islands, in the southern Ryukyus, and Army Liberators bombed installations on Truk in the Carolines.

The Yank 27th Infantry division was near the boundary of Machinato field on the west coast, bypassing Japanese strongpoints at Nakama village to speed the capture of the airdrome.

On the east coast flank the Seventh division captured much ground in the vicinity north of Yonabara airstrip.

Doughboys of the 96th division in the central sector won three important hills but took a pounding from Nipponese artillery which had escaped destruction under the daily heavy blasting given the entire enemy line by American field artillery, naval gunfire and planes.

JAP AIRF[illegible] ARE MENACED ON OKINAWA

Guam, April 28—(AP)—Pursuing a retreating enemy in Southern Okinawa, May. Gen. John R. Hodge's 24th Corps Yanks today closed in on two airfields—Machinato and Yonabaru—whose capture appears imminent.

Abandoned stores in caves and horses found with pack saddles indicate the Japanese are falling back to their second defense line in disorder.

A small force of Japanese planes attacked Okinawa forces, Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced in today's communique. One minesweeper knocked down three.

No Sizeable Strike

However, the Japanese Airforce has made no sizeable strike against U S forces at Okinawa for several days, their mainland staging bases in Southern Kyushu having been under steady bombing by Marianas-based Superforts, carrier planes and Iwo Jima-based fighters.

Hitting in good weather, at medium altitude, from 100 to 150 Superforts again struck at Kyushu's main airfields today. It was the third raid in 48 hours and the 10th in the past month.

Capture of three key hills in the center of the Southern Okinawa front places American troops in a dominating position for the drive on the two airstrips.

Bomb Jap Guns

Marine Corsair fighter pilots bombed Japanese gun emplacements near Machinato Airfield which were shelling U. S. ambulances evacuating wounded.

Units of Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's Seventh Division killed more than 150 Japanese withdrawing supplies from caves. Those refusing surrender were sealed in their lairs by heavy explosives.

Associated Press Correspondent James Lindsley said Japanese shelled the Katena Airfield area for the first time in a week, pitching 200 rounds of artillery shells on one 96th Division area and 70 rounds into a 27th division sector.

Jap Secret Weapon

Nimitz, after anouncing Japan's new secret weapon—a 19-foot wing human-guided aerial bomb released from a mother plane—made no mention of it today. It was first used against American ships April 12. Sailors promptly dubbed the secret weapon "baka bomb"—baka coming from the Japanese word meaning fool.

Although the Japanese quit some front line positions, mortar and machine gun fire continued heavy after almost four weeks of continuous naval and artillery bombardment.

The strongest point immediately in front of the 24th Corps is a rugged ridge in the center of the line where the enemy appears well entrenched with mortars and machineguns.

B-29's Still Pound Kyushu Airfields

Guam, Sunday, April 29 (AP)—The relentless pounding of Japanese home airfields on Kyushu Island by American Superfortresses went into its third consecutive day Saturday.

Between 100 and 150 of the big bombers hammered half a dozen Kyushu fields, from which the Japanese have launched air attacks on American warships and invasion forces on Okinawa Island, 325 miles southward.

[In Washington, the 20th Air Force reported the Japanese put up aggressive air resistance to yesterday's raid, and one Superfortress was lost to enemy action.

Airfields As Targets

[Four Japanese fighters were destroyed and five others probably destroyed, the communiqué said.

[Results of the raid were reported as ranging from "good to excellent."]

The B-29's, flying from bases in the Marianas, went over the targets in broad daylight at medium altitude to unload tons of explosives.

The targets of the sky giants Saturday were the airfields at Kanoya, Kushira, Kokubu, Miyankanojo, Isumi and Miyazaki.

Maj. Gen. Curtis Le May's 21st Bomber Command headquarters disclosed that one Superfortress was lost during Friday's strike Kyushu.

Ackerman Talk Beamed To Japanese Publishers

He Urges Them to Exert Their Influence to End War

MANILA, April 28 (AP).—Japanese newspaper publishers were urged today by Dean Carl W. Ackeerman, of the Columbia University School of Journalism, to tell the Japanese people the truth about the war "and save what is left of your country."

Mr. Ackerman spoke to enemy newspaper men in a Manila broadcast beamed to Japan. He urged Japanese publishers to exert their influence to end the war and to "tell your people that your army and navy should cease resistance."

The American journalist, on a tour in the interests of a post-war free flow of news from all countries, warned that he had seen America's battle might in the Pacific, and that "if war continues you will be burdened by reconstruction problems which your military leaders are now creating."

SUPERFORTS ENCOUNTER FIERCE JAP RESISTANCE

WASHINGTON, April 28 — (AP) The 20th Airforce reported today that the Japanese put up aggressive air resistance to yesterday's B29 raid on Kyushu and one Superfort was lost to enemy action.

Four Japanese fighters were destroyed and five others probably destroyed, the communique said.

Results of the raid by 100 to 150 planes from Maj. Gen. Curtis E. Lemay's 21st Bomb[illegible] ommand in the Marianas w[illegible] ported as ranging from "goo[illegible] excellent."

Marine Fliers Develop Art of Snooper Sniping

Okinawa—(Delayed)— (AP) —The First Marine division's "Grasshopper Squadron" of tiny reconnaissance planes has a new accomplishment to its credit—sniper snooping.

Sgt. Joseph P. Donahue of Naugatuck, Conn., a Marine corps combat correspondent, tells this story:

As Marine Capt. Roland H. Collins, 30-A Exchange Street, Gloucester Mass., led his rifle company into a village snipers opened up and the Marines dug in.

An artillery spotting plane circled overhead. The pilot cut his motor and glided low over the Marine position. Leaning out of the cockpit, he shouted, "Nips under the bridge."

Collins and his men cleaned out the nest.

General Hodge Decorated

Okinawa, April 28 (AP)—Maj. Gen. John R. Hodge, commanding the United States 10th Army's 24th Corps on Okinawa, today received an Oak Leaf Cluster award, in lieu of a second Distinguished Service Medal, for his command of the same corps in the Philippines.

Japs Make Big Claims.

San Francisco, April 28 (A. P.).—Without confirmation, Tokyo radio reported today that Japanese suicide pilots had sunk two United States cruisers, including the Savannah; damaged a third and sunk four large transports in devastating bombing attacks on American naval forces around Okinawa yesterday.

The broadcast, directed in English to North America and recorded by the FCC, said that it appeared that United States "naval forces in Okinawa waters have been preparing for new operations for the last few days.

"Approximately seventy transports, escorted by five battleships, six cruisers and ten-odd destroyers, are cruising in the waters around the main Okinawa Island, while more than ten enemy transports are in Nago Bay—south of Motobu Peninsula on Okinawa's west coast."

Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz reported a small Japanese aerial attack on Okinawa Friday, with one minesweeper shooting down three enemy planes. He said nothing of possible damage to American forces.

A Japanese Domei News Agency dispatch claimed a Nipponese ship sank an Allied submarine in the Southwest Pacific Thursday night.

HIROHITO AND PREMIER STUDY WAR SITUATION

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28 (AP)—Tokyo reported today that Emperor Hirohito prepared for his forty-fourth birthday tomorrow by worshiping at the shrine for war dead.

Other Tokyo radio and press reports, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said the Emperor had received Premier Kantaro Suzuki after the latter had conferred last night with "highest army and navy leaders" on "steps necessary to meet the intensified war situation."

Suzuki also met, for the first time since its appointment this week, with his thirteen-member Cabinet advisory group.

The Japanese home radio told the people that Tokyo police had been forced to issue strict injunctions against "evasion" of air-defense responsibilities. It announced a new list of instructions, including a "strict warning against any speech or behavior that may interfere" with air-raid defenses.

JAPS BEATEN BACK IN KWANGSI AREA

CHUNGKING, April 28 — (AP) The Japanese battled to bolster their land lifeline to Indochina today as their drive on the U. S. Air base of Chungking far to the north bogged down in costly fighting.

The Chinese High command reported enemy attempt to broaden the Indochina corridor had been beaten back in Kwangsi province, which adjoins Indochina on the east.

With the enemy in flight in Burma and with sea routes dominated by American air and sea power, the land route to Indochina bulks larger in Japanese strategy.

The Chinese, who have been harassing the corridor, said the Japanese were trying to strengthen their hold on the southern end of the corridor and that fighting raged to the west of it.

In the Chihkiang fighting, the High command said more than 1,200 Japanese troops trapped in a pocket 75 miles east of the air base had been killed Thursday, and that other attempts to close in from about the same distance away had been repulsed.

On the left flank of the drive on Chihkiang, heavy fighting raged in the area south of Wukang, 80 miles southeast of Chihkiang, and enemytroops attempting to bypass Wukang were subjected to fierce attacks, the Chinese said.

Far to the north the Chinese broke through Japanese defense positions northeast of recaptured Laohokow early today and killed 300 of the invaders.

Still farther north in southwestern Honan province fighting continued near Sichwan and Hsihsiakow.

Hurley Reveals That Big Three Agree on China

Nation Must Work Out Its Own Destiny, He Says After His Visit to Stalin

CHUNGKING, April 28 (AP). — American Ambassador Patrick J. Hurley, fresh from a conference with Premier Stalin, said here today that the United States, Great Britain and Russia are in agreement on Chinese policy and are "anxious for China to work out her own destiny in her own way."

He declined to say whether the agreement embraces Manchuria, in which Russia long had an interest before the Japanese seized it.

The United States, General Hurley said, favors the unification of all anti-Japanese elements in China, but has "insisted that the Chinese must furnish their own leadership, make their own decisions and be responsible for their own policies."

As an example, he said that Chinese Communists wired him some time ago asking for representation at the United Nations Conference at San Francisco. He replied that the conference was one of nations, not political parties, and if the Communists wanted representation they should apply "to the national government of the Republic of China." Whereupon the Chinese government gave the Communists a place on the delegation.

The Ambassador denied rumors of differences between him and Lieutenant-General Albert C. Wedemeyer, chief of staff to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, asserting that he and General Wedemeyer see eye to eye and are cooperating 100 per cent.

General Wedemeyer disclosed that on his recent visit to Washington he presented a plan for "the concentration of American and Chinese effort so we can deal effective offensive blows at the enemy." He said the plan was presented to Chiang Kai-shek and his minister of war, General Chen Cheng, and that "they are co-operating, so far as I can ascertain, 100 per cent."

Then he added without amplification: "Many factors over which I have little or no control may mitigate against the successful implementation of my plan."

JAPANESE IN CHINA SLAIN BY HUNDREDS

Chungking, April 28 (A. P.).—Chinese troops on Thursday killed more than 1,200 Japanese troops caught in a pocket seventy-five miles east of the United States air base at Chihkiang in Hunan province, the High Command announced tonight. Three Japanese thrusts by other forces in the same radius from Chihkiang were repulsed the same day and the enemy suffered 300 casualties, the bulletin added. More than 100 other Japanese died in fighting a Chinese push against the invaders' left flank near the Hunan-Kwangsi border.

British Racing For Rangoon, 62 Miles Away

APR 29 1945

Foe Is Reported Evacuating Heavy Equipment; Planes Find Dock Area in Flames

CALCUTTA, April 28 (AP).—British 14th Army armored spearheads, aided by Burmese guerrillas, were closing in rapidly today on the big port of Rangoon and outdated reports put the British only sixty-two miles from the Burmese capital.

The Japanese were reported evacuating heavy equipment from Rangoon by sea, and also by train eastward to Thailand. Strategic bombers attacking the city, taken by the Japanese on March 8, 1942, found large fires blazing on the waterfront.

An official announcement said the British armored troops had rolled fifty-six miles in twenty-four hours, evidence of little Japanese resistance in their path. Guerrillas were credited with "materially assisting" the frontal drive and with protecting the flanks of the British and Indian troops.

The bag of prisoners, which included baggage details, headquarters administrative personnel and miscellaneous other groups all scrambled together, also indicated growing disintegration of Japanese resistance in southern Burma.

Calcutta, April 28 (A. P.)).—British armor, sweeping southward in Burma a distance of fifty-six miles in twenty-four hours, has reached a point only sixty-two miles from Rangoon, the Southeast Asia Command announced today.

Advancing along the Mandalay-Rangoon Railway, the armored spearheads were closely followed by British and Indian infantry.

"Guerrilla forces operating on the flank and ahead of our troops are materially assisting the advance," a communique said.

SMALL NATIONS ASK BROADER ROLES OF BIG 4

World Organization Led by Major War Victors Faces Challenge.

APR 29 1945

OUTLOOK SEEMS IMPROVED

Hope for Reframing of Polish Warsaw Government Springs From Russia's Attitude.

San Francisco, April 28 (A. P.).—More close-knit themselves, the Big Four managing the United Nations conference today ran into a small nation challenge of a world organization dominated by major Allied war victors.

Spokesmen for Australia, Belgium and Bolivia urged more responsible roles for the world's smaller States. Their action signaled the long expected effort to shift the balance between the great and the small.

One immediate result of this pressure was the expansion of the conference Executive Committee from eleven to fourteen members. Now the small-State group aims at increasing the memberships on the World Security Council beyond the eleven proposed at Dumbarton Oaks.

As constituted by the forty-six-nation conference, the Executive Committee includes the Big Three and China and France, which are to have permanent security council seats, and these other countries: Australia, Brazil, Canada, Chile, Czecho-Slovakia, Iran, Mexico, Holland and Yugoslavia.

Prospects Are Brighter.

The restoration of harmony among the big Powers brought the conference into its fourth day with prospects for success brightened by Russia's demonstrated willingness to compromise.

Some delegates even hoped for a reorganization of the Polish Warsaw government along lines acceptable to Britain and the United States. Whether it could be achieved in time for an invitation to it to be represented here was doubtful.

A session of the conference Steering Committee, which started out roughly enough, ended in a round of handshaking and backslapping yesterday.

It produced these quickly ratified solutions to issues which had given the conference on peace a belligerent start.

1. Through Russian insistence, the delegates tossed tradition out the window and elected four presidents instead of one—Foreign Commissar Molotov of Russia, Foreign Minister Soong of China, British Foreign Secretary Eden and Secretary of State Stettinius. It was agreed that these four should rotate the honor of presiding over conference sessions. For the two sessions scheduled today, Soong drew the first and Molotov the second assignment. Eden will have his turn Monday.

Rotation Was Rejected.

2. Under Anglo-American insistence, the steering committee refused to complicate the management of the conference's work by having rotating chairmanships for the key executive and steering committees. Molotov finally agreed that Eden, Soong and he would "delegate" their authority to Stettinius for this job. That made the American Secretary of State the chief in fact of those committees.

3. The Russian proposal to include the White Russian and Ukrainian Soviets in the proposed world assembly of nations went through without a hitch. Stettinius indorsed it, under specific instructions from President Truman to carry out the pledge which the late President Roosevelt made to Premier Stalin at the Yalta Big Three meeting.

4. A proposal made by Molotov to seat the present Warsaw Government at this conference was talked down, outmaneuvered and finally smothered under a resolution, which the conference approved, telling the Big Three to settle their differences over Poland and expressing hope that it would be done before this conference ends.

This is how it was handled as the delegates of forty-six nations sat around a U-table in a conference committee room:

Jan Masaryk, Foreign Minister of Czecho-Slovakia, raised the Polish issue with a statement of sympathy for the Polish people and the wish that they might be represented here.

Polish Bid Proposed.

Molotov thereupon proposed that the Warsaw Government be invited to attend the conference. Stettinius objected. He said that by assuring membership in the proposed world organization to the Ukraine and White Russia, Britain and the United States had kept the Yalta pledge. The pledge to reorganize the Polish Government, he said, also should be kept.

Eden spoke heatedly along the same line, and Jan Christiaan Smuts, Prime Minister of South Africa, eloquently backed up the Anglo-American position.

Molotov, sensing the trend was against him, played for time by moving to refer the question to the executive committee. At that point Foreign Minister Spaak of Belgium arose with his resolution of sympathy and hope. In the general round of acclaim over its adoption, Molotov's motion was forgotten.

An hour after the Steering Committee broke up, the conference went into a full-dress session and Stettinius began calling the roll of delegates to speak for their countries.

Forde Speaks for Small Nations.

Deputy Prime Minister Francis M. Forde of Australia drove into the heart of what promises to be the central controversy of the conference from here on—small nations versus big Powers.

"The Dumbarton Oaks plan as it stands," he said, "bears many characteristics of a mere prolongation into the years of peace of a type of great power leadership that has been found necessary to win the war."

Foreign Minister Spaak of Belgium argued for a place for small nations more vital than that assigned them by the Dumbarton Oaks plan.

A similar view was expressed by Ambassador Victor Andrade, speaking for Bolivia, and Foreign Minister Velloso of Brazil, warned that selfish isolation was dangerous to any country.

Winding up the business of the day, Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada asserted that "the people of Canada are firm in their resolve to do whatever lies in their power to insure that the world will not be engulfed for a third time by a tidal wave of savagery and despotism."

EARNESTNESS KEYNOTES TALK AT CONFERENCE

San Francisco, April 28—(AP)—Grim earnestness, sincerity tinged with wistfulness—that's the trend that speeches are following at this United Nations Conference.

It wasn't always this way. Used to be, at international conferences when the time came for the various delegates to give their ponderous say, the procedure won the scantiest attention. Bored watchers called it "the parade of the right honorables."

Here, it seems plain that the speakers have worked hard on deciding how to say, simply and forcefully, what their countries need, and hope. What is even more important, the men who listen—Russia's Molotov, Mexico's Padilla, the Dutch Van Kleffens, Jan Smuts from South Africa—all sit silently, seriously.

States His Desires

Francis Forde, Australia's deputy prime minister led off the two-day show—since the speeches run alphabetically, by nations. He's a dynamic, black-haired man of about 45. He announced immediately that Australians would waste no time with pious talk.

They want certain things from a world organization. He drew a good deal of applause as he talked; about the need to give good living to all people to prevent war, to see that people in colonial areas get a square deal, and to see that once this world charter is written, it's flexible enough so it can be changed—he implied that he feared the Big Five would freeze what's done here, to their own advantage.

Belgium was next, with Paul Henri Spaak, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, whose gestures and voice were so compelling that even the American-filled galleries sat silent through 30 minutes of the French in which he spoke. His often repeated phrase of "Famille due pale" "family of nations" was followed with "l'espece," "la necessite"—which added up to the American audience that Belgium wanted a family of nations to answer the world's hopes for peace.

Asks Chance to Live

The next was tall, handsome, extremely solemn Victor Andrade from Bolivia. He spoke not-so-halting English. But his face, expressive and strong, was the story. He comes from a land with many poor. He urged that the United Nations give every one a chance to live in the sun of opportunity. He got a big hand.

Then, Brazil. Pedro Velloso, the Foreign Minister, has a huge bald head that shines as though it had been waxed. He looked right past the delegates, up to the galleries with an engaging smile, and said, "I spik Inglis so that my friends of America can hear me first hand."

Roll of Applause

He sent a ripple through the audience—and from the galleries came a roll of applause for a man, born to Portuguese, but ready to talk in "Inglis" for the sake of international friendship.

He was worried that the world as it stands is not safe anywhere from the machines of war.

The stocky, little gray, little, gray haired W. L. Mackenzie King, Canada's Prime Minister, drew a big hand when he arose. His gold watch chain glittered across his ample stomach.

He drew applause with the expressed hope that "social security will come to be regarded as the natural inheritance of mankind." and he drew more applause with an emphatic sentence, "Justice is the common concern of mankind."

The audience which had listened left the conference hall thoughtfully.

U. S. Providing Ample Security For Delegates

APR 29 1945

City and State Police Join With Government Agents in Task at San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28 (AP).—If some one tossed a hand grenade in the San Francisco Opera House it would be one of the worst explosions in history.

The reason: Some of the highest officials of forty-six nations—here to set up a league to prevent future wars—meet in the opera house. But things have been done to take real care of them.

There's plenty of security for the conference on security.

There are on guard the San Francisco city police, the California state police, the Army, the Navy, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Secret Service, postal inspectors, special agents of the State Department and police officials brought in from other states.

Before the conference opened the opera house was checked by the Army for hidden mines. It is checked daily to see that every one leaves after the sessions and that no one sneaks in.

A battalion of military police guards all doors, checks all people entering to see that they have the proper passes, that they carry no suspicious parcels.

If any one looks blugy he's searched.

F. B. I. men, Secret Service men, the State Department men and local detectives are all over the place, moving around, mingling with the crowds, standing in boxes, planted in the orchestra.

The delegates are whipped along in Army cars from their hotels to the meeting place through special streets which are guarded by military police.

The whole area of the meeting has been roped off and no one—including automobiles or taxicabs—can enter without proper credentials.

And yet one Secret Service man, gazing down from a box on the bald heads of the diplomats, said pessimistically: "This place is wide open."

All the precautions will be successful only if the conference ends without incident or accident.

The State Department men—under the leadership of Tom Fitch, a former Post Office inspector—have established a special room in each of the big hotels.

CURB ON NAVY SIZE OPPOSED

Connolly Against Giving Authority To World Organization

San Francisco, April 28 (AP)—Strong sentiment developed within the American delegation today against giving the proposed international organization any authority to fix the size of the navy this country keeps afloat when peace comes.

Chairman Tom Connally (D., Texas), of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is leading a movement to make certain that in the United Nations charter, drafted here the projected security council has no power to order disarmaments without treaty agreements.

It is Connally's view that while the security council necessarily must consider disarmament questions when it tackles the problem of maintaining arms to preserve peace, only the individual countries can decide how much of a military force they wish to keep intact after the war.

1922 Action Called Error

Connally has said in the past that he thought this country made a mistake when it agreed at the Washington Disarmament Conference in 1922 to abandon some ships then afloat and to halt construction of others on the ways.

The Texan has told friends here that he is not going to agree to any provision in the proposed league's covenant which will supercede an American decision on this vital question.

He wants a strong navy kept afloat, feeling that it will serve as a potent curb on any possible future aggression in the Pacific.

Connally's views are likely to carry weight because he heads the American group on the security council commission which will begin work Monday along with the other divisions of the conference.

Rests With Commission

The disarmament question apparently rests squarely with that commission. It was covered in effect by the security council voting agreement reached by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin at Yalta.

Under that agreement, as explained by State Department officials, any decisions the security council makes on armaments will require the unanimous approval of the Big Five nations— the United States, Great Britain, Russia, China and France.

Disarmament is not mentioned specifically, but Joseph C. Grew, Under Secretary of State, has said it is linked definitely to the armament problem by the agreement.

Advisers are reported to have told American delegation members there seems nothing in either the Yalta voting agreement or the Dumbarton Oaks formula which would permit the proposed league to order any country to scuttle ships, destroy equipment or demobilize men.

Soviets Expected To Reciprocate With U. S. After Parley Support

San Francisco, April 28—(AP)—The American portion of the Yalta agreement was marked paid in full today and to the United States delegates here it now looks like Russia's turn.

There was no mistaking what America wants—a Russian declaration of war against Japan. No one, however, was saying out loud that he expects this right away.

As the United States delegates completed their work on preliminary revisions of the Dumbarton Oaks peace-keeping formula, the belief was general that some action may be forthcoming soon from Russia in return for support of the Soviets' successful bid for three votes in the proposed league's general assembly.

Keep Roosevelt Pledge

That support was given in recognition of a pledge made by President Roosevelt at Yalta—reaffirmed by President Truman in a letter to the delegation dated April 22. In return, the expectation among some delegates is that Premier Marshal Stalin will take Russia into the war with Japan at what he considers an opportune moment.

There has been no official indication that Stalin made any such promise in the Crimean conference but not one of the American group believes that Mr. Roosevelt was making an idle pledge at the last Big Three meeting he attended before his death. Their private view is that a bargain was struck and that Russia will pay off in kind.

As they promised, the Americans led and the British followed in supporting a proposal by Soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov for membership in the projected international organization of the Ukraine and White Russian Republics. With the Moscow Government, they will give Russia three votes.

Are 'Free Republics'

Molotov told the committee that these two Soviet Republics embraced independent peoples who had suffered much in the Nazi invasion, had furnished 1,000,000 men each to the Red Army and could withdraw from the USSR at any time they chose. The committee, and later the conference, bowed to his plea for their admission.

This carried with it no invitation to the current conference, but Molotov also pushed that question to a point where it will come before the conference's executive committee Monday. He will move to seat representatives of the two governments—now reported in San Francisco.

There was evident satisfaction among the American delegates at the outcome of yesterday's sessions.

The Russians got what they wanted in the three-vote proposal, which the Americans are convinced they sought primarily because of internal political conditions.

Lost Polish Delegate

But the Soviets lost out on their demand for representation at the conference of the Soviet-supported Warsaw Polish Government.

The conference left the Polish question still in the hands of the Big Three foreign ministers. They are not generally expected to reach a solution in time to get the Poles into this conference.

Chairman Connally (D.-Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee commented that "we have been trying to stand by the commitments made at Yalta in good faith and sincerity and not go beyond them."

Chairman Bloom (D.-N. Y.) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee remarked that "we ought to go along swimmingly from now on." Comdr. Harold E. Stassen declared that it has been "a good day."

Molotov Wields Gavel Gently

San Francisco, April 28 (AP)—Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov, who came roaring into this United Nations conference like a lion, presided over its plenary session today as gently as a lamb.

After sitting patiently in his unobtrusive seat all morning, jotting down notes as delegates of countries from Czechoslovakia to Lebanon spoke in the half-filled Opera House, he picked up the gavel this afternoon to exercise for the first time his right as co-chairman of the conference.

Applauded Heartily

He was applauded heartily as he strode onto the stage, indicating the delegates had dropped the doubtings aroused at the start of the conference by Molotov's insistence on sharing the chairmanship with Secretary Stettinius, Foreign Secretary Eden and Foreign Minister Soong.

Molotov, smiling broadly, said: "First of all permit me to thank you for having elected me, the Soviet represetnative, as one of the four chairmen of the conference."

Pausing for an outburst of applause, he resumed, "assuming the discharge of my duties, I express my gratitude that the Russian language will be heard from this high tribute."

He then declared the plenary session open, waved a reply to the delegates' applause, and sat back with an air of evident satisfaction to listen to the afternoon speeches.

He introduced the speakers in Russian, which was translated by his own interpreter. The three other chairmen all use English.

The post of presiding officer was a new one for the Commissar. In Supreme Soviet sessions in Moscow he sits aside the Government box, when the Russian Parliament meets in the great palace of the Kremlin.

He handled the proceedings here, however, with easy efficiency.

It was his claim to the chairmanship that deadlocked the conference at the very start. He won a place as one of four rotating chairmen, only after yielding permanent chairmanship of the steering and executive committees to Secretary Stettinius among the four sponsoring powers and assigning U. S. Secretary of State Stettinius to run major committees, steering and executive.

2. Settled Russian-inspired problems that could have upset the whole schedule by (A) granting three assembly places to the Soviets, and (B) turning down the Moscow demand for a conference seat for Warsaw Poles.

3. Heard most of the formal scheduled speeches.

There are no conference sessions scheduled for Sunday. On Monday the delegates get down to the day-to-day work of fashioning a world organization for peace.

SECURITY CONFERENCE SHOWS GOOD PROGRESS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28—(AP) The United Nations conference reached its first week-end tonight with the following marked up on the achievement boards:

1. Organized for business, settling a chairmanship debate by splitting up the job of presiding among the four sponsoring powers and assigning U. S. Secretary of State Stettinius to run major committees, steering and executive.

2. Settled Russian-inspired problems that could have upset the whole schedule by (A) granting three assembly places to the Soviets, and (B) turning down the Moscow demand for a conference seat for Warsaw Poles.

3. Heard most of the formal scheduled speeches.

There are no conference sessions scheduled for Sunday. On Monday the delegates get down to the day-to-day work of fashioning a world organization for peace.

Houde Prepares For Canada's Election

Montreal, April 28 (A. P.).—Mayor Camillien Houde, veteran of Quebec politics, last night accepted the co-leadership of the Bloc Populaire in the June 11 Federal election campaign.

The announcement was issued a few hours after P. J. A. Cardin in a radio address confirmed the formation of a new party under the name of National Front.

War Department Speeds Evacuation of Rescued

Uses Planes to Fly Out U. S. Troops in Nazi Camps

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP).—The War Department said today that every facility is being employed for speedy evacuation and rehabilitation of American prisoners freed in Germany.

When prisoner-of-war camps and hospitals are overrun, the department said, guards and medical personnel are provided by the attacking forces, pending arrival of special troops.

Liberated prisoners are given medical examination, deloused, documented, clothed and transported to the nearest airstrip for evacuation to a reception center. Litter and ambulatory cases are evacuated by air through medical channels.

The report was based on advices from General Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters.

Fascist Salute Banned For PW's In U.S.

Washington, April 28 (AP)—The Nazi salute is a thing of the past in German prisoner-of-war camps in the United States.

"Since organized resistance by the German Army has apparently ceased, a War Department announcement said, "and the Nazi Government apparently no longer exists, it has been decided that German prisoners will be made to use the old army salute." That means right arm, bent elbow.

V-E Day Urged As One For Work

Washington, April 28 (AP)—War plants will operate full work schedules on V-E day if they follow the advice of Chairman J. A. Krug of the War Production Board.

Krug issued a statement today appealing to all workers to put in a full day's work, "pausing only to give thanks for the success of Allied arms on one front of this multi-front war."

This, he said, is in line with army and navy instructions to their field procurement officers and with plans for a full day's work in all Federal agencies.

"V-E day will be a day of battle for our fighting forces in the Pacific and guerrilla warfare is likely to be continued in Europe," Krug said. "Let us make it a day of work and prayer at home."

Krug said, however, that he approved of V-E-day ceremonies in war plants where facilities are available for them, provided they do not interfere with production.

Master Among the Victims of Bombing Off Mindanao

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—A Japanese bombing attack took the lives of twelve men aboard the American merchant ship William Sharon, the War Shipping Administration reported today.

The attack, several weeks ago off Mindanao, killed the master, Capt. Edward Macaughey of San Mateo, Calif., five crew members, five Navy armed guards and an Army security officer. Ten men were wounded. The vessel has been returned to this country for repair, the WSA said.

Celler Wants Bombers To Hit Hirohito Palace

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP).—Representative Emanuel Celler, Democrat, of New York, said today Hirohito's palace should be "knocked into rubble" by American bombers.

"What makes Hirohito so sacrosanct to some of our officials in the policy-making department?" he asked in a statement.

"Hirohito's palace is just as much a military target as is Hitler's abode. I urge that the Mikado's palatial home be knocked into a rubble. Hirohito is the head and front of all the Jap fiendishness. From that very palace undoubtedly came the blueprints of the death march of Bataan.

"It is high time that we bomb the palace to bits."

URGES SHIFTING COLONIES

Poage Prepares Bill to Acquire European Holdings in West

WASHINGTON, April 28 (AP)—A measure proposing that European countries abandon their colonial possessions in the Western Hemisphere is being drafted by Representative Poage of Texas. The measure, which will be introduced next week, he said today, will propose that the released areas be made a part of the American republic which they adjoin.

Mr. Poage will recommend that the mother nations be compensated by deducting the value of their possessions from their indebtedness to the United States.

The Texan suggests that our own possessions in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands be treated the same way, giving them independence or permitting annexation to a Latin-American republic.

WPB WILL LIFT MANY CURBS ON INDUSTRY SOON

65 of Its 500 Controls to Be Removed Shortly

Washington, April 28—(AP)—To clear the decks for increased output of civilian goods, the War Production Board today prepared to lift about 65 of its 500 controls on industry within the next week or 10 days.

The orders will be revoked at the rate, of perhaps 10 a day, WPB spokesmen said, to keep up with armament cutbacks already announced and other expected before V-E Day.

This disclosure followed the nation-wide restoration last night of the "spot" plan for civilian goods manufacture by order of WPB Chairman J. A. Krug.

Plan Was Suspended

The "spot" plan—under which plants may resume civilian manufacture by proving they have men and machines not needed for war—has been suspended for months in 187 major industrial centers where labor scarcities prevailed.

Krug's action will enable additional manufacturers to make consumer items as soon as materials and manpower are freed by the cancellation of Army and Navy orders for weapons and supplies.

Some $700,000,000 worth of "spot" civilian production already has been authorized, although the program was curtailed for manpower reasons at the time of last Winter's military reserves.

Resumption of "spot" manufacturing and the planned revocation of industrial controls are WPB's first major moves in its announced effort to get a partial reconversion program in motion, timed with the gradual curtailment of military production to a one-front war basis.

Rule Is Suspended

In its anxiety to forestall plant shutdowns and unemployment when war contracts are cancelled, WPB has suspended its rule requiring a 72-hour "waiting period" before orders are wiped off the books.

Officials refused to disclose which of the controls on civilian production are to be scrapped in the next few days, but stated they are "not among the most important" orders on the books.

This made it clear that such restrictions as those prohibiting automobile and refrigerator production will not be dropped until materials and parts are in more plentiful supply.

Not until three or four months after V-E Day, it was estimated, will WPB rid industry of all the 350-odd orders which are to be revoked as the country settles into the production pace needed for fighting Japan alone.

Some Must Remain

The remaining 150 orders of the 500 now in effect will be retained possibly until V-J Day, it was predicted. They restrict production of articles made of paper, lumber, chemicals, textiles, rubber and some other materials which will be scare until final victory is won.

For the time being, moreover, production of consumer goods will be limited by WPB's rationing of materials. The dropping of production bans will therefore not be felt appreciably until this allocation machinery—which governs steel, copper and aluminum—is relaxed.

The relaxation will be accomplished by permitting steel, copper and aluminum producers to fill non-priority civilian orders after they have met their obligations to the Army and the Navy.

The controlled materials plan (CMP), the machinery under which these metals now are rationed among military and civilian users, will be so amended for aluminum within a few days, it was predicted. Copper may follow in a matter of weeks, and steel mills will be similarly released sometime after V-E Day.

This will create a "free" supply of the basic metals, enabling manufacturers to go ahead with the civilian goods production authorized either under the "spot" plan or by the lifting of the control orders.

Until that time, civilian producers will have to use such idle and surplus materials as they find available.

tion division was unable to keep up with the flow. Twenty-three actions were filed with the Federal Register, official gazette, just before it closed its books for the day.

None Of Major Curbs Lifted

The effect on civilian supplies will be slight, however, since none of the major curbs—like those banning automobile and refrigerator production—were lifted. Still another obstacle is that the all-important system for rationing materials remains in effect.

The major result of these initial steps, therefore, was to put manufacturers in position to go ahead with peacetime products as soon as munitions cut-backs make materials available, at which time the WPB will relax its materials-allocation machinery.

Twelve of the revocations filed late in the day affected steel mills. They removed restrictions on the size and type of that many steel products, including railroad rails, pipes and reinforcing steel for construction jobs.

Another one canceled the order controlling manufactured-gas production and delivery.

Scheduled Talks With Labor

Taking cognizance of possible unemployment during the partial shift to peacetime production, the WPB also announced a two-month series of conferences here with 300 labor leaders in "all fields of American industry," starting May 7. Discussions already are under way on reconversion with management spokesmen for 70 major manufacturing industries.

J. A. Krug, WPB chairman, announced that his co-ordinator of automotive reconversion, Henry P. Nelson, would open meetings in Detroit on Tuesday with the CIO United Automobile Workers on problems which will arise when war production is scaled down to a one-front war basis.

No Job Seen For Willow Run

These problems were emphasized

WPB Revokes 41 Controls On Output Of Civilian Goods

Washington, pril 28 (AP)—The War Production Board revoked 41 more wartime industrial controls today as reconversion activity surged ahead in step with the disintegration of Germany's armed might.

And at least a score more orders, limiting various types of civilian manufacturing, are scheduled for the scrap heap within the next week, preparatory to greater relaxations after V-E day.

The WPB announced eighteen of today's revocations but its informatoday when an Army Air Forces spokesman disclosed, after meeting with UAW leaders, that no production is now in sight for the giant Willow Run bomber plant at Detroit when the making of B-24 Liberators stops August 1. Production meanwhile will be on a reduced basis.

The Detroit parley will consider steps taken to shorten the period of unemployment and plant shutdowns during retooling and reconversion.

The machine-tool industry, newly authorized to take orders for peacetime equipment, meanwhile, reported that "many orders already were arriving.

Machine-Tool Output

The tool makers expressed doubt, however, that they could boost output beyond the high level of last month, when they were busy with military work almost exclusively.

The WPB dispensed with its normal 72-hour "waiting period" during which officials may fire objection before an order is canceled.

The regulations revoked were minor ones, for the most part, in point of the volume of civilian production concerned and employment in the affected factories.

Senate Group Backs Plan To Make REA Independent

Washington, April 28 (AP)—By a 13-to-6 vote, the Senate Agriculture committee today indorsed removal of REA from the Agriculture Department.

The vote, a long fight within the committee by Senator Shipstead (R., Minn.), to re-establish the Rural Electrification Administration as an independent agency.

He succeeded in attaching his proposal to a bill by Senator Lucas to provide $600,000,000 additional for REA which already has lent more than $500,000,000 for financing of rural electric lines.

Opposition In Committee

Four Democrats, Senators Wheeler (Mont.), Bilbo (Miss.), Stewart (Tenn.), and Downey (Cal.), joined the nine Republicans on the committee to approve Shipstead's amendment. It was opposed by Chairman Thomas (Okla.) and Senators Bankhead (Ala.), Ellender (La.), Lucas (Ill.), Russell (Ga.), and Hoey (N.C.).

Shipstead originally proposed that the REA be administered by a three-member, nonpartisan board. He dropped the board idea to gain support, but indicated he might revive it later.

Lucas said President Truman was studying the question of whether REA should be made independent.

Awaits Word From Truman

After the committee vote, the Illinois Senator said he would await word from the President before determining whether to oppose the Shipstead amendment in the Senate.

President Roosevelt's nomination of Aubrey Williams, former National Youth Administration head, as REA administrator was rejected by the Senate, 52 to 36, on March 23, after a debate involving charges of political use of the agency.

The REA administrator's office has been vacant since December 1, when Harry Slattery resigned.

The Lucas bill provides $5,000,000 for REA in each of the fiscal years 1946, 1947 and 1948 fo planning and engineering studies for new farm power lines. It also authorizes the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to advance REA $35,000,000 between now and June 30 for loans to farm power co-operatives, $150,000,000 in the twelve months ending June 30, [illegible], and $200,000,000 in each of the next two years.

SAYS JET PLANES CUT ICE HAZARDS

Bell Aircraft Tells of Tests in Alaska of Country's First Turbo Ship

BUFFALO, April 28 (AP)—Use of jet-propelled planes will eliminate many of the difficulties now faced by military and commercial aviation in carrying on ground and flight operations in extremely cold temperatures, according to Arthur L. Fornoff, director of service for the Bell Aircraft Corporation.

He said that the country's first jet plane, the Bell P-59 Airacomet, was tested for three months at Ladd Field, Fairbanks, Alaska, where temperatures dropped to as low as —40 degrees Fahrenheit.

"Winterization problems normally associated with conventional aircraft were not encountered with the jet-propelled plane," Mr. Fornoff said.

"The General Electric turbo jet engines incorporated in the P-59s," he explained, "use such thin oil, normally, that the usual problems of heating and diluting oil for reciprocating engines were not even a consideration. Engine heating or warming up before take-off is not necessary * * * and ground maintenance proved amazingly simple in the cold weather.

"The absence of a propeller on the P-59 means that the pilot has no worries over "prop" icing or pitch-changing control. If the problem of icing on wing or tail surfaces is a serious one, a system of ducting heat from the tail pipe to the affected areas could be worked out. As it is, windshield defrosting in the Airacomet is remarkably efficient."

Mr. Fornoff said that tests were conducted on the jet plane's fuel system since its chief fuel, kerosene, does not act like gasoline at low temperatures.

"No difficulties developed with kerosene at temperatures under which the fuel was tested," he reported.

"It was also confirmed repeatedly," he added, "that the increased oxygen from the cold air, which is greatly densified at lower temperatures, increased the thrust from the jet engines, making for shorter, faster take-offs and increased speed at lower altitudes."

'MISSING' FLIER WRITES

Parents of Col. Bright, 'Flying Tiger,' Tell of Letters

READING, Pa., April 28 (AP)—Luck still is with Lieut. Col. J. Gilpin Bright, 26-year-old "Flying Tiger" twice reported missing in action.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bright, of near-by Cedar Hill, who were notified March 31 that he was missing, said today they had received two letters from him, written after the evacuation of the Chinese air base where he commanded a group of American-Chinese fliers. They said he wrote that he was the last person to leave the field after its capture by the Japanese.

Two Missionaries Rescued

Catholic Priests Are Flown Out of China by U. S. Airmen

WILMINGTON, Del., April 28 (AP).—Two Catholic missionaries to China, rescued from behind Japanese lines by American airmen, arrived here today aboard the United States merchant ship George Crawford. They are the Rev. Paul A. Loeffler, of Boston, and the Rev. William E. McLaughlin, of Brooklyn.

Cut off by a sudden Japanese advance, they located an open field marked on maps and instructions dropped by an Army plane. At dawn a plane landed at a prearranged time and flew them to an American airfield. Clad only in clothes given to them by American soldiers, they were flown over the Himalayas to India.

Father McLaughlin has passed twenty-three years in the Far East, and Father Loeffler six and one-half years.

Welded Tanker Amtank Launched At Norfolk

Norfolk, Va., April 28 (AP)—The 24,000-ton all-welded tanker Amtank, third vessel of her class to be built here, was launched here today at the Sewall's Point yard of the Welding Shipyards, Inc. She was christened by Miss Geraldine Wagner, of New York city.

The Amtank, which is expected to be commissioned about a month from now, will have a capacity of approximately 220,000 barrels of oil.

Legion Plans To Bring Back Heroes' Bodies

Charts Program to Arrange Burial on U. S. Soil

By RICHARD L. ARMFIELD

Indianapolis, Ind., April 28—(AP)—The American Legion intends to help the Army return the dead of this war from abroad for permanent burial beneath home soil.

A committee of at least four Legionnaires, including National Commander Edward Scheiberling, Albany, N. Y., plans to tour battlefield cemeteries the world over to chart the graves of the Americans who have died.

For three years the Nazis held one Belgian and six French cemeteries where lie 30,000 Americans killed in the First World War. The Legion committee, headed by Mancel Talcott, former mayor of Waukegan, Ill., and a chief bosun's mate in the last war, will look into possible damage there. But the number one objective is to inform Gold Star Mothers of the location, care, and marking of her son's grave and, whenever possible, help the War Department to return his body.

Army officials have promised "1,000 per cent co-operation."

The Legion's graves registration plan is an old story to Talcott. He started it in the Waukegan Post in 1921, after a member of the G. A. R. told him:

"The people don't forget an Army's deeds. They forget its graves."

Many Letters

The commission, on which the Legion will spend $10,000 in postage alone, is its answer to hundreds of letters which have come to Talcott, typified by one from a Cincinnati Army officer's wife:

"I am desperate for information concerning my husband who was reported killed in action in France . . . the telegram from the War Department contained no details . . . I should greatly appreciate any information you are able to give concerning the possibility of his body being returned."

To her and to the nation's other bereaved women Talcott offers this program, for which Congressional approval will be sought:

"None of the dead will be brought back by the Army until hostilities have ended in Europe; and unless a strained shipping situation eases, their return will await Japan's defeat.

"Seventy per cent of a serviceman's blood relations must make application for the return of his body to the memorial branch of the Quartermaster General's Office, War Department, Washington, D. C.

"The Legion, through its commission, will be able to advise the War Department of the grave's location. This Government will ship the body to a port of debarkation in this country and from there by train to the soldier's home town or a national cemetery. The family and the local Legion post will be notified in ample time to make arrangements for the funeral, for which the Government will foot all or part of the expense (under present law, $100).

"The veteran will be buried with full military honors, his grave marked with one of several headstones which the family may purchase at Government expense."

Aubrey Williams Favors 60 Million Post-War Jobs

Says That Many Are Needed to Finance War Debt

CHICAGO, April 28 (AP).—Aubrey Williams, recently rejected by the Senate as Rural Electrification Administrator, declared today anything less than 60,000,000 post-war jobs "is going to make it very difficult, if not impossible, to handle the $300,000,000,000 debt which we have accumulated during the war."

Addressing a luncheon meeting of the Union for Democratic Action, Mr. Williams said the nation had a choice between running industry at a present level of 65,000,000 employed and a national income of $150,000,000,000 or what he described as "the 1940 level of 45,000,000 employed."

He added that there were now 10,000,000 more persons in the labor market, not counting thirteen and eight-tenths millian now in various branches of the armed forces.

Mr. Williams is director of organization for the National Farmers' Union and formerly was National Youth Administrator.

He said: "Already there is a well financed propaganda and pressure drive being made on Congress by 'big business' for greatly reduced taxes. This is again to shift the burden of taxation onto the shoulders of the poor.

"But," he added, "in shifting the burden they cut down the ability of the government to finance the war debt. This places in jeopardy the whole financial structure of the nation, for one has explained how the nation is going to reduce taxes and at the same time finance the war debt."

Mr. Williams asserted, however, one "new element" in the picture is that "big bankers and industrialists own most of the War Bonds, and this "may cause them to think twice before going too far," adding, "We may yet be thankful for our high war debt."

Grains Pile Up In U. S. Ports For Europeans

Large Supplies at Interior Points, Too; Transport Shortage Worries B.A.E.

CHICAGO, April 28 (AP).—American ports are jammed with grain awaiting shipment to Europe and large supplies of government-owned wheat and corn destined for lend-lease and the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration are stored at interior points, ready for delivery to export positions.

A shortage of transportation facilities may be the only difficulty encountered in fulfilling American commitments to Europe, reported to include 300,000,000 bushels of wheat to be delivered this year.

Concern over the transportation problem was voiced by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, which declared that "unless a great many more cars are available . . . the export pragrom for relief and lend-lease purposes will be seriously hampered."

Government estimates of amounts of grain to be shipped to Europe have not been disclosed, but the War Food Administration this week announced the exports would include corn, oats and rye, as well as wheat.

In spite of shipments to Europe, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics estimated the United States may have a carry-over of from 350,000,000 to 375,000,000 bushels of wheat on July 1. Country-stored supplies are large, since farmers last year harvested a record crop of 1,079,000,000 bushels, much of which has not been marketed because the shortage of freight cars curtailed shipments.

To expedite shipments, a business news service reported, the War Food Administration is considering centralizing all all grain and cotton purchases for foreign account in the Commodity Credit Corporation, the government agency which has been handling purchases for lend-lease and U. N. R. A.

Giving jammed port facilities as one of the reasons for the suggested funneling of foreign buyers to the C. C. C., officials were reported of the opinion that control of private buying is essential to assure handling of only the most necessary materials.

Gen. Braun Killed in Italy.

Rochester, N. Y., April 28 (A. P.).—Brig.-Gen. Gustav J. Braun was killed in action in Italy on March 17, his widow, Mrs. Anne Braun, has learned from the War Department. Gen. Braun, commander of the 133d Infantry Regiment, died when his observation plane was shot down by anti-aircraft fire.

U.S.S. Roosevelt Launching Today

New York, April 28 (AP).—The U. S. S. Franklin D. Roosevelt, second in the class of the world's largest, strongest and fastest aircraft carriers, will be launched tomorrow in honor of the late President, who once was an Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

The 45,000-ton carrier will be floated off giant blocks on which the keel has lain for seventeen months in a huge building dock of the New York Navy Yard.

Secretary of the Navy Forrestal and Rear Admiral Freeland A. Daubin, USN, commandant of the yard, will speak. The sponsor will be Mrs. John H. Towers, of Coronado, Cal., wife of Vice Admiral Towers, deputy commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt has indicated she will attend.

The U.S.S. Franklin D. Roosevelt is a sister ship of the U.S.S. Midway, launched at Newport News, Va., last March 20.

LT. GEN. KURT DITTMAR, WIDELY-QUOTED NAZI MILITARY COMMENTATOR, PREDICTS THAT THE WAR WILL BE OVER IN A FEW DAYS. AFTER SURRENDERING TO THE U.S. NINTH ARMY HE DECLARED THAT HITLER WAS IN BERLIN AND WOULD DIE THERE.

"WHEN BERLIN FALLS IT WILL BE OVER," HE SAID, ASSERTING THAT ONCE HITLER IS DEAD THERE WILL BE NOTHING TO HOLD TOGETHER THE REMAINING NAZI FORCES.

DITTMAR ASSERTED THAT THE SO-CALLED BAVARIAN REDOUBT WAS A MYTH.

IT IS BELIEVED, HOWEVER, THAT OF PERHAPS 200 NOMINAL DIVISIONS LEFT TO FIGHT FOR GERMANY--NONE OF WHICH IS UP TO STRENGTH--THE BIGGEST SINGLE FORCE IS IN THAT SOUTHERN AREA. TWENTY TO 30 OTHER DIVISIONS ARE IN FLIGHT INTO THAT REGION ACROSS THE ALPS FROM ITALY.

THE GREATER PART OF THE REMAINDER OF GERMANY'S FIGHTING STRENGTH IS CUT OFF IN THE NORTHERN OR BALTIC POCKET. THERE ALSO ARE 30 OR MORE DIVISIONS IN THE LONG BESIEGED ATLANTIC PORTS.

PARIS, APRIL 28-(AP)-HITLER'S DOOM HAS BECOME SO APPARENT TO EVERY AMERICAN SOLDIER THAT THE STOCK QUESTION TODAY TO ANYBODY WHO EVER SAW, HEARD OR TALKED TO DER FUEHRER IS: "JUST HOW DO YOU THINK HITLER WILL END?" OR "DO YOU THINK THE ALLIES EVER WILL TAKE HIM ALIVE?"

IT WOULD BE THOROUGHLY IN KEEPING WITH THE GERMAN MENTALITY FOR THE GERMAN CHIEFTAIN TO DISAPPEARED IN A MANNER CALCULATED TO MAKE HIM A LEGEND. HE POSSIBLY COULD BECOME IN THIS WAY THE MODERN EQUIVALENT OF FREDERICK I, WHO WAS KNOWN GENERATIONS LATER AS "BARBAROSSA" OR RED-BEARD.

APR 29 1945

THE LEGEND OF BARBAROSSA GREW TO SUCH AN EXTENT THAT POETS HAILED HIM IN SONG AND THE KYFFHAEUSER BUND, ONE OF GERMANY'S MOST POTENT MILITARISTIC ORGANIZATIONS, WAS FORMED IN HIS MEMORY. THIS WAS A FEDERATION OF ALL FORMER GERMAN SERVICEMEN'S CLUBS AND VEREINS.

WHEN, THROUGH THE AGGRESSIVENESS OF THE IRON CHANCELLOR BISMARCK THE DREAM OF UNITY CAME TRUE, A GIGANTIC MONUMENT WAS ERECTED TO HONOR WILHELM I, NEW GERMANY'S FIRST EMPEROR, ON KYFFHAEUSER MOUNTAIN, WHICH IS THE VERY HEART OF THE BARBAROSSA LEGEND.

THIS, IN BRIEF, WAS THE BARBAROSSA LEGEND:

FREDERICK I, FIRST OUTSTANDING SCION OF THE HOHENSTAUFEN DYNASTY, LIVED IN THE SECOND HALF OF THE 12TH CENTURY. HE DEFIED THE LOMBARD CITIES AND THE POPE AND SMOTE THE POWER OF RICHARD THE LION-HEARTED. DURING THE THIRD CRUSADE TO THE HOLY LAND IN 1190, FREDERICK WAS DROWNED IN A RIVER IN ASIA MINOR.

THIS LEGEND HAD IT THAT BARBAROSSA WENT TO SLEEP INSIDE THE KYFFHAEUSER MOUNTAINS, AND THAT HIS FLOWING RED BEARD GREW THROUGH THE TABLE AT WHICH HE WAS SEATED. HIS SLEEP WAS TO CONTINUE UNTIL GERMAN UNITY WAS ACHIEVED.

ALTHOUGH HITLER'S CLIPPED MUSTACHE HARDLY LENDS ITSELF TO A REPETITION OF THE BARBAROSSA LEGEND, SOME OTHER MYTH MIGHT SPRING UP ABOUT HIM. IN ANY EVENT A DISAPPEARANCE MIGHT KEEP HIM FROM LOSING FACE WITH HIS FOLLOWERS. THERE MIGHT RISE SUCH A LEGEND AS THAT

THERE IS ANOTHER WAY IN WHICH HE COULD CREATE A LEGEND IN THE GERMANIC MIND.

HITLER HAS ALWAYS HAD A PENCHANT FOR "CORRECTING HISTORY." HE HAS PILLORIED KAISER WILHELM FOR NOT MAKING A FINAL SUICIDE CHARGE. HE MIGHT WANT TO CORRECT HISTORY BY DOING WHAT WILHELM FAILED TO DO. A LOVER OF THE DRAMATIC, HE MIGHT ATTEMPT TO BECOME A HERO BY LEADING HIS DEATHS' HEAD ELITE GUARD FORMATIONS IN THE FINAL SUICIDE PLUNGE INTO BATTLE.

BY JAMES M.LONG

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, PARIS, APRIL 28-(AP)-LESS THAN ONE-FOURTH OF THE 2,250,000 GERMAN PRISONERS TAKEN ON THE WESTERN FRONT HAVE BEEN PUT TO WORK, BUT IN THESE FINAL WEEKS OF THE WAR THE ALLIES ARE CONSIDERING A PLAN TO MAKE THEM WORK AND KEEP THEM WORKING, FOR YEARS PERHAPS, IN REBUILDING THE EUROPE WHICH THEY RAVAGED.

IT MAY BE THAT THIS PLAN OF ENFORCED LABOR AS GERMANY'S MAJOR REPARATION WILL NOT BE DISSIMILAR TO THE ALREADY ANNOUNCED PLAN BY THE RUSSIANS TO MAKE THE GERMANS RESTORE ALL THEY HAVE DESTROYED HOWEVER LONG IT MAY TAKE.

ALREADY FROM THE LIBERATED LANDS OF WESTERN EUROPE, FRANCE FOREMOST AMONG THEM, HAVE COME REQUESTS FOR PRISONER LABOR TO TILL FIELDS, REBUILD ROADS AND MINE COAL--LABOR BY THE TENS OF THOUSANDS.

THESE ARE THE ESSENTIALS NOW, BUT THE REBUILDING OF TOWNS AND ALL THE REST OF THE GARGANTUAN TASK WILL COME NEXT AND PROBABLY SOON.

THE PLAN HAS BEEN CRITICISED AS SLAVE LABOR, BUT HERE WHERE THERE IS SO MUCH TO DO AND SO FEW MEN AND SO LITTLE MECHANICAL MEANS WITH WHICH TO DO IT, IT IS VITAL LABOR. IT IS WIDELY REGARDED HERE THAT ONLY BY SWEAT CAN GERMANY REPAY AND RESTORE. FOR IT IS DOUBTFUL THAT SHE CAN BE ALLOWED TO REHABILITATE HER ECONOMIC STRUCTURE AND STILL BE THROTTLED IN HER POWER TO PREPARE FOR OR WAGE ANOTHER WAR.

PRISONERS PROBABLY AT THIS MOMENT PRESENT THE ALLIES WITH THEIR MOST TROUBLESOME OVER-SUPPLY.

IN ROUND NUMBERS THERE ARE NOW SOMETHING LIKE 2,250,000 OF THEM--AND OF THAT NUMBER OVER 1,000,000 HAVE BEEN SCOOPED UP THIS MONTH ALONE, FASTER THAN THEY COULD BE PUT TO WORK AND ALMOST FASTER THAN THEY CAN BE PROCESSED INTO HUGE CAMPS.

LONG AGO THE ALLIES ADOPTED THE POLICY OF SIMPLY KICKING OUT THE VOLKSSTURM PRISONERS. THEY WERE SIMPLY DISARMED, TOLD WHAT WAS WHAT AND SENT BACK HOME. IT WOULD HAVE BEEN FOLLY EVEN TO FEED THEM, WHAT WITH EUROPE'S PRESENT FOOD NEEDS, MUCH LESS PAYING THEM THE DOUGHBOY RATE--$60 OR SO A MONTH WHILE THEY WERE BEING HELD--BETTER MONEY THAN THEY PROBABLY EARNED BEFORE THEIR SHORT-LIVED VENTURE AS CIVILIAN SOLDIERS.

PRISONERS HAVE COME IN SO FAST IT IS DIFFICULT EVEN TO ACCOUNT FOR WHERE THEY ALL ARE--BUT A GREAT MAJORITY OF THEM ARE SIMPLY SITTING IT OUT IN PRISON CAMPS OVER HERE.

SOME 150,000 TO 200,000 HAVE BEEN SENT TO THE UNITED STATES. MOST OF THE REST WOULD LIKE TO JOIN THEM. EVEN THE DOUGHBOYS HAVE SCRATCHED THEIR HEADS A BIT OVER PUBLISHED ACCOUNTS OF THE NEW HARDBOILED POLICY OF FEEDING PRISONERS IN AMERICA WHICH STILL PROVIDES MENUS WITH

ORANGES AND SALAD AND DRESSING. DOUGHBOYS EATING FOOD CONCENTRATE OUT OF CARDBOARD CARTONS WOULD LIKE SOME OF THAT TOO.

A148

WHAT THE GERMAN PRISONERS ARE EATING OVER IN THESE LANDS OF HUNGRY PEOPLE IS NOTHING THAT WOULD CAUSE THE AVERAGE DOUGHBOY ANY ENVY.

SEVERAL HUNDRED THOUSAND PRISONERS, MOSTLY THOSE TAKEN BY THE 21ST ARMY GROUP BUT INCLUDING 100,000 TURNED OVER BY THE AMERICANS ARE IN ENGLAND AND CANADA. FIVE THOUSAND HAVE BEEN TURNED OVER TO THE FRENCH. THE REST ARE EITHER IN HOSPITALS, IN TRANSIT OR JUST WAITING. A SMALL MINORITY ARE WORKING IN HOSPITALS AND IN THE CAMPS.

BUT THIS SITUATION IS NOT GOING TO LAST LONG. THE FRENCH HAVE ASKED FOR TENS OF THOUSANDS TO CLEAR LIVE MINEFIELDS THAT STILL ARE A TERRIFIC HAZARD THROUGHOUT FRANCE AND REBUILD ROADS THAT ARE ONE BOTTLENECK IN FRANCE'S SERIOUS TRANSPORT PROBLEM. BUT MOSTLY THEY ARE NEEDED TO HELP ON THE FARMS FOR THE VAST JOB OF FEEDING THE NATION.

BELGIUM'S NEEDS ARE THE SAME. HOLLAND, THE WORST VICTIM OF THE WAR ON THE WHOLE WESTERN FRONT, HAS A NEED THAT CANNOT YET BE ESTIMATED.

APR 29 1945

THE ALLIES HAVE NOT YET ANNOUNCED WHAT THEIR FINAL DECISION WILL BE BUT THERE ARE GOING TO BE A FEW MILLION GERMANS WHO WILL NOT GO BACK HOME ON THE DAY THE WAR ENDS--NOT A YEAR LATER, NOR PROBABLY LONG AFTER THAT.

BZ1212PEW

CONFIDENT THAT HITLER HAD REMAINED IN BERLIN, WHICH HE HAD JUST LEFT, DITTMAR DISCLAIMED KNOWLEDGE OF GESTAPO CHIEF HEINRICH HIMMLER'S WHEREABOUTS. REICHSMARSHAL HERMANN GOERING, HE SAID, LONG HAD BEEN IN DISREPUTE AND HAD DISAPPEARED AND EITHER BEEN EXECUTED OR FORCED INTO SOME UNKNOWN POSITION IN THE PARTY OR THE GERMAN ARMY.

ALTHOUGH ADMITTING THE POSSIBILITY THAT DITTMAR'S SURRENDER WAS AN ENEMY PLANT, AMERICAN AUTHORITIES SEEMED TO ENTERTAIN LITTLE DOUBT THAT THE INFORMATION HE GAVE WAS GENUINE.

BZ1259PEW

AN ENGLISH-SPEAKING NURSE REPLIED: "OH, THAT'S DIFFERENT."

A FEW MILES DOWNSTREAM, A GERMAN COLONEL CAME OVER AND SAID HE WANTED TO SURRENDER HIS WHOLE REGIMENT, BUT WHEN THE TIME CAME FOR HIM TO GO BACK AND GET HIS REGIMENT HE REFUSED TO GO. HE SAID HE WAS CERTAIN SOME OF HIS OFFICERS WOULD SHOOT HIM. HE SAID HE WOULD SURRENDER JUST HIMSELF.

THIS WAS TOO MUCH FOR THE DOUGHBOYS OF THE FIGHTING DIVISION ON THE RIVER FRONT. THEY TOLD HIM: "TO HELL WITH THAT. YOU GO BACK AND GET THE REST OF YOUR REGIMENT. WE DON'T WANT YOU."

WITH THAT, THEY PUT HIM IN A BOAT AND ROWED HIM BACK ACROSS THE RIVER AND LEFT HIM. WHEN LAST SEEN THE COLONEL WAS TRUDGING FEARFULLY INLAND.

AMONG LEADING NAZIS FALLING INTO THE NINTH ARMY'S HANDS DURING THE CLEANUP OF THE REAR AREAS WERE WALTER GRANZEW, ONE OF THE REICH'S LEADING FINANCIAL FIGURES, AND MAX PRENTZEL, ONE OF NAZI LABOR MINISTER ROBERT LEY'S STOOGES AND SO-CALLED NAZI LABOR LEADER FOR THE STATE OF MAGDEBURG.

WITH AN INFANTRY DIVISION IN GERMANY, APRIL 28-(AP)-AN ARTILLERY CUB PLANE HAS MADE AN UNORTHODOX LINKUP BETWEEN SOVIET TROOPS AND THIS VETERAN INFANTRY DIVISION.

FLYING AHEAD OF ADVANCING AMERICAN PATROLS IN THE TINY AIRCRAFT YESTERDAY, LTS.DONALD MIKE YOUNG, OF 621 SOUTH MULDRUM ST., FORT COLLINS, COLO., AND JOSEPH WILLIAM KILKENNY OF 1151 BROOKLYN AVE., BROOKLYN, N.Y., WERE FIRED ON BY GERMAN FORCES.

CIRCLING TO TRY TO ESTABLISH THE IDENTITY OF THIS UNKNOWN FORCE, THEY SAW GROUND TROOPS START TO SHOOT AT THEM AND THEN HOLD FIRE AT THE SIGHT OF THE GLEAMING WHITE STARS ON THE WINGS.

THEY FLEW DOWN AND "BUZZED" THE COLUMN AND THE RUSSIANS BEGAN WILDLY WAVING WHITE HANDKERCHIEFS AS A SIGNAL THAT THEY WANTED THE AMERICANS TO LAND. THE FLIERS FOUND A SMALL FIELD NORTHWEST OF THE ELBE AND SET DOWN AT 7:20 P.M.

JUBILANT RUSSIANS IMMEDIATELY SURROUNDED THE PLANE AND BEGAN SHAKING HANDS ALL AROUND WITH THE TWO YANKS AND SWAPPING SOUVENIRS.

"THEY SAID THEY WERE LOOKING FORWARD HAPPILY TO TOMORROW WHEN THEY LINK UP WITH AMERICAN GROUND FORCES IN OUR AREA," SAID YOUNG.

"THEY WANTED TO TAKE US BACK TO THEIR DIVISION HEADQUARTERS," SAID KILKENNY, "BUT IT WAS GETTING LATE. WE JUST SHOOK HANDS AGAIN AND FLEW BACK TO OUR COMMAND POST."

GERMAN CIVILIANS, HOWEVER, RETAIN THEIR DREAD OF RUSSIAN RETRIBUTION WHICH THE BERLIN RADIO HAS BEEN DINNING INTO THEIR EARS AND FEARS FOR MONTHS.

MOST RESIDENTS OF TORGAU ON THE WESTERN BANK OF THE ELBE FLED THE CITY AHEAD OF THE SOVIET TROOPS, AND WHEN WE DROVE THROUGH IT TO MEET THE RUSSIANS WE FOUND IT MORE DESERTED THAN ANY CITY EVER TAKEN BY THE AMERICANS. ONLY A FEW ELDERLY GERMANS WERE IN THE STREETS. ONE WAS PICKING UP STRAY CIGARET BUTTS AND ANOTHER WAS RUMMAGING IN JUNK HEAPS FOR SCRAPS OF FOOD.

APR 29 1945

AFTER SEEING THE WAY THE GERMAN UNITS GAVE UP TO THE AMERICANS RATHER THAN FACE FRONT LINE ACTION AGAINST THE RUSSIANS, ONE IS INCLINED TO BELIEVE PROPAGANDA MINISTER PAUL JOSEPH GOEBBELS OVER SOLD HIS "SOVIET TERROR" STORIES.

HE DID SUCH A GOOD JOB HE SCARED MANY GERMAN SOLDIERS INTO BELIEVING IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE TO WHIP A RUSSIAN ARMY, AND THE SOVIETS HAD THE INDIAN SIGN ON THEM BEFORE EVER A SHOT WAS FIRED.

GOEBBELS HELPED TO FRIGHTEN HIS OWN PEOPLE INTO DEFEAT.

RUSSIAN TROOPS SEEM TO CARRY MUCH LESS EQUIPMENT THAN OURS. AMERICAN SOLDIERS USUALLY ARE REQUIRED TO WEAR HELMETS, EVEN IN BIVOUAC AREAS SCORES OF MILES BEHIND THE FRONT. I NEVER SAW A SINGLE RUSSIAN

APR 29 1945

SOLDIER WEARING A HELMET ALONG THE ELBE RIVER FRONT. MOSTLY THEY WORE OVERSEAS CAPS.

THEY ALSO WORE FEWER KNIVES AND CARRIED LESS MESS EQUIPMENT THAN THE YANKS. MOST OF THEM HAD ONLY A BIG SPOON STUCK IN THEIR BLACK LEATHER BOOTS, OR IN THEIR OLD STYLE RAGGED, WRAP-AROUND LEGGINGS.

THEIR CLOTHING WAS STAINED AND WORN, BUT THE OFFICERS' UNIFORMS WERE NEAT AND WELL-PRESSED AS ANY PRUSSIAN JUNKER WOULD REQUIRE.

30 24 25259

AMERICAN SOLDIERS WHO ARRIVED EMPTY HANDED WERE A LITTLE SHAME FACED BECAUSE THEY HAD NOTHING TO OFFER IN RETURN. BUT THE RUSSIANS ONLY SEEMED TO WANT SOUVENIRS.

THE PRIZE SOUVENIRS WERE AMERICAN DOLLAR BILLS OR U.S. INSIGNIA OF ANY KIND.

APR 29 1945

--3 M DASH.

RUSSIAN HOSPITALITY WAS UNBOUNDED. THEY HAD BOTTOMLESS CAPACITY FOR LIQUORS OF ALL KINDS, AND DRANK IT AT A PACE WHICH AMERICAN OFFICERS FOUND IMPOSSIBLE TO MATCH.

ONE AMERICAN CAPTAIN CREDITED THE RUSSIAN CAPACITY FOR DRINKING TO THE FACT THEY ATE HEAVILY FROM BIG BOWLS OF FRESH RAW ONIONS--ONE TUMBLERFUL OF COGNAC TO A HANDFUL OF ONIONS.

"I THINK I WOULD RATHER TAKE THE HANGOVER THAN THE PREVENTIVE," HE SAID.

---3 M DASH.

THE RUSSIANS SEEMED TO HAVE MORE BOYS AND OLDER MEN IN THE FRONT LINES THAN THE AMERICAN ARMY, AND UNIVERSALLY THEY LOOKED TOUGH, BRONZED, SEASONED AND FIT. THEIR DISCIPLINE WAS EASY GOING BUT EXCELLENT.

THE DOUGHBOYS REGARDED THE TANNED RUSSIAN FIGHTING WOMEN WITH GREAT CURIOSITY, BUT HAD LITTLE DESIRE FOR CLOSER ACQUAINTANCE.

WITH THE U.S. FIRST ARMY AT THE ELBE RIVER, APRIL 28-(AP)-ADOLF HITLER TWICE VETOED GERMAN PEACE OVERTURES LAST OCTOBER, AN AMERICAN ARMY CAPTAIN JUST RELEASED FROM A PRISONER CAMP, WHO WAS PRESENT AT A DISCUSSION OF A POSSIBLE ARMISTICE, SAID TODAY.

THE AMERICAN OFFICER, CAPT. LYLE A.SILVERNAIL OF LAWTON, MICH., SAID THAT WHILE HE WAS A PRISONER HE WAS QUESTIONED BY A GROUP OF NAZI OFFICERS WHO TOLD HIM THEY WERE CONVINCED THAT GERMANY HAD LOST THE WAR. THEY SOUNDED HIM OUT ON AMERICAN IDEAS AND HE TOLD THEM THAT IF THEY "WANTED TO SAVE GERMANY THEY HAD BETTER GET SOME ONE IN AUTHORITY TO GET IN TOUCH WITH GEN. EISENHOWER'S HEADQUARTERS AND ASK FOR TERMS, AND ACCEPT THEM, WHATEVER THEY WERE."

APR 29 1945

"I POINTED OUT ITALY HADN'T DONE SO BADLY," HE ADDED.

HE SAID THAT ONE OF HIS INTERROGATORS, A CAPTAIN BARTH, A TYPICAL OLD-SCHOOL PRUSSIAN OFFICER, SENT IN A REPORT TO " A GERMAN ARMY COMMANDER."

"I WAS TOLD LATER IN OTHER QUARTERS," SILVERNAIL SAID, "THAT AN ARMISTICE WAS REQUESTED ON ONE SECTOR OF THE WESTERN FRONT TO ENABLE THE GERMANS TO CONTACT EISENHOWER'S HEADQUARTERS ON PEACE TERMS AND THAT THE GERMAN ARMY COMMANDER TELEPHONED HITLER RECOMMENDING ACCEPTANCE AND HITLER TURNED HIM DOWN. I WAS TOLD THAT THE GERMAN COMMANDER THEN WENT PERSONALLY TO BERLIN AND THAT AFTER HITLER REJECTED HIS ADVICE A SECOND TIME, THE GERMAN COMMANDER KILLED HIMSELF. WHETHER THIS IS TRUE I DO NOT KNOW. I AM UNCERTAIN WHICH COMMANDER IT WAS."

WHETHER THE NAZIS SERIOUSLY ADVANCED PEACE PROPOSALS OF JUST FAKED INTEREST IN PEACE TO OBTAIN TIME IN WHICH TO REBUILD THE SIEGFRIED AND ROER RIVER DEFENSE LINES, IT IS IMPOSSIBLE TO SAY NOW. IT CAN BE SAID, HOWEVER, THAT RUMORS WERE AFLOAT IN FRONT LINE ARMY CIRCLES LAST OCTOBER THAT THE NAZIS HAD ASKED FOR PEACE NEGOTIATIONS.

SILVERNAIL, A FORMER RADIO ENGINEER, WAS FREED WHEN THE RUSSIANS OVERRAN A GERMAN CAMP NORTHEAST OF RIESA BEYOND THE ELBE RIVER. THE CAMP CONTAINED 28,000 ALLIED PRISONERS OF WAR. AS SENIOR OFFICER, SILVERNAIL ASSUMED COMMAND OF 2,600 AMERICAN PRISONERS WHEN THEIR GERMAN GUARDS FLED JUST BEFORE THE ARRIVAL OF THE RUSSIANS ON APRIL 24.

AN AIR-SUPPORT COMMUNICATIONS OFFICER WITH THE 19TH TACTICAL AIR COMMAND, SILVERNAIL WAS TAKEN PRISONER ALONG WITH HIS DRIVER LAST SEPT. 11 AT THIONVILLE ON THE FRENCH-LUXEMBOURG BORDER WHEN HE WAS DIRECTED DOWN A WRONG ROAD WHILE RETURNING TO THE FRONT.

HE SAID HE WAS INTERROGATED ON THREE DIFFERENT OCCASIONS.
DURING ONE QUESTIONING, AN SS COLONEL ASKED SILVERNAIL WHO HE THOUGH WOULD WIN THE WAR. SILVERNAIL TOLD HIM HE WAS CERTAIN THE ALLIES WOULD.

APR 29 1945

B55

THEN, AT DULAGLUFT PRISON NEAR FRANKFURT ON MAIN, HE WAS QUESTIONED AGAIN. THIS TIME THE INTERROGATORS WERE WALTER SCHMITT, GESTAPO CHIEF AT FRANKFURT, HANS SCHRAFF, AN OFFICIAL INTERROGATOR, AND CAPTAIN BARTH.

"THEY TOLD ME THEY WERE CONVINCED GERMANY HAD LOST THE WAR," SILVERNAIL SAID, "AND I ASKED THEM IF THAT WERE SO WHY DIDN'T THEY GIVE UP AND AVOID NEEDLESS SLAUGHTER.

"THEY COUNTERED BY ASKING ME WHO THE ALLIES DIDN'T END THE WAR AND I TOLD THEM THAT IF THEY WANTED TO SAVE GERMANY THEY HAD BETTER GET SOME ONE IN AUTHORITY TO GET IN TOUCH WITH GENERAL EISENHOWER'S HEADQUARTERS X X X."

SILVERNAIL SAID HIS INTERROGATORS SUBSEQUENTLY REPORTED TO THEIR OWN HEADQUARTERS AND THEN LATER HE HEARD ABOUT THE PROPOSALS BEING TURNED DOWN BY HITLER.

"THIS INTERROGATION WAS ON SEPT. 27. I WAS KEPT IN SOLITARY CONFINEMENT BUT FED WELL AND GIVEN MEDICAL CARE FOR MY RIB INJURIES. ON OCT. 3 I WAS TAKEN TO THE HUNTING LODGE OF VON OPEL, THE MOTOR CAR MANUFACTURER."

"I WAS KEPT THERE FOR TWO DAYS WHILE THEY DISCUSSED POSSIBLE PEACE PROPOSALS," SILVERNAIL SAID. "THE TALKS REVOLVED AROUND SEVEN POINTS.

"I DON'T REMEMBER THE SEVEN POINTS IN DETAIL. THE CHIEF ONES HAD TO DO WITH QUESTIONS OF GERMAN BOUNDARIES AFTER THE WAR AND WHAT WOULD BE DONE WITH THE WEHRMACHT. THEY ALL WERE CONVINCED -- EVEN SCHMITT, WHO HELD A HIGH PARTY POSITION -- THAT NAZI PARTY CONTROL MUST GO AND THAT THE NAZIS WERE THROUGH."

HE ADDED THAT SCHMITT SUBMITTED HIS COPY OF THE SUGGESTED PEACE POINTS TO GESTAPO CHIEF HEINRICH HIMMLER BUT THAT APPARENTLY NOTHING EVER CAME OF IT.

"ON OCT. 11 SCHMITT TOLD ME HE DIDN'T THINK THE PEACE PROPOSAL POINTS WOULD BE ACCEPTED BY THE NAZI LEADERS," HE SAID.

"SOON AFTER THAT I WAS TRANSFERRED TO ANOTHER PRISON."

GRIMMA, GERMANY, APRIL 28-(AP)-IN THE REGION OF GERMANY EAST OF THE MULDE RIVER AMERICANS HAVE SUDDENLY ATTAINED GREAT POPULARITY AND THIS SUDDEN FONDNESS OF THE GI'S IS CAUSING EMBARRASSMENT TO MILITARY GOVERNMENT ADMINISTRATORS WHO ARE ATTEMPTING TO CREATE A SEMBLANCE OF SYSTEM IN AN EXTREMELY FLUID SITUATION.

APR 29 1945

THE GERMAN POPULATION, RESIGNED TO COMPLETE DEFEAT AND OCCUPATION BY SOMEONE, IS TRYING TO GET TO THE AMERICAN SIDE OF WHAT MAY BE THE DIVIDING LINE. FEAR OF THE RUSSIANS AND A BELIEF THAT THE RUSSIANS WILL EXACT THE STERNEST COMPENSATIONS FOR THE GERMAN ARMY RAMPAGES IN RUSSIA IS AT THE MOMENT UPPERMOST IN THE MINDS OF THOUSANDS OF GERMANS.

ACCOMPANYING A PATROL OCCUPYING NEW VILLAGES EAST OF THE MULDE I WITNESSED MANY INSTANCES OF THIS CONCERN. THE USUAL WHITE FLAGS WERE FLUTTERING FROM MANY WINDOWS AND MAJ.BOB UTLEY OF SAN ANTONIO, TEX., A BATTERY COMMANDER, HAS DEVELOPED A SURRENDER TECHNIQUE WITH SMOOTH PRECISION.

WHILE RIFLEMEN WERE ALERT FOR SNIPERS, THE POPULATION OBEDIENTLY BROUGHT OUT A GREAT VARIETY OF GUNS WHICH THE AMERICANS COLLECTED.

SOME GERMANS EVEN VOLUNTEERED HELP.

THE INVARIABLE QUESTION OF THESE GERMANS IS: "ARE YOU GOING TO STAY?"

AND ONE WOMAN PLEADED FEELINGLY: "PLEASE STAY."

OF COURSE THERE IS AT PRESENT NO ANSWER TO THE QUESTION PRECISELY WHERE THE RUSSIAN WESTERN OCCUPATION LINE WILL BE. THOUSANDS OF GERMANS WAIT TO GO WEST AND MILITARY GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS SUSPECT A VAST NUMBER INVENTED A HASTY STORY THAT THEY REALLY BELONG SOMEWHERE IN THE RHINELAND.

AT ANY RATE THERE'S A GREAT SURGE OF CIVILIANS WESTWARD AND THE MULDE IS A CONVENIENT BARRIER WHERE AMERICAN SCREENING TEAMS CAST A SUSPICIOUS EYE ON ALL WANTING TO MOVE.

B90

APR 29 1945

THE MULDE'S SMASHED BRIDGES IN SOME INSTANCES ARE USABLE BY PEDESTRIANS AND AT THE EASTERN ENDS THERE IS A CONGESTION WHERE TRAFFIC COMES TO THE BARRIER. SOME CLASSES HAVE PRIORITY IN CROSSING. THEY INCLUDE ALL MEN IN UNIFORM--GERMAN SOLDIERS TO PASS INTO WEST BANK PRISON CAGES AND RELEASED FRENCH, POLISH, AND BRITISH PRISONERS TO MAKE THEIR WAY BACK TO THE REAR.

ON THE EAST SHORE ROADS THERE ARE FREQUENT SPECTACLES OF FRENCH AND GERMANS ALMOST MINGLING AS THEY MARCH TOWARD THE BRIDGE ENDS. THERE ARE NO COLLISIONS BECAUSE THESE GERMANS--EXCEPT FOR DIEHARDS HIDING IN THE WOODS, ARE INTENT ON SURRENDERING.

SOME CONSCRIPT WORKERS WERE MANAGING TO GET THROUGH BUT GERMAN CIVILIANS WERE IMMOBILIZED. UNDER PRESENT RULES THEY CAN MOVE ONLY TWO KILOMETERS IN DAYLIGHT AND ARE HELD TO THEIR HOMES BY CURFEW AT NIGHT.

WHEN WAR CLOSED DOWN ON THE MULDE MANY FAMILIES ACCIDENTALLY WERE DIVIDED. NOW REUNIONS MUST WAIT. LT.COL.MATT KONOP, TWO RIVERS, WISC., WHO WAS ON DUTY AT A DIVISIONAL HEADQUARTERS, RELATED THE INSTANCE OF A WIFE WHO MADE ARRANGEMENTS TO MEET HER VOLKSSTURM HUSBAND FAR TO THE WEST AND SHE AGITATEDLY URGED HE BE "RESCUED FROM THE RUSSIANS."

THERE WAS EVEN A CLAMOR AMONG GERMAN MEN FOR THE "PRIVILEGE" OF BEING CLASSIFIED AS PRISONERS. ONE IN CIVILIAN CLOTHES WHO WAS TURNED BACK PROTESTED HE HAD "BEEN FIGHTING THE AMERICANS ONLY TWO DAYS AGO."

THE MILITARY GOVERNMENT DECISION WAS THAT HE IS A CIVILIAN AND MUST HANG AROUND. AMERICANS HEREABOUTS THUS ARE HAVING THE NOVEL SENSATION OF BEING WELCOME. WITH THE GERMANS WEHRMACHT GONE THEY ARE THE SECOND CHOICE.

AUGSBURG, Germany, April 28--(AP)--Third division doughboys ~~MADE AN~~ ATTACK ON ~~in a very~~ unorthodox manner stormed this gateway to Munich shortly before daybreak today and a few hours later accepted the surrender of Maj. Gen. Franz Fehn, commander of the Wehrmacht garrison.

Augsburg is 32 miles from Munich.

APR 29 1945

Casualties were extremely light and the Americans took between 4,000 and 5,000 prisoners in the 48-hour assault of the city and its approaches.

Heroes of Augsburg were a nervy Irishman from the Bronx, Maj. John O'Connell of 1238 Beech Ave., and Lt. James Morris of 113 Randolph Ave., Hagerstown, Md., commander of "K" company in O'Connell's third battalion of the 15th infantry regiment.

O'Connell, who used to live on Mulberry street in Macon, Ga., prevailed upon Maj. Gen. "Iron Mike" O'Daniel for permission to load "K" company on some tanks and make a head-on assault on the city about 4:30 o'clock this morning.

A German civilian had come through the lines with the offer to guide the Americans to yet unblown bridges.

"This guy had him a small underground set up in Augsburg,"

O'Connell said. "He had armed men watching the guards at the bridge ready to stop them if they tried to touch them off. He had the wives of army men organized -- he had locked them in their rooms and wouldn't let them out. But just for safety's sake we took our informer's family in charge and let him know that if there was any funny business there would be hell to pay."

APR 29 1945

TANKS ROLLING FROM THE SUBURB OF STEPPACH CRASHED AT FULL SPEED THROUGH A ROAD BLOCK, RACED OVER A WERTACH RIVER BRIDGE AND WOUND UP IN AN OLD-FASHIONED STREET FIGHT AT THE LAST BRIDGE OVER THE LECH. O'CONNELL SCATTERED THE GERMANS AWAY FROM THIS BRIDGE--WITH THE HELP OF HIS JEEP DRIVER, PFC. FRANK S. PAUL, SUMMIT, N. J., AND HIS INTERPRETER, PFC. GEORGE KINDERMANN OF THE BRONX.

APR 29 1945

THE MAJOR, WHO FORMERLY WORKED FOR THE NEW YORK

TELEPHONE COMPANY, SNIPPED DEMOLITION WIRES ON THE LAST BRIDGE BUT FIGHTING WAS STILL GOING ON.

APR 29 1945

"A GERMAN TRUCK CAROMED AROUND THE CORNER SPRAYING MACHINE GUN FIRE ALL OVER THE PLACE," PAUL SAID. "SOMEBODY PICKED OFF THE DRIVER, BUT THE TRUCK ROLLED ON A COUPLE OF HUNDRED YARDS BEFORE IT CRASHED."

IT WAS ABOUT THIS TIME THAT LIEUT. MORRIS WANDERED INTO THE RICHARD KATHAN RESIDENCE A HALF A DOZEN BLOCKS FROM THE HEART OF AUGSBURG.

"THIS MAN AND HIS WIFE AND DAUGHTER WERE THERE, AND HE SPOKE A LITTLE ENGLISH," MORRIS SAID.

"I ASKED HIM IF HE COULD GET THE MAYOR ON THE TELEPHONE FOR ME. WELL, HE DID, AND I TOLD HIM TO ASK THE MAYOR IF HE WAS READY TO SURRENDER. HE SAID HE COULDN'T DO IT AND HUNG UP.

"I ASKED HIM THEN IF HE COULD GET THE GENERAL OR WHOEVER WAS RUNNING THE ARMY AROUND HERE—AND HE DID THAT. WELL, THE GENERAL WAS READY TO TALK BUSINESS SO I TOLD THIS FELLOW KATHAN

APR 29 1945

TO TELL HIM I'D GET MY MAJOR."

MORRIS GOT O'CONNELL TO THE TELEPHONE IN A FEW MINUTES AND THE GENERAL TOLD HIM HE WAS READY TO GIVE UP.

"WE ARE HERE IN A BUNKER," THE GERMAN COMMANDER SAID, AND GAVE THE ADDRESS.

O'CONNELL, MORRIS, KINDERMAN AND PAUL HOPPED INTO JEEPS AND RACED TO THE PLACE.

"IT WAS THE SCREWIEST THING YOU EVER SAY," THE MAJOR SAID. "ALONG THE WAY WE RODE PAST KRAUTS WITH BAZOOKAS AND RIFLES. THEY WOULD YANK OUT WHITE FLAGS AND START WAVING THEM AND HOLLERING 'KAMERAD' WITHOUT EVEN LAYING THEIR GUNS DOWN. WE OUGHT TO HAVE SHOT 'EM."

IN THE STRONGLY REINFORCED AIR RAID SHELTER UNDER THE RUINS OF A DOWNTOWN BUILDING, O'CONNELL FOUND GENERAL FEHN AND 15 OF HIS STAFF OFFICERS. THE GENERAL ASKED TWO MINUTES TO ISSUE HIS LAST [redacted] ORDER--TO CEASE FIRE.

APR 29 1945

"HE SAID HE COULDN'T WRITE THAT ORDER IF HE WAS A PRISONER OF WAR SO WE STEPPED OUTSIDE AND GAVE HIM TWO MINUTES," O'CONNELL SAID. "WHILE WE WERE OUT A FELLOW NAMED MUNDLER WHO ACTED AS THE GO-BETWEEN FROM ARMY TO CITY OFFICIALS IN AUGSBURG STEPP BEHIND THE DOOR AND SHOT HIMSELF THROUGH THE HEAD WITH A PISTOL.

"WE WENT IN RIGHT AWAY. THE GENERAL WAS SHAKING [redacted] ALL OVER AND I WAS AFRAID HE'D DO THE SAME THING. I TOLD HIM TO COME ON, THAT HE AND HIS STAFF WERE PRISONERS OF THE ALLIES."

MORRIS WENT DOWN TO HIS COMMAND POST AND RETURNED WITH EIGHT JEEPS TO HAUL THE PRIZE PRISONERS TO A CAGE.

MOSCOW, APRIL 28-(AP)-ANOTHER MEETING ACROSS THE ELBE RIVER IN THE HEART OF GERMANY BY NEW RUSSIAN AND AMERICAN DIVISIONS WAS REPORTED TODAY BY A SOVIET WAR CORRESPONDENT, WHO GAVE THE FIRST EYE-WITNESS ACCOUNT OF THE HISTORIC LINKUP PUBLISHED HERE.

"NOW AT THIS MOMENT EVEN THE ELBE DOES NOT DIVIDE US. FROM THE OTHER BANK A SMALL SWIFT BOAT IS CROSSING WITH THE COMMANDER OF THE 69TH AMERICAN INFANTRY DIVISION, MAJ.GEN. (EMIL F.) "STALINGRAD! IT MUST BE THAT THIS WORD NOW IS PRONOUNCED WITH EQUAL DELIGHT IN ALMOST ALL THE LANGUAGES OF THE WORLD. IN ANY CASE THESE AMERICANS PRONOUNCED IT WITH EXCITEMENT AND DELIGHT.

"AFTER SEVERAL MINUTES THE AMERICANS AND OUR OFFICERS GO ARM IN ARM TO A NEARBY HOUSE WHERE THE FIRST STORY-SWAPPING IS TO TAKE PLACE. CAMERAMEN HURRY TO ENCIRCLE THEM LIKE A WALL. AND EVEN THESE FELLOWS WHO HAVE SEEN ALL KINDS OF SIGHTS AND WHO HAVE CRANKED THEIR CAMERAS THROUGH THOUSANDS OF METERS OF FILM ARE EXCITED AND FOR SEVERAL MINUTES FORGET THEIR PROFESSION AND STAND THERE SIMPLY LOOKING.

"THIS GREAT FRATERNITY OF ARMS WAS BORN NOT TODAY NOR YESTERDAY. IT WAS BORN LONG AGO ON THE BANKS OF THE DNEPR AND VISTULA AND ON THE SEVERE NORMAN COAST, BUT TODAY PERHAPS FOR THE FIRST TIME IT IS BORN GEOGRAPHICALLY."

BY DANIEL DE LUCE (550)

STOCKHOLM, APRIL 28-(AP)-"FORTRESS DENMARK" LOOMS TODAY AS THE WEAKEST OF ALL NAZI STRONGHOLDS. PATRIOTS CONFIDENTLY PREDICT ITS LIBERATION WITHIN FIVE WEEKS.

THE TASK OF CLEARING THE ENEMY FROM THE LITTLE HOMELAND OF NEARLY 4,000,000 NAZI-HATING DANES FALLS UPON GEN. DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER'S ALLIED SUPREME COMMAND. THE TACTICAL LEADERSHIP WILL BE SUPPLIED BY FIELD MARSHAL SIR BERNARD L. MONTGOMERY.

THERE IS NO INDICATION IT WILL BE AN OPERATION UNDERTAKEN JOINTLY WITH THE RED ARMY. JUST AS OVERLAPPING OFFENSIVE ZONES WERE CAREFULLY AVOIDED IN THE BALKANS, THE SAME POLICY APPARENTLY HAS BEEN FORMULATED FOR SCANDINAVIA.

THE DANES PROUDLY EXPECT THEIR INTERNAL RESISTANCE MOVEMENT, IN WHICH COMMUNISTS AND CONSERVATIVES ARE ARRAYED SIDE BY SIDE, WILL PROVE AS EFFECTIVE AS THE FRENCH MAQUIS WHEN THE HOUR STRIKES.

IT IS ONLY A SHORT FERRY RIDE TO COPENHAGEN FOR 6,000 MEMBERS OF THE FREE DANISH "POLICE AND RELIEF CORPS" WHO HAVE BEEN CONCENTRATING IN SOUTHWESTERN SWEDEN. THEIR COMMANDER, MAJ. GEN. K. KNUDTZON, FORMER COMMANDER OF THE DANISH ROYAL GUARD AND THE JUTLAND DIVISION, AWAITS FURTHER ALLIED ORDERS.

THE GERMAN GARRISON IN DENMARK IS COMMANDED BY AN OLD TIME CAVALRYMAN, COL. GEN. GEORGE LINDEMAN, WHO ARRIVED IN FEBRUARY TO PREPARE HIS TROOPS FOR THE BITTER DAYS AHEAD.

LINDEMAN PERSONALLY IS SOMETHING OF AN ENIGMA, FOR HE PUBLICLY HAS SPOKEN OF RESISTANCE "TO THE LAST MAN." BUT AT THE SAME TIME RUMOR SAID HE HAD RELEASED HIS OFFICERS FROM THE OBLIGATION TO OBEY SS (ELITE GUARD) COMMANDS UNLESS THEY ARE COUNTERSIGNED BY THE WEHRMACHT.

AMONG HIS TROOPS, VARIOUSLY ESTIMATED FROM 50,000 TO 120,000 MEN, MORALE IS EXTREMELY SHAKY.

AT LINDEMAN'S BACK STANDS A RUTHLESS FIGURE, SS GEN. GUENTHER PANCKE, WHOSE BIG STAFF OF GESTAPO VETERANS BOASTS OF EXECUTING TWO PATRIOTS FOR EVERY DANISH INFORMER'S DEATH. (THE ALLIED-CONTROLLED LUXEMBOURG RADIO REPORTS PANCKE HAS COMMITTED SUICIDE).

REGARDLESS OF THE SS TERROR, THE DANISH UNDERGROUND FURNISHES A STEADY FLOW OF INTELLIGENCE REPORTS TO ALLIED HEADQUARTERS. NO GERMAN MOVE GOES UNNOTICED. WHEN LINDEMAN RECENTLY COMMANDEERED A LARGE VILLA AT NYKOBING ON THE ISLAND OF FALSTER, COMFORTABLY CLOSER TO SWEDEN, THIS WAS DISCOVERED ALMOST IMMEDIATELY.

A100 APR 29 1945

MILITARILY DENMARK IS DIVIDED INTO TWO PARTS--THE JUTLAND PENINSULA, OVER 200 MILES LONG AND REACHING WITHIN 70 MILES OF NORWAY, AND THE BALTIC ISLANDS, WHOSE EASTERN LIMIT IS WITHIN EASY ROWING DISTANCE OF SWEDEN AND WHICH INCLUDE SJAELLAND WITH COPENHAGEN'S POPULATION OF 900,000 UNRULY DANES.

EVEN MILITARY MADMEN, HOWEVER, CAN HARDLY REGARD THE ROLLING, OPEN TERRAIN OF DENMARK AS A SUITABLE FIELD FOR A PROLONGED BATTLE AGAINST THE ALLIES.

TGE FATE OF 300,000 GERMAN CIVILIAN REFUGEES AND 60,000 WEHRMACHT WOUNDED IN DENMARK MAY FINALLY WEIGH UPON THE CONSCIENCE OF THE GERMAN COMMAND. IT IS CERTAIN TO BE A PRESSING POINT IF SWEDEN USES ITS NEUTRAL GOOD OFFICES TO OBTAIN AN END OF GERMAN RESISTANCE THERE.

THE DANES ARE BUILDING HOPES THAT THE CURRENT DEBACLE WITHIN THE REICH WILL QUICKLY DISINTEGRATE NAZI CONTROLS. MANY HAVE ITCHY TRIGGER FINGERS BUT ARE BEING COUNSELED BY HIGHEST QUARTERS THAT PATIENCE IS NEEDED.

ULTIMATE CAPTIULATION OF THE GERMAN GARRISON WITHOUT A FIGHT HAS BECOME MORE THAN A MERE POSSIBILITY. IF THIS DOES NOT HAPPEN, THEN A TOKEN SHOW OF ALLIED FORCE MAY SUFFICE.

IN ANY CASE THE DANES LOOK TO REGAIN NATIONAL LIBERTY BY JUNE.

VERN HAUGLAND
KADENA AIRFIELD, OKINAWA, APRIL 28 (AP)-ONE REASON JAPANESE SUICIDE PLANES ARE PROVING A COSTLY FAILURE FOR NIPPON--THEIR PILOTS ARE THE RANKEST SORT OF AMATEURS. THIS OPINION WAS EXPRESSED TODAY BY TWO AMERICAN MARINE CORSAIR PILOTS.

"WE HAVE NO RESPECT FOR JAPANESE PILOTS, MOST OF WHOM ARE APPARENTLY JUST OUT OF FLYING SCHOOL," SAID 2ND LT.GEORGE KARL, JR., OF (811 ST.LAWRENCE AVE.) CHICAGO, ILL. THE OPINION WAS SECONDED BY LT.EDWARD L.ABNER, OF (77 DARRINGTON ST. N.W., AND 804 W ST., S.E.) WASHINGTON, D.C.

APR 29 1945

THE TWO CORSAIR PILOTS SPEAK FROM EXPERIENCE. KARL DOWNED A JAPANESE DIVE BOMBER IN HIS FIRST WEEK HERE. ABNER DESTROYED A JAPANESE FIGHTER APRIL 15 AND TWO DIVE BOMBERS APRIL 22, DAMAGING A THIRD. HE AND SIX OTHER CORSAIR PILOTS SHOT DOWN 24 JAPANESE PLANES IN 25 MINUTES IN THE LATTER SCRAP.

"THERE ARE SO MANY NAVY PLANES HERE," SAID KARL, "THAT IT'S ALWAYS A MAD SCRAMBLE FOR OUR LAND-BASED PLANES TO BEAT THEM TO THE JAPS. AND WHEN WE GET THERE IT'S A REGULAR TURKEY SHOOT.

"IT'S A FARCE TO CALL IT COMBAT, COMPARED WITH WHAT OUR FLIERS FACED EARLIER IN THE WAR."

ABNER ASSERTED: "MOST OF THE JAP PLANES WE'VE ENCOUNTERED WERE ANTIQUES -- OLD DIVE BOMBERS. MANY OF THEM CARRY 300 TO 500 POUND BOMBS AND SUCH A HEAVY LOAD OF FUEL THEY OBVIOUSLY HOPED TO GET BACK TO THEIR BASES. SOME OF THEIR VIOLENT EVASIVE TACTICS ALSO INDICATE THEY ARE NOT ALL SUICIDE-BENT."

BOTH PILOTS HAVE PARTICIPATED IN SKIP-BOMB AND ROCKET ATTACKS ON JAPANESE POSITIONS ON SOUTHERN OKINAWA, FROM ALTITUDES AS LOW AS 25 FEET. THEY SAID THE CAPITAL OF NAHA APPEARS COMPLETELY DESERTED, ALTHOUGH PARTLY INTACT. THE TOWN OF SHURI IS VIRTUALLY DESTROYED, THEY REPORTED.

UNDATED NAZI-FASCIST LEADERS

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
COMPILED FROM A WELTER OF CONFLICTING REPORTS, HERE ARE THE LATEST STORIES EXTANT ON THE WHEREABOUTS OF THE LEADERS OF DYING NAZISM AND FASCISM:
ADOLF HITLER: THE GERMANS SAID HE WAS IN BERLIN, DIRECTING THE DEFENSE OF THAT INVESTED CAPITAL. THE REPORT HAS BEEN RECEIVED WITH SKEPTICISM IN ALLIED QUARTERS. THE HEAVY BOMBING OF BERCHTESGADEN AND HIS PRIVATE CHALET INDICATED AN ALLIED BELIEF THAT THE FUEHRER MIGHT BE IN THE BAVARIAN MOUNTAIN REDOUBT AREA. THE FREE GERMAN PRESS IN A REPORT RELAYED FROM STOCKHOLM SAID A FANATICAL NAZI DOUBLE FOR HITLER WOULD DIE IN BERLIN'S DEFENSE TO PERPETUATE THE NAZI HERO LEGEND.
REICHSMARSHAL HERMANN GOERING: THE ERSTWHILE CHIEF OF THE ALMOST NON-EXISTENT GERMAN AIRFORCE IS THROUGH, BEYOND DOUBT, AND MAY BE DEAD. A GERMAN BROADCAST SAID HE HAD RESIGNED HIS POST BECAUSE OF AN ACUTE HEART AILMENT. A CAPTURED NAZI GENERAL SAID THE PORTLY MARSHAL PROBABLY WAS EXECUTED. A MOSCOW REPORT BROACHED THE POSSIBILITY THAT GOERING HAD FLED TO PARTS UNKNOWN, CARRYING AWAY $20,000,000 IN LOOT.
GESTAPO CHIEF HEINRICH HIMMLER: HIS CAPTURED BROTHER-IN-LAW SAID THAT AS LATE AS APRIL 10 HIMMLER WAS IN THE HARTZ MOUNTAINS BUT ESCAPED THE ADVANCING AMERICANS; HE WAS REPORTED TO HAVE MADE A PEACE OFFER TO BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES, EXCLUDING RUSSIA. SOME TIME AGO ONE REPORT, IN ALL PROBABILITY IN ERROR, PICTURED HIMMLER AS KILLED ATTEMPTING TO ESCAPE BERLIN. THE ONLY CLUE MENTIONED WAS A CHARRED BODY IN A BLASTED MOTOR VEHICLE.
PROPAGANDA MINISTER PAUL JOSEPH GOEBBELS: THE LOUD AND LIMPING MOUTHPIECE OF NAZISM HAS BEEN REPORTED BY A GERMAN-CONTROLLED SOURCE TO HAVE FLED NORTHWARD OUT OF BERLIN, BUT OTHER GERMAN REPORTS HAVE SAID HE WAS WITH HITLER IN BERLIN. HE MAY ALREADY BE IN THE BAVARIAN REDOUBT.
FRANZ VON PAPEN: THE "GRAY FOX" OF NAZI DIPLOMACY WALKED INTO AMERICAN ARMS. A CAPTIVE.

LT.GEN.KURT DITTMAR: THIS MOUTHPIECE OF THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND, CROSSED THE ELBE IN A ROWBOAT AND GAVE HIMSELF UP TO THE AMERICANS. IT WAS HE WHO SUGGESTED GOERING PROBABLY HAS BEEN EXECUTED.

B75

FIELD MARSHAL ALBERT KESSELRING: THE LATEST CLUE TO THE WHEREABOUTS OF THE GERMAN COMMANDER IN THE SOUTH CAME FROM THE MUNICH RADIO DURING WHAT APPARENTLY WAS A SHORT-LIVED REVOLT IN THAT BIRTHPLACE OF NAZISM. THE RADIO BROADCAST A PLEA TO THE ALLIES TO BOMB PULLACH, SIX MILES SOUTH OF MUNICH, WHERE IT SAID KESSELRING HAD ESTABLISHED HEADQUARTERS. A PRIVATE TRAIN BELONGING TO THE MARSHAL WAS CAPTURED NEAR THE CZECH BORDER BY AMERICAN TROOPS, BUT KESSELRING WAS NOT ON BOARD. NOR, APPARENTLY, WAS HE IN REGENSBURG WHERE HE HAD BEEN REPORTED WHEN THE CITY WAS SURROUNDED. THE PLACE WAS CAPTURED WITHOUT ANY MENTION OF KESSELRING'S WHEREABOUTS.

ADMIRAL HERMANN MOOTZ: THIS FRIEND TO THE NAZI HIGH COMMAND WAS REPORTED CAPTURED BY AMERICAN NINTH ARMY TROOPS.

APR 2 9 1945

BENITO MUSSOLINI: THE MILAN RADIO SAID THE ONCE-BLUSTERY ITALIAN DICTATOR WAS CAPTURED AFTER FLEEING IN DISGUISE FROM MILAN AS PARTISANS STAGED A REVOLT. ONE SWISS REPORT SAID RECENTLY HE MIGHT HAVE SUCCEEDED IN CROSSING THE SWISS FRONTIER.

ROBERTO FARINACCI: THE SECRETARY OF THE ITALIAN FASCIST PARTY, BY ALL REPORTS, APPARENTLY IS WITH MUSSOLINI, WHEREVER THE DUCE IS NOW.

MARSHAL RODOLFO GRAZIANI: THE WAR MINISTER OF THE PUPPET NORTH ITALIAN GOVERNMENT OF MUSSOLINI AND ONCE ITALIAN COMMANDER IN NORTH AFRICA, WAS REPORTED BY A FREE ITALIAN BROADCAST TO HAVE BEEN CAPTURED WHILE ATTEMPTING TO ESCAPE INTO SWITZERLAND.

GUIDO BUFFARINI-GUIDI: THE FORMER SECRETARY OF STATE AND MINISTER OF INTERIOR IN THE MUSSOLINI GOVERNMENT WAS REPORTED BY A PATRIOT RADIO BROADCAST TO HAVE BEEN CAPTURED BY PARTISANS WHILE ATTEMPTING TO ESCAPE INTO SWITZERLAND.

ALESSANDRO PAVOLINI: FORMER SECRETARY OF THE FASCIST PARTY, AND SECRETARY OF STATE IN MUSSOLINI'S PUPPET NORTH ITALIAN GOVERNMENT, HE WAS REPORTED BY THE PARTISAN RADIO TO HAVE BEEN ARRESTED WITH PAVOLINI.

UNDATED PEACE
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
REPORTS RAN AROUND THE WORLD LAST NIGHT (SATURDAY) THAT ADOLF HITLER WAS DYING AND THAT HEINRICH HIMMLER WAS TRYING TO SURRENDER TO THE ALLIES ALL THAT REMAINS OF NAZI GERMANY.
IN SAN FRANCISCO, WHERE THE UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE IS IN PROGRESS, OFFICIALS WHO CANNOT BE IDENTIFIED SAID THAT EXCHANGES LOOKING TO THE FINAL UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER WERE UNDER WAY AND THAT THE END MIGHT COME THIS WEEKEND OR MIGHT BE DRAGGED OUT FOR SEVERAL DAYS.
THE SURRENDER OFFER WAS ATTRIBUTED IN SAN FRANCISCO TO HIMMLER, GESTAPO CHIEF, WHO WAS REPORTED FIRST TO HAVE TRIED TO MAKE A DEAL TO YIELD TO BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES BUT NOT TO RUSSIA.
THIS WAS REJECTED UNEQUIVOCALLY, LEAVING HIMMLER WITH NO CHOICE BUT TO UNDERTAKE TO SURRENDER TO THE BIG THREE, ACCORDING TO THIS REPORT, WHICH WAS FROM A RELIABLE SOURCE.
HIMMLER, NEGOTIATING BY WAY OF STOCKHOLM, STATED THAT ADOLF HITLER WAS MORTALLY ILL AND UNDOUBTEDLY WOULD DIE OF SHOCK UPON LEARNING OF A SURRENDER, ACCORDING TO THIS SOURCE.
AT SUPREME HEADQUARTERS OF THE WESTERN ALLIES IN PARIS IT WAS STATED THAT NO SURRENDER OFFER HAD BEEN MADE THERE BUT THAT THIS DID NOT NECESSARILY MEAN NONE HAD BEEN MADE, AS IT COULD HAVE BEEN TAKEN UP DIRECTLY WITH THE ALLIED GOVERNMENTS RATHER THAN THE MILITARY.
GEN.EISENHOWER WOULD HAVE AUTHORITY TO ACCEPT SURRENDER OF ANY ARMY IN THE FIELD BUT NOT TO NEGOTIATE A GENERAL SURRENDER, SINCE MUCH OF GERMANY'S WANING STRENGTH IS TIED UP AGAINST THE RUSSIANS.
DISPATCHES FROM PARIS HEADQUARTERS THREE DAYS AGO SAID THAT ANY ANNOUNCEMENT OF A COMPLETE SURRENDER WOULD COME--IF IT CAME AT ALL--FROM THE CHIEFS OF STATE OF BRITAIN, RUSSIA AND THE UNITED STATES AND NOT FROM THE MILITARY COMMAND.
THE SWISS RADIO SAID A FIELD SURRENDER ALREADY HAD BEEN MADE IN ITALY, EMBRACING THE NORTHERN PROVINCES OF LOMBARDY AND PIEDMONT. THIS REPORT WAS NOT CONFIRMED AND DID NOT SPECIFY HOW EXTENSIVE SUCH SURRENDER MIGHT BE.

MOSCOW, APRIL 28-(AP)-EDITORIAL REACTION TO THE LINKUP OF AMERICAN AND RUSSIAN TROOPS WAS WARM AND GENEROUS IN ALL THE SOVIET PRESS TODAY.

NEWSPAPERS WERE BOUGHT UP IN LESS THAN 30 MINUTES FROM MOSCOW'S NEWSSTANDS.

THE WELL KNOWN SOVIET WRITER NIKOLAI TIKHONOV, WRITING IN THE ARMY NEWSPAPER RED STAR, DECLARED: "WE WELL KNOW WHAT A FIGHTING PARTNERSHIP IS. IN THE RED ARMY AND IN THE ARMY OF OUR ALLIES THERE ALWAYS WILL REMAIN IN THE HISTORICAL CHRONICLE THE WORD 'TORGAU.' IT IS A WEARY DOWNCAST PLACE BUT FOR US IT WILL ALWAYS SOUND IN OUR EARS AS A MONUMENTAL REMINDER OF THE BURIAL SALUTE OVER THE GRAVE OF HITLERITE GERMANY."

LT.GEN.BLAGONAROV ALSO WRITING IN RED STAR ASSERTED: "ALL THE SOVIET PEOPLE, WITH PRIDE IN THE COUNTRY AND IN THEIR RED ARMY, HEARD THE ANNOUNCEMENT OF THE MEETING WITH THE ALLIES X X X FILLED WITH DETERMINATION TO FOREVER FINISH WITH THE THREATS OF THE FASCIST PLAGUE HANGING OVER THE WORLD."

LENINGRAD AS WELL AS MOSCOW AND THE OTHER CITIES OF THE SOVIET UNION CELEBRATED THE ELBE MEETING.

A TASS DISPATCH SAID: "DURING THOSE MINUTES WHEN THE RADIO BROADCAST THE ORDER OF THE DAY EACH LENINGRAD MAN AND WOMAN AS NEVER BEFORE COMPREHENDED THE FULL VICTORY OVER THE ENEMY."

GATHERING AROUND LOUDSPEAKERS THE PEOPLE CONGRATULATED ONE ANOTHER.

IZVESTIA SAID: "THE NEWS OF THE EVENT SPREAD THROUGH THE SHOPS OF THE STALIN AUTO FACTORY. MANY MEETINGS WERE HELD IMMEDIATELY. AT ONE LATHE WORKER KADICHOVA SAID 'ASIDE FROM STALIN WE ALSO HEARD SPEECHES FROM TRUMAN AND CHURCHILL. A GREAT VICTORY HAS BEEN WON.'"

AT SVERDLOVSK IN THE URALS AND AT KIEV AND KUIBYSHEV, FACTORY WORKERS HELD MEETINGS.

MUSCOVITES HEARD THE NEWS OVER PUBLIC LOUDSPEAKERS IN THE STREETS.

AT 7:25, MARSHAL STALIN BROADCAST HIS ADDRESS TO THE ARMIES. THEN MOSCOW HEARD THE TRANSCRIBED ANNOUNCEMENT OF PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL, WHO SPOKE IN ENGLISH. NEXT THERE WAS A BROADCAST TRANSLATION OF PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S SPEECH.

WITH LONDON SURRENDER OFFER

WASHINGTON, APRIL 28-(AP)-ALLIED FENCES APPEARED AIRTIGHT TODAY AGAINST THE POSSIBILITY OF ANY SEPARATE PEACE FOR GERMANY OR ONE SHORT OF UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER TO ALL THREE PRINCIPAL ALLIES.

AMID PERSISTENT RUMORS OF AN ATTEMPT BY GESTAPO CHIEF HEINRICH HIMMLER TO SURRENDER THE REICH TO AMERICA AND BRITAIN--BUT NOT TO RUSSIA--IT WAS POINTED OUT HERE THAT REPEATED STATEMENTS AND AGREEMENTS COMMIT THE ALLIES FIRMLY TO UNCOMPROMISING JOINT ACTION.

MEANWHILE JONATHAN DANIELS, THE WHITE HOUSE PRESS SECRETARY, TOLD REPORTERS HE KNEW NOTHING ABOUT ANY SURRENDER PROPOSALS, AND ADDED THAT IT WAS "PERFECTLY CLEAR" THAT THERE CAN BE NO UNCONDITIONAL

SURRENDER UNLESS MADE TO ALL THE ALLIES.
"THIS GOVERNMENT," HE ASSERTED, "HAS NOTHING TO SAY AT THIS TIME. WE ALL KNOW THERE ARE AND WILL BE MANY RUMORS."
"NO, NOT SPECIFICALLY," DANIELS ANSWERED WHEN NEWSMEN ASKED IF THE SURRENDER OFFER REPORT WAS CONNECTED WITH PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S LONG CONFERENCE WITH MILITARY LEADERS YESTERDAY.
ACTING SECRETARY OF STATE GREW HAD NOTHING TO SAY.
ALL THAT CAME OUT OF THE WAR DEPARTMENT WAS A TERSE "NO COMMENT."
THERE ARE SEVERAL AGREEMENTS WHICH BIND THE ALLIES TO COORDINATED ACTION IN EVENT OF ANY SURRENDER.
FIRST OF THESE IS THE UNITED NATIONS DECLARATION OF JANUARY 1, 1942, WHERE 26 NATIONS--AMONG THEM AMERICA, BRITAIN AND RUSSIA --PLEDGED THEMSELVES NOT TO CONCLUDE SEPARATE PEACE.
THE 20 YEAR RUSSO-BRITISH MUTUAL ASSISTANCE TREATY OF MAY 26, 1942, PLEDGES THOSE NATIONS NOT TO "ENTER INTO ANY NEGOTIATIONS WITH THE HITLERITE GOVERNMENT OR ANY OTHER GOVERNMENT OF GERMANY THAT DOES NOT CLEARLY RENOUNCE ALL AGGRESSIVE INTENTIONS, AND NOT TO NEGOTIATE OR CONCLUDE EXCEPT BY MUTUAL CONSENT ANY ARMISTICE OR TREATY WITH GERMANY OR ANY OTHER STATE ASSOCIATED WITH HER IN ACTS OF AGGRESSION IN EUROPE."

A6WX
THIS COUNTRY HAS NO SUCH ACTUAL TREATY WITH EITHER BRITAIN OR RUSSIA.
BUT PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL ANNOUNCED THE UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER FORMULA FOR GERMANY AT CASABLANCA ON JANUARY 24, 1943.
SOVIET RUSSIA FORMERLY JOINED IN SUPPORTING THIS FORMULA IN THE MOSCOW DECLARATION OF NOVEMBER 1, 1943. THIS PLEDGED RUSSIA, CHINA, GREAT BRITAIN AND AMERICA TO "CONTINUE HOSTILITIES AGAINST THOSE AXIS POWERS WITH WHICH THEY RESPECTIVELY ARE AT WAR UNTIL SUCH POWERS HAVE LAID DOWN THEIR ARMS ON THE BASIS OF UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER."

GENERAL NIGHT LEAD CONFERENCE
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE SATURDAY:
BUZZED WITH TALK OF A GERMAN SURRENDER REPORT.
HEARD CZECH MINISTER JAN MASARYK AND OTHER DELEGATION CHIEFS IN FORMAL ADDRESSES.

BY DOUGLAS B.CORNELL
SAN FRANCISCO, APRIL 28-(AP)-THE UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE, PLODDING THROUGH MORE WORDS THAN WORK, SEIZED ON WORLD-WIDE RUMORS OF A GERMAN SURRENDER BID TODAY AS AN INCENTIVE FOR SPEED IN HAMMERING TOGETHER A PLAN FOR PERMANENT PEACE.
DELEGATES SPLIT THEIR TIME BETWEEN LISTENING TO TWO SESSIONS OF FORMAL SPEECH-MAKING AND CLUSTERING IN GROUPS TO GO OVER THE UNCONFIRMED REPORTS THAT THE NAZIS HAD OFFERED TO YIELD UNCONDITIONALLY TO THE UNITED STATES AND BRITAIN AND WERE TURNED DOWN BECAUSE RUSSIA WAS OMITTED.
MANY SUGGESTED THE TIME WAS RIPE FOR SURRENDER, NOW THAT ALLIED ARMIES FROM THE EAST AND WEST HAVE JOINED IN GERMANY. AND THEY TOOK H
E
E
D OF URGENT PLEAS OF SOME OF THEIR LEADERS THAT "WE MUST NOT DELAY." SAID CZECH FOREIGN MINISTER JAN MASARYK IN THE DAY'S OPENING ADDRESS:
"WE X X X HAVE AN ALMOST CRUSHING RESPONSIBILITY."
SECRETARY OF STATE STETTINIUS DECLINED TO CONFIRM OR DENY THE SURRENDER RUMORS.
"ASK PRESIDENT TRUMAN, OR SECRETARY OF WAR STIMSON," HE TOLD REPORTERS.
THUS FAR THE MAJOR ACCOMPLISHMENT OF THE CONFERENCE, WHICH OPENED LAST WEDNESDAY, HAS BEEN THE ATTAINMENT OF HARMONY ON THE SURFACE. LOOKING AHEAD, REPRESENTATIVES OF 46 NATIONS ARE FOCUSING ON AN OLD ISSUE NOW ASSUMING GREATER PROMINENCE--A DEMAND OF SMALLER COUNTRIES FOR A BIGGER BREAK IN SHAPING PEACE.
AND STILL ON THE LIPS OF DELEGATES ARE TWO PUZZLING QUESTIONS ABOUT RUSSIA FOR WHICH THEY HAVE FOUND NO DEFINITE ANSWER:
1. WHAT CALMED THE RUSSIANS DOWN, WHAT WORKED THE OVERNIGHT CHANGE THAT BROUGHT HARMONY OUT OF DISCORD?
2. WHAT DID PREMIER STALIN TELL FOREIGN COMMISSAR MOLOTOV TO THE END THAT RUSSIA AGREED TO SIDETRACKING A POLISH ISSUE?
THE SURRENDER RUMORS RACED THROUGH DELEGATES LIKE AN ELECTRIC SPARK. MANY CONSIDERED THEM LOGICAL. NONE, APPARENTLY, HAD ANY OFFICIAL WORD THEY MIGHT BE TRUE.
THUS THERE APPEARED TO BE LITTLE CHANCE THAT THEY WOULD BE BROUGHT FORMALLY AND IMMEDIATELY TO THE ATTENTION OF THE CONFERENCE ITSELF.

A199
INSTEAD, THE DECKS WERE CLEARED FOR QUICK ACTION NEXT WEEK ON MORE ORGANIZATIONAL MATTERS. AND THE BIG FOUR SPONSORING NATIONS--RUSSIA, BRITAIN, CHINA AND THE UNITED STATES--EVIDENTLY WILL HAVE TO WRESTLE AT AN EARLY MOMENT WITH THE INSISTENCE OF LESSER POWERS ON A HEAVIER VOICE IN MOLDING PEACE.
ALREADY CHIEFS OF THE AUSTRALIAN, BELGIAN AND BOLIVIAN DELEGATIONS HAVE MADE THEIR BID IN PUBLIC ADDRESSES AT PLENARY SESSIONS. AND THE DUTCH CIRCULATED A MEMORANDUM AMONG DELEGATES ADVANCING SEVEN AMENDMENTS TO THE DUMBARTON OAKS PLAN--WHICH WAS DRAFTED BY THE BIG FOUR AND ADOPTED AS THE CONFERENCE AGENDA.
THE NETHERLANDERS CONTEND DUMBARTON OAKS OFFERS NO REAL BASIS FOR SUCCESSFULLY MAINTAINING PEACE.
THE SMALL NATIONS' PRESSURE ALREADY HAS BEEN FELT. IT BROUGHT ABOUT EXPANSION OF THE CONFERENCE'S EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE FROM 11 TO 14 MEMBERS. NOW THEY APPEAR BENT ON GETTING THE SAME INCREASE IN THE MEMBERSHIP OF A PROPOSED WORLD SECURITY COUNCIL--THE INSTRUMENTALITY WHICH WOULD BE EMPOWERED TO USE ARMED FORCE TO PREVENT WAR.
INDIVIDUALLY, THE ACTIONS OF THE CONFERENCE TO DATE HAVE CONTRIBUTED LITTLE TO THE FUNDAMENTAL TASK OF SETTING UP A WORLD ORGANIZATION. THEY ARE MERE ACCENTS OF COLOR IN A BIG PICTURE.
BUT ADDED TOGETHER, THEY HAVE PRODUCED A DEGREE OF HARMONY THAT IS ESSENTIAL TO SUCCESS OF THE CONFERENCE.
THE CONFERENCE HAS:
SPLIT UP ITS CHAIRMANSHIP AMONG THE SPONSORING NATIONS AND GIVEN

30.24-25271

30.24-25271

THE CHAIRMANSHIP OF THE KEY STEERING AND EXECUTIVE COMMITTEES TO SECRETARY OF STATE STETTINIUS. THIS WAS A COMPROMISE WHICH SETTLED A SQUABBLE PRIMARILY BETWEEN THE BRITISH AND AMERICANS ON ONE SIDE AND THE RUSSIANS ON THE OTHER.

AGREED TO GIVE RUSSIA THREE VOTES IN THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF A PROJECTED INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATION AND SHELVED A RUSSIAN REQUEST THAT THE POLISH GOVERNMENT AT WARSAW BE GIVEN REPRESENTATION HERE. EITHER OF THESE TWO ISSUES COULD HAVE DISRUPTED, AND DID FOR A TIME, THE UNITY OF THE CONFERENCE.

POLISHED OFF MOST OF ITS FORMAL ORATORY.

AS FOR THOSE TWO QUESTIONS ABOUT THE SOVIETS, MOLOTOV HIMSELF HAS GIVEN THE ONLY AVAILABLE EXPLANATION FOR GREATER RUSSIAN PLIANCY. HE WITHDREW A DEMAND THAT STETTINIUS HAVE ONLY MINOR POWERS OVER THE STEERING AND EXECUTIVE COMMITTEES, HE SAID, IN THE INTERESTS OF INTERNATIONAL ACCORD AND THE COMMON GOOD.

SOME DELEGATES, HOWEVER, HAD AN IDEA THAT HE HAD PRESSED HIS POINT AS FAR AS HE COULD, FOUND THE BRITISH AND AMERICANS PRESENTING A STONE-WALL FRONT, AND SO REPORTED TO MOSCOW. BACK CAME INSTRUCTIONS FROM STALIN, THESE DELEGATES SAY, TO ACCEPT A COMPROMISE.

APR 29 1945

THE RUSS. MINISTER IS UNDERSTOOD TO BE WORKING HERE UNDER STRICT ORDERS. BUT THE SPEED WITH WHICH HE HAS RECEIVED ANSWERS FROM STALIN AND THE CONCILIATORY ATTITUDE THAT FINALLY LED TO AGREEMENTS ON TICKLISH ISSUES HAVE CAUSED MUCH OPTIMISM OVER PROSPECTS OF CLOSE COLLABORATION.

AS THE POLISH QUESTION NOW STANDS, THE CONFERENCE HAS EXPRESSED A HOPE THAT RUSSIA, BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES CAN GET TOGETHER ON A POLISH GOVERNMENT WHICH COULD BE INVITED TO SEND REPRESENTATIVES TO SAN FRANCISCO.

IN BACKING RUSSIA'S REQUEST FOR THREE VOTES IN A WORLD ASSEMBLY OF NATIONS, THE BRITISH AND AMERICANS FULFILLED AN AGREEMENT MADE AT A ROOSEVELT-STALIN-CHURCHILL MEETING AT YALTA.

NOW THEY FEEL IT IS UP TO RUSSIA TO KEEP ANOTHER AGREEMENT REACHED AT YALTA--TO REORGANIZE THE PRESENT WARSAW GOVERNMENT TO INCLUDE MORE DEMOCRATIC ELEMENTS.

MOLOTOV HAS GIVEN ASSURANCES THAT THIS WILL BE DONE. PERHAPS THE GIST OF STALIN'S COMMUNICATION TO HIM ON THE POLISH PROBLEM SUGGESTED THE METHODS.

SEVERAL SPEAKERS AT TODAY'S CONFERENCE SESSION BROACHED THE SUBJECT OF MORE WEIGHT FOR SMALLER NATIONS IN A PEACE ORGANIZATION. YET DESPITE THE FACT THAT THE DUTCH ARE BACKING A NUMBER OF AMENDMENTS, THEIR FOREIGN MINISTER, DR.EELCO VAN KLEFFENS, ASSERTED THEY ARE PREPARED TO ACCEPT DOMINANCE OF THE BIG FOUR, PLUS FRANCE, IN ORGANIZING WORLD SECURITY.

THE NETHERLANDERS, HE SAID, WOULD "LIKE TO SEE LIMITS ON SOVEREIGNTY" ACCEPTED BY ALL NATIONS. EVEN IF THIS CAN'T BE DONE ALL AT ONCE, HE SAID, THE DUTCH WILL "BE PROUD" TO ACCEPT THEM HERE.

THE LEBANESE LEADER, CHARLES HABIB MALIK, UNDERSCORED THE PART SMALL NATIONS ARE PLAYING IN THE WAR AND SAID THEY HAD A RIGHT TO BE HEARD IN THE PEACE ORGANIZATION.

HONDURAS' JULIAN CACERES SAID, "WHETHER NATIONS BE GREAT OR SMALL, ABLE TO DEFEND THEMSELVES UNAIDED, OR WHETHER THEY BE PROTECTED BY ONLY INNER MORAL STRENGTH, EACH IS NECESSARY TO THE OTHER IN WORLD CIVILIZATION AND CULTURE."

EGYPT'S ABDUL HAMID B

EGYPT'S ABDUL HAMID BADAWI PASHA PROPOSED THE PEACE ORGANIZATION HAVE A SYSTEM OF CHECKS AND BALANCES TO ATTAIN A BETTER WORKING RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN LARGE, MIDDLE AND SMALL POWERS. HE RECOMMENDED THAT THE PROPOSED SECURITY COUNCIL HAVE 14 INSTEAD OF 11 MEMBERS AND THAT NON-PERMANENT MEMBERS BE ELECTED ON A REGIONAL BASIS.

INDIA'S SIR A.RAMASWAMI MUDALIER TOLD THE DELEGATES NOT TO OVERLOOK HUMAN RIGHTS OR SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC CONDITIONS WHICH LEAD TO AGGRESSION.

"I WOULD LIKE TO DRAW ATTENTION TO THE GREAT POWERS," HE SAID, "THAT NO ONE INDIVIDUAL COULD HAVE STOOD UP AGAINST AGGRESSION. THIS HAS BEEN ACCOMPLISHED ONLY BY UNITING THE BIG POWERS AND ALSO BY THE CONTRIBUTION OF SMALL COUNTRIES."

IAN'S MOSTAFA ADL ALSO STRES

APR 29 1945

IRAN'S MOSTAFA ADL ALSO STRESSED CONFERENCE OBJECTIVES AND THE NEED FOR SETTING UP AN ORGANIZATION TO ASSURE AN END TO WAR.

PROBABLY NO MORE THAN HALF THE DELEGATES WERE IN THEIR PLACES DURING THE ADDRESSES. RUSSIA HAD A HEAVY TURNOUT, HEADED BY MOLOTOV. STETTINIUS AND SENATOR TOM CONNALLY OF TEXAS WERE THE ONLY AMERICAN DELEGATES ON HAND.

CONFERENCE--ORGANIZATION

BY JAMES MARLOW

SAN FRANCISCO, APRIL 29-(AP)-DELEGATES TO THE UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE TAKE OFF THEIR COATS AND GET DOWN TO REAL WORK THIS WEEK.

THEY WILL CREATE THE FOUR BIG COMMISSIONS WHICH HAVE TO WORK OUT THE RULES AND REGULATIONS FOR AN ORGANIZATION TO PREVENT FUTURE WARS.

IT'S AS IF FOUR MEN STARTED TO BUILD A HOUSE: ONE DOES THE BRICKLAYING, ONE THE PLASTERING, ONE THE PLUMBING, ONE LAYS THE FLOORS. AND THEY CALL IN MEN TO HELP THEM.

SO, THE COMMISSIONS WILL IN TURN SET UP COMMITTEES TO HELP THEM. WHAT A COMMITTEE DOES GOES TO THE COMMISSION FOR APPROVAL.

WHAT THE COMMISSION APPROVES WILL GO TO THE WHOLE CONFERENCE IN FULL SESSION FOR APPROVAL BY THE 46 NATIONS' DELEGATES.

EVERY NATION REPRESENTED HERE WILL HAVE A DELEGATE ON EACH OF THE FOUR COMMISSIONS.

IN THIS WAY--EVEN BEFORE A COMMISSION'S WORK GOES TO THE FULL DRESS SESSIONS OF THE CONFERENCE FOR OKAY--EVERY NATION WILL HAVE HAD A HAND IN WHATEVER EACH COMMISSION DOES.

SOME DELEGATES WILL WORK ON THE COMMITTEES BUT THESE MOSTLY WILL BE MADE UP OF EXPERTS, LIKE EXPERTS ON LAW, BANKING, TREATIES.

THESE ARE THE FOUR COMMISSIONS:

1. A COMMISSION ON GENERAL PROVISIONS.. IT WILL LAY DOWN THE RULES ON THINGS SUCH AS THESE: WHO CAN BE A MEMBER OF THE ORGANIZATION; WHAT THE ORGANIZATION'S PURPOSES ARE.
2. A COMMISSION ON THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY. THE ORGANIZATION WILL HAVE AN ASSEMBLY IN WHICH EVER MEMBER WILL BE REPRESENTED. THIS ASSEMBLY'S JOB WILL BE TO GUIDE THE WORK OF THE ORGANIZATION.
3. A COMMISSION ON THE SECURITY COUNCIL. IT IS THIS COUNCIL WHICH, ACCORDING TO PRESENT PLANS, WOULD DECIDE WHEN THE ORGANIZATION SHOULD IN THE FUTURE USE UNITED FORCE TO CURB AN AGGRESSOR NATION.
4. A COMMISSION ON JUDICIAL ORGANIZATION. THIS COMMISSION WILL WORK OUT THE RULES FOR CREATING AN INTERNATIONAL COURT OF JUSTICE. THIS COURT WOULD TRY TO SETTLE SOME KINDS OF INTERNATIONAL DISPUTES BY LEGAL NAMES.

SAN FRANCISCO, APRIL 28-(AP)-THE THIRD PLENARY SESSION OF THE UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE CONVENED AT 11:06 A.M. (PWT) WITH CHINA'S FOREIGN MINISTER SOONG PRESIDING.
DR. SOONG ANNOUNCED THAT DELEGATES WHO HAD NOT SPOKEN WOULD BE HEARD IN ALPHABETICAL ORDER. HE IMMEDIATELY RECOGNIZED JAN MASARYK, FOREIGN MINISTER OF CZECHOSLOVAKIA.
MASARYK TOLD THE DELEGATES THEY COULD "EITHER CREATE AN EFFECTIVE ORGANIZATION FOR PEACE AND SECURITY, OR THE WORLD WOULD DESCEND TO THE DEPTHS OF INIQUITY."
THE MEETING STARTED A HALF HOUR LATE. THE LARGE OPERA HOUSE WAS ABOUT HALF FILLED.
SENATOR TOM CONNALLY (D-TEX) CAME IN WHILE THE EGYPTIAN FOREIGN MINISTER WAS SPEAKING AND SAT NEXT TO SECRETARY OF STATE STETTINIUS, WHO FOR THE FIRST TIME WAS SITTING WITH THE REST OF THE AMERICAN DELEGATION, TEN ROWS BACK ON THE FLOOR.
SOVIET FOREIGN COMMISSAR MOLOTOV ARRIVED EARLY AND SAT QUIETLY IN HIS SEAT FOR OVER HALF AN HOUR. DELEGATES REMAINED IN THEIR HOTEL OFFICES.
THE CZECHOSLOVAK FOREIGN MINISTER TOLD THE DELEGATES HIS NATION WAS DEEPLY GRATEFUL TO THE BRITISH "WHO GAVE US HOSPITALITY DURING THE BLACKEST DAYS OF OUR HISTORY," AND TO THE UNITED STATES, FOR "GENEROUS HELP AND UNDERSTANDING."
OF THE CONFERENCE, HE SAID "WE SHALL EITHER SAVE OURSELVES FROM THE NEXT WAR BY PROVING TO OURSELVES THAT IT JUST CANNOT HAPPEN AGAIN, OR WE SHALL DESCEND TO THE DEPTH OF INIQUITY."
THE FOREIGN MINISTER OF EGYPT, ABDUL HAMID BADAWI PASHA, SUGGESTED THE CONFERENCE ADOPT A SYSTEM OF CHECKS AND BALANCES, AND ESTABLISHMENT OF A SECURITY COUNCIL TO ACHIEVE A BETTER WORKING RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN LARGE, MIDDLE AND SMALL POWERS.
THE EGYPTIAN URGED THAT THE CONFERENCE PRESCRIBE PRINCIPLES FOR THE REVISION OF TREATIES WHICH "ARE INCONSISTENT WITH THE NEW CONCEPT OF WORLD CONDITIONS AND COLLECTIVE SECURITY."
JULIAN CACERES, HEAD OF THE HONDURAS GROUP, DECLARED THE LARGE AND SMALL POWERS NEED EACH OTHER TO KEEP THE PEACE. "WHETHER NATIONS BE GREAT OR SMALL," HE SAID, "ABLE TO DEFEND THEMSELVES UNAIDED, OR WHETHER THEY CAN BE PROTECTED BY ONLY AN INNER MORAL STRENGTH, EACH IS NECESSARY IN WORLD CIVILIZATION AND CULTURE." CACERES DECLARED "OUT OF BLOOD AND DESTRUCTION AND DEATH WROUGHT BY TOTALITARIAN AGGRESSION AGAINST FREE PEOPLES, MAN'S INHERENT DIGNITY MUST LIFT HIM BEYOND HORRORS AND HATRED."

TWO PLENARY SESSIONS FOR SPEECHES BY DELEGATION LEADERS
(10:30 A.M. PACIFIC WAR TIME-1:30 P.M. EASTERN WAR TIME--AND 3:30 P.M. P.C.W.)
BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
SAN FRANCISCO, APRIL 28-(AP)-MORE CLOSEKNIT THEMSELVES, THE BIG FOUR MANAGING THIS UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE TODAY RAN INTO A SMALL NATION CHALLENGE OF A WORLD ORGANIZATION DOMINATED BY MAJOR ALLIED WAR VICTORS.
SPOKESMEN FOR AUSTRALIA, BELGIUM AND BOLIVIA URGED MORE RESPONSIBLE ROLES FOR THE WORLD'S SMALLER STATES. THEIR ACTION SIGNALLED THE LONG EXPECTED EFFORT TO SHIFT THE BALANCE BETWEEN THE GREAT AND THE SMALL.
ONE IMMEDIATE SUCCESS OF THIS PRESSURE WAS EXPANSION OF THE CONFERENCE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE FROM 11 TO 14 MEMBERS. NOW THE SMALL-STATE GROUP AIMS AT INCREASING THE MEMBERSHIPS ON THE WORLD SECURITY COUNCIL BEYOND THE 11 PROPOSED AT DUMBARTON OAKS.
AS CONSTITUTED BY T 46-NATION CONFERENCE, THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE INCLUDES THE BIG-THREE, CHINA AND FRANCE, WHICH ARE TO HAVE PERMANENT SECURITY COUNCIL SEATS, AND THESE OTHER COUNTRIES: AUSTRALIA, BRAZIL, CANADA, CHILE, CZECHOSLOVAKIA, IRAN, MEXICO, HOLLAND AND YUGOSLAVIA.
RESTORATION OF HARMONY AMONG THE BIG POWERS BROUGHT THE CONFERENCE INTO ITS FOURTH DAY WITH PROSPECTS FOR SUCCESS BRIGHTENED BY RUSSIA'S DEMONSTRATED WILLINGNESS TO COMPROMISE.
SOME DELEGATES EVEN HOPED FOR A REORGANIZATION OF THE POLISH WARSAW GOVERNMENT ALONG LINES ACCEPTABLE TO BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES. WHETHER IT COULD BE ACHIEVED IN TIME FOR AN INVITATION TO BE REPRESENTED HERE WAS DOUBTFUL.
A SESSION OF THE CONFERENCE STEERING COMMITTEE, WHICH STARTED OUT ROUGHLY ENOUGH, ENDED IN A ROUND OF HANDSHAKING AND BACKSLAPPING YESTERDAY.
IT PRODUCED THESE QUICKLY RATIFIED SOLUTIONS TO ISSUES WHICH HAD GIVEN THE CONFERENCE ON PEACE A BELLIGERENT START.
1. THROUGH RUSSIAN INSISTENCE, THE DELEGATES TOSSED TRADITION OUT THE WINDOW AND ELECTED FOUR PRESIDENTS INSTEAD OF ONE--FOREIGN COMMISSAR MOLOTOV, OF RUSSIA, FOREIGN MINISTER SOONG OF CHINA, BRITISH FOREIGN SECRETARY EDEN AND SECRETARY OF STATE STETTINIUS. IT WAS AGREED THAT THESE FOUR SHOULD ROTATE THE HONOR OF PRESIDING OVER CONFERENCE SESSIONS.
FOR THE TWO SESSIONS SCHEDULED TODAY, SOONG DREW THE FIRST AND MOLOTOV THE SECOND. EDEN WILL HAVE HIS TURN MONDAY.
2. UNDER ANGLO-AMERICAN INSISTENCE, THE STEERING COMMITTEE REFUSED TO COMPLICATE MANAGEMENT OF CONFERENCE WORK BY HAVING ROTATING CHAIRMANSHIPS FOR THE KEY EXECUTIVE AND STEERING COMMITTEES. MOLOTOV FINALLY AGREED THAT EDEN, SOONG AND HE WOULD "DELEGATE" THEIR AUTHORITY TO STETTINIUS FOR THIS JOB. THAT MADE THE AMERICAN SECRETARY IN FACT THE CHIEF OF THOSE COMMITTEES.

A1OUN
3. THE RUSSIAN PROPOSAL TO INCLUDE THE WHITE RUSSIAN AND UKRAINIAN SOVIETS IN THE PROPOSED WORLD ASSEMBLY OF NATIONS WENT THROUGH WITHOUT A HITCH. STETTINIUS ENDORSED IT, UNDER SPECIFIC INSTRUCTIONS FROM PRESIDENT TRUMAN TO CARRY OUT THE PLEDGE WHICH THE LATE PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT MADE TO PREMIER STALIN AT THE YALTA BIG-THREE MEETING.
4. A PROPOSAL MADE BY MOLOTOV TO SEAT THE PRESENT WARSAW GOVERNMENT AT THIS CONFERENCE WAS TALKED DOWN, OUTMANEUVERED AND FINALLY SMOTHERED UNDER A RESOLUTION, WHICH THE CONFERENCE APPROVED, TELLING THE BIG-THREE TO SETTLE THEIR DIFFERENCES OVER POLAND AND EXPRESSING HOPE IT WOULD BE DONE BEFORE THIS CONFERENCE ENDS.
THIS IS HOW IT WAS HANDLED AS THE DELEGATES OF 46 NATIONS SAT AROUND A U-TABLE IN A CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ROOM:
JAN MASARYK, FOREIGN MINISTER OF CZECHOSLOVAKIA, RAISED THE POLISH ISSUE WITH A STATEMENT OF SYMPATHY FOR THE POLISH PEOPLE AND THE WISH THAT THEY MIGHT BE REPRESENTED HERE.
MOLOTOV THEREUPON PROPOSED THAT THE WARSAW GOVERNMENT BE INVITED TO ATTEND THE CONFERENCE. STETTINIUS OBJECTED. HE SAID THAT BY ASSURING MEMBERSHIP IN THE PROPOSED WORLD ORGANIZATION TO THE UKRAINE AND WHITE RUSSIA, BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES HAD KEPT THE YALTA PLEDGE. THE PLEDGE TO REORGANIZE THE POLISH GOVERNMENT, HE SAID, ALSO SHOULD BE KEPT.

30.24-25273

30.24-25273

EDEN SPOKE HEATEDLY ALONG THE SAME LINE, AND JAN CHRISTIAN SMUTS, PRIME MINISTER OF SOUTH AFRICA, ELOQUENTLY BACKED UP THE ANGLO-AMERICAN POSITION.

MOLOTOV, SENSING THE TREND WAS AGAINST HIM, PLAYED FOR TIME BY MOVING TO REFER THE QUESTION TO THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE. AT THAT POINT FOREIGN MINISTER SPAAK OF BELGIUM AROSE WITH HIS RESOLUTION OF SYMPATHY AND HOPE. IN THE GENERAL ROUND OF ACCLAIM OVER ITS ADOPTION, MOLOTOV'S MOTION WAS FORGOTTEN.

AN HOUR AFTER THE STEERING COMMITTEE BROKE UP, THE CONFERENCE WENT INTO A FULL DRESS SESSION AND STETTINIUS BEGAN CALLING THE ROLL OF DELEGATES TO SPEAK FOR THEIR COUNTRIES.

DEPUTY PRIME MINISTER FRANCIS M.FORDE OF AUSTRALIA DROVE INTO THE HEART OF WHAT PROMISES TO BE THE CENTRAL CONTROVERSY OF THE CONFERENCE FROM HERE ON--SMALL NATIONS VERSUS BIG POWERS.

"THE DUMBARTON OAKS PLAN AS IT STANDS," HE SAID, "BEARS MANY CHARACTERISTICS OF A MERE PROLONGATION INTO THE YEARS OF PEACE OF A TYPE OF GREAT POWER LEADERSHIP THAT HAS BEEN FOUND NECESSARY TO WIN THE WAR.

FOREIGN MINISTER SPAAK OF BELGIUM ARGUED FOR A PLACE FOR SMALL NATIONS MORE VITAL THAN THAT ASSIGNED THEM BY THE DUMBARTON OAKS PLAN.

A SIMILAR VIEW WAS EXPRESSED BY AMBASSADOR VICTOR ANDRADE, SPEAKING FOR BOLIVIA, AND FOREIGN MINISTER VELLOSO OF BRAZIL WARNED THAT "SELFISH ISOLATION" WAS DANGEROUS TO ANY COUNTRY.

WINDING UP THE BUSINESS OF A HECTIC CONFERENCE DAY, PRIME MINISTER MACKENZIE KING OF CANADA ASSERTED THAT "THE PEOPLE OF CANADA ARE FIRM IN THEIR RESOLVE TO DO WHATEVER LIES IN THEIR POWER TO ENSURE THAT THE WORLD WILL NOT BE ENGULFED FOR A THIRD TIME BY A TIDAL WAVE OF SAVAGERY AND DESPOTISM."

OTTAWA, APRIL 28-(AP)-CONSCRIPTION AND THE HISTORIC CLEAVAGE BETWEEN THE ENGLISH SPEAKING AND FRENCH SPEAKING SECTIONS OF CANADA WILL BE THE PRINCIPAL ISSUE BEFORE THE FRENCH VOTERS IN THE JUNE 11 FEDERAL ELECTION, IT WAS MADE CLEAR TODAY IN A SERIES OF RECENT POLITICAL MOVES IN THE FRENCH SPEAKING PROVINCE OF QUEBEC.

THE NET RESULT OF THESE MOVES MAY WELL BE TO THE ADVANTAGE OF PRIME MINISTER W.L.MACKENZIE KING AND HIS LIBERAL PARTY BECAUSE HIS QUEBEC OPPOSITION HAS FORMED INTO TWO MAIN CAMPS. UNLESS THERE IS A FURTHER REALIGNMENT, THE PROSPECT IS FOR A SPLITTING OF THE ANTI-KING VOTE.

THE COLORFUL MAYOR CAMILIEN HOUDE OF MONTREAL, WHO SERVED FOUR YEARS IN AN INTERNMENT CAMP FOR HIS VIEWS AGAINST CONSCRIPTION, DECLARED EARLY IN THE WEEK THAT HE WAS ENTERING FEDERAL POLITICS AND LAST NIGHT ANNOUNCED THAT HIS FOLLOWERS WOULD JOIN FORCES WITH THE ULTRA NATIONALISTIC BLOC, POPULAIRE, IN THE FIGHT AGAINST THE KING REGIME.

ALTHOUGH HOUDE'S STRENGTH IN THE FEDERAL FIELD IS AN UNKNOWN QUANTITY HIS FOLLOWING IS POWERFUL IN MONTREAL, THE DOMINIONS LARGEST CITY WITH A POPULATION OF NEARLY A MILLION. HE WAS ELECTED MAYOR WITHIN THREE MONTHS OF HIS RELEASE FROM INTERNMENT LAST FALL.

THE SECOND LARGE ANTI-KING COUP WAS FORMED DURING THE WEEK UNDER THE VETERAN LEADER P.J.A. CARDIN WHO RESIGNED FROM KINGS CABINET WHERE HE WAS MINISTER OF TRANSPORT IN 1942 OVER THE ISSUE OF CONSCRIPTION.

CARDIN, NAMING HIS NEW PARTY "THE NATIONAL FRONT" ANNOUNCED HIS PROGRAM LAST NIGHT WITH A STRONG APPEAL TO FRENCH CANADIANS TO ASSERT THEIR "RIGHTS."

THE FOLLOWING EXCERPTS FROM THE FRENCH LEADERS ANNOUNCEMENTS INDICATE THE THEMES THEY ARE LAYING BEFORE THE VOTERS OF QUEBEC, COMPRISING ALMOST ONE-THIRD OF CANADA'S POPULATION AND TRADITIONALLY A BULWARK OF STRENGTH FOR THE LIBERAL PARTY.

HOUDE: "THIS FIGHT IS A BATTLE OF IDEAS IF THERE EVER WAS ONE X X X I WANT THE PEOPLE TO SAY WHETHER OR NOT THEY APPROVE MY FOUR YEARS' INTERNMENT FOR HAVING DENOUNCED NATIONAL REGISTRATION AS A CONSCRIPTION MEASURE. X X X THE SURVIVAL OF FRENCH CANADIANS AS AN ETHNIC UNITY NOW MAY BE AT STAKE FOR THE LAST TIME."

A173

CARDIN: "THERE CAN BE NO QUESTION OF ASSIMILATING THE CANADIANS OF FRENCH DESCENT OR THE CITIZENS OF THE PROVINCE OF QUEBEC AND OF REDUCING OUR WAYS OF ACTING AND THINKING TO ONE STANDARD PATTERN. ANGLO-CANADIANS, WE ASK SIMPLY FOR WHAT WE BELIEVE TO BE OURS. I AM NOT PROPOSING THAT YOU SHOULD BE THE SERVANTS OF THE PROVINCE OF QUEBEC, BUT NO MORE DO I WISH MY PROVINCE TO BE THE SERVANT OF OTHERS.

"WE HAVE WITHIN OUR BORDERS DESCENDANTS OF TWO OF THE GREATEST RACES OF THE WORLD. THE ONE CANNOT DEMAND THAT THE OTHER SHOULD DISAPPEAR. THEY MUST BOTH OF THEM ENDEAVOR TO UNITE IN MUTUAL RESPECT

AND IN COMPLETE EQUALITY. X X X

"WE ARE NOT MASTERS OF OUR OWN DESTINY IN OUR OWN HOUSE."

MAXIME RAYMOND, ASCETIC AND ELDERLY BLOC POPULAIRE LEADER, SAID IN A STATEMENT ON HIS JOINING FORCES WITH HOUDE:

"MAYOR HOUDE SPENT FOUR YEARS IN AN INTERNMENT CAMP. HE PERSONALLY SUFFERED FROM THE REGIME INAUGURATED SIX YEARS AGO BY THE LIBERALS AT OTTAWA AND MAINTAINED SINCE. THIS ELECTION IS A NEW PLEBISCITE (ON CONSCRIPTION)."

HOUDE WAS INTERNED IN 1940 FOR PUBLICLY ADVISING, WHILE SERVING AS MAYOR OF MONTREAL, THAT CANADIANS REFUSE TO REGISTER FOR THE DRAFT.

BOTH ANTI-KING GROUPS WILL ATTEMPT TO CAPITALIZE ON THE KING GOVERNMENT'S RESORT TO PARTIAL CONSCRIPTION LAST FALL.

APR 30 1945

DISFIGURED BODY JEERED BY CROWDS IN MILAN SQUARE

17 Other Fascists Reported Shot by Italian Firing Squad.

ENDS 21-YEAR REIGN

Sweetheart, Il Duce Captured While Trying to Escape to Switzerland.

ROME, April 29.—(AP) Benito Mussolini was executed yesterday in northern Italy and his body with that of 17 other executed Fascist leaders was on exhibition tonight before a huge crowd in a Milan square, Allied headquarters announced, quoting two British correspondents who saw the bodies.

A headquarters announcement said that the two British war correspondents who returned from Milan said they personally saw the bodies of Mussolini and his henchmen lying in Piazza Loreto in Milan, where the populace passed by continuously "to view the corpses and revile them."

The story of the two correspondents and the Allied announcement was the first confirmation here of the story broadcast by the Milan radio all day concerning the execution of the 61-year-old fallen dictator who ruled Italy for 21 years.

Reports differed as to the exact time and place of the execution of Mussolini and the others. It was not clear whether all 18 had been killed at the same time and place, or whether Mussolini and his sweetheart were killed separately.

Was Seized in Como

The two correspondents, Christopher Lumby of the London Times and Stephen Barber of the London News-Chronicle, said Mussolini and his associates were seized in Como while trying to escape into Switzerland.

They said the executions took place at 4:20 p. m. yesterday in the town of Guliano Di Mezzegere near Como and that the bodies were taken to Milan last night for public display in the square where 15 Italian patriots were executed by Fascists a year ago.

The Milan radio said Mussolini, his young sweetheart Claretta Petacci, and 16 other Fascists were executed.

An eyewitness who reached Como today told the Associated Press that Mussolini and the others were shot in the back by a firing squad of patriots. He did not mention Miss Petacci as among those executed.

American columns pushing into Milan today came to a "gruesome, horrible sight," the eye-witness said.

"Suspended with heads downward were seven bodies. In the center was the body of Mussolini, disfigured by blows from the crowd which has padded through the square since early morning."

Mussolini's reported execution followed by a year and four months that of his son-in-law, Count Galeazzo Ciano, who was shot by a firing squad at Verona after being convicted of treason to Mussolini's Fascist government.

Spurned Daughter's Appeal

Mussolini was reported to have spurned an appeal by his daughter, Edda, to spare her husband's life. The former dictator also was said to have had movies made of Ciano's execution and to have seen the film many times with great satisfaction. Edda and her children were reported to have found refuge in Switzerland.

The former dictator frequently has been reported in ill health in the past year and was quoted less than two weeks ago as lamenting that "I am only an empty bottle." An attempt on his life was reported in March, and Allied bombers struck at his villa on Lake Garda last January. He made a three-day inspection of the Italian battle front at the end of January.

The Rome newspaper Il Momento reported in a special edition that the Milan radio also had announced the execution of Lt. Gen. Achille Staraci, a former vice secretary of the Fascist party, in Milan today.

The newspaper said the bodies of Mussolini, Miss Petacci and several others were strung up on a large sign before a department store and that a woman had fired revolver shots at Mussolini's body, shouting "those are for my five sons you killed."

Today's announcement said the other 16 Fascists, including Gen. Allessandro Pavoli[illegible] secretary of Mussolini's puppet Fascist regime, were shot in the back at 5:25 p.m. yesterday at Dongo, also in Como province.

One Milan broadcast listed Carlo Scorza, former secretary-general of the Fascist party, as among those executed, but his name was omitted from later broadcasts and his fate was uncertain.

The Milan station reported yesterday that Roberto Farinacci, Mussolini's delegate to the German command, had been tried and executed by the patriot council. His name was not among those listed today.

The Rome radio broadcast the Milan announcement throughout the day, but there was no immediate confirmation of the executions from Allied headquarters. The Milan station also reported without official confirmation that American troops had entered that city, largest in Italy.

Crowd Gathers at Square

"A very great crowd is in the Piazza Quindici Martiri (fifteen martyrs square) where there are the bodies of the 18 Fascists, including Mussolini, executed by Italian justice," said the Milan broadcast.

The square, formerly the Piazza Loreto, has been renamed in honor of 15 Italian patriots who were executed there by the Fascists, the announcement explained.

On Friday the Swiss radio reported that Mussolini had been denied permission to cross the Swiss frontier, and the same day the Milan station said the former dictator, "yellow with fury and fear," had been captured.

Mussolini has headed a puppet Fascist regime for the Germans since his "rescue" by Nazi parachute troops from his Italian guards in Sept. 1943. He had been forced to resign as premier by the Fascist grand council and King Vittorio Emanuele the previous July, two months before American troops stormed ashore at Salerno.

Those listed by the Milan station as shot in the back yesterday included Marcello Petacci, Miss Petacci's brother, who was identified as a "spy," and Capt. Pietro Salustri, Mussolini's personal pilot. All the others were functionaries of the Fascist puppet government.

Miss Petacci, who shared the rapidly aging Mussolini's "exile" in northern Italy, was a young Roman girl whom the then dictator was said to have met on the bathing beach at Ostia in the months before his downfall.

A booklet circulated in Rome after he was deposed said Mussolini gave her a villa outside Rome and showered her with gifts. Her pet name for Mussolini was said to have been "Bibi."

Mussolini's wife and the mother of his five children was of lowly origin and seldom appeared in public life.

Others Reported Killed

Other puppet officials listed by Milan as shot yesterday were:

Francesco Barracu, vice president of the states council of ministers.

Paolo Zerbino, minister of the interior.

Fernando Mezzasome, minister of popular culture.

Ruggero Romano, minister of public works.

Augusto Liverani, minister of communications.

Paolo Porta, Fascist party inspector for Lombardo.

Luigi Gatti, a prefect.

Goffredo Coppa, president of the institute of Fascist culture.

Ernesto Dacquanno, director of the Stefani news agency.

Mario Nudi, president of the Fascist Agricultural association.

Col. Vito Casalnuova of the Fascist Republican National guard.

Hinternayer, a propagandist.

Nicola Bombacci, described as a one-time Communist leader who turned Fascist.

(The Milan station said tonight that Gen. Attilio Teruzzi, former Fascist minister for Africa, and two other members of Mussolini's puppet regime had been captured with their "enormous booty" of money and valuables. The broadcast was heard by the OWI).

(The OWI recorded a German-language broadcast by the British radio reporting that Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, commander in chief of the Fascist Italian army who was captured recently by Italian patriots, has been turned over to the Allies for trial as a war criminal.

(The American Broadcasting station in Europe, in a broadcast recorded by CBS, quoted Ivanoe Bonomi, premier of Italy, as declaring of Mussolini, "it is the unhappy end of an adventurer who gambled with his own life and the destiny of the country").

IL DUCE RULED FOR 21 YEARS

"March On Rome" Was Beginning Of His Rise

[By the Associated Press]

The Italian peasant, who was Benito Mussolini, flashed to world fame, fathered a political system over which nations fought around the globe and burned out his transitory glory in the greatest war of history—all within a scant 21 years.

"Better to live a day as a lion than 100 years a sheep."

That was his motto, which he ordered inscribed on Italy's 20-lire coin. And for nearly twenty years the founder of Fascism emulated the king of beasts until he fell ignominiously shorn of prestige and power by the tempest that a more voracious dictator set upon the world.

Adolf Hitler's lust for power in a Nazi Germany patterned after Mussolini's Fascist Italy, but infinitely mightier, started the tide of war that swamped Mussolini. American and British air bombs and arms sank him.

Under the Allied onslaught, he was deposed from his dictatorship by a palace revolution.

Germans Rescue Him

A captive on a mountain top, he was rescued from his Italian jailers by the Germans in perhaps the most dramatic chapter of his spectacular career. But the many vicissitudes of Mussolini appeared to have passed their climax.

With Hitler's armies holding more than two thirds of Italy against American and British attacks, the Nazi Führer reinstated the one-time Duce to a purely nominal authority over a so-called republican regime as puppet premier and foreign minister of a shadow government.

It was a picayune role for the man who, between 1922 and 1943, had imposed his will on a nation of more than 40,000,000 people, often addressing them in theatrical balcony appearances.

All those years the ancient royal House of Savoy was a figurehead; the son of a blacksmith

Dies a Traitor's Death After 21 Years as Italian Dictator —Former School Teacher Helped Plunge World Into Bloodiest War.

By G. MILTON KELLY
Of The Associated Press Foreign Staff

Benito Mussolini, whose disfigured body last night was reported lying in a Milan square on display before jeering, spitting crowds, was just a skinny, wrinkled caricature of the one-time chest thumping dictator of Italy who in 21 flamboyant years helped to plunge the world into its bloodiest and most destructive war.

This 61-year-old former peasant and one-time country schoolmaster, who knew what it was to beg in the streets for his daily bread, reached heights of glory, but died a traitor's death—an international buffoon despised and hated. He had brought ruin to the Italy he had dreamed of building to a chief world power.

Born Of Poverty

Mussolini was born July 29, 1883, in the province of Forli (Romagna), the son of a poor blacksmith. Poverty was his lot through boyhood. Expelled from one school because he was rebellious, he attended a nomal school, was graduated and became a rural school teacher, but his radical political theories clashed with his profession and he abandoned it.

He went to Switzerland where he did odd jobs, lived in the parks, and frequently had to beg for food but there he attended night school. Bern and Geneva expelled him, and he returned to Italy, where he was jailed seven times as a dangerous socialist.

Once the government concentrated the entire Italian army about Milan to quell a revolutionary movement led by Mussolini.

Mussolini saw much service in the first World War, and bragged of 98 wounds he suffered from a bursting hand grenade. Typically, he refused an anesthetic while the surgeons worked on him.

He divorced himself from the Socialists after the war, and Fascism was born—his fascism, in which he adjured his countrymen that "it is beter to live a day as a lion than 100 years as a sheep.'

Followers locked to his standard, impressed by his colorful strongman posing, his roaring nationalist speech-making, and his editorial effervescences.

Fascism and Socialism became powerful opposing forces. There were street fighting, rioting, ambushes of leaders of both sides. A sort of political creeping paralysis gripped all Italy.

Skyrocketed to Power

This Mussolini broke up with his march on Rome, completed Oct. 28, 1922, the fateful day he skyrocketed to power.

He let the surgeons work while he watched without an anesthetic.

The first date in the history of fascism is March 23, 1919, when Mussolini called together at Milan a number of former soldiers and organized them as the "Fasci Italiani di Combattimento." Their purpose was to "valorize the victory," which meant asserting Italy's international claims, stimulating patriotism and conserving the discipline and organization of the army.

His "March On Rome"

Fascism grew strong but Socialism was strong, too. Extreme Socialist organizations became so threatening that maintenance of public order was a grave problem. Disorders broke out and continued as one government was succeeded by another. Fascists on one hand and Socialists and the Laborists on the other were pitted against each other in a struggle that had all the aspects of civil war. The normal life of the nation was at a standstill. Street fights, ambushes and riots were frequent occurrences. One weak ministry followed another. A general strike paralyzed the country.

Then on October 24, 1922, Mussolini stood among his followers at Naples and delivered an ultimatum —"give us power peacefully or we shall take it by force." That was the prelude to the theatrical "March on Rome."

Planned in four days, the movement was carried out with perfect military precision. Fascist forces throughout the nation, having the sympathy of a vast majority of the people who had been alienated by the Socialist excesses, moved toward Rome. Mussolini's Blackshirts completed their march on the capital October 28. Three days later he received a telephone message from King Vittorio Emanuele summoning him to form a government, Mussolini, at last, was in the saddle.

Molds Nation To Will

Within a month he assumed dictatorial powers. He became "il Duce" (the leader). Under his regime the state was supreme and he was the state.

For a number of years the Mussolini policy resulted only in a lot of noise and blustering. But finally his path of aggrandizement swerved from bluff to blood. In 1935 and 1936 Mussolini, anxious to link the colony of Eritrea on the Red Sea coast of Africa within Italian Somaliland to the south, rode roughshod over the pitifully equipped and ill-trained army of the Ethiopian Emperor, Haile Selassie.

Neither Mussolini nor other Italians had made any secret of their dislike of the Germans until il Duce finally cast in his lot with Hitler. However, ever since the previous war Italy had complained that Britain and France failed to fulfill their promises in the secret treaty of London in 1915 which brought Italy to the Allied side.

Road To Disaster

Italy took the road to disaster when, in September, 1937, Mussolini journeyed to Berlin, where Hitler received him with much pomp and showed him great military spectacles. The following May Hitler returned the visit and il Duce outdid the honors accorded him in Berlin.

Shortly after the Ethiopian war ended, civil warfare began in Spain and that country became an important theater of Mussolini's military operations as he sent his legions to aid Francisco Franco and the Nationalists.

In September, 1938, the crisis over German claims on the Sudeten section of Czechoslovakia came to a head and Europe trembled in fear of war. Mussolini made it his crisis as much as Hitler's. He took a leading part as Hitler's ally in the Munich conference in which Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Britain and Premier Deladier of France gave in to German threats and agreed to the cession of the Sudeten land to the Reich.

Albania Invaded

Suddenly, in the early morning of April 7, 1939, 30,000 Italian troops which had been massed at Bari and Brindisi crossed the Adriatic and landed at four Albanian coastal points, protected by the Italian navy and aviation. Albania was occupied within a few days, King Zog chased off his throne and it was joined to Italy through Albanian acceptance of Italy's king as its sovereign.

The following months the Axis was converted into a full Italo-German military and political alliance, with each country pledged to assist the other if it became involved in war for any reason whatever. But when Germany and Britain came to grips, Italy remained on the sidelines for months under a policy of nonbelligerency. The time for joining the conflict was not propitious.

In October, 1940, on the pretext that Greek bandits had committed outrages in Italian Albania, Mussolini delivered an ultimatum to Greece and war followed. Again the rosy hue of victory became lost in the mists. The Greeks proved a much tougher foe than Italy had expected.

Finally Germany had to come to the rescue of Mussolini's battered army.

Roosevelt Sounds Warning

After Mussolini's forced resignation, President Roosevelt said that he and "his Fasicst gang" would be "brought to book and punished for their crimes against humanity." He added that "no criminal will be allowed to escape by the expedient of 'resignation.' "

His career as dictator was not without its dangers. At least six attempts were made to kill him. Once a bomb exploded near his car. Another time a bullet cut his sash. The end of his nose was nipped on another occasion. Many plots against him were uncovered.

Michele Schirru, a naturalized American citizen, confessed on February 3, 1931, he had been chosen by lot to kill il Duce with a bomb. While being questioned, he shot three detectives and wounded himself. He was given a one-day trial and executed on May 28.

Mussolini's power seemed shaken in 1924 by the uproar over the murder of his opponent, the Socialist deputy Giacomo Matteotti—the only man in Italy who had dared to defy the premier—but he weathered the storm.

Reconciles Church And State

Mussolini's great moral triumph of statesmanship was the reconciliation of church and state. The popes had been "prisoners of the Vatican" for 59 years when Pius XI issued from the central door of St. Peter's on July 25, 1929, as a symbol of his restored freedom. The great bronze door of the Vatican, closed in 1870 when Italian troops seized Rome from the popes to be capital of the new kingdom, swung open.

As premier in the Palazzo Venezia, Mussolini sat alone in the far corner of the vast Sala del Mappamondo (Room of the World Map), 70 feet long, 45 feet wide and almost that high. Visitors walked a full 75 feet diagonally to meet the dictator, who usually continued work until they stood before him.

Italy heard far less of Signora Mussolini than did the rest of the world. Mussolini believed woman's place was in the home and he kept his wife there. She was of lowly origin, never socially trained, but made of herself a presentable personality. Donna or "Lady" Rachele, as she was known, bore her husband five children—three boys and two girls—Edda, Vittorio, Bruno, Romano and Anna Maria.

was Italy in the eyes of the world.

As creator of the Fascist state he ruled with a grip of iron after the depressing, turbulent days of the first World War.

The Axis Is Born

Then came a fateful day when Fascism having become a catchword for brutal tyranny and ruthless aggression, its founder cast his lot with his erstwhile emulator, Hitler.

The Rome-Berlin political Axis was born. Japan eventually was taken into partnership.

But a still more fateful day was to come. It was when Mussolini, after months of hesitation, plunged Italy into the abyss of the second World War by jumping on bleeding, prostrate France.

There was cumulative evidence that the Italian people did not want war; that the Italians had no real love for their Allies, the Germans, who assumed more and more control within Italy.

As the war dragged on, grandiose dreams of a new Roman empire gradually melted in the mist. Newly won territory was lost. The Italian armies did not measure up to the proud boasts of their dictator.

Americans Turn Tide

Tremendous, damaging air-raids on Italian cities by the British Royal Air Force and later by the Americans, in 1942, contributed to lowering the morale of the Italian people, grumbling from many privations.

The real turning of the tide came when the American Army, under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, made its surprise invasion of North Africa in the autumn of 1942, just as the Germans and Italians were fleeing from the British over the sands of African deserts.

Panic gripped the Italian people. The East African empire, even Libya, were lost. Sicily was invaded. Rome was bombed on July 19, 1943, while Mussolini was conferring with Hitler at Verona in one of their frequent wartime meetings. Inexorably, the war was coming to the heart of Italy.

Confronted with a crisis in the defense of Italy and his regime, Mussolini called a meeting of the Fascist Grand Council the night of Saturday, July 24. What happened there and afterward in Rome remains rather vague.

His Stalwarts Revolt

From roundabout reports, however, it seems that Mussolini informed his top-flight lieutenants of a German plan for Italy's defense by Hitler's armies. After he had finished, long-time associates in Fascism raised their voices, for the first time, in open opposition to him.

They criticized his conduct of the war and the German plan. They demanded that he surrender his command of Italy's armed forces to King Vittorio Emanuele III. The King, it later developed, desired to make a separate peace with the Americans and the British, who were insisting that Fascism must go.

At the end of a stormy session, lasting until 2 o'clock Sunday morning, a former foreign minister, Count Dino Grandi, offered a resolution that Mussolini ask the King to accept "effective command" of the forces. Nineteen members, including Mussolini's son-in-law, Count Galeazzo Ciano, voted for the resolution. Only six or seven supported the Duce in opposing it.

Sunday Mussolini went to the royal villa at the outskirts of Rome. He tried to argue with the King, he said later, but found it useless. He said the little 73-year-old King, pacing nervously, would only repeat, "the war is lost, all is over."

Forced To Resign

Outside the villa Mussolini's car had been seized. Leaving the King, who held his unwilling resignation as Prime Minister and head of the Government, Mussolini found an ambulance waiting. Within it were four carabinieri. Standing in the driveway was an officer.

Mussolini called for his car. "I think you will be safer in this car," said the officer, indicating the ambulance. Mussolini objected that this was nonsense, the officer insisted and the deposed Duce finally shrugged his shoulders, entered the ambulance and was spirited away.

That night word of Mussolini's resignation was broadcast to the world. In Rome and other Italian cities, laughing, cheering crowds danced wildly in the streets in celebration of their sudden "freedom."

Marshal Pietro Badoglio, appointed by the King to head the Government, began secret negotiations with the Allies for an armistice within a few days, while trying to mislead the Germans by proclaiming his intention to defend Italy. The armistice was signed September 8, as Allied troops stormed the beaches of southern Italy.

Paracnutists Free Ex-Duce

Mussolini, in the meantime, had been taken to Ponza, then to Maddalena Island, off Sardinia, and finally to an isolated tourist hotel on a lonely Apennine peak in the Gran Sasso range of the Abruzzi.

When the armistice was announced, the new Government was concerned with its own safety from the Germans and Mussolini, he later said, decided on the night of September 11 that he "would not fall into the hands of the enemy alive." The next day his confidence that Hitler would "like a brother," do something for him was rewarded. Armed German parachute troops dropped on the mountain effected his release.

Blaming the King for the "coup d'état" that brought his downfall, Mussolini called for Italian resistance to the Allied invaders in the fight which now was wholly in the hands of the Germans. Somewhere in northern Italy he set up his neo-Fascist, Republican Government after which he was said to have gone to the Lake Garda villa of the late soldier-poet, Gabriele D'Annunzio, to live.

Born July 29, 1883, in Dovia, commune of Predappio, in the province of Forli (Romagna), Mussolini had a hard boyhood and youth. He suffered the humiliation of poverty in school, sitting in a rear seat and eating "third-class bread" after the more fortunate boys had finished.

Expelled From School

He entered the College of the Salesian Fathers at the age of 9, but was rebellious and was expelled. He attended a normal school, but was dismissed for radical political ideas.

He did receive a diploma permitting him to teach but after a short period in that profession—where his political theories clashed with the restrictions on the life of a village schoolmaster—he went to Switzerland. There he did odd jobs, slept in parks and sometimes had to ask passersby for bread. But he found time to attend night school.

The canton of Bern expelled him. He went to Geneva, where he again was expelled for altering the date of his passport. Not until his duties as Premier of Italy called him to the Lausanne Conference in 1922 did the Swiss Government lift the ban on his entrance.

Son of a poor Socialist blacksmith, Mussolini imbibed socialism in the family circle and for years fought Italian conservative governments. Seven times he was in jail, emerging more revolutionary than ever each time. The Italian Government recognized him as the most dangerous and most potentially powerful of the Socialists. For his Socialist activities he was arrested several times, charged with inciting riot. On one occasion it was necessary to concentrate the whole Italian Army about Milan to prevent a wholesale revolutionary movement under his leadership.

Wounded In First War

At the outbreak of World War I, when the Socialist party adopted a policy of strict neutrality, Mussolini insisted on maintaining sympathy with France and England. On deciding to espouse the cause of intervention, he was expelled from the party. It was then that he founded his own newspaper, Il Popolo d'Italia.

Soon after Italy declared war on Austria, Mussolini was called to the colors and saw considerable action. In February, 1917, while his regiment was resting behind the lines, a hand grenade exploded near him, inflicting 98 body wounds.

rocketed to power. King Vittorio Emanuele summoned him to form a new government, and the self-styled "Il Duce" rode high until, on July 25, 1943, his former lieutenants forced him to resign as premier and immured him on a lonely Apennine mountain top from which German paratroopers rescued him the following Sept. 12.

In this span of years the stocky dictator became a dramatic world figure, a sword rattler, whose word swayed the fate of millions in many lands.

He defied the League of Nations to stop him when, for the deaths of five Italians in Corfu, Greece, he demanded indemnity of 50,000,000 lire and backed the demand by bombarding and occupying Corfu.

Mussolini shouted and blustered and strutted and bluffed, and mostly his people loved it. His Blackshirts took care of those who didn't, through an almost perfect system of espionage.

He defied the world, and conquered Ethiopia, proclaimed the new Roman empire of which he had spoken for so many years, tendered the Ethiopian crown to Italy's king, and spoke with scorn of Great Britain and 51 other nations which opposed the Ethiopian conquest with economic sanctions. He withdrew Italy from the League of Nations.

About this time his friendship with Hitler grew, and Il Duce led his nation down the road to disaster in 1937 and 1938 by cementing the friendship.

He backed Hitler's claims to the Sudetan section of Czechoslovakia. Hitler then gobbled up all of Bohemia and Moravia and established a protectorate over Slovakia.

To save face at home, Mussolini took over Albania for Italy in a surprise armed movement, and Il Duce and Der Fuehrer considered themselves a great team. They were the Axis, linked in May, 1939, in military and political treaty.

Mussolini took to the sidelines when Hitler and Great Britain came to grips, then stunned the world on June 10, 1940, with his "stab in the back" declaration of war on France. With the delusion of a world ruled by Italy and Germany, he went with Hitler. Britain was staggering back from Dunkerque, and France was a doomed country, and in his eyes a wide road to conquest was open.

He extended the war to Greece, and the Germans had to rescue him. He really began to close face with the Libyan reverses, and it must have been clear to him then that he had guessed wrong. Tunis, Bizerte, his fleet dwindling under the growing might of Britain's and America's forces, Sicily, and a rain of Allied bombs on Italian soil and finally on Rome itself made clear his doom. But Mussolini resisted it, although Italy itself had become a battlefield over which the invading Allies pushed his forces back.

Seeks Aid From Hitler

He rushed to Hitler in Berlin for help, but it was too late for help—his lieutenants had recognized their country was in ruins due to his reckless conduct, and they forced him to resign, then they surrendered to the Allies.

The patriots and the Allies thought they had him safely penned on the Apennine mountain refuge to which he fled, and that they well could wait until victory to bring him to trial for his crimes in the war.

But they were too sure. Spectacularly, a force of German paratroopers poured from the skies, and Mussolini's guards found themselves overwhelmed.

Mussolini who even then was described by those who saw him as a skeleton of his one-time muscular self, bragged in a radio broadcast that it was "over in five minutes."

He was spirited to northern Italy and there set up a puppet "neo-Fascist" government, dominated by Hitler who by this time took few pains to conceal his contempt for his companion in war crimes.

At the last, when Mussolini fled for his life before an uprising of patriots against his new government, he was reported to have lamented that "even Hitler" had bereft him and that he had no friends."

These are the last reported words of this one-time man of lust and many loves. The reports of his death said his most recent mistress, Claretta Petacci, was executed with him.

Italy knew little of his wife, Donna, because he believed a woman's place was in the home. She bore him three sons and two daughters, Edda, Vittorio, Bruno, Romano and Anna Maria. Bruno, an aviation captain, was killed in a bomber wreck in 1941.

NAZI COLLAPSE APPEARS NEAR IN NORTH ITALY

Bag Of Prisoners Taken By Allies Passes 100,000

Rome, April 29 (AP)—Allied troops took Venice, Milan and Genoa today as German resistance in northern Italy disintegrated.

British 8th Army troops captured romantic Venice, the city of canals, and sent New Zealanders streaking on 17 miles northeastward to the Piave River, the mouth of which is only 70 miles from the Yugoslav border.

The dash to the Piava put the 8th Army in position to round the head of the Adriatic along a 74-mile highway to Trieste. Marshal Tito's Yugoslav troops recently were reported to have entered Fiume and at latest accounts were driving the last 43 miles north toward Trieste.

Yanks Dash To Genoa

The United States 5th Army entered Milan, where the bodies of Benito Mussolini and seventeen Fascist comrades were reported lying after being executed by a Partisan firing squad.

Other American forces dashed to the important port of Genoa, which had been liberated two days before by Italian Patriots.

The bag of prisoners taken by the Allies swelled beyond the 100,000 mark, and resistance was feeble or nonexistent all along the fluid front.

The German 148th Infantry Division, including 6,000 officers and men, 1,000 vehicles and 4,000 horses, surrendered to Brazilian troops. It was announced negotiations were in progress for the surrender of the Fascist Ligurian army of Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, whose capture was revealed yesterday by Allied headquarters.

British Capture Mestre

British 8th Army troops captured Mestre, 5 miles from Venice.

United States 10th Mountain Division men were reported operating north of Lake Garda deep in the Alps. Both 5th and 8th Army troops were across the Brenta River in northeastern Italy in force after sweeping through the enemy's Adige River defenses.

The entrance of the 5th Army units into Milan, Italy's largest city with a population of 1,115,000, followed announcements by the Partisans that they had taken over the great industrial and commercial center from the Germans.

Nazis Lose All Hope

It was not immediately known to what stage the negotiations for the surrender of Graziani's Fascist army had reached, but presumably he was negotiating directly with Allied military leaders. He was captured by the Partisans and turned over to Allied military authorities.

The impending surrender of the Fascist troops together with the capitulation of the German infantry division clearly indicated the enemy leaders have abandoned all hope of halting the Allied surge in northern Italy.

The Germans' last two escape routes into Austria were sealed off yesterday with the fall of Brescia and Bergamo at the foot of the Alps.

"The breakup of the German army has begun," a captured Nazi diary said.

Genoa Occupation Complete

Sweeping forward against disorganized resistance, the British 8th Army captured Padova, 25 miles west of Venice, while the American 5th Army seized Vicenza, 20 miles northwest of Padova.

Fifth Army troops completed the occupation of Genoa and cleared the peninsula of Porta Elmo.

An advanced British naval party already had reached Genoa, whose inner harbor and sea approaches were heavily mined. Mine sweepers already were at work.

Many of the harbor's jetties were undamaged and some cranes were still standing. A Partisan leader said the port would be usable again within a week.

White Flags Waved

An indication of the confusion of the German retreat was given in a captured order of the 278th German Infantry Division.

The order said horse-drawn vehicles which could not be taken across the Po River were to be burned and the horses were to swim.

"No panic!" the order said. "We will defend ourselves with bazookas and rifles."

A prisoner's diary said:

"It is a terrific muddle. No more proper organization exists. Paratroops keep clearing out. It is senseless to keep on fighting. The breakup of the German Army has begun."

Pilots of the desert air force searching for enemy transport in the Padua area before the liberation of the city reported they saw white flags being waved in village streets.

Weather Hampers Planes

Bad weather hampered aerial operations today but 700 vehicles were reported destroyed or damaged as planes of the tactical air force raked columns of fleeing Germans.

The 8th Army's crossing of the Adige was a difficult engineering operation. Two days of rain had turned the river into a torrent at some places.

After the crossing, however, the 8th made fast progress, pushing the Germans over the Brenta, which flows southeastward from the Dolomites near Trento into the Adriatic Sea at Chioggi.

It was the veteran 1st Armored Division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Vernon Prichard, of St. Louis, which knifed to Como, about 120 miles southwest of the Brenner Pass.

AMERICANS MEET WEAK RESISTANCE IN SHRINE CITY

By ROBERT EUNSON

Paris, Monday, April 30 (AP).—Tanks and infantry of the U. S. 7th Army took over Munich last night, meeting practically no opposition as they rolled into the birthplace of Nazism.

The entire city of 825,000 was not completely occupied by the American troops, but front-line dispatches said that lack of opposition indicated it was as good as captured. Associated Press correspondent A. I. Goldberg said that Lieut. Col. Donal Downard, Olympia, Wash., led the 2d Battalion of the 222d Regiment into Germany's third largest city.

U. S. 3d Army tanks dashing northeast of Munich liberated 27,000 Allied prisoners of war, mostly American airmen, at Moosburg. It was one of the largest if not the largest group yet liberated on the western front.

As Europe's final battles raged unabated, Gen. Eisenhower said he knew nothing of German surrender offers, but it was announced last night that more than 125,000 German soldiers have surrendered in the last 48 hours to troops under Eisenhower's command.

The British 2d Army crossed the Elbe and captured Lauenberg, 20 miles east of Hamburg. The U. S. 9th Army lashed out from its own bridgehead in another blow at what remains of Nazi Germany in the north and captured Zerbst, 47 miles southwest of Berlin and were 11 miles away from Russian forces south of the Nazi capital.

The Canadian 1st Army in a surprise crossing of the Ems river drove north to within seven miles of the German North Sea port of Emden and captured most of Leer.

Officers inside Munich flashed back word to headquarters that they found no evidence that the Germans intended to defend the city—touted as the northern bastion of the Nazi redoubt.

Beer Hall Captured.

The 42d Infantry Division raced into the city first from the north, using a broad military highway. Then the 12th Armored Division hit Munich from the southwest, and the new 20th Armored Division—disclosed for the first time to be in action—roared in from the west.

These outfits had traveled at least 20 miles to reach this city where in 1938 the statesmen of France and Britain met Hitler and made a pact for "peace in our time."

American troops today stood in the very beer hall where, in 1923, Hitler plotted and launched his short-lived revolt against the German Republic.

The astounding lack of opposition prompted belief that Bavarians who, 3d Army vanguards said Saturday, had been heard calling for a revolt in Munich might have cleared out German SS troops who had vowed to stand and die there.

(The United Press said an unconfirmed Swiss broadcast reported that Paul Geisler, "one-man government of Bavaria," was stabbed by his valet as the Yanks entered Munich. He was said to be dying in a hospital.)

The 45th Infantry Division was closing around Dachau, site of a notorious concentration camp, a few miles northwest of Munich.

Gen. Alexander M. Patch's 7th Army, which had taken 36,000 prisoners in the 24 hours ended Saturday midnight, sent forces southwest of Munich to push deep into the Bavarian Alps, where they were 27 miles northwest of Innsbruck at the northern entrance of the Brenner Pass leading up from Italy. In this surge the 10th Armored Division captured Oberammergau, scene of the famous Passion Play.

Farther west, infantry against heavy opposition fought on nearly three miles beyond the Austrian border.

(An unconfirmed Brussels radio broadcast said that American troops had linked up with Soviet forces in Austria, the United Press reported. The place of the junction was not given.)

Four Yank divisions moved within a 75-mile radius of Berchtesgaden as fighter-bombers, ranging ahead, destroyed more than 900 vehicles out of long columns of German troops and equipment caught streaming south of Pilsen toward the Alpine retreat.

The U. S. 3d Army threw its main weight northeast of Munich now that the 7th Army appeared to have the situation well in hand, and gained up to 29 miles along its 80-mile front thrust into Bavaria, Austria and Czechoslovakia.

In Czechoslovakia, the 97th Division of the 3d Army captured a stoutly defended airfield a mile northeast of Eger, taking 350 prisoners.

The British 2d Army, kicking off across the Elbe at 2 A. M. after a smothering barrage of 76,000 shells, put a squeeze on the Germans in concert with the Russians driving north of Berlin.

Troops were packed into amphibious tanks and assault boats and, swarming up the north bank began pressing through the forest and woodland toward Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's 1st White Russian Army.

Eisenhower gave the U. S. 9th Army of Lieut. Gen. W... Simpson the go-ahead signal after two weeks of idleness on the east bank of the Elbe.

After capturing Zerbst, the Americans drove on more than three miles south, capturing Bius and Jutrichau.

RED ARMY TROOPS CLOSING ON HEART OF CAPITAL CITY

Wave of Suicides, Desertions Sweeps Nazi Ranks As Reds Advance

ENEMY ADMITS DEFEAT

Soviet Troops Invade Mecklenburg in Drive into Northern Germany.

LONDON, Monday, April 30—(AP) Russian assault troops clambered over almost the last barricades in suicide-swept Berlin yesterday while to the north two Soviet armies linked for a cleanup sweep across northern Germany, slashing out twin 20-mile advances toward Rostock and Swinemuende.

The battle-grimed veterans of Stalingrad converged on Berlin's devastated heart in a relentless battle that was nearing its end. In the scorching heat set by hundreds of fires, they smashed within a half-mile of Hitler's Reichs-chancellery and were massed across the northern frontage of the famous, now-fortified Wilhelmstrasse.

Many Nazis Surrender

Waves of suicides and dezertions swept Nazi ranks as the Red army pressed the battered Nazi garrison back into an 18-square-mile pocket in the city's center.

Another 11,000 German troops quit the struggle in the nearly-conquered capital, for a three-day total of 48,500 killed or captured, and the Nazi Hamburg radio grimly admitted that "the situation in Berlin has again deteriorated — and tonight the city is not much more than a heap of rubble."

Southeast of the ruined capital, troops of two Soviet armies wiped out a huge group of enemy troops encircled in the area of Wender Buchholz, taking more than 40,000 prisoners. In three days a total of 54,000 enemy troops who might have relieved the German garrison were herded into Red army prisoner cages.

Meanwhile, Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army—bearing the brunt of the fighting for Berlin—linked up near Wesendorf, 22 miles north of Berlin, with Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian army sweeping west of the lower Oder river.

Rokossovsky's tanks and cavalry, smashing into the Nazis' northern redoubt, invaded the north German province of Mecklenburg and, overcoming difficult lake terrain, captured the Mecklenburg cities of Anklam, Friedland, Neubrandenburg and Lychen.

The Second White Russians were smashing across the Mecklenburg plains on an 80-mile front, they virtually sealed off the big port of Swinemuende, and raced within 56 miles of Rostock, seizing 2,000 Nazi prisoners.

Escape Route Sealed Off

Capture of Anklam, 45 miles northeast of Stettin, sealed off one escape route from island-bound Swinemuende, 22 miles to the west, and the Russians were only 13 miles south of Wolgast, whose fall would completely isolate the port of Usedom island.

The 20-mile advance to the great 13-way communications center of Anklam also imperiled the Nazi Baltic ports of Greifswald and Stralsund, 19 and 38 miles, respectively, to the northwest. The Russians at Anklam were 19 miles south of the famous Nazi V-bomb experimental station at Peenemunde, also on Usedom island.

In a second 20-mile sweep, Rokossovsky's troops captured Neubrandenburg, cut the Stralsund-Berlin railroad and highway and smashed their closest to Rostock.

Twenty-three miles south of Neubrandenburg the capture of Lychen put Rokossovsky little more than 85 miles from Field Marshal Bernard Montgomery's British Second Army and within 14 miles southeast of the big rail hub of Neustrehlitz. Converging on Neustrehlitz, the Russians also won Gramelow, 12 miles northeast.

With Montgomery's Army reportedly opening a new offensive across the Elbe river southeast of Hamburg, the Russians and their western Allies evidently were battling for a quick cleanup of the northern half of the bisected Third Reich, and Rokossovsky's and Zhukov's combined armies were advancing on a continuous 100-mile front.

Far to the south, Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukrainian Army in Czechoslovakia advanced up to three miles along a 36-mile front in the Morava river valley west of Bruenn (Brno).

They were driving northeastward toward a junction with Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukrainian army in northern Moravia which the enemy high command said had opened an offensive near Opava. Capturing Borsice, three miles east of Uherski Hadriste in the Morava valley, Malinovsky's troops plunged within 64 miles of a junction.

In Berlin, Zhukov's street fighters captured the entire workers' district of Moabit on the north bank of the Spree river opposite the shell-raked Tiergarten. They probably were little more than a few hundred yards from the Reichstag. In the Moabit area, 117 city blocks were captured, Moscow said.

Seize Rail Depot

At the same time, Zhukov's troops, pushing up from the Tempelhof airdrome, captured the great Anhalter rail depot, only three blocks from Potsdamer Platz and 880 yards from the Reichs Chancellery.

The German High command said that Zhukov's tanks and tommy-guns also were forcing their way up Potsdamer Strasse toward the Potsdamer bridge over the Landswehr canal, protecting one approach to Potsdamer Platz.

A quarter of a mile below the Anhalter station, Russian infantrymen were prying the Nazi defenders from Belle Alliance platz with flame-throwers and were in sight of Himmler's Ministry of the Interior.

In Southwestern Berlin, Marshal Konev's First Ukrainians captured the southern part of the city district of Wilmersdorf up to Berliner Strasse, which runs between Schoeneberg and the circular railroad stations of Hohenzollern and Halensee, which also were seized in a grim battle.

RECEIVE FOOD FROM AIR

RAF Planes Drop More Than 600 Tons Of Rations

London, April 29 (AP)—Their safety guaranteed and their routes specified by the Germans, RAF Lancaster bombers today dropped more than 600 tons of food to Dutch civilians caught behind the German lines in the Netherlands.

The Germans insisted at first that they would shoot at the food-carrying craft, but Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower warned that anyone firing on the planes or stealing the food would be classed as a war criminal and would be punished accordingly. After several days of negotiations—presumably through the International Red Cross—the Germans agreed to safe passage and specified routes and dropping places.

Planes Not Molested

The planes were not molested and all returned safely to their bases.

The supreme commander announced several days ago the Allied intention to use airplanes to feed the 4,500,000 Dutch said to be starving behind German lines. The Germans refused to agree not to attack the mercy planes, insisting that the supplies should be sent only by ship or overland.

Rations Are Balanced

General Eisenhower, however, warned the Germans that "whoever attacks these low-flying (supply) planes is committing a crime against humanity. Whoever opens fire will have to bear the consequences himself and will be tried at the appropriate time."

Eisenhower's announcement rebuked the cut-off German garrison in Holland for continuing "stubborn" resistance when it meant death by starvation for millions of Dutch civilians trapped behind the Nazi lines.

More than 600 tons of balanced rations were dropped from the low-flying planes onto specially marked fields at The Hague, near by Leiden and at Rotterdam.

A returning pilot said "the Germans did not interfere with us." The Air Ministry reported none of the planes was lost.

Dutch Cheer Planes

The Dutch had been advised in advance to post observers at the prearranged dropping points and to plan a fair distribution of the food. Pilots said the Dutch waved and cheered as the planes dipped low and let go their mercy cargo.

Each bomber—the size of the fleet was not given but the Air Ministry said it flew over the area for 90 minutes—was equipped with special slings in which were 71 sacks containing meat, flour, yeast, cheese, margarine, sugar, peas, dried milk, powdered eggs, potato mash powder, chocolate and tea. Some craft carried as much as 6,280 pounds—enough for more than 3,000 persons a day.

Report Bernadotte, Himmler Meet Again

London, Monday, April 30 (U.P.)—Swedish Count Folke Bernadotte is in contact with Heinrich Himmler for the second time in a Nazi attempt to negotiate peace, Stockholm reported last night.

Confused and conflicting reports were exchanged over continental radios on German peace attempts, Himmler's whereabouts and Hitler's fate. But Stockholm reports persisted that whatever might be the result, Himmler was trying to negotiate peace.

Stockholm believed that Bernadotte, after carrying a verbal message from Himmler to American and British representatives, was in Denmark again, seeing Himmler.

London morning newspapers put Himmler variously in Berlin, after a flight from Prague, and at Luebeck on the Baltic, where he was said to be preparing "capitulation orders."

The Daily Mail quoted Swedish sources as saying that Bernadotte and Himmler were working out a capitulation offer to be presented possibly today to America, Britain and Russia.

The Stockholm correspondent of the Daily Mail wired his paper the terms which Himmler reportedly had offered to the Allies. They proposed:

1—The surrender of Hitler dead or alive and himself and other high Nazis to the western Allies.

2—German troops of the western front would lay down their arms and await instructions from Gen. Eisenhower.

3—Troops on the eastern front would be placed under "stand still" orders.

4—Forces in Denmark and Norway would retire five miles from the coast and surrender to patriot authorities.

Italian Partisans Balk Nazi 'Earth Scorching'

British Say Uprising Has Saved Vital Installations in North

LONDON, April 29 (AP).—The swift, violent uprising of Partisans (underground fighters) in northern Italy quickly crumbled the German grip and has saved valuable installations from Nazi "scorched earth" plans, the Ministry of Information reported today.

The ministry said that all power stations were saved in the Maira and Varaita Valleys, that nothing was damaged or destroyed except airfields in Lombardy and that installations in Aosta, Liguria and Veneto Provinces were saved except for damage to railways in Liguria.

The German force in Voghera surrender last night, and patriots occupied Mantova until the Allies arrived. A force of 300 Germans was in the center of Turin with tanks and armored cars and there were large forces on the western outskirts, the Ministry said.

Churchill to Alexander: 'Magnificently Executed'

Clark Shares in Accolade for Conquest in Italy

LONDON, April 29 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill congratulated Field Marshal Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander today on the "magnificently planned and executed operations of the 15th Group of Armies which are resulting in the complete destruction or capture of all enemy forces south of the Alps."

"That you and General Mark Clark are able to accomplish these tremendous and decisive results against a superior number of enemy divisions after you have made great sacrifices of whole armies for the western front is indeed another proof of your genius for war and of the intimate brotherhood in arms between the British Commonwealth and Imperial forces and those of the United States," the Prime Minister said.

"Never, I suppose, have so many nations advanced and maneuvered in one line victoriously."

British, Americans, New Zealanders, South Africans, British Indians, Poles, Jews, Brazilians and strong forces of liberated Italians were all named by Churchill as participating in what he called "one of the most famous episodes" of the war.

British Civil-Defense Units To Be Disbanded

London, April 29 (AP)—Britain's civil-defense services, which have performed so valiantly [illegible] the war, will be disbanded soon, the Ministry of Home [illegible] nounced tonight.

Plans call for almost immediate disbandment of the Royal Observer Corps, who are wardens of the coastal areas, and of the air-defense units, although full-time civil-defense workers will stay on the job for a short time longer.

FRYE, AP REPORTER, IS INJURED IN JEEP

LONDON, April 29—(AP) William Frye, Associated Press war correspondent, was severly injured today when a jeep in which he was returning from the British Second Army front in Germany was crushed between a truck and a tree.

Doon Campbell, Reuters correspondent who was riding in the same jeep, said Frye was taken unconscious to a casualty clearing station where a preliminary examination showed leg and back injuries possibly including a fractured pelvis. A further examination by X-Ray was awaited.

Campbell, who had been covering the crossings of the Elbe river with Frye, escaped with bad bruises and an injured toe.

Frye was formerly attached to the Washington bureau of the Associated Press where he covered military news.

11 German Generals Enter London—In Cage

London, April 29 (AP)—Eleven German generals today fulfilled their cherished ambition—they entered London.

But instead of leading in their troops as conquerors, they came in a closed bus as prisoners and were sent to a prisoner-of-war camp in the north.

Nine major generals in uniform and two in civilian clothes, faces set and looking neither to right nor left, were in the group which marched stiffly from the bus to a train.

Labor And The Old-Scho[illegible] Tie

Bristol, England, April 29 (AP)—Herbert Morrison, Home Secretary, urged Britons today to throw overboard "the amiable, useless, part-time, old-school-tie aristocratic or M.P. directors" of the nation's industries in the next general elections.

A Laborite in Prime Minister Churchill's Coalition Government, Morrison outlined to a Labor party gathering the organization's tentative platform for the first national elections in Britain in ten years.

The program calls for socialization of the Bank of England, coal mines, utilities and inland transportation. Morrison maintained it would leave "full play for individual initiative, originality and creative skill."

"Uncreative Guinea Pigs"

"We have done it in war; let's show that we can do it in peace," he said.

"Men will look back in the future and marvel at the strength and resources of a country which could carry for so long the burden of this privileged, uncreative group of guinea pigs. Today these gentlemen have become more than a joke. We are reaching the point where we must rid ourselves of every unnecessary burden. Britain has got to strip for action."

Party's Prime Objective

Sir Stafford Cripps, independent member of Commons and Minister of Aircraft Production, told the meeting that the Labor party's prime objective was "to displace the old conception, which still lingers on, that property, money and material possessions are more important than human life and happiness."

"If the Government is responsible for full employment," he said, "it must also be given powers not only to plan our industrial output, but also to see that that plan is carried out. . . . It is not practical to rely upon parties that do not believe in planning to carry out a policy which must depend upon the capacity of the Government to plan the economic life of the country."

30.24 25281

2,000 V-1 Bombs Fail At Antwerp

Paris, April 29 (AP)—Allied anti-aircraft gunners destroyed more than 2,000 V-1 bombs hurled at Antwerp by the Germans in a desperate attempt to knock out the port during 154 days from last October to March, it was revealed today.

Only 211 bombs landed out of the 2,394 fired at the port target area. The 22,000 American, British and Polish anti-aircraft gunners prevented the loss of a single working day at the port, which supplied the Western front.

London Experiences Help

American Brig. Gen. Clare H. Armstrong commanded the troops and the operation was supervised by Maj. Gen. W. R. Revell-Smith of the 21st Army Group, one of the world's outstanding artillerists. His chief of staff, Brig. Gen. E. S. Lindsay, told a press conference that the buzz-bomb attack reached its peak in mid-February, when 160 bombs were hurled at Antwerp in a 24-hour period.

"We made full use of the experiences in the defense of London," he said.

The city's defenses comprised 400 heavy guns, 150 light guns and 100 searchlights but lacked fighter planes and barrage balloons, Lindsay said.

Communists Far Ahead In Paris Voting

Paris, April 29 (AP)—Communist candidates for municipal office in Paris held a commanding lead on the basis of nearly complete returns from today's first election in France since the country fell to the Germans.

Election returns from other French metropolitan centers indicated their voters, too, had supported candidates of the Leftist parties in contests for municipal offices, the only ones at stake in today's voting.

Only a few returns had been received from traditionally conservative county districts.

In Paris and other principal cities the Communist leads seemed to be safe, while Socialists and Radicals ran well ahead of Center parties and Rightists.

Petain Prosecutor Wins

Political observers speculated that eleventh-hour Communist demands for quick trial and conviction of Marshal Henri Philippe Pétain as a German collaborationist had drawn support to the party's candidates, including many voters unaffiliated with any party.

Andre Mornet, procureur general, who will conduct the case against Pétain, was returned to office with a heavy plurality.

Edouard Herriot, former president of the Chamber of Deputies, who has just reached Switzerland from a German prison camp, was elected to the municipal council of Lyons by a 4-to-1 margin.

Six members of General de Gaulle's Cabinet who ran for city offices also were elected.

Paris To Greet Herriot

Herriot is expected momentarily in the city, which is preparing a welcome to him. He served as its Mayor more than twenty years before the Vichy regime deposed him.

Joseph Paul Boncour, a member of the French delegation to the San Francisco conference, also was elected by a big margin.

Not only was this the first election in France since the country fell to the Germans, but it was the first time women were allowed to vote.

The voters turned out in record numbers. Election officials said probably 80 per cent of the estimated 24,000,000 eligible electors cast ballots.

PUBLISHER HITS NAZI ATROCITIES AT BUCHENWALD

Editor's Note: The following story was written for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch by a member of the group of editors and members of Congress invited by Gen. Eisenhower to see at first hand conditions in Nazi prison camps.

By JOSEPH PULITZER

Editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch

PARIS, April 28—(AP) As one of a group of newspaper and magazine editors I was invited by Gen. Eisenhower to come to Europe to report on German atrocities, and in particular to inspect the concentration camp at Buchenwald near Weimar. We were flown there on April 25, and made a complete inspection of the camp.

I came here in a suspicious frame of mind, feeling that I would find that many of the terrible reports that have been printed in the United States before I left were exaggerations, and largely propaganda, comparable to reports of crucifixions and amputations of hands which followed the last war, and which subsequently proved to be untrue.

Horrors Unbelievable

It is my grim duty to report that the descriptions of the horrors of this camp, one of many which have been and which will be uncovered by the Allied armies, have given less than the whole truth. They have been understatements.

The brutal fiendishness of these operations defies description.

There can be no doubt but the black hole of Calcutta fades into insignificance when compared with the pestilence-ridden Dresden factory of Buchenwald.

When I first learned the facts, there was one seeming contradiction which mystified me. These prisoners—there were 20,000 of them in the camp at one time, Russians, Poles, French and other nationalities—were worked as laborers in a nearby ammunition factory.

Germans must be credited with scientific efficiency, organization, ability, and exceptional cleanliness. Why, I asked myself, did they permit their workers to live in unbelievable filth and to die off at the rate of 200 a day of malnutrition, typhus, and dysentery caused by the vilest kind of overcrowding?

Why did they compel 16 men to sleep on a shelf of only three feet by 12 feet; each of the three shelves being separated from the one above or below by 24 inches! The answer now seems to me to be obvious. They were only incidentally interested in the ammunition these workers produced. Their real interest was in killing them off.

Many Persons Killed

How well they succeeded in killing off these workers is indicated by figures which I am convinced are accurate. Five thousand, nine hundred in March alone, and 2,000 in the first 10 days of April. On an average day 120 to 150 would die in the so-called "hospital" or elsewhere, and an additional 60 to 80 would have died in the strangling room. I quote these figures from an official report prepared by three responsible and competent American officers.

If the reader is still skeptical, let him look at the photographs and when he does so let him remember that they picture only small parts of the mosaic of the Nazi policy of deliberate mass extermination. Let him remember, too, the gas chambers the Nazis have used at other camps, and let him look at the photographs of the lampshade and other objects of art made for the wife of an S.S. leader out of tanned human skin, skin bearing unusual tattoos, designs being preferred.

The reader will probably ask himself what can be done to prevent a repetition of this kind of thing. It can hardly be denied that the great majority of the German people must share the responsibility. The chief responsibility, however, lies with three groups of German leaders. These three groups are: One, the German general staff; two, the S.S.; three, the Gestapo.

It is my considered conviction that these are the men with blood on their hands. Further, it is my considered conviction that these three groups, and they will run into several hundred thousand, should be given the benefit of fair trials, the guilty should be convicted and the guilty should be shot.

SCENE OF PASSION PLAY IS CAPTURED BY YANKS

SIXTH ARMY GROUP HEADQUARTERS, April 29—(AP) Elements of the U. S. Seventh Army's 10th Armored division today captured Oberammergau, pre-war scene of the annual passion play and only 27 miles northwest of Innsbruck.

Crumbling all Nazi resistance in Bavaria, where it was once thought the Germans would make their strongest stand, was indicated tonight by news that two of the Seventh Army's three corps had captured more than 13,000 prisoners yesterday, bringing an incomplete total for the seven-day period to more than 80,000.

5,000 OFFER TO SURRENDER

First Class Private, Riding With Nazi, Gets Proposal

With U.S. 9th Army on Elbe River, April 29 (AP)—Strange things happen every day on this topsy-turvy front—like the 5,000 Germans who wanted to surrender to an American first-class private who was riding around in a German automobile with a German paratrooper.

It all started when the Americans decided to send out a patrol to attempt to contact the Russians. The patrol was commanded by Lieut. Worth B. Babbit, 37, a former insurance salesman, of Santa Ana, California.

Paratrooper Brought In

But just about the time the patrol was ready to cross the river, a German paratrooper lieutenant was brought in for investigation. The German was 25 years old. He had been fighting six years, had been wounded nine times and held the Ritter Cross, the second highest decoration in Germany.

He had been a Nazi for five and one half years, and then all of a sudden he saw the light. He went home and found his wife and three children huddled in the cellar of a bombed building while the local Nazi party leader was living off the fat of the land. He decided he had been gypped.

He had been discharged from the Army early this month, but had been picked up when his neighbors pointed him out as a soldier. He said he was ready to fight with the Americans against the Russians or with the Americans against the Germans. It didn't make any difference to him. He just wanted to fight. Furthermore, he said, he could convince plenty of Germans they should surrender.

Sent With Patrol

So it was decided to send the German along with the patrol, for whatever he was worth. The first thing that happened was that a German soldier riding a bicycle down the road failed to halt when the German lieutenant ordered him to do so. The lieutenant shot him with a Luger he had been given for his own protection in the event of a fight.

The patrol moved on about 10 miles, picking up willing Germans and killing a few here and there. Then they captured a German automobile.

The German lieutenant jumped into the automobile and declared that he would drive to a near-by German command post and try to convince the Germans to surrender. Pfc. Alex Weiss, 23, Brooklyn, N.Y., volunteered to accompany him. The two drove merrily off.

Credits Private's Nerve

"I did not know whether I would ever see them again," Lieutenant Babbit said. "Weiss had plenty of nerve."

But in a little while they were back. They had driven into a German division command post without any trouble. They called upon the division commander and the German lieutenant, pointing to his decorations, launched into a sales talk on how wonderful it was to be behind American lines in an American prison camp.

The commander did not need much selling. He agreed to surrender the 5,000 men of his division as a group, although it was the only reserve division the German Army had in this area between the Russians and the Elbe.

Conditions Turned Down

The German commander had conditions. He would give up, but the Americans would have to occupy the territory he held, to keep the Russians out. If not, he would fight the Russians to the last man.

But the 9th Army is not advancing beyond the Elbe these days, so the surrender had to be refused. And because Babbit said there was little percentage in trying to fight the patrol through the German division he trotted his force back across the Elbe, gathering up a few more prisoners as he moved along.

And that is the Western front on a quiet day nowadays.

'Aryan' Germany As A Melting Pot

With the U.S. Army in Germany, April 27 [AP—Delayed]—Ironically, the war in which Hitler aimed, among other things, to "purify" Germany racially, has brought a melting pot conglomeration of luckless citizens into the Reich in tremendous numbers.

Typical was the population of the prison camp near Halberstadt, which was liberated recently by the 19th Corps. It contained citizens of twenty lands, and of varied colors, races and creeds.

Just to give you an idea of the language difficulties alone encountered in such a liberation, the political prisoners of this one camp included: 195 Poles, 178 Frenchmen, 65 Russians, 28 Czechoslovaks, 28 Belgians, 2,622 Italians, 21 Germans, 16 Dutchmen, 14 Yugoslavs, 12 Latvians, 8 Spaniards, 4 Austrians, 3 Lithuanians and 2 Estonians.

In addition there were one each from Persia, Turkey, Algeria, Luxembourg, Serbia and Romania.

Imagine what ensued when all those poor, half-starved, tortured, miserable people attempted to tell their pent-up stories—all at once—to army officers and interviewers.

Nazis Surrender in ... burg After Unorthodox U.S. Attack

AUGSBURG, Germany, April 29—(AP) Third division Doughboys made an unorthodox attack on this gateway to Munich shortly before daybreak today and a few hours later accepted the surrender of Maj. Gen. Franz Fehn, commander of the Wehrmacht garrison.

Augsburg is 32 miles from Munich.

Casualties Light

Casualties were extremely light. The Americans have taken between 4,000 and 5,000 prisoners in the last 48 hours.

Heroes of Augsburg were Maj. John O'Connell of the Bronx, N. Y., and Lt. James Morris of Hagerstown, Md., commander of "K" company in O'Connell's Third battalion of the 15th infantry regiment.

O'Connell, who used to live in Macon, Ga., prevailed upon Maj. Gen. "Iron Mike" O'Daniel for permission to load "K" company on some tanks and make a head-on assault on the city about 4:30 a.m.

A German civilian had come through the lines with the offer to guide the Americans to yet unblown bridges.

"This guy had him a small underground set up in Augsburg," O'Connell said. "He had armed men watching the guards at the bridges, ready to stop them if they tried to touch them off. He had the wives of Army men organized—he had locked them in their rooms and wouldn't let them out. But just for safety's sake we took our informer's family in charge and let him know that if there was any funny business there would be hell to pay."

Tanks rolling from the suburb of Steppach crashed at full speed through a road block, raced over a Wertach river bridge and wound up in a street fight at the last bridge over the Lech. O'Connell scattered them Germans from this bridge—with the help of his jeep driver, Pfc. Frank S. Paul, Summit, N. J., and his interpreter, Pfc. George Kindermann of the Bronx.

The major, who formerly worked for the New York Telephone company, snipped demolition wires on the last bridge.

It was about this time that Lt. Morris wandered into the Richard Kathan residence half a dozen blocks from the heart of Augsburg.

"This man, his wife and daughter were there, and he spoke a little English," Morris said.

Talks to Nazi General

"I asked him if he could get the general ... ever was running the army ... here on the telephone—an... did. Well, the general was rea... to talk business so I told this fellow Kathan to tell him I'd get my major."

Morris got O'Connell to the telephone in a few minutes and the general told him he was ready to give up.

"We are here in a bunker," the German commander said, and gave the address.

O'Connell, Morris, Kindermann and Paul hopped into jeeps and raced to the place.

"It was the screwiest thing you ever saw," the major said. "Along the way we rode past Krauts with bazookas and rifles. They would yank out white flags and start waving them and hollering 'Kamerad' without even laying their guns down."

In the strongly reinforced air raid shelter under the ruins of a downtown building, O'Connell found General Fehn and 15 of his staff officers. The general asked two minutes to issue his last order —to cease fire.

"He said he couldn't write that order if he was a prisoner of war so we stepped outside and gave him two minutes," O'Connell said. "While we were out a fellow named Mundler who acted as the go-between from army to city officials in Augsburg stepped behind the door and shot himself through the head with a pistol.

"We went in right way."

Morris obtained eight jeeps to haul the prize prisoners to a cage.

A crowd of 200 civilians cheered as the commander and his staff rode away.

161 POLISH JEWS BURIED BY NAZIS

WITH THE U. S. 90TH DIVISION IN GERMANY, April 29—(AP) The bodies of 161 Polish Jews who were murdered by SS troopers were moved from roadside mudholes today and buried by the Germans in the town of Neunberg. The burial was carried out at the direction of American army officers.

All of the victims, who had faltered on the march from Flossenberg and Buchenwald concentration camps, had been shot through the head or clubbed to death by SS guards.

The bodies which had lain in shallow holes for five days were placed in pine coffins built by the villagers—four bodies to the coffin —and given a mass burial in three huge graves.

The services were conducted by Catholic and Protestant chaplains of the U. S. army assisted by four Jewish civilian survivors of the death march.

While the 2,200 residents of Neunber, a town 12 miles east of Schwandorf, filed past the graves and viewed the emaciated bodies, an American Army sergeant told them over a public address system, "the people of the civilized world hold you responsible. This is the work of all the German people."

Black streamers fluttered side by side with white flags which decorated every building in Neunberg today. The burgomeister said the town was in mourning for the victims of the SS brutality and for a number of the town's own citizens who, according to his story, were slain when they protested the savage killings by Himmler's troops.

Marcel Cadet, 34-year-old Frenchman whose wife and 6-year-old son now reside at 194 Riverside drive, New York, was among the prisoners to escape from one column marching south from Buchenwald, he formerly lived at 144 West 71st street, New York.

Cadet said that of 11,000 prisoners who received the original order to march scarcely 6,000 lived to greet the Americans.

Today's mass burial was for only a small fraction of those slaughtered on the march by SS troopers. Roads in this part of Germany are lined by additional hundreds of pitiful dead. The Americans are seeing to their burial as rapidly as arrangements can be made.

Flier Sets Fighter Record On Day He Is Shot Down

By The Associated Press.

A UNITED STATES EIGHTH AIR FORCE STATION, England, April 29—Lieut. Col. Elwyn G. Righetti of San Luis Obispo, Calif., was shot down over Germany recently as he hung up a new Eighth Air Force record for enemy planes destroyed on the ground by a fighter pilot, it was announced today.

After a crash-landing he radioed his mates: "Tell my family I am okay. I got nine planes. I broke my nose when I landed, that is all. It has been a hell of a lot of fun working with you, gang. Be seeing you a little later."

Colonel Righetti, commander of the Fifty-fifth Fighter Group, was leading his formation on a strafing mission in southern Germany. He sent his mate after a lone plane while he buzzed a German airfield to draw fire away from the other craft.

The nine planes that he got that day brought his total to twenty-seven on the ground. He is credited with seven and a half more bagged in the air.

Three Yank Prisoners Soon Become Captors

A U.S. 8th Air Force Bomber Station, April 29 (AP)—Three American flyers talked their way from prisoners to captors through a tempting picture of American Army rations.

Lieut. George Lopez, San Leandro, Cal., a bombardier, and Gunner Sergeants Richard P. Charles, Matherville, Ill., and John P. Lowe, Lincoln, Neb., were captured recently after parachuting from a burning Flying Fortress near Brandenburg.

A German official frankly admitted a desire to make a good impression on approaching American troops, and offered the trio "comfortable" accommodations at a nearby hospital. They declined.

Realizing American lines were near, Lopez tantalized the German guards with descriptions of American Army food, emphasizing the chocolate and cigarettes in contrast to the Germans' watery soup.

AUSTRIA FORMS NEW GOVERNMENT UNDER DR. RENNER

MOSCOW, April 29 — Austria, swallowed by Germany seven years ago as the first pawn of Nazi expansion, formed a new provisional government in Vienna Saturday under Dr. Karl Renner, a social democrat, as chancellor and foreign minister.

Renner, 75, was chancellor in 1919-20, and was author of the constitution of the Austrian republic. He strongly opposed Communism in Austria after the last war, and his policies are criticized in a Soviet encyclopedia published in 1941.

The coalition government intends "to restore an independent Austrian republic," and was formed according to the agreement of the 1943 Moscow conference of tri-power foreign secretaries, a Tass dispatch from Vienna said today.

Three parties, the social democrat, christian social, and communist, make up the coalition. Renner was the last president of the Free National council of the Austrian republic before its disbandment by the Germans in 1938.

By the anschluss of March 13, 1938, the Nazi Reich completely absorbed Austria, making the republic the province of Ostmark. Russian troops now have driven deep into Austria from the east, liberating Vienna, and Americans have crossed the western frontier.

The new government has a political council of coalition including three state secretaries without portfolio. They are Dr. Adolf Sherf, social democrat; Leopold Kunshak, christian social, and Johann Koplenig, communist party.

Cabinet ministers are:

War, Lt.-Col. Franz Winterer; interior, Franz Khonner, communist; justice, Dr. Josef Gere, nonparty; finance, Dr. George S. Zimmerman, non-party; agriculture and fuel administrator, Rudolf Bukhinger, christian social; crafts, trade, industry and transportation, Edward Geinl, christian social; education and religion, Ernst Gisher, communist; social security, Johann Bem, social democrat; public works and rehabilitation, Rudolf Raab, christian social.

(Moscow broadcast April 8 a Soviet government declaration that Russia "is not pursuing the aim of acquiring any part of Austrian territory or changing the social system in Austria." The Moscow conference of foreign secretaries in November, 1943, pledged the liberation of Austria. British Foreign Secretary Eden last March 1 said the position of Austria was "a rather special one. It is not conceivable in our judgment that she can be placed on an equal footing with liberated territory or Allied territory, or any arrangement of that kind. But it has, on the other hand, been repeatedly made clear that in final settlement account must be taken of Austria's own contribution.")

Russians Prepare Way For Gala May Day Fetes

Moscow Blackout To Be Lifted; Double Holiday Declared

MOSCOW, April 29 (AP).—The Russians prepared today for their biggest May Day celebration since the start of the war.

This was a bright sunshiny day, and there seemed to be more people on the streets than at any other time in the four years of the war. The immediately heartening news was the lightening tomorrow night of Moscow's blackout. By special order, normal lighting will be resumed in the capital's streets, buildings and residential dwellings.

Red banners and bunting with party slogans and pictures—some of them fifty feet high—of Stalin and other Soviet leaders went up today throughout the city.

Policemen donned bright new blue uniforms. Lights were put back into the red star over the Kremlin. Red stars adorned lamp posts along the principal thoroughfares.

FEW SCARS OF WAR FOUND IN GENOA

GENOA, April 29—(AP) This great Mediterranean seaport is one of the few Italian cities on which the war has left only a comparatively superficial mark.

Freed by Italian partisans in a dramatic Nazi-foe uprising which resulted in the capture of a large part of the German garrison, the city of 600,000 was doing business as usual yesterday when Doughboys drove in.

Because of the magnificent job done by the partisans in preventing the Germans from carrying out demolitions, the Americans found street cars running, electric, gas and water utilities in operation and even the regular telephone service.

Isolated German pockets gave up after they had been given an ultimatum by Col. William Yarbrough of Staunton, Va. The final garrison of 168 men surrendered to Capt. Donald Stevens, Urban, Ill.

The partisan uprising was carried out quickly and efficiently. Promptly at 5 a. m. Tuesday all patriot units attacked the Germans simultaneously throughout the city. At the same time 10,000 mountain partisans started drives to cut the enemy escape routes from the port.

The uprising lasted all Tuesday and Wednesday. During that time 30 partisans were killed.

Wednesday night the German general and 4,000 of his troops surrendered. Three thousand Germans fled into the port area from which they were routed after the arrival of the Americans.

After the capitulations of the German commander the patriots sent patrols out to meet the Yanks.

Harbor Heavily Mined

Major Robert Sharkey, of Newark, N.J., was amazed when he was able to telephone the Partisan leader from Rapallo, 15 miles to the east, twelve hours before the Americans entered the city.

Some danger resulted from air and naval bombardments. The entire harbor is heavily mined, Lieut. Com. Joachim Titolo, New York city, said, but Partisans estimated the big port would be in operation within a week.

Mother Frances Cabrini To Be Proclaimed Saint

Vatican City, April 29 (AP)—Pope Pius indicated today that the late Mother Frances Xavier Cabrini would be proclaimed a saint at soon as the war is over, to become the first American citizen to be canonized.

Addressing 200 girls and nuns of the Mother Cabrini Sacred Heart Missionary Institute the Pope said the audience presaged the ceremony in which "the vicar of Christ will exalt as a saint your founder."

He praised the work in the Americas of the Italian-born missionary who died in Chicago in 1917, and urged it be continued especially now when there is "so much ignorance, inertia and lack of character" in the world.

Mother Cabrini was beatified in 1938.

PONTIFF VOICES HOPE FOR JUSTICE IN PEACE

VATICAN CITY, April 29—(AP) Pope Pius said today he hoped for a "just and serene peace which will take into consideration the Christian aspirations of Italy."

The Pontiff spoke at a general audience for 5,000 members of the Italian Catholic Action organization.

The Pope declared that the church supported the desires of the working class within limits which respects the rights of other classes.

Italians Establish Laborer's School

RIMINI, Italy—(AP) A technical school for unskilled laborers, believed to be the first free trade school in Italian educational history, has been established in this Adriatic port city under joint auspices of Eighth Army AMG authorities and the town's business and professional men.

The sponsors hope to train 5,000 students by the end of the year in carpentry, bricklaying, steelworking, plumbing, plastering, roofing, glazing and concrete construction.

The entire cost of textbooks, tools and equipment will be met by Rimini contractors and civic leaders.

Rodolfo Graziani Tells How Duce Was Captured

By STEPHEN BARBER

Milan, April 29 (AP)—Rudolfo Graziani, Benito Mussolini's War Minister, is the prisoner of an American special force.

Graziani, who is being held prisoner by an American captain with a strong guard of Partisans in a hotel, told me the story of how Mussolini and his Cabinet decided to escape.

The tired old butcher of Libyans, huddled in an armchair beside two aides and an Abyssinian servant, said Mussolini and his Cabinet left Milan April 25 for Como. Mussolini headed the party.

"When we arrived at Como," Graziani said wearily, "we received word from him to proceed on to Menaggio. We arrived there on the twenty-sixth.

Graziani Refuses

"Mussolini, who arrived first, had retired to his room, leaving word he was not to be disturbed on any account.

"In his absence the Cabinet held a meeting and decided to head for Switzerland, with Mussolini as head of the party.

"I said I could not go. I had a soldier's responsibility toward the Ligurian army corps, which was composed of six divisions—three Italian and three German—which was still in combat. The whole cabinet left the following day.

The Partisans filled in the story here. Mussolini and his group moved off toward the Swiss border the morning of April 27.

Mussolini himself was spotted in a column of some 30 German trucks by Brigadier Scapini, of the guardia finanza (which formation had thrown in its lot with the Partisans) at the lakeside town of Dongo.

Was Driving Alone

He was driving alone, dressed in a militia uniform covered with a German greatcoat.

The remaining Fascist big shots were picked up a little farther on. They were found to have large sums of gold and sterling in their possession.

While il Duce and his cabinet went northward to their deaths, Graziani made tracks for como.

Fire Destroys Castle— Birthplace Of Bismarck

Stockholm, April 29 (AP)—The Swedish Foreign Office announced tonight that fire had destroyed Friedrichsruh Castle, Bismarck's birthplace, outside Hamburg, in which the Swedish Berlin legation had set up quarters.

The announcement said no Swedish personnel was lost but that an unnamed Swiss consul general had died and his wife was injured.

All Swedish legation property in the castle was destroyed.

Swedish Count Escaped Death At Outset of Peace Mission

STOCKHOLM, April 29 — (AP) Count Folke Bernadotte, vice-president of the Swedish Red Cross, narrowly escaped death when Allied planes bombed the Danish airfield from which he was about to take off after receiving a message from Heinrich Himmler for the United States and Britain, the newspaper Aftonbladet said today.

The Swedish Foreign Office announced that Bernadotte transmitted an "oral message" from Himmler to the Swedish government, which then turned it over to the American and British ministers in Stockholm.

The Foreign Office statement added nothing more, but it was presumed that Himmler's message was the one which offered capitulation to the Western Allies only.

American and British legation officials were not available for comment immediately.

Bernadotte reached Sweden last Tuesday, and since has left the country again, ostensibly on a Red Cross mission to Denmark.

Aftonbladet said Bernadotte, his chauffeur, and another companion had to jump into a ditch for safety when Allied planes bombed the Danish airfield.

Bernadotte, whose American wife is the former Estelle Manville, is one of the few men who has negotiated with top leaders of both the Allies and Germany during this war.

He visited Gen. Eisenhower in France last Fall. In recent weeks, he saw Himmler on several occasions in connection with a Swedish mercy mission which obtained the release of thousands of Nazi-interned Danes and Norwegians. Many of them already have been brought to Sweden.

NAZIS ISSUED STAMPS LAMPOONING BRITISH

LISBON, April 29—(AP) A Portuguese postage stamp collector has purchased in Spain a collection of 20 German-printed postage stamps lampooning the British and Russians and bearing faked London postmarks which the Nazis used for propaganda and revenue raising purposes.

Some of the stamp, caricaturing British royal wedding commemorate issues, show King George and Premier Stalin as wedded at Teheran. Others show the British rose, Russian sickle and hammer, and the British crown topped by the Russian star instead of the correct British world and cross design.

DOUBLE DRIVE HITS AT DAVAO

Light U.S. Naval Units Shell; Infantry Gives Support

Manila, Monday, April 30 (AP)—Light United States naval units, appearing for the first time in Davao Gulf, shelled Japanese shore installations at Davao Saturday as two infantry divisions drove toward the big Mindanao Island port by road.

An airfield on the western shore of Davao Gulf at Padada, just south of Digos, was seized by Yanks of the 24th Division and quickly was put into operation.

United States infantrymen were within 25 road miles of Davao city by highway after a sweep across southern Mindanao Island from their Moro Gulf beachhead.

8,561 More Japs Dead

Gen. Douglas MacArthur made the announcement today in a communiqué reporting an additional 8,561 Japanese dead had been counted and 218 prisoners taken in the Philippines in the last week.

Of this toll, 6,031 were killed on Luzon, primarily around the citadel of Baguio, which fell Friday, and the Balete Pass gateway to the Cagayan Valley to the northeast.

American casualties for the one-week period were 517 killed and 1,365 wounded.

Total Japanese casualties for the entire Philippines invasion campaign, which began last October, are 343,603, as against American casualties of 35,768. The American figure, however, does not include some recent fighting.

520 Tons Of Bombs Used

On northern Luzon, where two infantry divisions captured the bitterly defended city of Baguio on Friday, American planes dropped a terrific load of 520 tons of bombs on the Cagayan Valley, where the bulk of the enemy's Luzon garrison is believed concentrated.

Formosa, the China Sea and northern Borneo were among prominent targets of wide-range heavy bombers.

In one raid Philippine-based Liberators dropped 113 tons of bombs on the naval station at Saigon, French Indo-China. Associated Press Correspondent Richard Bergholz, reported from 8th Army headquarters that the Japanese put up no fight for the Padada airfield on Davao Gulf. The field was littered with wrecked enemy planes.

Japs Set City On Fire

While the 24th Division drove northward along the shores of Davao Gulf toward Davao, the newly landed 31st (Dixie) Division, which fought at Morotai in the East Indies, sped northward 17 miles up the center of Mindanao from the Kabacan road junction.

On southern Luzon, Camarines Notre province was reported cleared of Japanese. This area includes the important Paracale gold and iron mining district. Fleeing Japanese set the provincial capital of Daet afire.

Camarines Sur province, immediately to the south, was being quickly overrun by the 1st Cavalry Division and the 158th Regimental Combat Team.

BAGUIO TO BE USED AS U.S. REST CAMP

By RAY CRONIN
Former Chief of the A. P. Manila Bureau.

When American forces captured the city of Baguio, summer capital of the Philippines, they took over what, before the war, was one of the world's finest mountain resorts and a point of strategic military value in prosecuting the campaign against the Japanese in northern Luzon island.

Baguio, 175 miles north of Manila, stands at an elevation of 5,000 feet in the heart of the Benquet mountains. It has a cool, bracing climate in sharp contrast to the terrific tropical heat of the lowlands. The U. S. Army undoubtedly will open a Baguio rest and recuperation camp for officers and soldiers, similar to the prewar Camp John Hay located on the outskirts of the city.

Baguio, with a normal population of 25,000 and double that during the hot months of March, April, May and June, is the gold center of the Philippines. Through its post-office cleared, in the years just prior to the war, gold bars worth more than $20,000,000 annually.

Natives of the Baguio area are the friendly and colorful Bontoc Igorotes, powerfully built mountaineers whose dress has never changed from homemade G-strings.

Baguio city's colorful Sunday market place was a fine concrete structure, clean as a pin. It was operated by Filipinos in western Dress and by G-stringed Igorotes.

Before the war the city was the site of the Philippines Military academy, West Point of the islands; a big rest camp for school teachers and another for American military personnel; the government center; a large Japanese school; several American schools; the summer palace of the Commonwealth president and the vacation residence of the United States high commissioner.

American engineers built the twisting mountain roads that lead from the lowlands to Baguio.

Fascist Salute Stirs Ire Of Spanish Crowd

Montserrat, Spain, April 29 (AP)—Ten thousand Spaniards today angrily shouted down a few hundred others who greeted the raising of the Spanish flag with the Fascist salute.

Franco police armed with riot guns stood idly by as the angry men hooted at the stiff-arm, open-palm salute which still is the official greeting in Spain.

"We have had enough of Fascism," shouted the crowd which was composed of Carlists, reactionary monarchists.

Jap Suicide Pilot Sinks American Hospital Ship

GUAM, Monday, April 30—(AP) A Japanese suicide pilot crashed into the U.S.S. Comfort, a brightly-lighted Navy hospital ship, south of Okinawa Saturday night. There were 63 American casualties, including 29 killed, Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz reported today.

The Japanese plane which made the suicide attack is still on the Comfort, although she is proceeding to port under her own power.

Ship Bore Red Crosses

The Comfort, evacuating wounded, was well-lighted and plainly marked with large Red Crosses painted on her white decks and superstructure. The attack occurred 50 miles south of Okinawa at 8:58 p.m. Okinawa time.

Nimitz also reported:

Ground action has cost 11,418 American casualties including 1,847 killed, through Friday's fighting. Japanese casualties until dawn Wednesday were 21,269 killed—approximately 13 times U. S. killed for a shorter period—and 339 taken prisoner.

About 200 enemy aircraft made a series of attacks on U. S. forces off Okinawa throughout Saturday afternoon and night. Turned back throughout daylight hours, they succeeded in inflicting damage on some small vessels at night. Ships and planes destroyed 104 attackers.

Doughboys of the 27th Army division captured the northern half of Machinato airfield, on the west coast of Okinawa. Seventh division infantry seized high ground near Kochi village on the east coast and continued southward. General advances were made all along the line.

Casualties aboard the Comfort were 29 killed, 33 wounded and one missing. They included passengers already wounded in the Okinawa campaign and members of the hospital ship's crew.

The Comfort, a 13,000-ton vessel with a capacity of probably several hundred patients, was fully loaded. All personnel aboard were non-combatant.

The attack on the Comfort was the first reported Japanese assault on an American hospital ship in this war. Hospital ships carry no arms of any type.

The vessel was built in 1943 at Wilmington, Calif.

At least one other Allied hospital ship, an Australian vessel, was attacked in the Pacific by the Japanese. That attack occurred nearly a year ago in the Southwest Pacific. Loss of life there was much heavier than on the Comfort.

Made Series of Attacks

Japanese air planes made a series of attacks, involving about 200 craft, on American forces in the Okinawa area through out Saturday afternoon and night and continuing into yesterday morning.

Several small surface units of the U. S. Pacific fleet were damaged, Nimitz said.

A total of 104 Japanese aircraft were destroyed by ships' guns, and carrier and land-based airplanes.

Throughout the afternoon, carrier and land-based planes prevented any Japanese from penetrating to the main American forces. However, after dark, the Japanese got some planes through to inflict damage.

Although the attack on the Comfort occurred early the same night, she was south of Okinawa and probably escaped the main attack. Nimitz said the suicide plane which struck her "still is on the Comfort."

100 Superforts Blast Air Depot Near Tokyo

Guam, Monday, April 30 (AP).—More than 100 B-29 Superfortresses today attacked the Tachikawa Army air arsenal, 24 miles west of Tokyo, while six small fleets of B-29s showered bombs on airfields at Kyushu, southernmost of the Jap home islands.

Tachikawa arsenal, actually an air depot, borders the Tachikawa airfield and covers about 460 acres. It is near the Hitachi aircraft plant, which was blasted by B-29s last Tuesday in the last previous flight to Honshu Island.

The raids on Kyushu put that island under Superfortress bombsights for the fifth consecutive day. Airfields on Kyushu have been used by the enemy for mounting air strikes against the American invasion forces at Okinawa.

12 JAP PLANES BAGGED IN SUPERFORT RAID

WASHINGTON, April 29—(AP) Twelve Japanese aircraft were shot down and one Superfortress was lost in combat in yesterday's raid on six major enemy air bases.

This was reported in a 20th air force communique today describing results of the visual attack on the southern home islands' installations as good. Eight enemy planes were listed as probably destroyed. Between 100 and 150 B-29s took part.

The raid, which occurred Sunday, Tokyo time, was the fourth consecutive daylight assault on the home islands. Some of the same bases were hit the day before in an attack by a similar force on six Kyushu island airfields in support of the campaign on Okinawa.

Jap Commander Calls Men A Lot Of Cowards

On the Baguio Front, Luzon [AP —Delayed]—This letter from a seemingly petulant Japanese company commander to a platoon leader was found during the fight toward Baguio:

"1. With a lightning attack the enemy was boldly pushed into the midst of our position. Tell me, what made possible this enemy to thrust a dagger into us? No, you need not explain. You and the other platoon leaders and men are a bunch of cowards —shuddering at bombings. Furthermore, you men are sleeping. Be alert!

"2. But if you men counter-attack today with a lightning ferocity the enemy will be completely wiped out.

"3. Remember the responsibilities being entrusted upon you men. The regimental and battalion commanders are very much concerned about the present situation.

"4. Do you expect the other companies to do your part, you damn fools."

Soldier Saves General's Life

With the U. S. 27th Division, Okinawa, April 29 (AP). — Having already received the Silver Star and Purple Heart with cluster, Staff Sergt. William C. Duggan, 40th St., Long Island City, N. Y., further distinguished himself by knocking down a brigadier general—and getting thanked for it.

Brig. Gen. William B. Bradford, second in command of the 27th Division, was inspecting repairs to a damaged pontoon bridge in southern Okinawa when a Jap mortar shell landed. Duggan, standing near the general, knocked Bradford flat with a violent shove and then threw himself on top of the officer as the shell exploded.

"Thanks Sergeant, I'm sorry I was so slow," said Bradford, apologetically, as the shelling subsided.

Birth Celebrated at Okinawa

OKINAWA, April 28 (Delayed) (AP)—Capt. Wallace Sigler of Scarsdale, N. Y., nightfighter marine pilot, celebrated news of his daughter's birth by shooting down his fifth Japanese plane early today. The daughter was born April 11 at Como, near Montreal, to his Canadian wife. Sigler became an ace by downing the Japanese plane by the light of the moon. Sigler's team-mate, Lieut. George J. Collins, of 1928 University Avenue, Bronx, N. Y., shot down a Japanese torpedo bomber in the same action.

CHINESE STRIVING TO STEM JAP DRIVE

Battling To Remove Danger To American Air Base

Chungking, April 29 (AP)—Heavy fighting continued today on the Hunan front where the Chinese are attempting to check the Japanese drive on the American airbase at Chihkiang, 250 miles southeast of Chungking. One enemy force was reported within 70 miles of the base.

The high command claimed tonight that Chinese troops encircled an enemy column 25 miles northwest of Paoching, principal springboard of the Japanese drive, and killed or wounded more than 300 of the invaders. Ten prisoners were reported captured.

Japs Surrounded

At a point 75 miles east of Chihkiang, the high command said enemy trops had been surrounded in a pocket and were slowly being annihilated in heavy fighting.

Severe fighting also was reported west and south of Wukang, 80 miles southeast of Chihkiang on the enemy's left flank.

In Honan province, Chinese attacks continued against the Lo[illegible] river front [illegible] of the Lunghai railroad, the high command said. More than 100 enemy troops were reported killed.

In southwestern Honan, Chinese troops were reported to have made further gains against the Japanese-held highway center of Sichwan, 53 miles northwest of Laohokow, former site of a United States 14th Air Force base.

BRITAIN'S ARMOR FIGHTS WITH JAPS

Clash At Pegu Occurs In Drive Toward Rangoon

Calcutta, April 29 (AP)—Forward British armored spearheads driving toward Rangoon clashed today with Japanese at Pegu, at the head of the last rail escape route to the east, and 60 miles north of the Burma capital.

After a 56-mile dash yesterday, the column wheeled and struck toward the 12-mile eastward gap left between them and the sea at the Sittang River estuary, protected by reinforced Japanese.

Flee For Thailand

Allied infantry was moving down the main Burma trunk road to catch up with the armor and seal off a large Japanese column isolated to the west. To the east units of the 15th and 33d Japanese armies already were fleeing toward the Thailand border, pursued by British detachments.

Allanmyo, 4 miles northeast of the provincial capital of Thayetmyo, was captured by another British column working down the east bank of the Irrawaddy River for a possible junction with coastal forces from Taungup at Prome in the heart of the southwest Burma area cut off by the drive on Rangoon.

Eastern air command fighter bombers attacked road and rail bridges yesterday on the line of retreat from Prome and a wireless installation north of Moulmein.

WINDSORS BID ISLES GOOD-BY

Duke And Duchess Join In Three-Minute Broadcast

Nassau, Bahamas, April 29 (AP)—In a three-minute broadcast, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor today said farewell to the people of the Bahamas, but assured them "you have not seen the last of us."

The Duke, who resigned the Governorship of this island colony on March 15, described their departure as "the closing of an interesting and happy chapter of our lives."

It was a chapter enclosed only, he said, by the knowledge of the grim struggle and suffering on the battlefields of the world.

In her farewell, the Duchess emphasized the pleasure she had had in joining women of the colony in their contributions to the war effort.

Au Revoir By Both

The royal governor and his American-born wife, for whom he gave up the British throne prior to coming to Nassau, ended the broadcast together with the words au revoir.

Although the date of the Windsors' departure was not announced, it was expected they would shortly leave the colony which has been their home for more than four and a half years. They will visit in the United States before going on to the Duke's ranch in Canada.

Colonial Secretary Duncan Stewart, it was announced, will administer Government affairs pending the arrival of the new Governor, W. L. Murphy, 58-year-old former colonial secretary to Bermuda.

Allies Wait— Sure That Nazi Windup's Near

By W. D. MOBLEY

Washington, D. C., April 29 (AP).—The Allied world waited in grim confidence today for Nazi collapse under pressure of arms if not by wholesale capitulation such as President Truman denied had occurred last night.

Impelling the Germans to make up their minds was the remorseless military pressure building still higher upon their dwindling strongholds.

Officials Expectant.

This much was clear and officially confirmed: Gestapo chief Heinrich Himmler has offered surrender to the British and Americans but has been told his offer will be given consideration only after he has made it also to Russia.

Almost equally clear, though without official backing, was the fact that officials here were awaiting something important yesterday at the time the report of an actual surrender came out of San Francisco where the United Nations are planning an agency designed to keep peace when this war is done. What it was, nobody will say.

The only thing official in Washington was President Truman's statement at an extraordinary night news conference at the White House that "there is no foundation" for the report the Nazis have actually agreed to quit.

Sources Noncommital.

The flurry of surrender reports started with a Reuters' dispatch from San Francisco saying Himmler, acting for Hitler who was reported ill and near death, had offered surrender to the Anglo-Americans. The dispatch said he had been turned down with indications he would be given a hearing if he made the same offer to Moscow.

Washington sources for information on such a point—White House, State Department and Army—were noncommital except for a statement from Jonathan Daniels, Presidential press secretary, that "this Government has nothing to say at this time," and that it was "perfectly clear" any surrender would have to be to all the Allies.

In late afternoon, Senator Connally (D-Tex.), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee and vice-chairman of the American delegation to the United Nations conference, told the Associated Press that formal announcement of surrender "with no strings attached" was expected momentarily.

Ultimatum Reported.

The story developed circumstantially in San Francisco, on reports the Nazis had been given until Tuesday to give up to all three Allies or face intensified military pressure and destruction.

President Truman had left the executive offices early in the afternoon but he returned to his desk in the evening, shortly after the direct report of imminent surrender came out of San Francisco. Senator Connally, at that time declining to be quoted by name, said his information was that the Tuesday deadline had been set.

Grew at His Office.

Indications that no more news was expected out of the White House during the night had come from there in the meantime, but press secretaries and other officials, and newsmen by the score, started coming in ahead of the President.

Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, one of those gathered at the executive offices, told newsmen at 9:30 A. M. New York time: "It will be some little time yet." He did not say what was pending.

Stephen Early, special Presidential assistant, told the crowd of reporters:

"As soon as we get official confirmation, the President will read the proclamation over the four networks."

He didn't say what would be proclaimed.

The tension, apparent through the afternoon at the executive offices, built up as the President called the newsmen into his office barely after Davis had predicted delay.

Truman said he had communicated with Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters through his personal chief of staff, Admiral William D. Leahy "and there is no foundation for the rumor. That is all I have to say."

Russia Revives Polish Demand

Molotov Wants Lublin Group Recognized If Argentina Is Seated.

BIG THREE ROW SEEN

U.S. Hits Plea, Says Polish, Argentine Issues Not Connected.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 29—(AP) Russia has turned the heat on again for representation of the Polish government in Warsaw at the United Nations conference and another Soviet - British - American row became a possibility tonight.

It may not develop into a full scale scrap—if Latin American nations decide not to ask admission of Argentina to the peace-shaping parley.

Tomorrow question delegates have to start picking committees and commissions, allocating conference seats for two Soviet republics, and answering little nations' claims. They may have to contend again with the issue they thought they had sidetracked Friday when their steering committee turned down a proposal to bring the Warsaw Poles to the Golden Gate and adopted a resolution expressing hope the Polish government could be broadened in time to obtain a seat here.

U. S., Britain Reject Poles

America and Britain all along have battled against admission of the Warsaw government in its present form, contending it should be reorganized first in accordance with a Roosevelt-Stalin-Churchill agreement at Yalta for inclusion of more "democratic elements."

There have been no indications they might compromise. Indeed, many delegates say, most delegations will line up with them on a showdown and Russia will be thrown for a loss.

The American view is that an invitation to Argentina should not be tied to one for the Warsaw regime but should be settled independently by a majority vote of delegates.

Russia is represented as viewing sympathetically the matter of inter-American solidarity. But she has contended frequently that Argentina has cooperated with the Axis, while Poland was in the war from the start on the Allied side.

Molotov was reported to have proposed, and the others of the Big Four to have approved, an offer of the security council committee's chairmanship to lie. The latter has displayed a reluctance to accept, because of the grave responsibility and the fact that Nazis might start reprisals among a people still under their heel.

The Middle-Eastern Arab countries—Saudi Arabia, Egypt, Iran, Syria and Lebanon—have held at least one joint meeting here. They have agreed, a spokesman disclosed, to stand united for 14 members on the security council instead of the 11 originally planned. The council will be the instrumentality which can order use of armed force to halt aggression.

Seek to Enlarge Council

Egypt's foreign minister, Abdul-Hamid Badawi Pascha, publicly urged its enlargement at a full conference session yesterday. Delegation chiefs of numerous other small nations have made the same proposal.

Perhaps indicative of the outcome is the fact that already the little fellows have persuaded the conference to boost the membership of its important executive committee from 11 to 14.

It was to the executive committee that the conference handed the question of inviting representatives of the Ukraine and White Russia, two of the Soviet Union's republics, to send representatives to the Golden Gate. Indications are that the committee will recommend this step, since the pair of Republics already have been told they may have places in the general assembly of the world peace-keeping agency.

Commissions and committees to be set up this week will do spadework for the conference. Under this arrangement, the conference will operate like a one-house Congress. Like a Congressional subcommittee, a conference committee will take up special subjects, such as writing a preamble for an international charter. It will submit a report to a commission—corresponding to a full congressional committee. The commission will act on it, then relay it on to the entire conference for approval.

Another conference problem, the question of fitting regional security organizations into the framework of a world structure for keeping peace, may start coming to a head this week.

Truman Prays for 'V-E' Day Soon; Allies Wait for Nazi Collapse

WASHINGTON, April 29—(AP) President Truman joined in prayers today for quick victory in Europe and for the success of the San Francisco conference, before a brief White House conference with Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy.

The President attended historic Foundry Methodist church with Mrs. Truman and Federal Judge Lewis B. Schwellenbach, former senator from Washington State.

Less than five minutes after his return to his temporary living quarters at Blair House, he strode quickly across the street to the White House where he met Admiral Leahy, his chief of staff.

The President returned to Blair [illegible] at 12:45 p.m., to have Sunday dinner.

Meanwhile the Allied world waited in grim confidence today for Nazi collapse under pressure of arms if not by wholesale capitulation such as the President denied had occurred last night.

Impelling the Germans to make up their minds was the remorseless military pressure building still higher upon their dwindling strongholds.

This much was clear and officially confirmed: Gestapo Chief Hein-

Almost equally clear though without official backing was the fact that officials here were awaiting something important yesterday at the time the report of an actual surrender came out of San Francisco where the United Nations are planning an agency designed to keep the peace when this war is done. What it was, nobody would say.

The only thing official in Washington was President Truman's statement at an extraordinary night news conference at the White House that "there is no foundation" for the report that the Nazis have actually agreed to quit.

Report Started on Coast

The flurry of surrender reports started with a Reuters dispatch from San Francisco saying Himmler, acting for Hitler who was reported ill and near death, had offered surrender to the Anglo-Americans. The dispatch said he had been turned down with indications he would be given a hearing if he made the same offer to Moscow.

Washington sources for information on such a point—White House, State department and Army—were noncommittal except for a statement from Jonathan Daniels, presidential press secretary, that "this government has nothing to say at this time, and that it was "perfectly clear" any surrender would have to be to all the Allies.

In late afternoon Senator Connally (D-Tex.), chairman of the Foreign Relations committee and vice-chairman of the American delegation to the United Nations conference, told the Associated Press that formal announcement of surrender "with no strings attached" was expected momentarily.

The White House still had nothing to say, but newsmen assigned there were advised shortly beforehand to stay around a while longer. Nothing was said about what might be coming up, however.

The story developed circumstantially in San Francisco, on reports that the Nazis had been given until Tuesday to give up to all three Allies or face intensified military pressure and destruction.

President Truman had left the Executive Offices early in the afternoon but he returned to his desk in the evening, shortly after the direct report of imminent surrender came out of San Francisco. Senator Connally, at that time declining to be quoted by name, said his information was that the Tuesday deadline had been set. Another delegation member said he also was informed capitulation might come any time.

Press On Alert

Indications that no more news was expected out of the White House during the night had come from there in the meantime, but press secretaries and other officials, and newsmen by the score, started coming in ahead of the President.

Joseph C. Grew, Acting Secretary of State in the absence of Secretary Stettinius who heads the San Francisco delegation, came to his office.

Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, one of those gathered at the Executive offices, told newsmen at 9:30 p. m., (EWT), "it will be some little time yet." He did not say what was pending.

Stephen Early, special presidential assistant, told the crowd of reporters:

"As soon as we get official confirmation the President will read the proclamation over the four networks."

He didn't say what would be proclaimed.

Celebrations, generally restrained, started all over the country only to be cut short by Mr. Truman's denial. Numerous newspapers issued "surrender" extras. Orderly but anxious crowds gathered around the White House and the presidential statement did not immediately send them away.

The tension, apparent through the afternoon at the Executive offices, built up as the President called the newsmen into his office barely after Davis had predicted delay.

Mr. Truman said he had communicated with General Eisenhower's headquarters through his personal chief of staff, Admiral William D. Leahy "and there is no foundation for the rumor. That is all I have to say."

The President said nothing to foreclose the possibility of capitulation later nor to deny that there was contact with Germany on that subject.

Connally Expects News Soon

Connally, advised of the President's denial, then authorized direct quotation by name and said he expected announcement of unconditional surrender "momentarily."

Later he said he was speaking on the basis of general information at his disposal and that he had no "official" word. It was brought out in the conversation, however, that he has access to sources not normally available to reporters.

Meantime Moscow officially confirmed the Himmler offer to the United States and Britain, and the fact that it had been turned down because Russia was not included. London and Washington, Tass, Russian news agency, reported, informed the Kremlin immediately.

Apparently the offer came through Sweden, where the Foreign Office said Count Folke Bernadotte, active in Red Cross affairs that take him to Germany, had brought out a communication which was passed on to British and American officials last week.

Other information from Sweden was that the count had returned to Germany Saturday and Stockholm speculated that he may have carried the reported Allied reply and Tuesday ultimatum to Himm-

FOOD CONTROL FACING FIGHT

House Members Expected To Urge Overhauling

APR 30 1945

Washington, April 29 (AP)—Sharp suggestions for an immediate overhauling of the Government's food controls are expected this week from a House Food Investigating Committee.

Representative Andresen (R., Minn.), ranking Republican member of the committee, said faulty Government regulations are "forcing 75,000,000 American civilians onto the black market."

While he made no attempt to speak for the committee, congressional sources informed on its activities said the group's first report—due Tuesday—will send critical shafts at the OPA, War Food Administration and other Government agencies blamed by witnesses for the food crisis and growing black markets.

May Strip Authority

It may recommend that the entire food program be placed in one central authority, stripping OPA, WFA, the Office of Economic Stabilization and other agencies of their share in food control.

If the committee's recommendations are ignored, Andresen said, "Congress should amend the price-control law to restore confidence and secure an abundance of food with efficient and legal distribution."

He said the distribution system for meat and poultry is "near collapse."

The OPA meanwhile put into effect slaughter quotas for non-Federally inspected slaughterers in an effort to bring about a better distribution of meat.

What Is Expected

Committee members were reluctant to discuss the forthcoming report, but it is expected to:

1. Rap enforcement agencies, including the OPA, for failure to invoke criminal penalties against black marketeers.

2. Criticize food controls all the way from producer to consumer.

3. Express dissatisfaction and "disappointment" in the ten-point revision of the food program, announced by the Government after the House committee called all food agencies into a White House conference in its search for the source of the food shortages.

The report will dwell at length on black-market operations which the committee trailed from Chicago to New England and New York in a series of roving investigations. It will blame faulty distribution of the food supply for the growing meat black market.

"Choice Of Markets"

"Because of lack of co-ordination (in Government agencies) meat dealers are forced to operate either in the red or the black—in the red if they operate within the regulations, or go onto the black market to make expenses," Andresen said.

"It's meat now. The next heavy black-market operation will be in eggs and sugar," he predicted.

The OPA's new quota plan restricts non-Federally inspected slaughterers to the slaughter of one half the hogs and 75 per cent of the cattle and calves they butchered in the same month last year.

The quotas, effective tomorrow, and part of the ten-point program for better distribution of meat recently announced by the Office of Economic Stabilization, are expected to remain unchanged for the next two months.

Purpose Of Quotas

The purpose of the quotas is to leave more animals for Federally inspected meat packing plants, which are those shipping meat across state lines. Meat has tended to be plentiful in producing areas but scarce in areas remote from packing plants.

Price officials estimated the action would increase the amount of Federally inspected meat by ten per cent, or about 15,000,000 pounds of beef and pork.

The quotas permit the slaughter of sheep and lambs up to 100 per cent of the 1944 volume.

ISOLATION DEAD, GREW DECLARES IN SECURITY TALK

APR 30 1945

WASHINGTON, April 29—(AP) Acting Secretary of State Joseph C. Grew declared today that Americans have come to the reluctant realization "that never again can we or any other people find security in isolation."

This, he said in an address at a Washington Cathedral prayer service on the first Sunday of the United Nations conference, is due to the awareness that "there is no certain security in strategic frontiers, great oceans or vast distances."

"We know beyond peradventure that another war, coming upon an intensive development in military, electrical and chemical science, could wipe great masses of civilians off the face of the earth in a matter of very brief time," he said.

"With that certain knowledge can any effort, any sacrifice, be considered too high a price for preventing future tidal waves of militarism, and for permitting mankind to live and progress in confidence, security and peace?"

Grew expressed confidence that the San Francisco conference and its objectives would succeed through a combination of hard work and faith.

Grew, stressing the importance of the Assembly of the proposed world organization, said it rather than the Security Council, "can become a true parliament of man."

"It can cultivate the seeds of peace by creating the soil and the climate congenial to their growth. Leadership in such an enterprise will spring from national character and genius, as it does in any civilized society from which force has been outlined," he said.

"We and our Allies have been slowly and painstakingly hammering out—by a combination of hard work and faith—the shape of a new kind of peace: Not a Roman or Teutonic peace by domination; not a reactionary peace designed to freeze an antiquated social and economic order; not a peace of rival blocs; but a flexible, dynamic progressive peace by cooperation and mutual accommodation. A peace which shall hold out the promise of be[illegible] conditions of life for so many [illegible]ple of this earth that they will be drawn into its orbit through enlightened self-interest," he declared.

"The proposals before the San Francisco conference," he continued, "while neither perfect nor complete, do, however, provide a realistic basis for developing such a peace."

QUOTAS ON MEAT CHANGED BY OPA

APR 30 1945

WASHINGTON, April 29—(AP) The OPA today restricted non-Federally inspected slaughterers to the slaughter of one-half the hogs and 75 per cent of the cattle and calves they butchered in the some month last year.

The quotas, effective April 30 and part of the 10 point program for better distribution of meat recently announced by the Office of Economic Stabilization, are expected to remain unchanged for the next two months.

Purpose of the quotas is to leave more animals for Federally inspected meat packing plants, which are those shipping meat across state lines. Meat has tended to be plentiful in producing areas but scarce in areas remote from packing plants.

Price officials estimated the action would increase the amount of Federally inspected meat by 10 per cent, or about 15,000,000 pounds of beef and pork.

The quotas permit the slaughter of sheep and lambs up to 100 per cent of the 1944 volume.

The quotas cover all "Class 2" slaughterers, which in addition to the non-Federally inspected group include those who have livestock custom-slaughtered for them, except farmers who have livestock slaughtered primarily for their own use. Excluded also are small farm slaughterers.

In addition to increasing the flow of meat in interstate commerce, the curb on these slaughterers is expected to stabilize supplies for the armed forces, which buy only Federally inspected meat.

The Class 2 slaughterers must register with their OPA district offices by May 14, it was ruled, if they wish to continue slaughter after that date. They will report their May and June, 1944 slaughter and their permitted quotas after applying the percentage reductions.

WSA Allocates Five Vessels To France

Washington, April 29 (AP)—The War Shipping Administration today announced allocation of five coastal vessels to the French Provisional Government.

They are Baltic type N-3 vessels of 2,905 deadweight tons. One, the Josiah Mitchell, already has been delivered to the French, WSA said. The others, the agency added, will be delivered provided they are completed before V-E day. WSA said it could give no indication how soon they will be ready.

Ownership of the vessels will remain vested in the United States. They will be registered under the French flag and time-chartered to WSA for operation with French crews in the United Nations pools.

U.S. LAUNCHES SUPERCARRIER

The Franklin D. Roosevelt Enters Water At New York

New York, April 29 (AP)—As American warplanes droned overhead in a cloud-specked sky, the U.S.S. Franklin D. Roosevelt, 45,- 000-ton supercarrier, was launched today in colorful but solemn ceremonies.

James V. Forrestal, Secretary of the Navy, called for peacetime upkeep of the nation's military power as he dedicated the huge ship to the aims of the late commander in chief—win the war and keep the peace.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, dressed in mourning, attended the New York Navy Yard launching and in a brief talk said:

"I know that my husband would have felt very keenly and appreciated the thought of having this supercarrier given his name.

Says F.D.R. Loved Navy

"It's no secret that he loved the Navy and would have liked always to be associated with it. He would watch this ship with great pride. So today I hope this ship will always do its duty in winning the war.

"I pray God to bless this ship and its personnel and keep them safe, and bring them home victorious."

It was Mrs. Roosevelt's first public appearance since the death of her husband.

Mrs. Roosevelt and other dignitaries, including Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the United States Fleet, inspected the ship after it was christened by Mrs. John H. Towers, of Coronado, Cal., wife of Vice Admiral Towers, deputy commander in chief, Pacific Fleet.

Thousands See Launching

As the carrier was floated in a building dock, cheers went up from thousands of navy-yard workers and American and British sailors and ships in the harbor sounded their whistles.

The Roosevelt was to have been named the U.S.S. Coral Sea, but was renamed by the Navy with the approval of President Truman. She is a sister ship to the U.S.S. Midway and second in the class of the world's largest, strongest and fastest carriers.

The Navy announced the vessel would be commanded by Capt. Apollo Soucek, of Medford, Okla., who served as commander aboard the Carrier Hornet when Doolittle's raiders took off from the ship in the first bombing of Tokyo.

Was On Hornet When Lost

Captain Soucek was the Hornet's executive officer when the vessel was lost during the battle of Santa Cruz Island October 26, 1942.

Secretary Forrestal said the new ship would join 26 carriers in the United States Fleet "as a symbol of our determination to prosecute the war against Japan to complete victory."

Urging that the United States "keep the ability for swift and effective application to force" to maintain peace, the secretary termed military might "essential if the events at San Francisco and . . . similar meetings afterward are to have any meaning."

Truman Unable To Attend

President Truman, Forrestal explained, asked him to express his "deepest regret" he could not be present at the launching because he deemed it "of paramount importance" to remain at his Washington desk.

Contrasting the Navy's present might with its size in mid-winter of 1942, Forrestal reported this growth in the fleet lineup: From 16 battleships to 23; 38 cruisers to 67; 173 destroyers to 386; no destroyer escort to 368; 112 submarines to 240. The carrier strength, he said, totals 26 carriers and 65 escort carriers.

The late President Roosevelt, Forrestal asserted, was "an inspiration" to Army and Navy leaders in his readiness to accept new ideas and patterns of warfare.

Mr. Roosevelt's "quick and imaginative grasp" of the possibilities of small escort carriers, he said, was largely responsible for stepped-up production of "that mighty midget," the baby flat-top.

General Stenseth New Chief Of Iceland Base

New York, April 29 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Martinus Stenseth, AAF, World War I ace who holds the Distinguished Service Cross and the Silver Star, has been named commanding general of the United Army base in Iceland, the Eastern Defense Command announced today.

Milan Radio Reports John Amery's Arrest

New York, April 29 (AP)—The Milan radio, in a broadcast heard today by the FCC, said that Nazi-Fascist collaborationist John Amery, son of L. S. Amery, British Secretary of State for India, was among "recently arrested persons."

The broadcast gave no other details.

Amery began collaboration activities in Vichy after the Nazis occupied northern France and later worked in Berlin and Rome, fleeing from the latter city when it was occupied by the Allies. He continued to broadcast over the puppet transmitter in northern Italy.

Amery left Britain in 1930 and went to France.

Resignation Of Quisling Cabinet Is Reported

New York, April 29 (AP)—A British broadcast recorded by Blue network monitors said the Norwegian Quisling cabinet resigned tonihgt at a meeting in Islo.

The broadcast quoted Stockholm reports as saying that Quisling was attempting to form a new cabinet.

British Hear Report Hitler Died in Berlin

NEW YORK, April 29—The British Broadcasting company, in a report recorded at the CBS shortwave listening station, said an unconfirmed report had reached Stockholm by way of Munich and Bern that "Hitler died at noon today (Sunday) in his underground headquarters in the Tiergarten in Berlin with Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels at his bedside."

Another BBC broadcast, quoting a Stockholm dispatch, reported that Hitler had suffered a hemorrhage of the brain and had been left an invalid, Blue Network monitors said.

HART ASKS SIMPLE PEACE

Senator Urges Conferees to Put Proposal Through

HARTFORD, Conn., April 29 (AP)—Senator Thomas C. Hart of Connecticut, offered today this motto for the United Nations Conference on International Organization:

"Keep it simple and put it through."

Senator Hart, former Commander in Chief of the Asiatic Fleet, said that a Navy lieutenant applied the formula successfully to form a unified weather service in the Far East as war clouds gathered in 1941.

Language barriers, varied thinking by different nationalities and technicalities were overcome to "eigrt or ten weather organizations, Dutch, Filipino, British and our own," the Senator declared.

"No more big wars, that is the first thing to keep first," Senator Hart told a rally of the Greater Hartford Committee for Dumbarton Oaks at Bushnell Memorial Hall. "To put it simply we must have peace, even if we have to enforce it."

Taylor's Vatican Post Explained

Atlanta, April 29 (AP)—The Rev. Dr. Louie D. Newton, Southern Baptist churchman, said today he had been informed that appointment of Myron C. Taylor as personal representative of the President to the Pope was not diplomatic representation at the Vatican.

Dr. Newton, an Atlanta pastor, recently called for a Senate investigation of "the status of our Government to the Vatican."

His request for an investigation was addressed to Senator Connally (D., Texas). He said today the Senator had forwarded a letter Senator Connally received from Secretary of State Stettinius, explaining:

"Mr. Taylor's travel to Europe in 1939 was not at all in the nature of a diplomatic representation to the Vatican.

"After Pearl Harbor there was additional and important reason for maintaining this mission. You will readily understand that it was invaluable to this Government to maintain an observer within Vatican City, one of the extremely few areas inside the European war zone which still had contact with all countries and where there were representatives of almost all the United Nations and of the enemy powers.

"As an observation post, the Vatican City was unique."

50-MILE SYSTEM OF SUBWAYS FOR ATTACKING RUSSIAN REAR COMMUNICATIONS. THE MAIN SUBWAY POWER STATIONS ALREADY HAVE BEEN OVERRUN, REDUCING THE GERMANS' ABILITY TO USE THE UNDERGROUND RAILWAY FOR COMMUNICATION.

RED ARMY MEN ATTACKED THE REMAINING SUBWAY STATIONS UNDER COVER OF SMOKE SCREENS. ALL THE STATIONS IN THE CITY'S CENTER, DISPATCHES SAID, WERE HIGHLY-FORTIFIED NAZI STRONGPOINTS.

DIFFICULTIES STILL LAY AHEAD.

"THE GERMANS HAVE MANY RESERVES AND IN MANY SECTORS ARE COUNTER-ATTACKING, USING TANKS AND INFANTRY AND ATTEMPTING TO SPLIT THE RUSSIAN FRONT, WHILE SELECT GROUPS OF GERMANS ARE FIRING MADLY FROM SPECIAL POINTS," ONE DISPATCH SAID.

SOUTH OF BERLIN, MARSHAL IVAN S.KONEV'S FIRST UKRAINIAN ARMY BROUGHT UP REINFORCEMENTS IN AN EFFORT TO SMASH BACK A LARGE GERMAN GROUP WHICH WAS ATTEMPTING TO BREAK THROUGH TO THE RELIEF OF THE BERLIN GARRISON FROM THE SOUTHWEST.

THE GERMANS HAD TURNED THEIR BACKS ON THE AMERICAN NINTH ARMY IN THIS SECTOR TO ATTACK RUSSIAN POSITIONS IN THE AREA OF BEELITZ, 12 MILES SOUTHWEST OF POTSDAM. THE NAZI HIGH COMMAND CLAIMED THAT BEELITZ HAD BEEN RECAPTURED BY THE GERMANS-- BUT THE NINTH ARMY WENT OVER TO THE ATTACK, AND KONEV'S TROOPS ALSO SMASHED AGAINST THE GERMANS FROM THE EAST.

ENEMY TROOPS IN A VIRTUALLY-SURROUNDED 200-SQUARE MILE POCKET BETWEEN THE NINTH ARMY AND KONEV'S FORCES WERE BEING HAMMERED FROM TWO DIRECTIONS.

THE GERMAN COMMUNIQUE ALSO ASSERTED THAT NAZI ATTACKS AGAINST THE SOUTHERN FLANK OF KONEV'S ARMY NORTHEAST OF DRESDEN HAD MADE HEADWAY AND DECLARED KAMENZ AND KOENIGSBRUECK HAD BEEN RECAPTURED.

KRONE WAS QUOTED AS SAYING THAT IN THE SUBWAY TUNNELS BENEATH THE CITY MORE THAN 40,000 DESERTERS WERE HIDING OUT. THESE FIGURES, HE SAID, CAME FROM HIGH-RANKING NAZIS.

NEW ORDERS WERE FOUND POSTED ON DOWNTOWN BERLIN BUILDINGS THREATENING IMMEDIATE REPRISALS AGAINST THE FAMILIES OF ALL DESERTERS. THE ORDERS WERE SIGNED BY HEINRICH HIMMLER.

A PRAVDA CORRESPONDENT, MAJ. SERGEI BORZENKO, WROTE:

"ALL DAY AND NIGHT ARTILLERY IS POUNDING THE CENTER OF THE CITY. THE EARTH IS SHAKING LIKE AN EARTHQUAKE. EVERY WALL IS PITTED WITH HOLES FROM CANNON, MACHINEGUNS, MORTARS OR RIFLES. "THE NIGHTS ARE LIKE THE DAYS. THE SAME CANNONADING. THERE IS NOT A CLOUD IN THE SKY. NOBODY NOTICES THE MOON AND HUNDREDS OF SEARCHLIGHTS ARE TRAINED ON THE GERMANS IN THE CITY."

TWO RED STAR CORRESPONDENTS WROTE:

MOSCOW, MONDAY, APRIL 30-(AP)-BEHIND INTENSIFIED MORTAR AND ARTILLERY FIRE THE RED ARMY LAST NIGHT EDGED CLOSER TO THE NAZIS' UNDERGROUND STRONGHOLD BENEATH TIERGARTEN IN BERLIN, CAPTURING 51,000 PRISONERS, 11,000 OF THEM IN THE CAPITAL.

GREATEST NEW MENACE TO THE CITY CAME FROM THE NORTHWEST IN THE MOABIT SECTOR, WHERE RUSSIAN STORM UNITS SEIZED 177 BUILDINGS AND GOT TO WITHIN A MILE OF THE REICHSTAG.

APR 30 1945

DRIVING NORTH FROM THE CAPTURED WILEMSDORF AND SCHOENEBERG SECTORS, THE SOVIETS CAME OUT ON POTSDAMERSTRASSE, THEIR FORWARD UNITS FIGHTING TO A POINT 600 YARDS FROM THE WAR MINISTRY.

NORTH OF BERLIN, MARSHAL G.K.ZHUKOV'S FORCES STORMED NINE DISTRICTS, BUT EVEN CLOSER TO THE HEART OF THE CITY A DISPATCH TO THE NEWSPAPER KOMSOMOL PRAVADA BY CORRESPONDENTS IN THE CAPITAL TOLD OF VIEWING THE RUINED STETTINER RAILWAY STATION, WHICH IS LESS THAN A MILE NORTH OF THE REICHSTAG.

FORTY THOUSAND PRISONERS WERE CAPTURED BY ZHUKOV'S TROOPS AND THOSE OF GEN. KONEV IN THE SECTOR SOUTHEAST OF BERLIN WHERE THE JOINED-UP ARMIES FOUGHT OFF AN ENCIRCLEMENT YESTERDAY. ZHUKOV'S MEN ACCOUNTED FOR 33,000 AND KONEV'S 7,000.

BITTER FIGHTING RAGED NEAR WILHELMSTRASSE, WHERE TWO DAYS AGO THE RUSSIANS GOT NEAR TO THE OPERA HOUSE AND CENTRAL MARKET.

MORTARS WORKED ALL DAY ON THE WILHELMSTRASSE, ESPECIALLY IN THE SECTOR OF HITLER'S CHANCELLERY AND THE KAISERHOF HOTEL, WHERE HITLER USED TO GO FOR DINNER ON OCCASION AND LANGUIDLY LISTEN TO WAGNERIAN MUSIC.

FIGHTING RAGED NEAR PAUL JOSEPH GOEBBELS' PROPAGANDA MINISTRY, WHICH IS JUST SOUTH OF THE KAISERHOF HOTEL. THERE WERE NO INDICATIONS YET THAT THE RUSSIANS HAD REACHED WILHELMSTRASSE, BUT THEY WERE WITHIN SHOOTING RANGE AND WORKING THEIR WAY CLOSER BY THE HOUR.

THIS SAME GROUP, THE ARMY WHICH STORMED THE FORLITZER STATION THREE DAYS AGO, HAS BEEN FIGHTING IN HAND TO HAND STRUGGLES FOR EVERY BUILDING, HOUSE AND RUBBLE PILE ON THE WAY TO THE WILHELMSTRASSE.

KONEIV'S AND ZHUKOV'S ARTILLERY FROM THE SOUTH AND SOUTHEAST RAINED EXTRA-HEAVY SHELLS ON THE TIERGARTEN, WHERE NUMEROUS NAZIS WERE CONGREGATED UNDERGROUND IN THE FORTRESS WHICH THEY BUILT YEARS AGO PRESUMABLY FOR JUST SUCH AN OCCASION.

IT WAS BELIEVED THAT MOST OF THE FIGHTING WAS BEING DIRECTED FROM THERE. DURING THE DAY AND NIGHT SPECIAL SQUADS OF STORMTROOPERS WERE DISPATCHED DOWN NUMEROUS CORRIDORS FROM THERE.

ALL SOVIET DISPATCHES TODAY STRESSED THAT UNDERGROUND FIGHTING WAS GOING ON IN THE CAPITAL AND IT APPEARED TO BE MORE DESPERATE THAN EVER BEFORE, WITH SHARP CLASHES IN SUBWAY TUNNELS AND STATIONS.

THROUGHOUT THE NIGHT THE RUSSIANS AGAIN TURNED THEIR POWERFUL SEARCHLIGHTS ON HEMMED-IN GERMANS, HIGHLIGHTING THEIR EVERY MOVEMENT AND IN MANY CASES BLINDING THEM.

ROME, APRIL 29-(AP)-ROME RECEIVED WORD OF THE EXECUTION OF BENITO MUSSOLINI WITH GRIM SATISFACTION TONIGHT.

A TYPICAL REACTION WAS THE COMMENT BY A TAXI DRIVER:

"THAT'S THE ONLY THING TO DO WITH MURDERERS OF THOUSANDS. THEY DON'T WANT ANY 45-DAY TRIALS UP THERE IN THE NORTH."

ITALIANS IN ROME AND ELSEWHERE HAVE SHOWN INCREASING PRIDE EACH DAY AS WORD OF FRESH PATRIOT UPRISINGS REACHED THEM. TONIGHT THEIR PRIDE SWEELED OVER THE FACT THAT PATRIOTS HAD DISPOSED OF THE TOP-RANKING FASCIST WAR CRIMINALS WITHOUT AWAITING THE ARRIVAL OF ALLIED TROOPS.

GENERALLY THERE APPEARED TO BE GREATER INTEREST OVER THE MILAN RADIO REPORT OF THE EXECUTION OF CLARETTA PETACCI--MISTRESS OF THE FORMER DICTATOR IN HIS LAST YEARS--THAN OVER THE KILLING OF THE MAN WHO RULED THEM AND BROUGHT THE NATION TO RUIN.

APR 30 1945

ROMANS FOR SOME TIME HAVE TAKEN IT FOR GRANTED THAT MUSSOLINI WOULD NOT LONG SURVIVE THE WAR AND ALLIED VICTORY, BUT THE WHEREABOUTS OF CLARETTA HAVE BEEN SOMETHING OF A MYSTERY. THERE HAD BEEN RUMORS THAT SHE HAD FLED TO SPAIN.

CLARETTA WAS REMEMBERED HERE AS A COMMONER WHO BECAME VAIN AND OVERBEARING WHEN MUSSOLINI'S FAVORS BROUGHT HER INTO PRIMINENCE. THE PEOPLE PARTICULARLY DETESTED HER DURING THE LEAN WAR YEARS WHEN SHE TRAVELED THE STREETS IN LUXURIOUS AUTOMOBILES AND GREW PLUMP ON THE CHOICEST FOODS.

"SHE WAS A SYMBOL OF FASCIST CORRUPTION," REMARKED AN ACTRESS WHO HAD KNOWN HER.

THE ONLY PUBLIC DEMONSTRATION IN ROME TODAY WAS A RALLY BY THE COMMITTEE OF NATIONAL LIBERATION IN APOSTOLI SQUARE, WHERE THOUSANDS GATHERED TO HONOR THE FREEING OF NORTHERN ITALY.

MUSSOLINI'S REPORTED EXECUTION STIRRED GREAT ADMIRATION HERE FOR THE PATRIOTS IN THE NORTH, AND THE CITIZENS WERE STRONGLY INCLINED TO CONTRAST THEIR QUICK DEALING WITH THE FASCISTS WITH THE RESULTS IN PREVIOUSLY LIBERATED AREAS.

THE PURGE HERE HAS BEEN IN PROGRESS EIGHT MONTHS AND THERE HAVE BEEN ONLY TWO EXECUTIONS--BOTH COMPARATIVELY SMALL FRY.

ABOARD ADM. R.K.TURNER'S FLAGSHIP OFF OKINAWA, APRIL 29 -(AP)-IN ONE OF THE MOST DASTARDLY ACTIONS OF THE WAR, A JAPANESE SUICIDE PILOT DOVE UPON THE FULLY-LIGHTED AND UNESCORTED NAVY HOSPITAL SHIP COMFORT, BOUND FOR REAR AREAS WITH A FULL LOAD OF OKINAWA BATTLE CASUALTIES, LAST NIGHT.

AT LEAST 29 PERSONS WERE KILLED AND 33 SERIOUSLY INJURED.

THE PLANE PLUNGED INTO THE SHIP'S STERN AFTER MAKING SEVERAL RUNS.

THERE WAS NO CHANCE FOR ANY KIND OF MISTAKE, AS THE ATTACK ON THE UNARMED VESSEL WAS IN BRIGHT, FULL MOONLIGHT. THE SHIP WAS BRIGHTLY LIGHTED AND HAD CLEAR MARKINGS IDENTIFYING HER AS A HOSPITAL SHIP.

THE RAID OCCURRED 50 MILES SOUTH OF OKINAWA. NO OTHER AMERICAN VESSEL WAS WITHIN MANY MILES.

LOADED TO CAPACITY WITH WOUNDED, THE COMFORT DEPARTED FOR REAR AREAS LATE YESTERDAY AFTERNOON. SHE WAS HIT LESS THAN FOUR HOURS LATER.

SHE AT FIRST WAS REPORTED ABANDONING SHIP, BUT IT SOON WAS DETERMINED SHE WAS ABLE TO PROCEED UNDER HER OWN POWER DESPITE A DAMAGED RUDDER MECHANISM WHICH REQUIRED STEERING BY HAND FROM AFT.

THE COMFORT MESSAGED A CALL FOR DOCTORS AND SURGICAL INSTRUMENTS. IT WAS BELIEVED HERE THE ENEMY PLANE HIT IN THE SURGERY AT THE REAR OF THE SHIP, WHERE DOCTORS AND NURSES WERE BUSY WITH THE MOST CRITICAL BATTLEFIELD CASUALTIES.

THE HOSPITAL SHIP WAS PAINTED A SHINING WHITE, WITH RED CROSSES ON THE SIDES AND SUPERSTRUCTURE. THESE ARE FLOODLIGHTED AT NIGHT.

ON THE AFTERNOON OF APRIL 6 FROM THIS FLAGSHIP I SAW A SUICIDE PLANE, IN CLEAR WEATHER AND PERFECT VISIBILITY, DIVE DIRECTLY AT THE COMFORT, GLEAMING WHITE AMIDST HUNDREDS OF DRAB OR CAMOUFLAGED WARSHIPS. ANTIAIRCRAFT FIRE BROUGHT THE BURNING PLANE DOWN JUST SHORT OF THE HOSPITAL SHIP--SO CLOSE THAT SOME EXPLODING AND FLAMING DEBRIS TOUCHED THE VESSEL.

THE SAME DAY, BEFORE DAWN, A JAPANESE PLANE DROPPED TWO BOMBS NEAR ANOTHER HOSPITAL SHIP OF THE SAME SIZE AS THE COMFORT. THAT VESSEL STOOD OFF, BRIGHTLY LIGHTED, FAR FROM OTHER VESSELS. BOTH BOMBS NARROWLY MISSED THEIR TARGET.

BY CONTRAST, THE AMERICANS HAVE EVEN PUT UP AN AIR PATROL OVER JAPANESE HOSPITAL SHIPS TO PREVENT OTHER PLANES FROM BOMBING THEM MISTAKENLY. AT RABAUL, FOR MONTHS THE AMERICANS CAREFULLY AVOIDED HITTING LIGHTED HOSPITAL SHIPS IN THE MUCH BOMBED HARBOR, ALTHOUGH THEY WERE THE EASIEST POSSIBLE TARGETS.

GUAM, MONDAY, APRIL 30-(AP)-ADOPTING NEW TACTICS, TWO FAIRLY STRONG FORCES OF JAPANESE AIRPLANES ATTACKED AMERICAN WARSHIPS OFF OKINAWA FRIDAY NIGHT. THEY SANK ONE NAVAL AUXILIARY AND DAMAGED SOME OTHER UNIDENTIFIED SHIPS.

ADM. CHESTER W. NIMITZ REPORTED THE ATTACK COST THE ENEMY 25 PLANES DESTROYED; TWO PROBABLY DOWNED.

BY STRIKING AT NIGHT--IN CONTRAST TO THEIR PREVIOUS TACTICS OF DAYLIGHT RAIDS--THE JAPANESE INDICATED THEY MAY HAVE ABANDONED FOR THE TIME BEING AT LEAST, THEIR AERIAL KAMIKAZE (SUICIDE) ATTACKS AS TOO COSTLY FOR THE DAMAGE ACHIEVED.

ON THE SOUTHERN OKINAWA FRONT, 24TH CORPS TROOPS SLUGGED AHEAD SLOWLY AGAINST STIFFENED RESISTANCE BY JAPANESE WHO HAD FALLEN BACK FROM THEIR FIRST LINE OF FORTIFICATIONS.

ENEMY TROOP CONCENTRATIONS, SPOTTED BEHIND THE FRONT BY OBSERVATION PLANES, WERE BROKEN UP WIP

ENEMY TROOP CONCENTRATIONS, SPOTTED BEHIND THE FRONT BY OBSERVATION PLANES, WERE BROKEN UP WITH HEAVY ARTILLERY AND NAVAL BOMBARDMENT.

CARRIER AIR PATROLS DESTROYED 32 JAPANESE PLANES OFF YAKU ISLAND, 50 MILES SOUTH OF KYUSHU; OFF KIKAI IN THE NORTHERN RYUKYUS, AND IN THE OKINAWA AREA SATURDAY. THE FACT NIMITZ DID NOT REPORT THAT THESE ENEMY AIRCRAFT ATTACKED U.S. FORCES MIGHT INDICATE THEY WERE DEFEATED BEFORE THEY COULD REACH THEIR TARGETS.

THE NIPPONESE INCREASED THEIR SMALL BOAT ACTIVITY IN THE OKINAWA SECTOR. SEVERAL OF THESE CRAFT WERE DESTROYED FRIDAY NIGHT. THEY MAY HAVE BEEN SMALL SUICIDE BOATS ATTEMPTING TO HIT SUPPLY SHIPS OR WARSHIPS COINCIDENT WITH THE AERIAL ATTACKS.

"THIS FARMER SAW US COMING AND THE FASTER WE'D WALK, THE FASTER HE'D WALK. FINALLY, HE TOOK OFF IN A RUN AND WE NEVER DID SEE HIM AGAIN."

PEARL HARBOR, APRIL 29-(AP)-ARTIFICIAL WATERSPOUTS WERE CHURNED UP BY JAPANESE NAVAL GUNNERS IN THEIR FUTILE EFFORTS TO SAVE THE GREAT BATTLESHIP YAMATO FROM LOW-FLYING TORPEDO PLANE ATTACKERS IN THE INLAND SEA, A 22-YEAR-OLD U.S. NAVAL AVIATOR DISCLOSED HERE.

THE STORY OF THE MAN-MADE STORM AT SEA WAS RELATED BY LIEUTENANT (J.G.) JOHN P. SPEIDEL, OF PHILADELPHIA, PA., NOW ENROUTE TO HIS HOME ON LEAVE.

APR 30 1945

LIEUTENANT SPEIDEL HELPED SINK THE YAMATO, FLINGING ONE TORPEDO INTO HER SIDE. IT EXPLODED UNDERNEATH THE BRIDGE.

DESCRIBING THE APRIL 7 ACTION IN WHICH THE YAMATO WAS SUNK BY AMERICAN CARRIER PLANES OFF KYUSHU ISLAND, SPEIDEL SAID AT A PRESS CONFERENCE:

"OUR GROUP OF PLANES WAS THE SECOND TO GO IN AGAINST HER. SHE HAD ALREADY BEEN HIT, BUT WASN'T BURNING. THERE WERE FOUR DESTROYERS AROUND HER--THERE HAD BEEN MORE, BUT THEY HAD BEEN SUNK BEFORE WE GOT THERE.

"THE BATTLESHIP AND THE DESTROYERS WERE SHOOTING EVERYTHING THEY HAD AT US--INCLUDING 16-INCH SHELLS.

"WE HAD TO FLY IN LOW TO DROP THE TORPEDO, AND THEY GOT TO SHOOTING INTO THE WATER IN FRONT OF US, SPLASHING UP ENORMOUS WATERSPOUTS, HOPING WE WOULD FLY INTO ONE OF THESE AND BE DROWNED.

"BUT ANYWAY, WE DROPPED THE TORPEDO AND TURNED AWAY.

"I COULD SEE THE TRACK MADE BY THE TORPEDO. THEN PRETTY SOON MY RADIOMAN SCRAMED, 'WE HIT HER' WE HIT HER!'"

LIEUTENANT SPEIDEL GOT BACK TO HIS CARRIER WITHOUT A SCRATCH. SO DID HIS AIRCREWMEN, RADIOMAN AL KERBY, OF WOODBURY, N.Y., AND GUNNER WILLIAM GROEPPER, OF AVOCA, IOWA.

"THIS JAP WAS DISGUISED AS A STUNTED TREE," STEBBINS SAID. "HE WAS NOT VERY CONVINCING AND OUR ARTILLERY OBSERVERS SPOTTED HIM. THEY FIGURED HE WAS AN OBSERVER FOR JAP ARTILLERY AND MAYBE THERE WAS AN ENEMY BATTERY NEARBY.

"WE TURNED OUR GUNS LOOSE ON HIM AND MADE HIM ABANDON HIS TREE DISGUISE AND RUN FOR COVER. BUT APPARENTLY WE NEVER HIT HIM. I DON'T KNOW WHETHER WE DAMAGED ANYTHING ELSE OR NOT."

WHEN AMERICAN FORCES CAPTURED THE CITY OF BAGUIO, SUMMER CAPITAL OF THE PHILIPPINES, THEY TOOK OVER WHAT, BEFORE THE WAR, WAS ONE OF THE WORLD'S FINEST MOUNTAIN RESORTS AND A POINT OF STRATEGIC MILITARY VALUE IN PROSECUTING THE CAMPAIGN AGAINST THE JAPANESE IN NORTHERN LUZON ISLAND.

BAGUIO, 175 MILES NORTH OF MANILA, STANDS AT AN ELEVATION OF 5,000 FEET IN THE HEART OF THE BENGUET MOUNTAINS. IT HAS A COOL, BRACING CLIMATE IN SHARP CONTRAST TO THE TERRIFIC TROPICAL HEAT OF THE LOWLANDS. THE U.S. ARMY UNDOUBTEDLY WILL OPEN A BAGUIO REST AND RECUPERATION CAMP FOR OFFICERS AND SOLDIERS, SIMILAR TO THE PRE-WAR CAMP JOHN HAY LOCATED ON THE OUTSKIRTS OF THE CITY.

BAGUIO, WITH A NORMAL POPULATION OF 25,000 AND DOUBLE THAT DURING THE HOT MONTHS OF MARCH, APRIL, MAY AND JUNE, IS THE GOLD CENTER

OF THE PHILIPPINES. THROUGH ITS POSTOFFICE CLEARED, IN THE YEARS JUST PRIOR TO THE WAR, GOLD BARS WORTH MORE THAN $20,000,000 ANNUALLY.

NATIVES OF THE BAGUIO AREA ARE THE FRIENDLY AND COLORFUL BONTOC IGOROTES, POWERFULLY BUILT MOUNTAINEERS WHOSE DRESS HAS NEVER CHANGED FROM HOMEMADE G-STRINGS.

BAGUIO CITY'S COLORFUL SUNDAY MARKET PLACE WAS A FINE CONCRETE STRUCTURE, CLEAN AS A PIN. IT WAS OPERATED BY FILIPINOS IN WESTERN FRESS AND BY G-STRINGED IGOROTES.

BEFORE THE WAR THE CITY WAS THE SITE OF THE PHILIPPINES MILITARY ACADEMY, WEST POINT OF THE ISLANDS; A BIG REST CAMP FOR SCHOOL TEACHERS AND ANOTHER FOR AMERICAN MILITARY PERSONNEL; THE GOVERNMENT CENTER; A LARGE JAPANESE SCHOOL; SEVERAL AMERICAN SCHOOLS; THE SUMMER PALACE OF THE COMMONWEALTH PRESIDENT AND THE VACATION RESIDENCE OF THE UNITED STATES HIGH COMMISSIONER.

AMERICAN ENGINEERS BUILT THE TWISTING MOUNTAIN ROADS THAT LEAD FROM THE LOWLANDS TO BAGUIO.

VICTORY BANNER FLIES OVER CITY, STALIN DECLARES

Russian Leader Says Last Assault Against Nazis Has Begun.

GERMANS ANNIHILATED

Soviet Troops Within Mile Of Splitting Capital in Half.

LONDON, Tuesday, May 1—(AP) The Soviet banner of victory floated over the gutted shell of the German Reichstag in Berlin today and Red Army troops were splitting the remaining defenders in what Premier Stalin formally described as "the last assault."

Stalin, in a special order of the day, said that the Russians were celebrating this May Day during the victorious conclusion of the war."

Nazis Squeezed Into Pocket

An early-morning supplement to the regular Moscow communique said, however, that the Germans, now squeezed into the center of Berlin, were stubbornly keeping street crossings and houses under heavy fire, "killing in the process the civilian population of the city."

Soviet troops were within a mile of tearing the capital into two isolated pockets each less than nine square miles. They had won the Ministry of Interior near the Reichstag, were laying siege to Hitler's underground fortress in the Tiergarten, were at Berlin's triumphal arch, the Brandenburg gate, and were across the Spree river from Berlin's cathedral.

Stalin said that 1,800,000 Germans had been killed or captured during the last three to four months of fighting on the Eastern front. His announcement meant that 11,540,000 German casualties had been inflicted by the Red army in less than four years of war.

As 9,000 more Nazi troops surrended in Berlin, raising to 65,500 the toll of enemy dead and captured in four days, north of the dying capital Red Army troops, rolling out mile-an-hour gains across Mecklenburg province, seized the Baltic port of Greifswald and smashed within 42 miles of Rostock. The island-bound port of Swinemuende was isolated.

Far to the south, Gen. Andrei I. Yeremenko's Fourth Ukrainian Army captured Moravska-Ostrava, the "Pittsburgh of Czechoslovakia," while cavalrymen of the Second Ukrainian Army plunged through the Morava river valley toward a junction that would roll up a German salient in eastern Moravia.

Reichstag Captured

Capture of the famous Reichstag building, which was wrecked by fire in February, 1933, four weeks after Hitler assumed power, and was used by the Nazis as a pretext for seizing dictatorial powers, was announced in Moscow's nightly war bulletin.

Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's battle-grimed First White Russian Army street fighters captured Germany's legislative chambers after they had stormed over the Moltke river bridge from Moabit, and seized the Ministry of the Interior.

Sweeping across the barricades in wide Koenigsplatz, they broke into the Reichstag and "hoisted the banner of victory," Moscow said.

Heinrich Himmler's ministry of the interior lies north of the famous Kroll opera house, used by the German parliament after the burning of the Reichstag. Here, little more than a month before his attack on the Soviet Union, Hitler told the Nazi assembly:

"Germany can no longer be subjugated. She is so strong that no combination of powers could ever successfully prevail against her."

But as the Russians raised their flag over the Reichstag Stalin said that the days of Hitler's Germany were numbered.

The Russians, standing at the Brandenburg gate and across the street from the American embassy, were battling into the eastern end of the Tiergarten, where Hitler and Propaganda Minister Goebbels have been reported directing Berlin's defense from a fortified, underground headquarters.

Along with the Reichstag and the Ministry of the Interior, Zhukov's troops captured 200 city blocks in the center of the capital. The central postoffice, on the east bank of the Spree opposite the Dom (cathedral) also was seized by troops battling into the center from Alexander-Platz. The fall of these buildings placed Red Army assault forces at both ends of the mile-long Unter den Linden.

Only a mile separated Zhukov's troops at the Reichstag from those who, advancing into the central district from the south, captured Anhalter rail depot Sunday. A junction in the center of Berlin would split the German defenders into a nine-square-mile pocket to the north, in the area of Dedding, Gesundbrunnen and Humboldt-Hain, and another pocket southwest of the Tiergarten.

In the latter area Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 1st Ukrainian Army troops captured several blocks of buildings in the city district of Wilmersdorf and won the Westkreuz railway switching yards, four miles southwest of the Reichstag.

The mile-long area between Zhukov's two encircling prongs is packed with all Germany's major administrative buildings, including Hitler's own Reich Chancellery.

As the battle neared its end the German radio admitted only a few strongholds still held out in the center of the capital. Nazi lamentations indicated the Germans had given up all hope of holding out much longer.

"The hard battle for Berlin reached its climax today," the Hamburg radio said. "A heroic, gruesome fate has befallen Berlin. This vast European town has ceased to exist. These are the hours of her last heave."

Across the Mecklenburg plain to the North, Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's 2d White Russian Army tore through the faltering defenses of German's northern redoubt and, in addition to Griefswald, captured the communications centers of Neustrelitz, Strelitz, Treptow, Fuerstenberg and Gransee.

Smashing west on an 80-mile front, Rokossovsky's troops isolated the island-bound port of Swinemuende and the V-bomb experimental station at Pennemuende and imperiled the port of Stralsund.

Soviets Smash Into Berlin's Famed Park

MAY 1 1945

London, April 30 (AP)—Russian tanks have smashed into the Tiergarten, Berlin's Central Park, converted into an underground fortress, the Nazi-controlled Oslo radio said today, and Moscow reports said the fall of the capital was imminent.

The newspaper Pravda said the Russians were fighting in the ruins of Unter den Linden, the spacious avenue in the heart of Berlin that terminates at the Tiergarten.

Earlier Moscow dispatches said the Russians were approaching the large park.

Climax Reached, Nazis Say

The Hamburg radio, chief Nazi transmitter still broadcasting in Germany, proclaimed that "the hard battle for Berlin reached its climax today."

Mortar fire was concentrated on the Kaiserhof Hotel, where Hitler used to go to dine and listen to Wagnerian music.

Moscow dispatches said Marshals Gregory K. Zhukov and Ivan S. Konev, commanding Red armies at Berlin, were going all out for a May Day victory and had thrown in maximum artillery and air power to reduce the Nazis' strongholds in the center of the city.

Soviet dispatches from Berlin said the Nazis hemmed in a very small area made up roughly of the Tiergarten, the Reichstag district to its north, the Wilhelmstrasse administrative quarter and most of the crowded commercial district centered on Unter den Linden, running east from the Tiergarten.

Situation By Districts

By districts, this was the general battle line, Moscow said:

1. Northwest, there was fighting along the Spree River near the Lehrter freight yards opposite the northern edge of the Tiergarten and 700 yards northwest of the Reichstag.

2. In the northern sector battles raged south of the Stettiner railroad station near the Oranienburger gate to the inner city, about 1,000 yards north of the Reichstag.

3. About the eastern sector there was not much definite information. The Russians were said to be near the Alexander Gate.

4. In the southeast bitter fighting was swaying near the Wilhelmstrasse.

Hard Battles To South

5. The southern sector was the scene of hard battles north of Anhalter station near the Potsdamer Platz and Prinz Albrechtstrasse.

6. In the southwest there was fighting about a mile and a quarter from the zoo at the edge of the Tiergarten. Here the Russians were moving ahead rapidly.

7. The western sector battles had reached almost to the edge of the Tiergarten with very heavy hand-to-hand fighting in some places. Many German machine gun and light field gun positions, as well as anti-aircraft guns, were being used against Russian tanks and infantry.

Suicides And Desertions

A wave of suicides and desertions whittled the ranks of the capital's defenders and the Russians squeezed the mauled German garrison into a flame-swept 18-square-mile pocket—all that remained to the Nazis of Greater Berlin's 431 square miles.

In the heat of hundreds of fires, Russia's Stalingrad veterans climbed over piles of Nazi dead and waded through seas of shattered glass to within half a mile of Hitler's Chancellery and to the northern portion of the Tiergarten.

The Great Anhalter railroad station near central Potsdamer Platz was captured, the district of Moabit fell, the district of Wilmersdorf was seized up to Berlinerstrasse and Moscow reported another 11,000 German soldiers captured—for a three-day total of 54,000.

40,000 Captured

Southeast of the city, the Red Army finished the liquidation of an encircled enemy group, capturing 40,000, Moscow said.

Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's tanks and cavalry captured the cities of Anklam, Friedland, Neubrandenburg and Lychen in the province of Mecklenburg, virtually isolated the big Baltic port of Swinemuende and rolled to within 56 miles of Rostock.

Port Cities Imperiled

The advance to Anklam, an important communications center, imperiled the port cities of Griefswald and Stralsund and the Nazis' V-bomb experimental station at Peenemuende.

To the south, Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's 2d Ukrainian Army in Czechoslovakia advanced along a 36-mile front west of captured Bruenn (Brno) toward a meeting with Marshal Konev's forces, 64 miles distant in northern Moravia.

AMERICAN TROOPS MOP UP SNIPERS IN NAZI CITADEL

Seventh Army Closing on Innsbruck to Menace Enemy in Redoubt.

NEW LINK-UPS MADE

Allies Stab Across Elbe in Effort to Seal Off Denmark.

PARIS, Tuesday, May 1.—(AP) Munich, birthplace of the Nazi movement and the third greatest city of Germany, fell last night to the triumphant U. S. Seventh army after short but savage one-day battle.

MAY 1 1945

Gen. Jacob L. Devers, commander of the Sixth Army group, hailed the fall of Munich as the accomplishment of one principal objective of his army group and declared "it may well affect the final stages of the war to a degree second only to the fall of Berlin."

Yanks Clean Up Snipers

All organized resistance was crushed in the three-quarters of Munich lying west of the Isar river and today Doughboys were crossing the stream to clear out snipers from the final quarter.

More than 50 miles south of this reputed northern citadel of the Nazis' last-stand fortress in the Alps, other Seventh army tanks and infantry plunged into the Bavarian Alps, 12 miles northwest of Innsbruck at the northern end of the Brenner pass, imperiling the entire German position in the west third of the redoubt.

Amid reports that the Germans were trying to negotiate final surrender, Gen. Eisenhower's armies hammered ahead in both the north and south.

The U. S. First and Ninth armies made two new junctions with the Russians on the Elbe southwest of Berlin and were about to snap shut a trap on large numbers of the capital's defenders farther north.

The U. S. 82nd Airborne division, fighting as part of the British Second army, forced a second crossing of the Elbe river in the Hamburg sector and drove north about two miles.

The British in their own bridgehead 20 miles east of Hamburg were at least six miles beyond the river and were 25 miles south of Luebeck, whose fall would seal off the north German province of Schleswig-Holstein as well as Denmark.

(An unconfirmed Stockholm report said German marines mutinied at the Kiel naval base rather than go to the front.)

Cross Isar River

In the south, the U.S. Third army seized control of 60 miles of the Isar river northeast of Munich, crossed at three points, and armored columns fought 65 miles north of Salzburg, eastern anchor of the redoubt.

On the east flank, two more crossings were made into Czechoslovakia and armored columns were heading south for what may be a big tank battle in Austria with German tanks moving north to meet the attack.

(The Luxembourg radio said the Third army and the Russians were about to meet at Linz, Austrian communications city, but there was no hint in field dispatches of any big American movement inside Austria on that sector.)

Plugging at the western end of the redoubt, the French First army captured the aircraft center of Friedrichshafen on the north shore of Lake Constance and at the east end of the lake plowed three miles into Austria and captured Bregenz.

The Seventh army was pounding two steel wedges into the formidable Alpine country east of Lake Constance where, if anywhere, the Germans should be able to put up a stern defense.

But a dispatch from the field said that a large force of Germans standing guard on the northern approaches to Innsbruck was unofficially reported to be negotiating for surrender.

It was on this sector that the Americans were a dozen miles from Innsbruck, which controls all east-west roads through the Alpine redoubt, after capturing the Alpine town of Mittenwald.

Twenty-six miles to the west, a second wedge had been driven 10 miles into Austria, and forking out along the Alpine highways two columns both were about 15 miles from the main east-west highway leading into Innsbruck.

Seize Munich Airdrome

It was the 45th division which fought into the heart of Munich from the north after capturing Ober Wiesenfeld airport, Germany's second largest before the war.

The Third Infantry division still was engaged in furious fighting in the western suburbs.

In the center of the city, the Germans depressed their 88 millimeter antiaircraft guns and fought against the charging columns. The firing fell off, however, as counterbattery fire knocked out many of the guns and infantry edged in and captured others.

Gen. Eisenhower's armies in the last 24 hours reported the liberation of 177,500 prisoners of war and political prisoners.

The infamous concentration camp at Dachau, northwest of Munich was overrun by the U. S. Seventh Army, which mowed down resisting Nazi guards with tommyguns and freed 32,000 political prisoners.

It was revealed that the U. S. Third Army had freed 110,000 Allied prisoners of war, including 11,000 Americans, at the biggest German prison camp at Moosburg, instead of 27,000 as previously reported.

The Canadians west of Bremen freed camps at Strucklingen and Saldbostel where 25,000 political and war prisoners had been caged.

The Seventh Army liberated 6,500 British and French prisoners at Murnau, 30 miles southwest of Munich, along with the Polish governor of Warsaw and several Polish generals. Four thousand women were freed from a camp at Aichach, north of Munich.

9th Army, Russians Juncture; Munich Fight Intensified

Paris, April 30 (AP).—The American 9th Army established another contact with the Russians 3 miles west of Wittenberg today, creating a small new untenable German pocket between their diminishing northern and southern redoubts.

In the south a hard battle was in progress for Munich, birthplace of the Nazi party and largest German city yet entered by the Americans.

The new junction was east of Dessau at Apollendorf, 71 miles northwest of Reisa in the Dresden-Leipzig area where the Russians and American 1st Army first met and cut Germany in two. American forces were released for other duties by the new meeting.

Battling For Munich

Many divisions of the American 7th Army were engaged in a stiff battle on the fringes of Munich where the beer hall from which Hitler started his abortive putsch in 1923 already has been seized.

The Nazis resisted with batteries of anti-aircraft, leveled as field artillery. The 42d, 45th, 3d, 4th and 20th Armored Divisions bored into the Bavarian capital from the north and west despite the murderous fire.

Driving On Linz

Meanwhile, the Germans said another junction was imminent between the American 3d Army and the Russians, both of which were advancing on Linz in Austria from west and east. A meeting in that Austrian city would lop off all the unconquered Bohemian and Moravian sections of Czechoslovakia and cut the enemy into three pockets.

The 7th Army to the south moved within 13 miles of Innsbruck, 33 of the Brenner Pass and about 125 of the Allied armies in Italy — where German military power was declared broken.

General Simpson's 9th Army established contact with a Russian patrol at 7.30 A.M. battlefront time. The Americans were of the 125th Cavalry and were led by Capt. Adolf C. Ploehn, Battle Creek, Mich., a former Michigan State policeman.

The patrol immediately started making arrangements for General Macon of the Thunderbolt (83d) Division to meet the Russian commander. The 83d was last reported in the Elbe bridgehead, where Zerbst was captured yesterday. The 9th Army had been waiting on the Elbe for two weeks, while the Russians proceeded with the task of reducing Berlin, 45 to 50 miles west.

Germans Jam Area

The joining of 9th Army and Russian forces was accompanied by a rush of terrorized Germans attempting to flee across the Elbe into American lines southeast of Barby.

Patrols have been going back and forth from the Elbe for ten days. Twice, the patrols have been halted by accepting too many German prisoners. Some 4,500 surrendered last night during a 6-mile advance from the bridgehead northeast of Zerbst.

End Is Held Near

Indications at Supreme Headquarters were that hostilities in Europe would last—at the most—only a matter of days. High-ranking Nazis were reported seeking peace.

In its drive the 7th Army captured the notorious Dachau concentration camp near Munich and 32,000 political and religious prisoners were freed.

Besides capturing the Dachau concentration camp, first extermination factory established by the Nazis, the 7th Army seized another camp at Moosburg and freed 27,000 prisoners. A great number were Americans.

The 3d Army crossed the Isar River and beat down the last 65 miles toward Salzburg and the 70 to 75 miles of Berchtesgaden, headquarters of the Alpine hideaway.

3d Nearing Braunau

In the north the British breached the lower Elbe River and advanced within 20 miles east of Hamburg, greatest continental port and second largest German city.

The Oslo radio, one of the last remaining mouthpieces of the Reich, said Patton was approaching Linz on the Danube from the west and that Marshal Tolbukhin was driving on that city from the east. The armies established radio contact last week, but have been operating under partial security blackouts. Linz is on the last route from Czechoslovakia and its heavy industries into the redoubt.

At positions across the Isar River, the 3d Army was 33 miles or less from the Austrian frontier town of Braunau, where Hitler was born.

74,986 More Captured

Meanwhile, the dissolution of the last of Germany's armed forces continued. On Saturday, the Allies of the West captured 74,986 prisoners for an April total of 1,291,738 and an aggregate since D-day of 2,621,433. The 3d Army in nine days has taken 120,000 prisoners to swell its total to 656,000.

The three armies knifing into the southern redoubt already were 2,745 feet high in the Bavarian Alps at captured Oberammergau, site of the famous Passion Plays. Patch's men also took Mittenwald and Partenkirchen.

Patch's Tiger (Tenth Armored) and Forty-fourth divisions were at least three miles inside Austria south of Fuessen and closing on Innsbruck, a major traffic center and capital of the Austrian Tyrol. It was the Tiger Division which seized Oberammergau. The Forty-fourth was fighting at the second road center of Rosschlag.

French Also In Austria.

The French First Army in a twenty-eight-mile advance last night crossed the Austrian frontier in the area of Bregenz at the eastern end of Lake Constance. It followed the Third and Seventh armies into that land.

The French also entered the aircraft and zeppelin center of Friedrichshafen and captured Lindau. The French said they had captured 90,000 Germans since crossing the Rhine, including seven generals.

Skirt Ammer See

East of the Lech River, other tank units skirted the eastern side of the Ammer See and sprinted ahead to capture Spatzenhausen on one of the main roads into the Alps.

General Patton's army, spearheaded by the 13th Armored Division which was initiated in the Ruhr pocket, won domination of 60 miles of the Isar River between Freising and Plattling, both 78 miles from Berchtesgaden. The Isar was crossed three times by mid-morning: At Plattling, 5 miles southeast of Deggendorf; near Mamming, 4 miles southwest of Landau, and at Oberhumel, 14 miles southwest of Landshut.

In 24 hours, the 3d Army gained up to 20 miles along an 80-mile front, from Freising east to a point close to the Austrian border, 20 miles east of Deggendorf. The 86th Infantry Division fought inside Freising, 17 miles north of Munich.

Bridgehead Expanded

The British on the 9th Army's left was expanding its Elbe River bridgehead. General Dempsey's 2d Army reached Galzou, Krakow and Kruzen. At last reports the bridgehead was 5 miles wide. Northwest of Zeven, the British reached the outskirts of Bremervorde, due east of Wesermunde.

Canadian troops to the east cleared Leer save for a few stragglers and pushed north across a railroad running south out of Emden, already within artillery range.

GERMAN ARMIES SMASHED IN ITALY

Gen. Clark Reveals Fighting Virtually Ended, Mopping Up Remains.

NORTHERN

ROME, April 30—(AP) German armies in Italy have been "virtually eliminated as a military force" by the shattering onslaught of the Allies, Gen. Mark W. Clark announced tonight as American Fifth Army troops marched into the great arsenal city of Turin and found it already in the hands of Italian patriots.

Gen. Clark, commander of the 15th Army group, declared that the long, bitter campaign which began on the shell-swept beaches at Salerno in Sept., 1943, had ended except for mopping up scattered Nazi resistance.

More than 120,000 German prisoners and tremendous quantities of arms and equipment have been swept up in the maelstrom set off by the British Eighth Army 22 days ago and joined by the American Fifth Army a week later. Twenty-five Nazi divisions have been ripped to shreds.

"The military power of Germany in Italy has practically ceased, even though scattered fighting may continue as remnants of the German armies are mopped up," said General Clark, commander of the 15th Army group, in a statement to correspondents at his command post.

"Troops of the 15th Army group have so smashed the German armies in Italy that they have been virtually eliminated as a military force. Twenty-five German divisions, some of the best in the German Army, have been torn to pieces and can no longer effectively resist our armies."

British Eighth Army forces, sweeping beyond captured Venice, drove across the Piave river at a point only 74 miles by highway from Trieste around the head of the Adriatic sea. A Belgrade announcement said Marshal Tito's Yugoslav partisans were fighting the Germans through the streets of Trieste.

Elements of the American 91st division and South African armored forces captured Treviso, north of Venice, and British troops seized an important bridge across the Piave near Nervesa. The veteran U. S. First Armored division captured more than 12,000 prisoners in the past 24 hours, including four German major generals.

Units of the American 10th Mountain division, leading the pursuit of enemy remnants through the Alps toward the Brenner pass, crossed Lake Garda in storm boats and captured Benito Mussolini's former villa on the west shore at Garganano. They then cut one of the few escape roads left to Brenner pass. The only report of German resistance was in that area.

Turin, industrial city of 629,115 population and the last important Italian metropolis to be yielded by the Nazis, was occupied by infantry of the 442nd regiment, composed of Japanese of American ancestry. Italian patriots, who have spared Allied troops much fighting in recent days, were in complete control of the city.

The American troops in Turin were only 28 miles from the French frontier, and their link-up with French forces striking eastward from the Riviera appeared to be imminent. An Eighth Army union with the Yugoslav partisans at or near Trieste also appeared to be only a matter of hours, as there was little or nothing to slow the British down.

The German garrison of Chioggia, south of Venice, surrendered in a body and the important industrial port of Mestre on the mainland opposite Venice also was in Allied hands.

85th Clears Vicenza

American troops of the 85th Infantry Division cleared Vicenza, 20 miles northwest of Padova (Padua), and pushed on north across the Astico River. Southeast of Vicenza American and South African forces closed up to the Bacchiglione River line.

Allied headquarters announced that negotiations were in progress for the surrender of the Fascist Ligurian army of Marshal Rodolfo Graziani. The Marshal, who was Minister of War in Mussolini's puppet régime, was reported unofficially to have been tried and executed by Italian Partisans.

General Clark today broadcast a message to the people of Milan expressing his "heartfelt appreciation" of their uprising which seized the city from the Germans last week and made it unnecessary for Allied troops to take it by storm.

Italy Campaign Nears End

HEADQUARTERS

Rome, April 30 (AP)—Gen. Mark Clark, 15th Army group commander, today announced the virtual end of the long campaign in Italy.

Declaring that the German armies in Italy have "been virtually eliminated as a military force," he said that 25 enemy divisions have been torn to pieces in the 22-day offensive of the United States 5th and British 8th armies.

He said the Germans "can no longer effectively resist our armies," but added that scattered fighting may continue.

120,000 Prisoners Taken

Clark said that over 120,000 prisoners had been captured and that many more were being taken along with tremendous quantities of arms and equipment.

"The military power of Germany in Italy has practically ceased even though scattered fighting may continue as remnants of the German armies are mopped up," Clark said.

DAY

In the past three weeks 5th Army troops have slashed their way to the Swiss border and the 8th Army has reached, if not already crossed, the Piave River and is approaching a junction with the Yugoslavs 70 miles away.

Advance On Several Fronts

Three of northern Italy's greatest cities—Milan, Venice and Genoa—were in Allied hands as the 5th and 8th armies smashed ahead on several fronts in a continuing route of the Germans.

The general command of the Italian Freedom Volunteer Corps directed a message to Allied headquarters in Italy over the Milan radio asking for the "immediate suspension" of air operations over the town of Abbiategrasso, 6 miles south of Milan, "because negotiations are taking place with the German command there."

[The broadcast, reported by the FCC, did not state the issues being negotiated nor indicate that the Patriots were dealing with Germans of higher rank than local area commanders.]

Clark's Statement

Clark gave this statement in response to an inquiry from reporters at his command post:

"Troops of the 15th Army Group have so smashed the German armies in Italy that they have been virtually eleminated as a military force. This destruction has all been accomplished in an offensive which now is 22 days old for the 8th Army and 15 days old for the major part of the 5th Army. Twenty-five German divisions, some of the best in the German Army, have been torn to pieces and can no longer effectively resist our armies.

"Thousands of vehicles and tremendous quantities of arms and equipment and over 120,000 prisoners have been captured and many more are being corraled. The military power of Germany in Italy has practically ceased, even though scattered fighting may continue as remnants of the German armies are mopped up."

Unique In History

It was not stated how many troops of the two German armies in Italy had managed to reach refuge in the foothills of the Alps.

With Clark's statement the bitter campaign, unique in history, was brought almost to its conclusion. Never before had an army succeeded in driving through the difficult mountainous terrain of Italy from the south to the north. The campaign started in September, 1943, with landings in Calabria and at Salerno.

The 5th seized Milan, where the bodies of the executed Benito Mussolini and seventeen Fascist comrades lay, while other American troops dashed to the port of Genoa, liberated two days earlier by Italian Patriots. The British captured Venice.

[A Belgrade broadcast recorded by the FCC said Yugoslav Partisan troops had entered the port of Trieste.]

Battle Near Brenner Pass

An Allied communiqué today said the Germans were fighting desperately north of Lake Garda, near the Brenner Pass, but added that the enemy lines were disorganized.

The thrust in northern Italy swept ahead so rapidly that it was difficult to maintain communications.

Allied night bombers ranged the roads in the area of Lake Garda and Lake Como, hunting out German forces which have taken refuge in the foothills of the Alps. Vehicles and troop columns were attacked.

One large concentration on the west side of Lake Como was attacked by Lieut. Wiliam H. Lockhart, Jr., of Redfield, S.D. The flyer reported a series of heavy explosions followed.

South of Venice, the town of Chioggia was taken and its garrison surrendered in a body. Another battalion surrendered en masse west of the Venetian lagoon.

ITALY URGES CURB ON TITO IN TRIESTE

Bonomi Asks Rule by Allied Military Authorities 'Under Terms of the Armistice'

ROME, April 30 (AP)—The Italian Government demanded tonight that Trieste and all Venezia Giulia Province, ceded to Italy after World War I and now being occupied by Marshal Tito's Yugoslav troops, be governed by Allied military authorities "under terms of the armistice."

Premier Ivanoe Bonomi conferred with Allied leaders on whether the Yugoslavs should be permitted to occupy the territory at the head of the Adriatic Sea. Trieste, an important port, has been a bone of contention between the two countries for years.

An Italian Government statement said a solution to the controversy could not be reached until Italy and Yugoslavia had governments chosen by a majority of their peoples.

The Government's assertion that the disputed area "must be entrusted in accordance with terms of the armistice to Allied administration, as has been the case with the rest of Italian territory" did not make clear whether the armistice specifically mentioned Venezia Giulia. A substantial portion of the armistice terms has never been made public.

NIGHT

Allies Limited Italian Role

Allied officials long ago conceded that pleas of the Bonomi Government for admission of Italy as a full-fledged member of the United Nations were inspired partly by the desire to prevent loss of this Adriatic province in the post-war settlement. They likewise never challenged the theory that Italy was denied such status partly because she might be called upon to yield territory on the European mainland as well as some of her colonies.

News that Marshal Tito's forces had entered Trieste was headlined "An Alarming Report" in one newspaper and provoked shouts of "Long live Italian Trieste!" at a students' demonstration.

The Government Press Office released a resolution by the Messina National Liberation Committee expressing hope that "all attempts made by anyone planned and aimed at taking away from Italy Trieste and other Italian territories be decisively prevented."

Trieste, once the principal port of Austria until its cession to Italy in 1918, figured prominently in the territorial demands of Italians during their long struggle against the Habsburg Emperors. It is the main city of the Istrian Peninsula, which has mixed Italian and Yugoslav populations.

[A Belgrade radio broadcast, recorded by the FCC, said inhabitants of Trieste were aiding the Yugoslavs in street fighting and hailed this as "a great military and political event."]

Nazis Reported To Have Answered Big 3 Demand

Stockholm, Tuesday, May 1 (AP)—The newspaper Dagens Nyheter said today Count Folke Bernadotte, Swedish emissary who reportedly has been acting as a go-between for peace between the Allies and Germany, had forwarded the German answer to capitulation demands to an Allied legation in Stockholm yesterday.

London, Tuesday, May 1 (AP)—The Stockholm correspondent of the London Daily Mail reported last night that Swedish Count Folke Bernadotte, who reportedly is acting as a peace intermediary between Allies and Germany, would return to Stockholm today from Denmark and the paper speculated that he would bring a new surrender proposal from Heinrich Himmler.

The Stockholm correspondent, Ralph Hewins, said he had talked to Bernadotte in Copenhagen by telephone late yesterday and the paper carried this account of his conversation:

Hewins—Everyb[illegible] wants to know if you are bringing another offer from Himmler?

Returning Tomorrow

Bernadotte—I'm afraid I cannot answer that question until I reach Stockholm.

Hewins—Can you throw any further light on peace prospects?

Bernadotte—Not at this stage.

Hewins—Are you flying back to Stockholm today as reported here?

Bernadotte—No, I am returning tomorrow.

The Free Danish Press Service in Stockholm said that Heinrich Himmler conferred in Denmark this morning with Count Folke Bernadotte, the neutral Swedish emissary by whom he sent his offer to surrender Germany to Britain and the United States last week.

In London, British cabinet ministers held a long meeting today, then some of them met with Prime Minister Churchill late tonight, studying the latest reports on the situation.

Full Meeting Tuesday

A full cabinet meeting is scheduled for early Tuesday, before the House of Commons meets, at which time it likely will be decided whether Churchill might make a statement in the Commons during the afternoon.

The British press association stated that "there is no longer any doubt that armistice moves are in progress and moving swiftly."

The Himmler-Bernadotte meeting, said to have taken place at Aabenraa just north of the German-Danish border, was believed to be the second conference of the two men in two days.

New Phase Opens

Since it had been officially disclosed that last week's surrender offer by Himmler reached the western Allies through Bernadotte, reports of a new contact gave rise to speculation that a new phase in German surrender attempts had opened.

The first offer was refused because it was not addressed to Russia as well as to Britain and the United States.

There was no indication whether Himmler was now ready to yield to all three powers.

Dispatches from Stockholm said that the Swedish Foreign Office as well as American and British sources minimized the importance of the report that talks were in progress between Bernadotte and Himmler in Denmark.

The American Minister, Herschel Johnson, and the British Minister, Sir Victor Mallet, made long visits at the Foreign Office, but American legation sources insisted that Johnson's visit had nothing to do with any prospective German surrender.

Churchill Statement?

In London, British Cabinet ministers held a long meeting today and were ordered to stand by. It was said that Prime Minister Churchill might make a statement in Commons tomorrow — on undisclosed subject matter.

The Danish reports of the Himmler-Bernadotte meeting came as two Swedish Foreign Office officials and a military traffic expert made a round-trip flight from Malmo, Sweden, to Denmark, but the Foreign Office said these men were engaged in "humanitarian work," and the official Swedish news agency said the mission was connected with the Red Cross.

Drawing To An End

Meantime, the Hamburg radio declared that "everybody knows that this war is drawing to an end with giant strides" and added:

"The drone of battle might last some weeks longer. But it may end tomorrow."

The broadcast, by Dr. Heinz Scharping, urged Germans to maintain "our inner values, our belief in Germany," whatever the outcome.

"The faith of the German worker in the fundamental aims of this war," he added, must be retained even after a possible defeat."

The Hamburg broadcast was the nearest approach the Nazis have yet made to an admission that hostilities were concluding. German broadcasts have not mentioned any surrender offer.

HIMMLER SAID TO BE MAKING ANOTHER OFFER

Only Details Seen Holding Up Release of News of War's End.

NAZIS ADMIT IT'S ALL OVER

Count Bernadotte Is Declared to Be Meeting Foe Now in Denmark.

London, April 30 (A.P.).—A new surrender offer from Heinrich Himmler, presumably to all three major Powers, was understood to be "on its way today." British Cabinet ministers were ordered to stand by as swiftly moving developments pointed to Germany's collapse.

A commentator on the Hamburg radio, the chief remaining voice of Nazi Germany, declared tonight that "everybody knows that this war is drawing to an end. This is an irrevocable fact."

The commentator added: "The drone of the battle might last some weeks longer, but it may end tomorrow."

This is the closest the Nazis yet have come to admitting publicly that the war is near an end. No Nazi transmitter yet has mentioned Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler's surrender offer.

["The British Cabinet is expecting at any moment a new communication from Count Folke Bernadotte, who has been in conference with Himmler," the Berne radio declared in a broadcast picked up at New York today by NBC.]

Churchill to Speak.

Prime Minister Churchill was reported preparing a statement for Commons tomorrow—May Day—but there was no indication of what he might say.

This capital was outwardly calm, even though a V-E day announcement was expected at any hour. There was more ministerial activity in Whitehall than there had been in some time.

According to a dispatch from Malmo, Sweden, Free Danish Press reports said Count Folke Bernadotte, reputed peace intermediary, had conferred with Gestapo Chief Henrich Himmler today at Aabenraa on the German-Danish border.

The report was circulated as two Swedish Foreign Office officials and a Swedish military traffic expert boarded a special plane at Malmo for Denmark, shortly after their arrival by train from Stockholm.

The Swedish newspaper Aftonbladet printed a rumor, however, that Himmler was in Stockholm for direct contact with Allied representatives. There was no confirmation from any source.

In Stockholm the Foreign Office said it had no confirmation of reports that the delegation of Swedish officials might be en route to join Bernadotte in connection with a peace mission. It said the committee will attend to "humanitarian work" in which Bernadotte also is interested in connection with refugees and internees.

Although Bernadotte was due back in Stockholm today the Foreign Office said now that it had no reason "to expect him."

The reported Himmler-Bernadotte conference was said to have been the second in two days. Himmler was said by the Free Danes to have talked with Bernadotte for three hours Sunday at Aabenraa during which the Swedish count was supposed to have turned over to the Allies rejection of Himmler's capitulation proposal. The Danish report said that Himmler returned to a headquarters near Hamburg for the night and came back to Aabenraa this morning.

A Question of Authority.

There were indications that only details of Germany's surrender remained to be worked out. These may concern whether Himmler or any other ranking Nazi chieftain could give solid evidence that German pockets on the Atlantic coast and in Norway would lay down their arms. It was possible that uncertainty over the temper of commanders such as Col.-Gen. Georg Lindemann in Denmark was holding up an agreement on details.

The British Press Association said: "There is no longer any doubt that armistice moves are in progress and moving swiftly."

Speculation centered around the possibility that May Day might be chosen for a victory announcement. It was felt here, however, that before this comes Stalin may announce the capture of Berlin—that the Russians are determined to claim this prize before the Nazis will be allowed to give up. This may take a few days, since Moscow is always cautious in announcing the capture of any major place.

Conditions for a Surrender.

Many people saw significance in the two reports that Churchill may make a statement in Commons tomorrow and the Russian announcement that the Moscow blackout will be lifted tonight.

London newspapers carried headlines saying: "Hitler Dying; War May End Today."

[The Swedish air attache, Col. G. G. Gen[illegible] who by arrangement with the Russian Army in Berlin returned to Sweden today, was quoted by Radio Atlantic as saying the end of the war will be announced with the death of Adolf Hitler. But said the Swedish attache, according to Atlantic: "I have all reason to assume that Hitler is not in Berlin and was not there when the Russians approached the capital, and none of the German military commanders to whom I talked had seen the Fuehrer."]

It was obvious that any surrender by Heinrich Himmler, before it could be accepted, would have to include solid evidence that he could bring about the capituation of all sizable German pockets from Italy to Norway.

The Moscow radio broadcast an appeal to the German people today to surrender immediately.

"This senseless struggle must be stopped in Berlin, too," the broadcast said. "You Germans can save only what still remains standing, and what may form the basis of reconstruction of Germany if the war is ended at once."

Count Well Known Here.

Count Folke Bernadotte is well known in the United States. His wife is the former Estelle Manville. The Count served as Swedish Commissioner-General for the World's Fair, and he and the counutess were both in New York in 1939. The Count is a nephew of King Gustave of Sweden.

Himmler is reported to have told Count Bernadotte that Hitler is spending his time making speeches to imaginary audiences and drawing up plans to rebuild London, George Axelsson, Absie correspondent, said today in a broadcast from Stockholm. Absie is the American broadcasting station in Europe.

Following is the partial text of the Axelsson broadcast as recorded by CBS:

"Listen to what Himmler had to say regarding Hitler and Goering, as it appeared in the report written by Count Folke Bernadotte on his meeting with the Gestapo chief when the latter made his sensational offer to capitulate to the Western Powers. It must be borne in mind, however, that Himmler is no doubt trying to sell himself to the Allies as the only man capable of acting as the receiver in the bankruptcy of Nazism, and therefore may be suspected of exaggeration. Nevertheless here is what he had to say on Himmler and Goering, according to the Bernadotte report, as it was told to me by a highly placed person who had seen the documents.

Calls Hitler Stark Man.

"Germany is a madhouse today, said Himmler to Bernadotte. Until he ran away, Goering filled himself with morphine every day, pranced around all filled with jewels and decorations in a gandy Roman toga.

"Hitler is stark mad too, says Himmler. The Fuehrer spends or did spend his time in the Berlin aid raid shelter, either making long speeches to imaginary audiences or working on plans for rebuilding London, and particularly Buckingham Palace. He plans to od this after the Germans occupy England, which he believes imminent."

Stalin Says Allies Will Destroy Fascism

LONDON, Tuesday, May 1—(AP) Premier Stalin declared today in a May Day order that Red Army troops had "hoisted the banner of victory over Berlin" and that Soviet Russia was celebrating May 1 "during the victorious completion of the war."

Stalin's order, broadcast from Moscow, declared that "the United Nations will destroy Fascism and German militarism" and "will severely punish war criminals and will compel the Germans to compensate for the damage caused to other countries."

Scoffs at Nazi Tricks

Apparently in reference to the Heinrich Himmler peace offer to Britain and America but not to Russia, Stalin said, "in searching for a way out of their hopeless plight, the Hitlerite adventures resort to all kinds of tricks, down to flirting with the Allies in an effort to cause dissension in the Allied camps.

"These knavish tricks of the Hitlerites are doomed to utter failure. They can only accelerate the disintegration of German troops."

Stalin asserted that "mendacious Fascist propaganda" was seeking to intimidate the German people with statements that the armies of the United Nations wanted to exterminate the German people.

The United Nations, he said, "do not molest and will not molest Germany's peaceful population if it honestly fulfills the demands of the Allied military authorities."

"By joint blows," he said, "the enemy troops were cut in two and the Allies have joined in one front."

"This doubtless means the end of Hitler's Germany, whose days are counted and most of whose territory is being occupied by us and our Allies," Stalin's order said.

Germany Is Exhausted

"The industry remaining in her hands cannot supply the German armies sufficiently. German manpower reserves are exhausted. Germany is isolated and alone except for Japan."

Stalin said Nazi propaganda was trying to intimidate the Germans by saying that the Allies would exterminate all Germans.

"This is not in our plans," said the proclamation. "The Allies will exterminate Fascism, punish criminals and make the Hitlerites pay for their destructions. But if the Germans loyally fulfill the Allies' demands they will not be touched."

Stalin declared that Russia's socialist economy was growing stronger despite four years of war and said that which had been destroyed now was being successfully rebuilt.

"The world war is approaching the end. The downfall of Hitlerism is very near. Mortally wounded, the Fascist beast is at his last breath. The task now is to finish him off.

"The last assault is on."

CAPTIVE TELLS OF NAZI CAMP

Says War Prisoners Were Deprived of Beds.

London, April 30 (A. P.).—After three and a half years' imprisonment Sergt. Robert Thomas Wood, an American pilot with the Royal Canadian Air Force, was liberated two weeks ago when British troops took the German prison camp at Folingbostole, thirty-seven miles north of Hannover. Today Wood, who hails from Dallas, Tex., gave this account of the liberation of some 6,000 American, British and Canadian prisoners:

"Many of us had been at . . . Folingbostole, since August of last year. . . . Things were very tough from the start because the flow of Red Cross parcels had been reduced to a trickle. The Germans said they just didn't have the transport.

"Then after cold weather came, the Germans took our straw ticks away from us and removed all the tables and chairs. We could do nothing but stand, or sit or lie on the floor. They said the reason was that German prisoners were being kept in camps in Egypt which weren't fit for Europeans.

"We had two blankets each . . . so thin you could nearly see through them. There were seventy-two of us in each hut and the roofs leaked. There was one stove but all we had to burn was what could be collected by two men who were taken into the bush under guard each day. They were given only an hour to get wood, and could only bring back what they could break off with their bare hands and what they could carry on their backs.

"Till Christmas we averaged about one-sixth of a Red Cross parcel for each man each week. Some shipments were five months coming from Switzerland. If our lads were ever a little late for a parade, or did anything the Germans didn't approve of, they would cut out our wood party for a day or perhaps refuse to give us any water or parcels. The parcels were never cut off officially, but the Germans would say, 'We are too busy to hand out any today.'

"After Christmas the parcels stopped entirely. All the Germans gave us to eat was two cups of soup a day and sometimes a little bread. The soup was made of turnips and potatoes, but mostly just of water."

London, April 30 (AP)—The Swiss radio said tonight that Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander, Allied commander in chief in the Mediterranean, was going to Vienna to discuss with the Russians the problems arising from the formation of a new provisional government for Austria.

Moscow Broadcasts Appeal To Surrender

London, April 30 (AP)—The Moscow radio broadcast an appeal to the German people today to surrender immediately.

Nazis To Be Held To Pact To Leave GI's Behind

London, April 30 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Blizzard Over Dover Straits

London, April 30 (AP)—The Straits of Dover were swept by the worst spring blizzard in 50 years this morning, with six inches of snow falling in five hours and the temperature around freezing. The snow later gave way to a cold rain, and the temperature rose.

General Arnold Lauds U.S. Air Force Men

London, April 30 (AP)—Gen. Henry H. Arnold, commanding general of the United States Army Air Forces, today praised the personnel of the American air forces for their "superb achievements in the destructive employment of air power."

General Arnold sent the message of congratulations to Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, commanding the United States Strategic Air Forces in Europe, with the request that it be passed on to all United States air commands in Europe.

War 'Neurosis Fad' Assailed

London, April 30 (AP)—The United States Army newspaper Stars and Stripes editorially criticized today what it called a "psychoneurosis fad" based on a mistaken belief that every returning veteran is maladjusted and in need of special training.

The newspaper said the situation was "causing returning service men some bewilderment and rapidly assuming ridiculous proportions in the United States."

Stars and Stripes said "honest psychiatry is an established profession. Its services are needed by many fine men who are coming out of the war with mental illness." But, it continued, "every screwball with thick lenses and a long haircut is setting up shop as an expert on the returning veteran."

Allies' Treatment Of Freed Reds Hit

London, April 30 (AP)—Russia asserted today that Soviet citizens, liberated by the British-American armies in the West have been held in Allied camps behind barbed wire "in absolutely intolerable conditions" and—in some cases—forced to work 10 to 12 hours a day.

The assertion was made in a Moscow broadcast quoting Col. Gen. S. I. Golikov, Commissar for the Repatriation of Soviet Prisoners of War, who specifically cited an American-controlled camp in Britain and a British camp in Egypt.

Transfers To U.S. Alleged

Golikov, in an interview with the official Tass news agency, maintained that in some instances Soviet officers had been transferred to the United States, "often without knowledge of our representatives." This, he said, violated the Crimea conference agreement on repatriation.

The broadcast said Russia had been assured by a representative of the American administration that "all these violations and disorders would be eliminated."

The broadcast said the Allies had liberated about 150,000 Russians but only 35,000 had been returned home.

"Pravda" Admits Difficulties

LONDON, April 30 (AP).—The Soviet newspaper "Pravda," official organ of the Communist party, declared today that difficulties undeniably stood in the path of creating a World Security League, but asserted firmly that "they must be surmounted.

"It would be wrong," the Moscow radio quoted "Pravda" as saying, "to overlook the considerable difficulties on the road to establishment of international security, but one should not flinch in the face of difficulties."

The paper added that "if some people are frightened by these difficulties, this merely proves their lack of understanding of the significance of collaboration among the great powers, which has developed and strengthened in the course of the present war."

Freed Russians Returning Home

London, April 30 (AP)—Several thousand Russian prisoners of war liberated from German camps by Allied armies already have been sent back to Russia from Britain on ships made available by the British Government, an official source said tonight.

Other thousands of Russians were sent home from the Mediterranean area in British transport facilities, the source said.

The disclosure followed Russian complaints that liberated Red Army soldiers have been held in Allied camps behind barbed wire in "absolutely intolerable conditions."

The Russian assertion was made in a Moscow broadcast quoting Col. Gen. S. I. Golikov, Commissar for the Repatriation of Soviet Prisoners of War, who cited specifically an American-controlled camp in Britain and a British camp in Egypt.

BRITISH REQUEST AIRDROME BACK

Demand For U.S.-Built Field May Bring Test Case

London, April 30 (AP)—Britain has asked the United States for repossession of the big Bovington airport within three months after the victory over Germany in a potential test case on the future of American installations here, it was learned today.

The United States authorities have refused as yet to agree to the request on the ground that Bovington—developed as an American project—has an important role to play in the redeployment of men, machines and materials for the Pacific war.

It was understood in responsible quarters that the British proposal was based upon the arrangement whereby the rent for the land would be canceled in return for the developed facilities such as the administrative building and repair shops.

One Of London's Best

For the last eight months Bovington has been used by the Air Transport Command and has been developed to a point where it is considered one of London's best, equaling and perhaps excelling the better-known Henden airport.

American authorities maintain that the continued possession—perhaps for as long as a year—will be necessary for redeployment purposes as well as for speeding up the last task of shipping American troops home.

They have submitted that the continued use of the base by the Air Transport Command will be nearly as important to the British in the shortening of the war in the Pacific as it was in contributing to the victory over Germany.

RAF Drops Food To Dutch Civilians

London, April 30 (AP)—More than 600 tons of food was dropped yesterday by RAF Lancaster bombers to Dutch civilians caught behind the German lines in the Netherlands.

After several days of negotiations, presumably through the International Red Cross, the Germans agreed to give safe passage to the planes.

YANK STRATEGIC

BOMBERS FINISH TASK IN EUROPE

PARIS, April 30—(AP) American strategic bombers have completed their task in Europe and are ready to be transferred to the Pacific theater as needed, Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, U. S. Strategic Air force commander in Europe, said today.

Spaatz added, however, that the present facilities in the Pacific could not possibly take care of the mighty force that put Germany's war industries out of commission. Further, he said, many Flying Fortresses and Liberators will be kept in Europe as part of the American post-war occupation air force.

Spaatz declined to intimate what size the occupational air force might be. The British, Russians and French will have similar forces, he pointed out, and just how the four forces will be joined together and how they will be employed are matters which apparently have yet to be worked out.

Asked to what extent the RAF bomber command would participate in the war against Japan, Spatz replied that "it certainly can be assumed our Allies will take full part in the war there, too."

Many air experts have pointed out that Britain's fleet of heavy planes was specially designed for the European theater and that it might not operate with maximum efficiency in the Pacific.

Spaatz, wearing his new fourth star of a full general, told correspondents that in view of developments in the past year the American post-war air force might be composed entirely of jet-propelled fighters. Bombers will be jet-driven, too, if the problems of fuel and range can be worked out, he predicted.

He scornfully described the Nazis' so-called "V" weapons as "gadgets."

In writing off the European job as finished the American commander declared that the German Air force had never since D-day been a serious threat to Allied ground or naval operations.

"We believe the enemy was caught off balance by our strategic bombing because of two things," he added. "The first was the unexpectedly strong defensive power of our heavy bombers flying in daylight. The second was the projection of our long-range fighters deep into Germany."

A statement issued jointly by the U. S. Strategic Air forces and the British Air Ministry today said that 12 months of bombing cut Germany's overall oil production to 7 1-2 per cent of its capacity as of April, 1944, and their gasoline production to 3 1-2 per cent.

A week of perfect bombing weather in February, 1944, enabled American bombers to reduce the production of Nazi fighters by 75 per cent, the statement said.

FRENCH SEIZE ISLAND

Paris, April 30 (A. P.).—French troops, including Marine commandos, landed on Ile d'Oleron, north of the Gironde Estuary today with the support of American medium bombers and French naval units. The troops began clearing the island of German gun batteries which have been holding up the opening of the port of Bordeaux. The island, nineteen miles long and seven miles wide at its widest point, is fourteen miles southwest of La Rochelle.

Freed GI's Will Get Fast Trips Home

Paris, April 30 (AP)—Every American soldier liberated from German prison camps will go home "as fast as the Army can get him there," supreme headquarters announced today.

"In return for the German promise to leave the prisoners in the camps in the path of the Allied advance, rather than take them along on forced marches, United States authorities agreed that all liberated military personnel would be prohibited from taking further part in the war against Germany, either as combat or service troops, and they are sticking by their part of the agreement," supreme headquarters declared.

Sick, Wounded Get Preference

The sick and wounded will be given preference and evacuated home through normal medical channels as soon as their condition permits.

A series of evacuation camps have been prepared for the others. First they will get baths, hot meals, new clothes and medical attention. Then they will receive part of their back pay, the final settlement to be made when they return to America. They may file claims for any money or personal property lost at the hands of the Germans.

On arrival in America each released soldier will get a 21-day furlough. After that he must report to a redistribution center where he may be discharged from service, assigned to a post in the United States or shipped to another war theater. None will be sent back to Europe, headquarters said.

FREED PRISONERS WILL BE SENT HOME

PARIS, April 30—(AP) Supreme headquarters said today it was "sticking by" an agreement not to use liberated Americans against the Germans and announced it would send every freed prisoner home "as fast as the army can get him there."

A headquarters statement said sick and wounded would get priority in medical transport home as soon as their condition permitted, while temporary evacuation camps were ready to receive the others.

"In return for a German promise to leave prisoners in camps in the path of the Allied advance rather than take them along on forced marches, U. S. authorities agreed that all liberated military personnel would be prohibited from taking further part in the war against Germany either as combat or service troops, and they are sticking by their part of the agreement," the announcement said.

Liberated prisoners will be assigned to duty in the United States or another theater of war if not discharged, when they report back to a redistribution center after an automatic three-weeks' furlough on arrival in America.

While waiting in European evacuation centers they will receive new clothing, medical attention and part of their back pay and will get the balance due them after their return home. They also may file claims for any money or personal property lost at the hands of the Germans.

'LA PASIONARIA' IN PARIS

Spanish Communist Confers With Party Leaders

PARIS, April 30 (AP)—Señora Dolores Ibarruri, Spanish Communist known as "La Pasionaria," arrived in Paris today from Russia by way of Cairo.

Secretary general of the Spanish Communist party, she went into conference here with party leaders who had remained in France during the German occupation. It was believed her arrival presages new developments concerning Spain.

COMMUNISTS WIN FRENCH ELECTIONS

PARIS, April 30 (AP) The Communist party won a sweeping victory in yesterday's French municipal elections, the tabulation of more than 15,000,000 votes showed today, but political analysists were cautious about conceding that the nation as a whole had "gone Communist."

The trend toward the leftist movement, however, was undeniable.

By 7 o'clock tonight returns had been received from all but the most remote provincial areas.

A breakdown of the figures indicated the Communists had won nearly 25 per cent of the estimated total vote of 18,000,000. Less than one per cent of the electorate endorsed Communist candidates in 1935 when the last previous French municipal elections were held.

Socialists and that group of parties lumped together under the heading of "resistance organizations" also polled substantial support. The latter blocs sprang from the erstwhile French underground movement, and can be classified as leftists.

The leftist trend was interpreted by most observers as criticism of some of the policies of the De Gaulle government—silent because the election was purely municipal and did not directly reflect the nation's attitude toward any national issues.

Not all of the sweeping economic reforms prosposed by De Gaulle and his associates prior to their return to France have been carried out.

The Communists' demands for quick trial and execution of Marshal Henri-Philippe Petain were considered to have been an element in their success at the polls. The Commuist party was the only one to make Petain's case an "election issue."

Government circles, however, were inclined to minimize the importance of the Communists' statistical victory. They said a 25 per cent total of the vote would not give the party control of a quarter of all municipal councils in France.

French women, voting for the first time in the country's history, also affected the trends. The experts said they appear to have voted almost solidly for those parties advocating quick economic change.

NAZI MAP HELPED YANKS FIND REDS

Ninth Army, April 30 (A. P.).—After two weeks trying to locate the Russians, Ninth Army patrols found them today with help from the Germans. The 125th Cavalry, a part of the Thunderbolt (Eighty-third)

Division, captured an enemy map showing Russian positions. A patrol was sent out and there were Marshal Stalin men—just as the enemy mapped them.

Mustangs Score: 22 Foes to 1

A UNITED STATES EIGHTH AIR FORCE FIGHTER STATION, in England, April 30 (AP)—Mustang pilots of the Sixty-sixth Fighter Wing were commended today by their commander, Brig. Gen. Murray Woodbury of Burlington, Vt., for destroying 310 German planes during April—844 of them wrecked on the ground. In four days of deadly strafing of German airfields and highways the pilots knocked out 830 German planes and shot down nineteen others. For every plane the American pilots lost they destroyed twenty-two German aircraft.

Reds Kill 2 Yanks Mistaken For Foe

Apollensdorf, Germany, April 30 (AP)—The United States 9th Army junction with the Russians here this afternoon at 1.30 P.M., was achieved only after the Russians, suspicious of a German trick, failed to recognize the Americans and blazed away at them with mortars and machine guns, and two Americans lost their lives when their jeep hit a mine just as they entered this town.

But once the Russians were convinced, they gave the Yanks a warm reception, the bottle was passed around in celebration, and the Americans and Russians posed happily together for snap-shot takers.

Nazis in South Seen Giving Up

WITH THE UNITED STATES SEVENTH ARMY, April 30 (AP)—A force of "thousands of Germans" was reported unofficially tonight to be negotiating for surrender in the Austrian-German frontier region. The report came without details from the Sixth Corps area north of the Innsbruck-Brenner Pass sector.

,000 Women Captives Of Nazis Liberated

Aichach, Germany, April 30 (AP). American infantrymen pounding through this Bavarian village on the road to Munich liberated 4,000 women political prisoners from a German concentration camp and belatedly discovered the result was what one doughboy mournfully described as "one hulluva mess."

Some of the women had been prisoners for as long as six years. Two English women and a French woman had once been under death sentences. All the prisoners were so excited that after some soldier impetuously opened their cell doors they plunged into an orgy of looting and celebrating that kept a detachment of the 42d Division from continuing on to the Munich battle.

The prison personnel had deserted their posts and when the cell doors were opened the thousands of Russians, Austrians, French, Dutch, Czechs and Poles rushed through the corridors, tearing down doors, yanking open drawers and staging a wild celebration.

Most of the women had been jailed for espionage, propaganda for political reasons.

110,000 PRISONERS FREED BY YANKS

WITH THE U. S. THIRD ARMY, April 30—(AP) Germany's biggest prisoner of war camp yielded up 110,000 Allied captives—11,000 of them Americans—to the 14th armored division.

When this Third army outfit rolled into Moosburg, northeast of Munich, yesterday it first was reported that Stalag 7-A contained 27,000 prisoners.

But when the full story was told it was found that the camp had contained the largest number of prisoners yet freed by the Western Allies.

Besides the Americans there were British, South Africans, New Zealanders, Australians, Poles, Russians, Frenchmen and Serbs.

Some war correspondents also were liberated, but first accounts gave no names.

The 47th tank battalion which captured the camp found 19 of its own troops there.

A vast poison gas depot with 95,000 gas bombs was captured along with depot officers and personnel farther east near Neder Leierndorf, 13 miles south of Regensburg.

110,000 MOOSBURG CAPTIVES SET FREE

United States Third Army, April 30 (A. P.).—The United States Fourteenth Armored Division liberated 110,000 Allied prisoners of war at Stalag 7A at Moosburg, instead of the 27,000 previously reported. This was Germany's biggest prisoner of war camp.

The roster included 1[illegible] names of 11,000 Americans. There also were Britons, South Africans, New Zealanders, Australians, Poles, Russians, Frenchmen and Yugoslavs, and some war correspondents. The first accounts gave no names. The Moosburg camp was taken by the Fourteenth Armored Division's Forty-seventh Tank Battalion, which found eighteen of its own troops there.

A vast poison gas depot with 95,000 poison gas bombs was captured along with the depot officers and personnel near Niederleindorf, thirteen miles south of Regensburg.

The sick and wounded will be given preference and evacuated home through normal medical channels as soon as their condition permits. A series of evacuation camps have been prepared for the others. First they will get baths, hot meals, new clothes and medical attention. Then they will receive part of their back pay, the final settlement to be made when they return to America. They may file claims for any money or personal property lost at the hands of the Germans.

On arrivals in America each released soldier will get a 21-day furlough. After that he must report to a redistribution center where he may be discharged from service, assigned to a post in the United States or shipped to another war theater. None will be sent back to Europe. Headquarters said.

GI's Remove Hitler Tablet At 'Shrine'

By Louis P. Lochner

Landsberg, Germany, April 30 (AP)—To have Adolf Hitler proclaimed on a bronze tablet as "Germany's greatest son" was just too much for the American 12th Armored Division when it captured this Bavarian town on the Lech River and with it a combined prison and house of correction for the Munich area.

Bi's promptly removed that tablet.

It was in this prison that Hitler with five other participants sat for about one year after their Munich beer cellar Putsch on November, 9, 1923.

Made Shrine Of Cell

When the Nazis came to power they made a shrine of Hitler's cell —No. 7—and placed over the door a bronze memorial with these words:

"Here a political system without honor kept Germany's greatest son a prisoner from November 11, 1923, to December 20, 1924. In this cell Adolf Hitler wrote the book of the National Socialist revolution, 'Mein Kampf.'"

Except for the removal of this tablet nothing has been done to disturb Nazidom's shrine save one significant thing. Written in pencil on the wall next to the door were the words, "Adolf, I am here! Julius E. Bernstein, 238 South Alden street, Philadelphia, Pa."

Cell Is Roomy

The cell was a roomy affairs, 14 feet by 10, with a high ceiling and two enormous albeit barred windows. There was a comfortable single bed beside which stood a little night table with an electric desk lamp. The room also had a spacious wardrobe closet, one chair and a writing desk. The only modern addition was an engraved Hitler portrait now hanging over the desk.

An attendant said Hitler was permitted to receive any guests he wanted as often as desired. He also could take a daily stroll in the spacious grassy prison yard.

Plotted Against Republic

Best of all, the door of his cell as well as those of his five friends opened upon a sort of conference room where they sat together from morning till dark plotting the future overthrow of the republic.

The other men were Rudolf Hess, who acted as Hitler's personal secretary; Lieut. Col. Hermann Kriebel, who was to become German military advisor to Chiang Kai-shek and Consul General in Shanghai; Hitler's late Chauffeur, Julius Schreck, who died in an auto accident under mysterious circumstances; a man named Dr. Weber, and Hitler's adjutant. By all accounts they had a thoroughly good time.

DOUGHBOYS SEIZE DACHAU PRISON

DACHAU, Germany, April 30—(AP) Dachau prison, Germany's most dreaded extermination camp, has been captured and its surviving 32,000 tortured inmates freed by outraged American Doughboys who killed or captured its brutal garrison in a furious battle.

Dashing to the camp atop tanks, bulldozers, self-propelled guns—anything with wheels—the fighting Yanks of the 42nd and 45th divisions hit the notorious prison northwest of Munich shortly after the lunch hour yesterday.

Dozens of Nazi guards fell under withering blasts of rifle and carbine fire as the soldiers, catching glimpses of the horrors within the camp, raged through its barracks for a quick cleanup.

The troops were joined by trusty prisoners working outside the barbed wire enclosures. Frenchmen and Russians, grabbing up weapons dropped by the slain SS guards, acted swiftly on their own to exact full revenge from their tormentors.

Sorting of the liberated prisoners was still under way today but the Americans learned from camp officials that some of the more important captives had been transferred recently to a new hideout, probably in the Tyrol. These were said to have included Marshal Stalin's son, Jacob, who was captured in 1941; former Austrian Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg and his wife; Princess Frederick Leopold of Prussia; Prince Xavier Bourbon de Parme and Pastor Martin Niemoller, the German Lutheran who was arrested when he defied Nazi attempts to control his preaching.

(Prisoners at another camp liberated by the Americans recently reported Schuschnigg had been executed by his guards earlier this month.)

One of the prisoners remaining here told officers he was the son of Leon Blum, former French premier.

Prisoners with access to records said 9,000 captives died of hunger and disease or were shot in the past three months and 14,000 more perished during the cold winter. Typhus was prevalent in the camp and the city's water supply was reported contaminated by drainage from 6,000 graves near the prison.

When I reached the camp shortly after the battle I saw a train of 39 coal cars on a siding. The cars were loaded with hundreds of bodies and from them was removed at least one pitiful human wreck that still clung to life. These victims were mostly Poles, and most of them had starved to death. As the train stood there idle for several days. Lying along side a busy road near by were the bodies of those who had tried to escape.

Children Pedal By

Bavarian peasants—who traveled this road daily—ignored both the bodies and the horrors inside the camp to turn the American seizure of their city into an orgy of looting. Even German children rode by the bodies without a glance, pedaling away their stolen clothing on bicycles.

In the wake of the GI's, bodies of the trimly clad Nazi guards lay scattered like tenpins, bowled over as they sought to flee. The highest officers surrendered [illegible] waving a white flag, but a Red Cr[illegible] representative said the real executives of the camp had escaped the night before.

The camp held 32,000 emaciated, unshaven men and 350 women, jammed in wooden barracks. Prisoners said 7,000 others had been marched away on foot during the last few days. The survivors went wild with joy as the doughboys broke open their pens, smothering their liberators with embraces.

Bodies were found in many places. Here also were gas chambers—camouflaged as "showers," into which prisoners were herded under the pretext of bathing—and the cremation ovens. Huge stacks of clothing bore mute testimony to the fate of their owners.

moved several distinguished inmates, including Marshal Stalin's son, Jacob Djugashvili, captured on the Russian front in 1941; former Austrian Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg and his wife, and the German anti-Nazi Protestant leader, Pastor Martin Niemoeller.

Three princes also were reported moved, among them Frederick Leopold and Xavier de Bourbon de Parme.

One of the prisoners remaining claimed to be the son of Leon Blum.

Prisoners who said they had had access to the records and inner working of the camp said 9,000 internees died of hunger or disease or were shot during the past three months and that 14,000 more had perished during the winter.

Water Contaminated

Typhus cases were scattered throughout the camp. The water supply of the city was reported contaminated from 6,000 graves on high ground which drains into the Amper River.

A French general was slain last week as he walked toward a truck believing he was to be avacuated, prisoners reported. They said SS (Elite Guards) shot him in the back.

The GI's stormed through the camp with tornadic fury.

Not a stone's throw from a trainload of corpses lay the bleeding bodies of sixteen SS men shot down as they fled the tommygunning Yanks.

Dachau Prison Camp Taken, 32,000 Set Free By Yanks

By Howard Cowan

Dachau, Germany, April 30 (AP)—The United States 42d and 45th divisions captured the infamous Dachau prison camp today and freed its 32,000 captives.

Two columns of infantry riding tanks, bulldozers and long tom rifles—anything with wheels—rolled down from the northwest and surprised the SS (Elite Corps) guards in the extermination camp shortly after the lunch hour.

Scores of SS men were taken prisoner and dozens slain.

The American doughboys were quickly joined by "trusties" working outside the sprawling barbed wire inclosure. Poles, Frenchmen and Russian seized SS weapons and turned them against their captors.

Stalin's Son Moved

Officials said the Nazis recently racks food still was cooking in the kitchen. One SS officer was slumped over a plate of beans, a bullet through his head. Nearby was a telephone with the receiver down and the busy signal still buzzing.

Captives Kill Captors

Outside the power house were the bodies of two SS men slain by a Czech and a Pole working in the engine room.

The Rainbow Infantry meanwhile reached the barbed wire enclosure covering acres of ground.

Among the first there were Brig. Gen. Henning Linden, of Minneapolis, deputy commander of the 42d Division; Brig. Gen. Charles Banfill, of Bonifay, Fla., assigned to the 42d as an observer; Lieut. Col. Walter J. Fellenz, of San Antonio, Texas, commander of the 1st Battalion.

222d Infantry, and Lieut. Col. Will Cowling, of Leavenworth, Kan., aide to General Linden.

Yard Deserted

The yard behind the high fence was bare. Not a soul was in sight.

A Swiss Red Cross representative and two SS officers came out of the building behind a white flag.

"The Red Cross man said the real heads of the camp had fled and placed these two fellows in charge of the camp last night," General Linden said.

"I accepted their surrender, loaded the three of them in a jeep and drove them down to the train and made them look. One SS fellow asked for safe custody."

Trainload Of Bodies

Infantrymen of the 157th Regiment, 45th Division, reached the camp's gate about the same time as did Lieut. Col. Donald Downard, of Olympia, Wash., commander of the 2d Battalion, 222d Regiment, of the 42d Division.

Jan Yindrich, a British war correspondent, and I a few minutes later saw the same thing that greeted the soldiers—39 open-type railroad cars standing on a siding that went through the walls of Dachau camp.

At first glance the cars seemed loaded with dirty clothing. Then you saw feet, heads and bony fingers. More than half the cars were full of bodies, hundreds of bodies.

"Here's A Live One!"

Downard was driving in a jeep along a string of cars when a soldier shouted: "Come here quick, Colonel; here's a live one!"

Downard climbed over the pile of bodies to one man, his neck so small and shrunken that it scarcely seemed capable of holding a head. He put the man in his jeep and carried him to a hospital, where plasma was keeping him alive.

The best information we could get was that this trainload of prisoners—mostly Poles—had stood on the tracks several days and most of the prisoners had simply starved to death. Others had been shot through the head. Clothing had been torn fro msome, and their wasted bodies bore livid bruises. Some had tried to escape; their bodies lay along the tracks five or six steps away. One, shot through the head, was astride a bicycle.

On Widely-Used Road

This grisly spectacle was outside the walls of the camp—along a widely traveled road inside the city of Dachau where Bavarians passed daily.

The civilians were looting an SS warehouse near by, passing the death train with no more than curious glances at the American soldiers. Children even pedaled past the bodies on bicycles and never interrupted their excited chatter. Stolen clothing hung from their handlebars.

Seven thousand inmates were marched away on foot in the last few days, it was reported.

The main part of the camp, where 32,000 skinny men and women were jammed into wooden barracks, is surrounded by a moat 15 feet wide through which a torrent of water circulates. Atop a 10-foot fence is charged barbed wire.

When Colonel Cowling slipped the lock in the main gate, there was still no sign of life inside this area. He looked around for a few seconds and then a tremendous human cry roared forth. A flood of humanity poured across the flat yard—which would hold half a dozen baseball diamonds—and Cowling was all but mobbed.

He was hoisted to the shoulders of the seething, swaying crowd of Russians, Poles, French, Czechs and Austrians, cheering the Americans in their native tongues.

Din Keeps Up; Flags Appear

The American colonel was rescued by soldiers, but the din kept up.

Flags appeared and waved from the barracks. There was even an American flag, although only one American was held there. He is a major from Chicago captured behind German lines when he was on special assignment for the Office of Strategic Services.

The joyous crowd pressed the weight of thousands of frail bodies against the wire, and it gave way at one point. Like water from a break in a dam, they rushed out, although still penned up by the moat.

Three tried to climb over the fence, but were burned to death on the top wires, for the current was still on.

SS Guards Shot

Two SS guards fired into the mass from a tower, betraying their presence.

American infantrymen instantly riddled the Germans. Their bodies were hurled down into the moat amid a roar unlike anything ever heard from human throats.

A few minutes later General Linden went inside the gates for a hasty inspection. He and four newsmen were surrounded by a cordon of armed guards, but that didn't keep us from being hugged and kissed half a dozen times by grimy, whiskered, bandaged men of various nationalities.

1,000 More Bodies

Inside the barracks were more than 1,000 bodies—some shot by guards in a wild melee last night, others victims of disease and starvation.

Inside as well as outside were gas chambers, with crematory ovens adjoining. Sid Olsen, of Time magazine; Walter Ridder, of the St. Paul Dispatch, and I followed a fresh trail of blood into one brick building with a huge smokestack.

Almost 100 naked bodies were stacked neatly in the barren room with cement floors. They had come from a room on the left marked "Brausebad" for "shower bath."

The Poison Bath

It was really a gas chamber, a low-ceilenged room about 30 feet square. After fifteen or twenty persons were inside the doors were firmly sealed and the faucets were turned on and poison gas issued. Then the bodies were hauled into a room separating the gas chamber from the crematorium. There were four ovens, with a huge flue leading to a smoke-blackened stack.

Outside this building were tens of thousands of articles of clothing stacked in orderly piles. Near by were discarded shoes.

RENNER RULES AUSTRIA AGAIN

Ex-Chancellor Once Listed as Anti-Communist.

Moscow, April 30 (A. P.).—A former chancellor who was a strong opponent of Communism after the first world war is the head of a new provisional Austrian Government, formed in Vienna on Saturday, a Tass (Soviet official news agency) dispatch from the recently liberated capital said yesterday. He is 75-year-old Dr. Karl Renner, author of the Constitution of the Austrian Republic. Making up the coalition are the Social Democrat, Christian Socialist and Communist parties, the dispatch added.

The new government intends "to restore an independent Austrian republic," and was formed according to the agreement of the 1943 Moscow conference of tri-Power foreign secretaries, another Tass dispatch said.

Renner was the last president of the Free National Council of the Austrian Republic before the council was disbanded by the Germans in 1938. By the anschluss of March 13, 1938, the Nazi Reich completely absorbed Austria, making the republic the Province of Ostmark.

The new government has a political council of coalition including three state secretaries without portfolio. They are Dr. Adolf Sherf, Social Democrat; Leopold Kunschak, Christian Social, and Johann Koplenig, Communist party. Cabinet ministers are: War, Lieut.-Col. Franz Winterer; interior, Franz Honner, communist; justice, Dr. Josef Gerl, non-party; finance, Dr. George S. Zimmerman, non-party; agriculture and fuel administrator, Rudolf Buchinger, Christian Social; crafts, trade, industry and transportation, Eduard Heinl, Christian Social; education and religion, Ernst Fischer, communist; social security, Johann Boehm, Social Democrat; public works and rehabilitation, Rudolf Raab, Christian Social; food, Andreas Horst.

Herriot Arrives At Moscow

Moscow, April 30 (AP)—Former French Premier Edouard Herriot, who was imprisoned by the Germans and liberated near Berlin by the Red Army, arrived by plane today at the Moscow central airport.

Blackout Ended In Moscow Fete

Moscow, April 30 (AP)—The blackout ended in Moscow tonight as the capital of the Russias prepared for the start tomorrow of the great revolutionary May Day celebration.

For children of Moscow under the age of 4 this will be the first time they have seen illuminated street lights and the light cheerfully pouring from windowpanes.

A holiday spirit settled upon the entire Soviet Union, and the wartime midnight curfew was ordered lifted for two days of celebrating.

Despite the war, festivities will be big and colorful, and for the first time since the conflict began Premier Stalin, in Red Square, will review a May Day parade displaying Russian armed might as he did in peace years. He is to view the spectacle—and receive the salutes of his fighting men and women—from the red marble Lenin tomb beside the old Kremlin wall.

Sealing Off Subways.

Moscow, April 30 (A. P.).—Russian armies advanced on the Tiergarten from three directions today in a mighty battle for Adolf Hitler's underground fortress—his probable hide-out if he remains in the ruined capital. Sharp German counter-attacks were reported on the approaches to the Wilhelmstrasse and at the entrances to subways and other places believed to lead to the Tiergarten underground stronghold.

One dispatch described a new assignment for the Russian engineers—sealing off subways.

MAY 1 1945

Germans Making Booby Traps Of Dead

Moscow, April 30 (AP)—As the Russians continued the battle to take Berlin today, the Germans resorted to all kinds of tricks—booby trapping everything they could find, including the bodies of Germans and of horses.

A Pravda dispatch told of a gentle-looking old man wandering close to the battle near the Tiergarten, offering handfuls of cigars to Russian artillerymen.

They accepted the gifts—but inspected them as the donor wandered off. In each, they found a highly charged cap and explosives.

Find Him, Too

Later, they also found the old man.

Other dispatches reported numerous "women" in Red Cross uniforms, some of whom turned out to be Storm Troopers trying to get near enough to the Russians to hurl grenades.

There were increasing reports of German soldiers donning civilian clothes.

New Yorkers can visualize the fighting near the Tiergarten if they can picture a surging battle raging along Fifth avenue near Fifty-ninth street while hundreds of mortar shells burst into the sector from near-by Central Park.

Subways Sealed Off

One dispatch described a new assignment for Soviet sappers—sealing off subways.

"In order not to give any opportunity to the enemy," the dispatch said, "we are blocking up all entrances with piles of broken German machine guns, iron and bricks.

"The subway fighting is fierce. A group of Red Army men is lowering 45-mm. cannon underground.

"Many Germans killed underground have civilian clothes over their uniforms."

Nazi Answer to Surrender Demands Is Given to Allies

New Peace Bid Reported Forwarded to Legation in Stockholm.

British Minister Sir Victor Mallet made long visits at the foreign office but American legation sources insisted that Johnson's visit had nothing to do with any prospective German surrender.

STOCKHOLM, Tuesday, May 1—(AP) The newspaper Dagens Nyheter said today Count Folke Bernadotte, Swedish emissary who reportedly has been acting as a go-between for peace between the Allies and Germany, had forwarded the German answer to capitulation demands to an Allied legation in Stockholm yesterday.

Free Danish press service in Stockholm said that Heinrich Himmler conferred in Denmark this morning with Count Folke Bernadotte, the neutral Swedish emissary by whom he sent his offer to surrender Germany to Britain and the United States last week.

In London British cabinet ministers held a long meeting today, then some of them met with Prime Minister Churchill late tonight, studying the latest reports on the situation.

A full cabinet meeting is scheduled for early Tuesday, before the House of Commons meets, at which time it likely will be decided whether Churchill might make a statement in the Commons during the afternoon.

The British press association stated that "there is no longer any doubt that armistice moves are in progress and moving swiftly."

The Himmler-Bernadotte meeting, said to have taken place at Aabenraa just north of the German-Danish border, was believed to be the second conference of the two men in two days.

Since it had been officially disclosed that last week's surrender offer by Himmler reached the western Allies through Bernadotte, reports of a new contact gave rise to speculation that a new phase in German surrender attempts had opened.

The first offer was refused because it was not addressed to Russia as well as to Britain and the United States.

There was no indication whether Himmler was now ready to yield to all three powers.

Dispatches from Stockholm said that the Swedish foreign office as well as American and British sources minimized the importance of the report that talks were in progress between Bernadotte and Himmler in Denmark. American Minister Herschel Johnson and

The Danish reports of the Himmler-Bernadotte meeting came as two Swedish foreign office officials and a military traffic expert made a round-trip flight from Malmo, Sweden, to Denmark, but the foreign office said these men were engaged in "humanitarian work" and the official Swedish news agency said the mission was connected with the Red Cross.

Meantime, the Hamburg radio declared that "everybody knows that this war is drawing to an end with giant strides" and added:

"The drone of battle might last some weeks longer. But it may end tomorrow."

The broadcast, by Dr. Heinz Scharping, urged Germans to maintain "our inner values, our belief in Germany," whatever the outcome.

"The faith of the German worker in the fundamental aims of this war," he added, "must be retained even after a possible defeat."

The Hamburg broadcast was the nearest approach the Nazis have yet made to an admission that hostilities were concluding. German broadcasts have not mentioned surrender offer.

Germans Sail To Sweden

Stockholm, April 30 (AP)—The 6,000-ton German steamer Hassau of Hamburg arrived in southern Sweden yesterday with 37 civilians and 42 anti-aircraft soldiers from the German naval base of Swinemuende. All asked to be interned.

VATICAN PAPER DEPLORES ACT

Calls Mussolini's Killing a Macabre Affair.

Rome, April 30 (A. P.).—The Vatican daily, Osservatore Romano, dissented to a chorus of official and press approval today of the execution of Benito Mussolini and his suite by North Italian Partisans, and deplored "impetuous violence and macabre manifestations" in dealing out justice.

The Milan radio also broadcast statement to night by the prefect of Milan in which he said: "By virtue of the powers today intrusted to me by the Allied Military command for Lombardy, I order immediate suspension of summary trials held by formations of volunteers of people styling themselves as such."

The broadcast warned that "Italian authorities and the Allied Military Government will take measures of extreme severity against all those who infringe this order."

The Vatican newspaper's deploring attitude contrasted with an official indorsement of the Mussolini execution from Mario Berlinguer, high commissioner for the punishment of Fascist crimes, and unanimous expressions of satisfaction from Rome's many newspapers, which held that Fascist violence simply had repeated its own harvest.

Berlinguer said in a statement that the North Italian Committee of National Liberation had government authority to seize and try Fascists and that Mussolini's execution "was only fair." He added: "It is true that a writ for his arrest had been prepared for some months."

Osservatore's Comment.

The Osservatore published a brief news report of the execution and then commented:

"These reports are accompanied by details which reveal unfortunately how the people's state of mind is saturated with hatred. But justice, even when supremely severe and inexorable, should not degenerate into impetuous violence and macabre manifestations.

"One must not forget that it was these very characteristics of biased partisanship which were condemned by a people who felt wounded not only in their profound sense of justice but also in their gentleness and generosity."

L'Italia Libera, organ of the Action party, voiced the opinion expressed by all the lay press in saying that the execution was in keeping with the enormity of Mussolini's crimes against humanity and charged that the Duce's Ethiopian conquest "incited Hitler to undertake his tragic adventure."

The independent daily Il Momento said the purge was "only in its initial phases" and favorably contrasted the prompt measure of the northern Patriots with "hesitant actions."

"The end of Mussolini and the imminent end of Hitler are a tremendous warning to those who aspire to new dictatorships, be they either right or left," affirmed the liberal party organ, Il Risorgimento Liberale.

Counseled Against Violence.

Milan's Archbishop Cardinal Idelfonso Schuster "issued a pastoral letter asking that no violence be used," the British radio reported today.

CBS short wave listening station recorded the broadcast, which added: "The British liaison officer who had collaborated with the Italian Partisans, under the assumed name of Major Max, went to the Cardinal to thank him for his mediation work, which prevented bloodshed and destruction."

GRAZIANI KILLED, PARTISANS REPORT

Bodies Of Mussolini And Others Put In Coffins

Milan, April 30 (AP)—The beaten body of Benito Mussolini lay tonight in a rude wooden coffin in the Milan morgue while stillvengeful Italian Partisans, moving against other former Fascist leaders, were reported already to have tried and executed Marshal Rodolfo Graziani.

Headquarters of the National Liberation Committee received an unofficial report that Graziani, former chief of staff of the Italian Army and loser of the first Libyan campaign, had been sentenced this morning and the execution carried out immediately, but there was no immediate official confirmation.

Demonstrations In Milan

Demonstrations continued in Milan during the day as funerals were held for patriots who were killed in the revolt last week.

However, the prefect of the Milan region, acting upon instructions by the Italian Government and Allied military authorities, issued a proclamation ordering immediate cessation of summary judgments and arbitrary executions. Violators of the order were warned that "Italian and AMG authorities will adopt extremely severe measures."

The bodies of Mussolini, 61-year-old former dictator and Fascist leader; his young mistress, Clara Petacci, and seventeen of his Fascist followers were removed to the morgue today, reportedly at the request of Cardinal Schuster, who had appealed to the people when Milan was liberated to suspend all cruelty and leave justice to regular tribunals.

In Square Of The 15 Martyrs

After Mussolini and his companions had been shot by Partisans near Como Saturday, the bodies were first thrown on the ground of the Piazza Quindici Martiri (Square of the Fifteen Martyrs, formerly the Piazza Loreta) where they were kicked and mutilated.

Later, to make them visible to more of the crowds in the square, the bodies were hung by the heels from the girder of a filling station.

At the morgue tonight Mussolini's grotesque body was in a rude white coffin to which was affixed a small scrap of white paper bearing in a pencilled scrawl "Mussolini, Benito."

The top half of the coffin was open, revealing the former dictator's battered head and chest. He appeared strangely small, like a hideous wax doll, except for his head, which was more massive in death than in life. His jaw, apparently broken, jutted out in a horrible caricature of il Duce's most characteristic pose.

Other Coffins Around Room

In similar coffins scattered around the room were the remains of Clara Petacci and others killed by the Partisans. The coffins of the men were labeled "unknown."

Reports in Milan today still were conflicting concerning whether Mussolini was seized by Partisans as he attempted to flee to Switzerland or was returned to the Como vicinity after being denied entrance to the neutral country.

The National Liberation Committee issued a statement, published in the Milan press, saying it had ordered the execution of Mussolini and his companions.

"The Italian people could not have begun a free and normal life if the committee had not tempestuously demonstrated the firm decision to execute the judgment already handed down by history," said the statement.

Called Clear Break With Past

"Only by this clear break with the shameful and criminal past could the Italian people have been assured the committee is resolved to follow a straight course for the democratic rebirth of the nation."

Graziani, who also was captured by Partisans in northern Italy, was reported to have gone on trial this morning a few hours after the bodies of Mussolini and his followers had been removed from the Piazza Quindici Martiri, where they had been displayed publicly since Saturday night.

At headquarters of the National Liberation Committee it was said unofficially that Graziani had been convicted and quickly executed. Roberto Farinacci, former Fascist Minister and party secretary, already had been reported executed.

Executioner Quoted

The Milan newspaper L'Unita, in an interview with Mussolini's executioner, quoted him as saying the former dictator in a last melodramatic gesture, offered to buy his life "with an empire."

The executioner, identified only as a member of the Communist Garibaldi Brigade No. 52, was quoted as saying that Mussolini, as he emerged from a house where he and Clara had been held after their capture, turned toward him and said: "I'll offer you an empire."

"Instead of answering him," the executioner was quoted as saying: "I told Petacci to come ahead and I pulled her by an arm."

The executioner said they walked down a mule path toward a highway where an automobile was parked.

Hinted Visit To Son

"On the way," he continued, "Mussolini looked at me only once. He looked as though he was grateful. At this point I whispered to him: I also have liberated your son Vittorio—I wanted to give the impression I was taking him to Vittorio.

" 'Thanks from the bottom of my heart,' Mussolini said. When we reached the car Mussolini appeared convinced he was a free man. He made a motion to have Petacci precede him. But I told him to go first, and suggested that he remove his Fascist cap, which he did.

"I had planned to carry out the execution at a place not far away.

Did Not Appear Convinced

"When we reached the spot, I jumped off the mudguard and walked to the end of a curve. Then I returned and said, 'Hurry; get over in that corner.'

"Mussolini, even though obeying swiftly, did not appear very convinced any longer. He was obedient just the same, and placed himself with his back to the wall at a spot indicated. Petacci was at his right. There was silence.

"Suddenly I pronounced the death sentence against the war criminal.

" 'By the order of the general command of the Liberty Volunteer Corps I am entrusted with rendering justice to the Italian people.'

Screams "He Must Not Die"

"Mussolini seemed terrorized. Petacci threw her arms around his shoulders and screamed:

" 'He must not die.'

"Get back in your place," the executioner said he shouted to Clara.

"The woman jumped back and from a distance of three paces I shot five bursts into Mussolini who slumped on his knees with his head slightly bent on his chest. Then it was Petacci's turn.

"Justice had been done."

Another eyewitness to the executions said the Patriots "renounced all judicial procedure and went directly to the final act."

Mussolini, according to this version, was shot in the back of the head in the Italian tradition for those executed without honor.

"He died like a coward," the witness said, "shouting 'No, No' as the execution volley rang out."

Graziani Is Reported Executed

Anti-Fascist Purge Follows Death of Il Duce —Mussolini's Body Spat Upon in Milan

Milan, April 30 (A. P.).—The execution of Mussolini touched off a purge of Fascismo's top leaders which today reached Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, reported to have been convicted and executed.

Mussolini's body swung by its heels for forty-eight hours against the rusty steel framework of a half-finished gasoline station in the center of Milan. The 61-year-old former dictator, along with his mistress, Claretta Petacchi, and seventeen other Fascist leaders, was shot to death by Italian Patriots at Guiliano de Messergere, near Como, at 4:10 P. M. on Saturday. There was no formal trial, and after the executions the bodies were dumped in a German-made moving van and brought to Milan for public exhibition.

When they arrived they were tossed out of the van onto the Piazza Loreto, and were left there for several hours while thousands of people milled around.

Spat Upon by People.

Then the Partisans decided that the crowd could not get a good enough view of them and so they strung up Mussolini, his mistress—with blood smeared across her breasts—and five others. They strung them up by their heels. The bodies of the twelve others they left sprawled over the blood-stained concrete of the square.

Angry Milan citizens pushed and shoved against the Partisans guarding the bodies. Some succeeded in breaking through and spitting upon the body. One man emptied the clip of his automatic pistol into the lifeless form. Another punched the once-famous jutting jaw.

Mussolini was shot through the head by the Partisans after he was captured Friday, by a sergeant approaching the Swiss border. He and the other Fascist leaders were fleeing in a truck convoy.

Mussolini was garbed in a German officer's coat and was driving north when the sergeant spotted him. He spent Friday night in a cell at San Domingo prison in Como. He was reported in a terrible state of agitation, and made attempts to strike up conversations with his guards.

"Why is no one here to defend me?" he was quoted as saying.

Later he was reported to have told the men who ordered him shot, "Save my life and I will give you an empire."

He died shouting "No! No!" to the firing squad, eyewitnesses declared. The bullet that killed him entered from the back in the manner prescribed by Italian tradition for dishonored persons.

Farinacci Reported Shot.

Reports reaching here late last night said that Roberto Farinacci, Minister of Fascism, was captured on Saturday in a small town near Como and shot by the Partisans. Farinacci's death and burial certificates were shown to an American combat crew in the immedate vicinity.

It was authoritatively reported that only a week ago Mussolini left his Blackshirt hideout, where 3,000 of his men were serving as a bodyguard, and attempted to make a deal to save his life but the effort failed. The American Consul at Lugano, Switzerland, is stated to have told an American tank officer when the Yanks reached the Swiss border that Mussolini offered to give himself up if he, his daughter Edda and other members of his family were guaranteed personal safety. The offer was rejected and Mussolini then attempted to sneak across the border. It was thus that he was in the truck convoy when captured, it is understood.

Besides Mussolini and his mistress, the others reported executed included:

Allessandro Pavolini, Secretary of State in Mussolini's puppet regime; Lieut.-Gen. Achille Staraci, a former vice-secretary of the Fascist party; Francesco Barracu, vice-president of the States Council of Ministers; Paolo Zerbino, Minister of the Interior; Fernando Mezzasome, Minister of Popular Culture.

Ruggero Romano, Minister of Public Works; Augusto Liverani, Minister of Communications; Paolo Porta, Fascist party inspector for Lombardo;! Luigi Gatti, a prefect; Goffredo Coppa, president of the Institute of Fascist Culture; Ernesto Dacquanno, director of the Stefani News Agency.

Mario Nudi, president of the Fascist Agricultural Association; Col. Vito Casalnuova, of the Fascist Republican National Guard; Nicola Bombacci, described as a one-time communist leader who turned Fascist; Gen. Atillo Teruzzi, former chief of the Fascist Militia; Hinternayer, a propagandist; Gelormini, described as a head of the Fascist youth organization. Also reported slain were Marcello Petacci, brother of Mussolini's mistress, and Capt. Pietro Salustri, his personal pilot.

Graziani on Trial.

Graziani went on trial here today, a few hours after the bodies of Mussolini and the other top-flight Fascists were removed from public display. It was reported unofficially at National Liberation Committee headquarters that Graziani had been convicted and executed. He was commander of the few troops in northern Italy who had remained loyal to Mussolini.

NEWARKER IS ONE OF FIRST IN GENOA

Genoa, April 30 (A. P.).—Major Robert Sharkey of White Terrace, Newark, N. J., one of the first American officers to enter this great Mediterranean seaport yesterday, was amazed to find that he was able to telephone the Partisan leader from Rapallo, fifteen miles to the east, twelve hours before the main body of troops entered the city.

The Partisans had done such a good job in preventing the Germans from carrying out demolitions that the Americans also found the street cars running, and electric, gas and water utilities in operation.

BELGIAN PRESS WARNING

Government Told to Use Caution in Limiting Freedom

BRUSSELS, April 30 (AP)—The Belgian Press Association adopted unanimously today a resolution protesting against "the marked tendencies of certain governments" to limit the liberty of the press.

The association warned its own Government against the temptation of using extensive powers too willingly. It declared that the suspension of newspapers could not be accepted as a "fitting method of government." It recalled that two newspapers had been suspended within one month by the Belgian War Ministry.

Joseph Demarteau, who was held as a hostage by the Germans during the occupation of Belgium, presided at the meeting.

SPAIN DENIES HAVEN T.

Dubs Report of Special Airpo. in Balearics an Invention

MADRID, April 30 (AP)—The Foreign Ministry denied tonight stories published abroad that Spain, and particularly the Balearic Islands, have become a haven for Axis war criminals.

These reports, the Ministry said in a communiqué, "even go so far as to declare that an airdrome has been expressly prepared in those islands for this purpose."

"All this," the communiqué asserted, "is absolutely false and totally invented. Such an airdrome does not exist, and no plane has arrived at those islands with National Socialist or Fascist fugitives or war criminals of any description."

Eugenio Morreale, former Italian consul at Baltimore, Md., also is here, as well as Capt. Antonio Muffone, one of the few members of the Italian Embassy staff here, who remained in Benito Mussolini's camp.

PETACCI SISTER IN MADRID

Flees Milan With Wife of Nazi Minister to Portugal

MADRID, April 30 (AP)—The wife and son of the German Minister to Portugal, Gustav Adolf von Halem, who landed in Barcelona after a flight from Milan, arrived here today en route to Lisbon.

They were accompanied by the Italian actress Miria de Sansservolo, whose sister, Clara Petacci, was executed along with Benito Mussolini; her father, Dr. Ricardo Petacci, his wife, and her husband, Luigi Mancini, who was for several years a member of Mussolini's unofficial delegation to Spain.

Croatian Count Eugenio Dimonte di Valmassina, two collaborationist Frenchmen and the four Italian crew members of the plane were confined to Barcelona's Ritz Hotel.

Yank Forces Seize Machinato Airfield on Okinawa

GUAM, Tuesday, May 1.—(AP)—Capture of Machinato airfield on Okinawa's west coast and destruction of 59 Japanese airplanes—54 of them in aerial combat—were reported today by fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz.

New York state's 27th infantry division captured Machinato airfield Sunday. It is within two miles of Naha, Okinawa's capital.

Across the island, Seventh division Doughboys reached the northern end of Yonabaru airfield. Other elements of this division hammered ahead in slow advances through heights southeast of Kochi village, flanking Yonabaru airdrome. Japanese troops must be cleared from them before the airfield can be occupied.

In the center of the southern Okinawa line, the 96th division advanced slowly behind heavy artillery and naval bombardment over very rough terrain.

Capture of Machinato represented a hard, slow advance of about one and one-half miles since the major southern offensive began April 19 against deeply-fortified Japanese defense positions.

Twenty-nine Japanese aircraft, attacking American forces off Okinawa, were shot down Sunday. On Sunday and Monday carrier air patrols downed another 25—total of 54 for the two days.

There was no mention of damage to fleet units.

Carrier planes raided Tokuno Amami and Kikai islands in northern Ryukyus Sunday and Monday, attacking landing craft, coastal shipping, fuel dumps, barracks and airfield installations. Five Japanese planes were destroyed on the ground.

Navy search aircraft also struck the northern Ryukyus, sinking one cargo ship and leaving another in a sinking condition.

Another group of Navy search planes ranged north of Kyushu, where they destroyed one small cargo ship, damaging one coastal vessel, one patrol craft and a number of small craft.

Capture of Machinato airfield placed Maj. Gen. George W. Griner's 27th division Doughboys within 2 miles of Okinawa's capital city, Naha, population 66,000. Naha also has an important airfield, just south of the city itself.

In the center of the southern Okinawa line, 96th division troops advanced southward over hilly terrain. On the eastern coast, the 7th division, moving steadily but slowly toward Yonabaru airfield, captured important ridges near Kochi village.

A Japanese suicide pilot's attack on the Navy hospital ship, U. S. S. Comfort, Saturday night still was the big topic of conversation throughout the American force in the western Pacific.

The Comfort was heavily damaged and 29 of her personnel and patients were killed when a Japanese pilot crashed his plane on the after part of the lighted and plainly marked ship 50 miles south of Okinawa Saturday night.

Those killed included five U.S. Army medical officers and six Army nurses. In addition to the dead, one of the ship's personnel was reported missing and 33 were wounded.

HOSPITAL SHIP BOMBING SPURS OKINAWA FIGHT

Enraged Yanks Battling Doggedly for Two More Airfields.

CASUALTY TOTALS ANNOUNCED

1847 Killed in Area Up Until Friday — Suicide Planes Made Several Tries.

Guam, April 30 (A. P.).—American doughboys, enraged over a Japanese pilot's suicidal attack on a helpless Navy hospital ship evacuating their wounded buddies, fought doggedly today for two airfields—their immediate objectives on southern Okinawa.

The fully-loaded, unarmed, unescorted U. S. S. Comfort was attacked and heavily damaged fifty miles south of Okinawa. Twenty-nine were killed, thirty-three wounded and one was missing. The killed included six Army nurses and five Army medical officers.

Although the 13,000-ton vessel was readily identifiable as searchlights played on the giant Red Crosses painted on her gleaming white decks and superstructure, the Japanese pilot made several runs at her preliminary to his Kamikaze (suicidal) attack, reported Associated Press Correspondent Vern Haugland.

These other developments were reported in Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz's communique today:

Total American casualties on Okinawa and nearby islands were 11,413, including 1,847 killed, through Friday.

The Japanese sent about 200 aircraft in wave after small wave against American forces off Okinawa for fifteen hours from Saturday noon until 2:15 A. M. Sunday. They "caused some damage to light units of the fleet"—at a cost of 104 attacking planes shot down.

Airfield Is Captured.

Doughboys of the Twenty-seventh Division captured the northern half of Machinato airfield, two and a half miles north of Naha, Okinawa's capital on the west coast. The Seventh Infantry Division gained heights overlooking Yonabaru airdrome on the east coast.

Navy planes ranged as far north as Japan Friday through Sunday, scoring four bomb hits on cargo ships in convoy off Kyushu; attacking shipping in Shimonoseki Strait—western entrance to the Inland Sea — and destroying a small cargo ship, damaging seven others and firing a picket ship in waters around Kyushu, Honshu and the Ryukyus.

Haugland said the attack on the Comfort was at least the third in the Okinawa campaign on United States hospital ships. These were the first reported Nipponese assaults on American vessels of mercy, although an Australian hospital ship was heavily damaged in the Southwest Pacific about a year ago. Casualties on the Australian vessel were much greater than the Comfort's sixty-three.

Other Jap Planes Watched.

On the afternoon of April 6, Haugland saw another suicide plane attack the Comfort in perfect visibility. Antiaircraft fire from other ships downed the Japanese so close to the hospital ship that she was hit by flaming and exploding debris. At dawn the same day he saw a Japanese pilot drop two bombs at a sister mercy ship of the Comfort and standing far away from any other ship. The bombs missed narrowly.

Saturday night the Comfort could do nothing more than zigzag—if she did that—in her own defense. She carried no guns. She was many miles from any other ship. Every one aboard was a non-combatant.

The pilot crashed his plane on the after-part of the Comfort, probably into the surgery room where doctors and nurses were caring for the most critically injured battlefield patients. Other Japanese planes watched the assault but only the one attacked. Casualties included patients, passengers and crewmen.

Although her damage was so great that the Comfort once was reported abandoning ship, crewmen effected repairs which permitted her to proceed toward port under her own power. The suicide plane still was aboard. Because of damage to her rudder mechanism, the ship was steered by hand.

Superfortresses Bomb Hamamatsu

Guam, Tuesday, May 1 (AP)—A large force of 100 or more Superfortresses yesterday hit the industrial city of Hamamatsu, 60 miles southeast of Nagoya on the Japanese mainland island of Honshu. Bad weather prevented them from bombing effectively the original target, the Tachikawa army air arsenal near Tokyo.

Southern Kyushu airfields were raided simultaneously.

Photographs today showed large fires were started in rail yards and shops at Hamamatsu, which was hit in strength for the first time. The city of 166,000, between Yokohama and Nagoya on the south coast of Honshu, has developed major war industries.

Opposition Is Weak

The B-29's turned back because of heavy cloud formations over Tachikawa, 24 miles west of Tokyo, but dropped a few bombs.

Japanese fighter opposition over Hamamatsu was weak and flak was meager.

Not a Superfortress was lost in the Honshu strikes nor in attacks on six Japanese airfields on southern Kyushu. These fields from which the enemy has mounted raids against the Americans at Okinawa, 325 miles to the south, have been bombed visually for five straight days.

Domei (Japanese news agency) reported that two echelons of B-29's raided Kyushu airfields Tuesday morning, Japanese time. That would be the sixth successive day of attack.

B-29s HIT KYUSHU FOR FIFTH TIME

Guam, April 30 (A. P.).—Hitting by daylight in good bombing weather, a force of 100 to 150 Superfortresses bombed Japanese military installations on Honshu and Kyushu from medium altitude today.

It was the fifth consecutive day's strike at Kyushu, Japan's staging area for air attacks against United States invasion forces at Okinawa, 325 miles south.

Besides six airfields on Kyushu, the Tachikawa army air arsenal twenty-four miles west of Tokyo was attacked today. Tokyo radio said 100 Mustang fighters from Iwo Jima escorted 100 B-29s in the attack on Tachikawa's airdromes.

Sunday's raid by a similar number of B-29s was reported "generally good." One Superfort was lost.

JAPS SEEN MASSING DEFENSES ON KYUSHU

WASHINGTON, April 30 — (AP)—A communique today reporting the latest B-29 strikes at the Japanese home islands indicate the enemy is concentrating defenses on the southern island of Kyushu at the expense of Tokyo.

It is presumed that installations on Kyushu include bases from which Japan's suicide planes are flown against United States ships in the area of the Okinawa operations.

Today's 20th Air Force communique reported that enemy fighter opposition at Kyushu today (April 29 Japanese Time) ranged up to "heavy" over some of the six enemy air fields there while B-29's attacking two targets in the Tokyo area encountered only weak opposition.

DOUGHBOYS OCCUPY ISLAND OFF DAVAO

Yank Forces Sweep Within 17 Miles of Big Port on Mindanao.

MANILA, Tuesday, May 1—(AP) Overrunning elaborate gun emplacements, 24th Division Doughboys swept to within 17 miles of Davao city Sunday while guerrillas seized five-mile-long Talikud island, nine miles off that big Mindanao port.

Maj. Gen. Roscoe Woodruff's Yanks drove 10 miles from Digos up to the western shore of Davao gulf against disorganized resistance, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported today.

The extensive system of antiaircraft positions and intact coastal guns seized in the advance indicated the Japanese expected and had prepared for an assault on Davao gulf proper. Instead, the Americans came overland to their landing in Moro gulf.

Lack of opposition on the eastern approaches nonetheless surprised the Americans, who expect a stiff fight for Davao, one of the major ports of the Philippines and a Japanese strongpoint. The roads were booby-trapped, but otherwise there was little to impede the swift foot soldiers.

P-T boats, darting swiftly into the bay, again shelled shore positions.

On northern Luzon, the 37th division, which helped take Baguio Friday, pushed five miles north to seize La Trinidad, where the Japanese once had a large concentration camp for Americans and other United Nations nationals.

The 33rd Division, meantime, drove east and south to secure the enemy strongpoint at topside and the Loacan airfield.

Japanese resistance in the area has practically ceased, MacArthur reported.

Bombers Pound Formosa

Formosa was pounded by heavy bombers which concentrated on industrial targets along the west coast. Warehouses and fuel-storage installations were set ablaze. Numerous factory buildings were demolished and many locomotives and rolling stock wrecked.

At least 35 freighters and other craft were destroyed in bomber sweeps of the China Sea and waters to the south.

Between Malaya and Singapore seven freighters and transports, thirteen smaller vessels and many harbor craft were sunk. Two freighters, a patrol ship and several coastal craft were sent to the bottom off Keelung, Formosa. Three freighters and eight coastal craft were destroyed in Dutch East Indies waters.

AIRFIELD WON ON MINDANAO

Twin U. S. Drives Close In on Japs at Davao.

Manila, April 30 (A. P.).—American infantrymen drove on Davao City from the south and east today, supported by planes operating off a freshly captured airfield just thirty miles south of the big Mindanao port city, one of the last Jap strongpoints in the Philippines. American P-T boats appeared in Davao Gulf for the first time Saturday to shell enemy installations at that principal hemp port of the archipelago.

Yanks of the Twenty-fourth Division were within twenty-five road miles of Davao on the south and the Thirty-first (Dixie) Division, newly committed to the Davao campaign in which a fierce fight is expected—was about sixty-five miles east of the city. The Twenty-fourth captured an airfield on the shore of Davao Gulf, without a fight. The field, littered with wrecked Jap planes, quickly was put into operation.

The Thirty-third and Thirty-seventh divisions mopped up around Baguio, gold center and summer capital of the Philippines which fell Friday. The once-beautiful city a mile high in the Benguet Mountains was in ruins when the Yanks moved in after a brief fight on the western outskirts.

In fierce fighting over a period of several weeks most of the garrison of 20,000 troops defending Baguio was annihilated. The others were being pursued into the hills to the north.

On southern Luzon, meantime, Camarines Norte Province was reported cleared of Japs. This province includes the important Paracale gold and iron mining district. The enemy, in fleeing, set the provincial capital of Daet aflame. Camarines Sur Province, immediately south, was being overrun by the First Cavalry Division and the 158 Regimental Combat Team.

Discounted troopers of the famed cavalry division quickly occupied Naga, the provincial capital. They had moved amphibiously seventy miles down the Bicol Peninsula to come within patrol contact with the 158th Combat, operating further south near Legaspi.

Formosa, Hongkong, Swatow, Shanghai and Saigon were the principal targets of Philippines-based bombers.

5 Doctors, 6 Nurses Killed On Comfort

By Vern Haugland

Aboard Vice Admiral R. K. Turner's Flagship off Okinawa, April 30 (AP)—Five army medical officers and six army nurses were among 29 or more persons killed Saturday night in the suicidal Japanese plane crash onto the stern of the hospital ship U.S.S. Comfort, 50 miles south of Okinawa.

The plane struck the operating room, it was learned today. Most of the 63 casualties were army personnel. The hospital ship had and army medical staff and most casualties were army men.

The only reported naval dead were one officer and one enlisted man.

Ships Rushed To Aid

Vice Admiral Richmond K. Turner, commander of the 3d Fleet amphibious force, said ships rushed to the aid of the Comfort as soon as the attack was reported.

"My printable comment on this outrage is unprintable," stormed Admiral Turner.

The ship was proceeding to a rear area at normal speed, her rudder mechanism smashed but controllable by hand. She was met today by an Okinawa-bound hospital ship which transferred doctors and supplies to the Comfort.

Clear Intent Seen

The suicide pilot crashed into the Comfort's stern after making several runs. There was clear intent. The attack was in bright, full moonlight. The ship was brightly lighted. Searchlights were turned on the large, clear markings identifying her as a mercy ship. Other Japanese planes watched the assault but only the one attacked.

At first the Comfort was reported abandoning ship, but it soon was determined that she could proceed under her own power.

This was not the first attack on the Comfort.

Saw Another Try

On the afternoon of April 6 from this flagship I saw a suicide plane, in perfect visibility, dive directly at the Comfort.

Anti-aircraft fire brought the suicide plane down just short of the Comfort—so close that some exploding, flaming debris touched the ship.

Jap And Okinawa Girl Marry Under Supervision Of Yanks

U.S. 24th Corps Headquarters, Okinawa, April 30 (AP)—In a ceremony perhaps unparalleled in American military history, a captured Japanese officer was married here today, under United States Army auspices, to a native Okinawan girl. The ceremony was performed by a Mormon chaplain from Utah.

The girl had been serving as a nurse with the Japanese officer's unit.

Lovers for several months, the couple was found in a cave April 28. They had been there since April 22 when the officer and his girl friend, tired of war, decided to await the arrival of the Americans and hope for the best.

No Whistling At Bride

Attending the ceremony were perhaps 200 GI's who didn't even whistle at the bride—short, plump and not bad looking for an Okinawan.

The bridegroom looked like a caricature of a Japanese officer. Short and stocky with great horn-rimmed spectacles and a smile which showed gold teeth, he was trimly dressed in a freshly pressed Japanese officer's uniform, his bandy legs encased in a pair of GI field boots.

The bride joined the Japanese as an army nurse after Yank soldiers and Marines invaded the island.

The outdoor ceremony was performed under a shinto shrine by Lieut. Col. Reuben E. Curtis, of Salt Lake City, assistant corps chaplain. The best man was a Honolulu Japanese who also acted as interpreter. The bride was attended by Doris Ishikara, a Japanese and loyal American of Maui, Hawaii, who was visiting her sick sister here when caught by war.

The vows were partly civil, partly Christian, although both parties are Buddhists, Curtis said. He added:

"This was a new on on me, but these people wanted to get married and it was my duty to perform the ceremony. I used parts of various ceremonies and added a little on my own hook."

Wedding Ring Lost

After being pronounced man and wife the couple bowed deeply from the waist. They then were escorted back to the tent where they had been living since their capture. The honeymoon will be supervised by MP's.

The pair was captured by a detail commanded by Lieut. William Atwood, of New York city, and including Sergts. Charles J. McCarthy, of Cleveland, and John R. Merritt, of West Barrington, Vt.

Dual wedding certificates in Japanese and English were presented to the couple. Someone had dug up a wedding ring but the best man mislaid it, even as sometimes happens in America.

Jap Doctor Sees U.S. Winning Over 'Dreamers'

Taira Village, Okinawa, April 25 [AP — Delayed] — A middle-aged Japanese physician, criticizing his people as "conceited, superstitious dreamers," admitted today that the successful American invasion of Okinawa "foreshadows the eventual defeat of Japan itself."

"The war which Japan wages against the great American Army is a war of falsehood against truth, tradition against science, restriction against freedom," wrote Dr. Kosaburo Iyesaka, a civilian who practiced on northern Okinawa for many years.

Helping American Doctors

Dr. Iyesaka now is helping American physicians attend civilians of this village.

Dr. Iyesaka, who was born in northern Japan and studied at Kumamoto University medical school, made his comments in a letter in English addressed to "Honorable Army and Navy Surgeons and High Officers of the American Forces on Okinawa."

It said, in part, that the "defeat of the Japanese armed forces on the Loochoo (Ryukyu) Islands is tragic but true, and foreshadows the eventual defeat of Japan itself."

"The greater part of the Okinawa people are innocent at this time. They did not realize the issues in the fighting.

Anti-American Propaganda

"The horrible thought of murderous death had been planted in their minds by false propaganda saying the American Army would kill not only soldiers, but babies and the old and weak, and would wipe the name of Japan from the face of the globe."

Iyesaka's letter said he found the American soldiers "kind and upright" and his people were amazed to find a Red Cross hospital established, with medical aid given all sick and wounded, "even the common people."

The doctor said "I wish to show how I and, indeed, the greater part of the intelligentsia of Japan, have been thinking of the war between Japan and America.

Foreshadows Empire's Defeat

"I am sorry to see with my own eyes the decisive defeat of the Japanese Army. This foreshadows the downfall of the great Japanese Empire, with a glorious history going back 3,000 years.

"Such reality as the down[fall of] Nippon is a tragic and horr[ible] unthinkable to us Japane[se] all of us Japanese think o[f]

U.S. Okinawa Toll 18,300, Japs Claim

San Francisco, April 30 (AP)—Radio Tokyo claimed today that 18,300 American troops had been killed or wounded between April 1 and 28 in the battle for Okinawa, and that 38 American ships had been sunk in that area since April 15.

Quoting imperial Japanese headquarters, the enemy broadcast, recorded here, said 41 United States ships had been damaged in the Okinawa area in the latter period.

The report asserted that the ships sunk or damaged included four aircraft carriers and two cruisers.

Radio Tokyo admitted that Japanese troops had been forced to "yield a little ground" in southern Okinawa, but claimed that the Yank offensive was being "checked."

BRITISH FORCES CLOSE ON RANGOON

CALCUTTA, April 30—(AP) British armored forces headed south against only light Japanese resistance were reported officially today only 36 road miles from the Burmese capital and port of Rangoon.

Whether the city of Pegu, 50 miles above Rangoon, had been occupied or captured was not disclosed in the communique.

It is quite possible that advance elements of the British armored forces were much closer to Rangoon after three hard years of campaigning in Burma.

Burmese guerrilla forces are harassing the Japanese stragglers on the flanks of the British southward march. The Japanese are reported as being disorganized and in poor physical condition.

Along the Irrawaddy river the west bank town of Minbu, opposite Magwe, was occupied against Japanese opposition.

In the southwestern part of Burma, the Indian Fifteenth Army corps made some advances along the Tanlwa Chauk river east of the town of Taungup.

During the day United States Army Air force P-51's attacked five airfields in Burma and Thailand, destroying five aircraft and damaging two on the ground in another long mission. These planes also smashed barracks under a hail of machinegun fire, in the same areas. Moulmein airfield was also successfully attacked by fighter and bombing planes.

Japanese gun positions, troop concentrations, motor transport and compounds in advance of the British Fourteenth army drive on Rangoon were strafed and bombed north of Pegu.

Bridges on the Rangoon-Prome railway line were wrecked and many fires were started in stores and dump areas southeast of Prome.

Attacks on enemy shipping were effectively carried out from the Rangoon river to Tavoy. Two motor torpedo boats were destroyed and others damaged. Five coastal vessels were set afire and three tugs damaged.

From these [illegible]ons only two Allied aircraft [illegible]ssing.

36 MILES TO RANGOON

Calcutta, April 30 (A. P.).—British troops driving southward along the main highway to Rangoon have reached a point only thirty-six miles from the Burmese capital after a swift advance of twenty-four miles in the last twenty-four hours, Southeast Asia Headquarters announced today.

Roughly 200 miles to the northwest along the Irrawaddy River British forces occupied Minbu.

WINDSORS DEPART FROM BAHAMAS

Nassau, Bahamas, April 30 (A. P.).—The Duke of Windsor and his American-born Duchess said au revoir but not good-by to the people of the Bahamas last night in a brief broadcast.

Ending four and a half years as governor of the islands, the Duke said their departure was "the closing of an interesting and happy chapter of our lives." He assured island residents that "you have not seen the last of us."

The Duchess spoke of her pleasure in joining Nassau women in their contributions to the war effort.

Windsor resigned the governorship of the island colony on March 15. The date of their departure has not been announced. They will visit in the United States before going to the Duke's ranch in Canada.

Colombian Avalanche Buries Estimated 25

Bogota, Colombia, April 30 (AP)—An avalance near Libano, 70 miles northwest of Bogota, today buried an estimated 25 persons. Fourteen bodies already have been recovered. Weakened by heavy rains an earth bank slipped down covering a third of the houses in the village of Murillo.

ARGENTINA IS PLEASED

Ameghino Says His Country Will Give Fullest Cooperation

He said that dispatches reporting the conference steering committee had approved the invitation were gratifying and added that his Government desired to contribute fullest cooperation toward building world security.

He stated that he expected to be named Foreign Minister soon.

Canada to Join in Farm Parley

OTTAWA, April 30 (AP)—A British farmers delegation led by James Turner announced today that Canada would be represented in an International Federation of Agriculture, which is to be formed in London in October, to perfect international planning of food production and distribution. Members of the delegation said the United States, Australia, New Zealand and probably South Africa would be represented at the October meeting.

T. H. Edwards Freed in Reich

Thomas Harold Edwards of the Canadian Army Overseas, whose wife lives at 33 East Seventieth Street, New York, has been released from a German prisoner of war camp, the Department of National Defense announced tonight. Lieut Donald Francis MacLellan, son of Mrs. Mary I. MacLellan of 17 West 102d Street, New York, was also reported freed.

Text of Stalin's May Day Order of the Day

MAY 1 1945

The text of Premier Stalin's order of the day on May Day, as broadcast by the Moscow radio last night and reported by the Federal Communications Commission, follows:

Order of Day 20 of the Supreme Commander in Chief of May 1, 1945, City of Moscow:

Comrades of the Red Army and Navy, men, sergeants, petty officers, officers of the Army and Navy, generals and admirals, and working people in the Soviet Union.

Today our country is celebrating May 1, the international holiday of the working people. This year the peoples of our country meet May Day under conditions of the victorious conclusion of the great Fatherland war. The difficult time when the Red Army was repelling enemy troops near Moscow and Leningrad and near Grozny and Stalingrad, is now past and will never return. Now our victorious troops are routing the enemy armed forces in the center of Germany, far beyond Berlin on the River Elbe.

In a short time, Poland, Hungary, the greater part of Czechoslovakia and a considerable part of Austria and the Austrian capital, Vienna, were liberated. The Red Army has captured East Prussia, the nest of German imperialism; Pomerania; the major part of Brandenburg, and the main districts of the German capital, Berlin, having hoisted the victory banner over Berlin.

800,000 German Captives

As a result of these offensive battles of the Red Army during three to four months, the Germans have lost more than 800,000 officers and men as prisoners and about 1,000,000 killed. During the same period Red Army units captured or destroyed about 6,000 enemy aircraft, about 12,000 tanks and self-propelled guns, more than 23,000 field guns and a tremendous amount of other types of arms and equipment. It should be noted that in these battles, side by side with the Red Army, Polish, Yugoslav, Czechoslovak, Bulgarian and Rumanian troops have successfully advanced against the common enemy, shoulder to shoulder with the Red Army.

As a result of the devastating blows of the Red Army, the German Command was compelled to transfer to the Soviet-German front dozens of divisions and to denude whole sectors on other fronts. These circumstances helped troops of our Allies to develop a successful offensive in the west.

At the same time, by simultaneous blows against German troops from the East and the West, Allied troops and troops of the Red Army were able to cut German troops into two parts, separated from each other, and to accomplish a link-up of our own and Allied troops into one single front. There can be no doubt that this circumstance signifies the end of Hitlerite Germany. The days of Hitlerite Germany are numbered. More than half of its territory is occupied by the Red Army and the troops of our Allies.

Germany has been deprived of her most important vital districts. Industry that remains in the hands of Hitlerites is unable to supply the German Army with a sufficient quantity of arms, ammunition and fuel. The German Army's manpower reserves have been exhausted. Germany is completely isolated and finds herself alone, if one does not count her ally, Japan.

In search of a means for extricating themselves from their hopeless position, the Hitlerite adventurers resort to various tricks, even going as far as making advances to the Allies in an endeavor to sow dissension in the Allied camp. These new roguish tricks of the Hitlerites are doomed to complete failure. They can only hasten the collapse of the German troops.

Mendacious German propaganda is frightening the German population with absurd stories that the armies of the United Nations want to destroy the German people. Destruction of the German people does not enter into the aims of the United Nations. The United Nations will destroy fascism and German militarism and will sternly punish war criminals and will compel the Germans to make good the losses they have inflicted upon other nations, but the United Nations do not touch the civilian population of Germany if it will loyally carry out the demands of the Allied military authorities.

The brilliant victories achieved by Soviet troops in the great Fatherland war have demonstrated the legendary might of the Red Army and its high military skill. In the course of the war our Motherland has built up a first-class regular army capable of defending successfully the great Socialist achievements of our people and to securing the state interests of the Soviet Union.

In spite of the fact that for nearly four years the Soviet Union has been waging a war unprecedented in its scale, which demands enormous expenditure, our Socialist economic system is being strengthened and is growing, and the economic systems of liberated areas looted and destroyed by German invaders are successfully and rapidly coming back to life. This is a result of the heroic efforts of the workers and the collective farmers of the Soviet Union, the intelligentsia and the women and youths of our country, inspired and guided by the great Bolshevik party.

The world war unleashed by the German imperialists is drawing to its close. The collapse of Hitlerite Germany is a matter of the immediate future. The Hitlerite bosses who imagined themselves masters of the world now stand in front of a broken trough. The mortally wounded Fascist beast is at its last gasp. The task now boils down to one thing—to finish off the Fascist beast.

Strong Final Drive Urged

Warriors of Red Army and Navy! The last onslaught against the Hitlerite lair is in progress. In the final battles, give proof of the new examples of military skill and daring, strike harder at the enemy, break up his defense, skillfully pursue and encircle the German invaders, give them no respite until they cease to resist. Be particularly vigilant beyond the boundaries of our country. Maintain as before the honor and dignity of the Soviet warrior.

Working people of Soviet Union! By tenacious and indefatigable labor, multiply your all-round aid to the front. Heal quickly the wounds inflicted on our country by war. Raise still higher the power of our Soviet State.

Comrades of the Red Army and Navy, non-commissioned officers, officers and petty officers, generals and admirals, working people of Soviet Union, on behalf of the Soviet Government and our Bolshevik party, I greet and congratulate you on the day of May 1.

In honor of the historic victories of the Red Army on the front and of the great successes of the workers, collective farmers and intelligentsia in the rear, to mark international holiday of working people, I order:

Today, May 1, the firing of a salute of twenty artillery salvos in the capitals of the Union Republics—Moscow, Kiev, Minsk, Baku, Tbilisi, Erevan, Ashkhabad, Tashkent, Stalinabad, Alma Ata, Frunze, Petrozavodsk, Kishinev, Vilnius [Vilna], Riga, Tallinn and also in the heroic cities of Leningrad, Stalingrad, Sevastopol and Odessa.

Long live our mighty Soviet Motherland! Long live the great and victorious Soviet people! Long live the victorious Red Army and Navy!

Eternal glory to the heroes who fell in battles for the freedom and independence of our Motherland! Forward to the final rout of Hitlerite Germany!

Supreme Commander in Chief, Marshal of Soviet Union, STALIN.

Civilian Sugar Ration Slashed 25 Per Cent

Higher Point Values Are Hinted for Other Foodstuffs.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—(AP) The American sugar ration was cut 25 per cent tonight and higher point values for some other foodstuffs were hinted as officials called on the nation to share with stricken peoples of liberated Europe.

There were these developments:

1. Judge Samuel I. Rosenman, White House advisor, reported after a survey of northwest Europe that the United States should supply a "substantial share" of civilian needs there. He said this would probably cut into American rations, but said it was necessary to alleviate war-breeding distress and protect the American economy itself from damaging impacts.

Cut Sugar Ration

2. The Office of War Information announced that sugar stamp 36, good for five pounds and valid tomorrow, must last four months instead of three. OWI cited these reasons: "A sharp reduction in sugar supplies, tremendously increased requirements for liberated Europe and a rate of civilian consumption exceeding allocations.

25 307

3. The inter-agency committee on foreign shipments hinted broadly at forthcoming higher ration points for fats and oils, stating that "substantial adjustments" must be made in this country if pressing needs of liberated Europe are to be met. However, it forecast a complete shutdown on meat exports in July, August and September.

A prediction that food production this year in the United States would be 5 to 10 per cent less than last was also made by the inter-agency committee, which is responsible for deciding how much food and other supplies this country shall send over seas. Headed by foreign economic administrator, Leo T. Crowley, it was appointed by President Roosevelt following Congressional criticism of the volume of Lend-Lease and other exports while shortages prevailed at home.

Attacking the food problem, first, the committee's report found the gravest scarcities to be in meat, sugar, fats and oils.

Concerning the cut in sugar rations, the committee said that while this will be "a real sacrifice, the sacrifice will be small in comparison with the contribution it will make to the undernourished, if not actually starving, peoples of the liberated countries."

The report did not mention the determination which the committee is charged with making—the total percentage of American food which can be spared for use abroad.

Military Use to Rise

Last year, the document stated, U. S. civilians got 80 per cent of American output, the armed forces 13 per cent, and foreign countries 7 per cent. The committee reported that military use would rise to 16 per cent this year, making less food available for civilians, but did not state whether exports would rise or fall.

The impression was left that overseas shipments would be greater. The document emphasized that European diets have been worse since liberation than under German control, that port facilities now are open, and that more vessels are available.

"The high humanitarian and political priorities for delivery of adequate food supplies to western Europe can no longer be kept in second position," it said.

Of the American outlook it was stated: "A decent American diet will be maintained. Our food supply is adequate to keep America healthy and vigorous even though we shall have to make some adjustments in particular foods."

"All civilians in the United States will gladly tighten their belts to fill military and export needs which are properly keyed in with their own requirements," the statement continued.

"They will do this even though they realize that they will receive less than they consumed last year."

Rosenman declared that the United States economy would be deeply affected unless northwest Europe is helped to the point where it can again resume "its place in the international exchange of goods and services."

MAY 1 1945

Text of Judge Rosenman's Report on Europe

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—Following is the text of the White House announcement on Judge Rosenman's report on civilian supplies for the liberated areas of northwest Europe:

Samuel I. Rosenman has submitted his report to President Truman on the matter of civilian supplies for the liberated areas of northwest Europe. The report is the result of a mission to these countries, on which he was recently sent by the late President Roosevelt.

Pursuant to the direction of the President—who is very sympathetic with the needs of the liberated countries—Judge Rosenman has discussed, and is now discussing the question with the Government agencies concerned in the matter, with the view of seeing to what extent, if any, these needs can be met.

The President has authorized the release of the following summary of the highlights of the report:

SUMMARY OF REPORT

1. The immediate and long-range economic situations of these liberated countries are extremely serious. The needs vary from country to country.

Seven million displaced persons, brought into Germany from overrun countries as slave labor, will increase its seriousness. These people have no source of food of their own, and will place a critical burden upon an already severely limited food supply.

Except in the rural, food-raising areas, a dangerously low level of nutrition generally exists; coal production meets not even minimum requirements; ports have suffered great damage by bombing and demolition.

Railroads, canals and highways have been wholly or partially destroyed; and what remains of the usable means of internal transportation have been largely devoted to Allied military use. The resultant lack of adequate transport carries serious consequences.

Physical destruction is greater than in the last war. Manufacturing is paralyzed by destruction or damage, lack of raw materials and inadequate plant maintenance.

Stresses Effect on Economy

2. The needs of northwest Europe's liberated areas are grave, not only from a humanitarian aspect but because they involve internal and international political considerations. The future permanent peace of Europe depends largely upon restoration of the economy of these countries, including a reasonable standard of living and employment. United States economy, too, will be deeply affected unless northwest Europe again resumes its place in the international exchange of goods and services. Furthermore, a chaotic and hungry Europe is not fertile ground in which stable, democratic and friendly governments can be reared.

3. A realistic appraisal of the situation would indicate that the responsibility for providing a substantial share of most civilian supplies will rest on the United States. United States policy should dictate acceptance of this responsibility as far as possible.

4. To be effective, the acceptance of this responsibility as a Government policy should be enunciated by the President himself. The policy should be framed so as to assure that the supplies necessary to meet the minimum requirements of all liberated areas will be met as fully as the successful prosecution of military operations and the maintenance of our essential domestic economy will permit.

5. Once this policy is enunciated, a high level interdepartmental committee should be maintained to advocate and support the claims presented by the liberated countries, in order to insure that the policy is in fact continuously carried out.

6. The most immediate and urgent needs common to all northwest European countries are certain types of food, coal, coal-mining equipment and the means of internal transportation.

7. The available supply of many kinds of food is insufficient for minimum requirements. To meet the United States share of these needs, a re-examination of total requirements against our supplies should be made. Certain appropriate steps should be taken to assure maximum production of food in the liberated areas. We should examine the situation of those countries liberated by the U. S. S. R. in eastern Europe in order to ascertain what food surpluses may be available there for the deficit areas of western Europe.

Coal an Important Key

8. Coal is one of the most important keys to economic recovery in northwest Europe. Meeting even minimum coal requirements for a year or more after V-E Day will be impossible. Any material alleviation of this situation would require maximum coal production in Germany. This, however, entails certain serious political decisions, because it would mean immediate shipment of coal mining supplies to Germany; rehabilitation of battle-damaged or demolished German mines; restoration of German transport facilities for miners and mining [illegible]; supply of adequate [illegible] and footwear for German miners; provision of electric power to produce coal even if it entails rehabilitation of some part of local utilities, and the use of forced German labor where necessary. These political questions are not within the province of the mission to answer. Failure to take the steps outlined, however, would place insurmountable limitations on the extraction of German coal for liberated countries. The United States should examine the extent to which it can supply coal to Europe, especially during any period of easier shipping which may develop after V-E Day; for the lack of coal is of gravest political and economic concern.

9. There can be little economic rehabilitation until the internal transportation situation is improved. The liberated areas should be given prompt and high priorities for rolling stock, locomotives, maintenance and repair shop supplies, and raw materials for local production of railroad equipment. A survey to determine the availability of Army trucks after V-E Day, for transfer to these countries, should be made; also the possibility of reconditioning used trucks here and abroad should be explored.

10. Port capacity and clearances are now sufficient so that they should not be regarded as restrictions upon procurement by the national governments or upon the allocation of ships to them. The limiting factor in the immediate future is the shortage of supplies. Should shipping develop to a choke-point, the shipping position should be re-examined at the highest level to insure maximum allocation to the liberated areas, consistent, of course, with the successful prosecution of the war and the needs of our other Allies. Full advantage should be taken of present allocations and any temporary ease of shipping shortly after V-E Day.

11. To supplement the electric power in liberated areas, thus saving coal and transportation, we should seek increased exports of electricity from Germany.

12. Petroleum is essential for economic rehabilitation, particularly for its use in transportation. SHEAF now handles petroleum imports, but the responsibility will ultimately revert to the governments of these areas. Planning for the transition should be undertaken now.

13. Highest level decisions must be made immediately regarding the use of German productive capacity, and the extent, if at all, to which it should be restored and operated for the benefit of liberated countries of northwest Europe.

14. Interim reparations machinery should be established at once to handle the growing problem of removal for needed use in liberated countries the movable goods uncovered in Germany by Allied armies, which SHEAF does not need. It should be integrated with the work of the Reparations Commission.

15. Repatriation of displaced persons should be undertaken as speedily as possible.

Asks Mine Removal by Reich

16. As the land of France and Belgium, and the adjacent seas are filled with German mines, a complete restoration of agriculture, shipping and fishing is severely restricted. As part of the peace terms, Germany should be compelled to furnish the personnel to remove these mines.

17. The military has met the responsibility placed on it for providing sufficient civilian supplies in northwest European liberated countries to prevent disease and unrest. It has done this job well, despite the limitations of shipping, harbors, supply and inland transportation. Military commanders in the field are keenly aware of the necessity of maintaining at least a minimum economy in the path of their communications. These countries will also serve as re-deployment bases after V-E Day. The immediate requirements of these areas, however, go beyond the bare necessities called for by the military in the performance of its responsibility for civilian supplies. This responsibility should be terminated as soon as practicable.

18. It is a new concept that responsibility for the care of civilian populations and temporary Governmental administration is a necessary part of our Army's military mission. Modern total war has brought the military into direct contact with the political and economic lives of the countries through which it passes and has demonstrated the soundness of this concept.

19. To discharge successfully our responsibility in economic relations with the liberated countries, our embassies should have the necessary personnel, adequately experienced and trained. In this period of emergency, it will be necessary to supplement the trained manpower of the foreign service.

Break-Up of Responsibilities

20. The largest responsibility in dealing with economic problems in the field falls upon the State Department and the FEA. In all cases, the senior economic officer in each embassy should be the joint designee of these agencies, as in Paris and Brussels, where it has proved to be a sound arrangement.

21. The present liberated areas committee should be designated as the advocate of the claimant countries, referred to in Section V. At present, it is under the chairmanship of an Assistant Secretary of State, with comparable membership of FEA, Treasury, War and Navy Departments. It is essential that the level of original membership be maintained. It should have an outstandingly able Secretariat adequately staffed, capable of exercising general coordinating responsibility for the members and do the day-to-day work of the committee.

22. The Washington machinery for allocating supplies to liberated areas should be simplified and streamlined. The President should designate someone to examine this machinery and to recommend changes designed to eliminate the complexities which now exist.

23. UNRRA's supply activities in northwest Europe are comparatively unimportant. In the problem of displaced persons, however, UNRRA should be encouraged to greater participation compatible with military necessities and the liberated countries' own decisions. UNRRA's needs will increase. It is essential, therefore, that it be given appropriate consideration for supplies, transport and ocean shipping.

Organizations in Helpful Roles

24. The European Economic Committee, European Central Inland Transport Organization, European Coal Organization and United Maritime Authority, if created and thereafter supported, can perform helpful roles. The State Department, fully aware of their possible contribution, is following their development closely with the purpose of expediting their establishment on a basis acceptable to the countries most directly concerned.

25. Discussions with the Governments of the liberated countries relating to financial assistance for rehabilitation and reconstruction should be undertaken several months hence. These countries are not yet ready for such discussions. In the meantime, data are being assembled on the extent of destruction, cost of reconstruction and available foreign assets. Substantial benefit will come from the passage of Bretton Woods legislation, repeal of the Johnson act and the amendments relating to the Export-Import Bank. Facilities for credits to the liberated countries should be established at the earliest possible date.

26. Since allocation of civilian supplies to liberated countries, in all probability, will cut into the ration of the American consumer, a widespread official and public campaign should be undertaken to inform the American people of the gravity of the needs of our Allies in liberated Europe.

Conversely, there is no adequate understanding by the ordinary civilians in these liberated areas of what the Americans and British have done for the civilian population of these countries. Nor do they realize that in the United States, too, there are grave shortages. We should improve the transmission abroad of the story of the American war effort and of American sacrifices to improve the lot of our Allies.

U.S. Flyer Gets British Decoration

Washington, April 30 (AP)—Second Lieutenant Marcus R. Humphrey of Pawnee, Neb., was awarded the British Distinguished Flying Cross at a special ceremony at the British Embassy.

Lord Halifax, British Ambassador, made the award. Humphrey's citation read:

"As captain and pilot of aircraft this officer has participated in 23 sorties against Berlin. His outstanding ability, courage and cheerfulness have contributed largely to the successes achieved and the high standard of morale maintained by the squadron."

U.S. Oil Field Equipment Being Moved Into China

Drilling and Refining Machinery Carried Over Stilwell Road

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP).—Materials for drilling oil wells and for increasing refinery capacity within China now are moving over the Ledo-Burma (Stilwell) Road.

This was disclosed today by the Petroleum Administration for War, which said some of the materials had been moved to ports in Asia in advance of the reopening of the road.

"The oil-field materials and equipment will make possible more efficient, and possibly greater, crude oil production in China," Deputy P. A. W. Administrator Ralph K. Davies said. "The refinery equipment will augment the present simple processing units that were made in China, will increase the quality and quantity of products now being manufactured, and will also permit the production of other petroleum products that cannot be made in existing units."

All finished petroleum products in China, Mr. Davies said, will be used for military purposes.

GREEN SEES LABOR LAG AFTER V-E DAY

Washington, April 30 (A. P.).—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said today that there will be "pretty widespread" temporary unemployment immediately after V-E day. Emerging from a White House call, he said he discussed reconversion problems with President Truman in a conference lasting about fifteen minutes.

He told reporters that he extended to Mr. Truman assurances of co-operation and support from the A. F. of L. "in all his work" and arranged for the A. F. of L. executive council to meet with the President about Thursday. He stated that unemployment had already started on the West Coast with cutbacks in shipbuilding and that there would be heavy cutback in airplane manufacture before long.

"Immediately after V-E day," he said, "there will be pretty widespread unemployment, particularly during the transition from war to civilian production. I think this situation will be temporary and that the pent-up demand for supplies will largely take care of the situation."

He said President Truman expressed great interest in the problem and is anxious to provide a solution.

3-Million Man Days Of Free Work Given U.S.

Washington, April 30 (AP)—The National Service Board for Religious Objectors reported today that conscientious objectors have done more than 3,000,000 man day of free work for the Government.

A statistical analysis of the handling of men opposed to military service for conscientious reasons was combined with argument for pay, dependency allowances, and other benefits for such men. The report was sent to Congressmen.

The board said that since selective service was set up four years ago, about 10,000 men have been 4-3 draft classification and sent to conscientious objectors comps, and another 4,000 have been held in Federal prisons for refusal to comply with the draft act.

Figuring that $50 a month, an Army private's base pay, the board estimated the value of conscientious objectors' work at $8,033,265 up to March 1, 1945. During the same time it reported the total cost of operation of the conscientious objector phase of the Selective Service Act at $13,853,157.05.

COURT TO END TERM MAY 28

High Tribunal Will Have Three Opinion Days Before Then

Washington, April 30 (AP)—The Supreme Court today set May 28 for adjournment of its present term, "unless otherwise ordered." Three opinion days are scheduled before then.

A half dozen cases of national interest are among those awaiting decision.

AP Case Pending

The court at term's end clears its calendar of all cases which have been argued, though an actual opinion is not always entered. Reargument at the next term sometimes is ordered. Some cases may be sent back to lower courts for further proceedings. Cases accepted for review and not argued before adjournment will await the next term which begins in October.

The remaining opinion days are May 7, 21 and 28. In the past the court often has postponed adjournment a week or two. Final arguments will be heard this week.

Appeals pending include:

The Associated Press case; a civil anti-trust suit in which a Federal district court decreed that the AP alter membership.

Bund Case Included

Challenges to Florida and Alabama state legislation governing labor unions.

A new test of Nevada divorces.

The question whether portal-to-portal pay for bituminous coal miners is required by the wage hour law.

The case of 24 German-American Bund officials convicted of conspiracy to advise resistance to the draft law.

A contest over the Government's attempt to deport Harry Bridges, West Coast CIO leader.

The court today agreed to review the application of social security taxes to a better-business bureau. The Washington bureau said the lower court decision that it is not exempt affects 85 others in the country. The case will not be argued this term.

WLB Orders Mining Of Hard Coal Kept Up

Washington, April 30 (AP)—The War Labor Board tonight ordered anthracite miners and mine operators to continue the production of coal under the terms of their present contract until settlement of a pending dispute between them.

The case had been certified to the WLB by Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, at 8 P.M.

Negotiations in New York between the operators and the miners' union had reached a deadlock.

Under the WLB interim order announced tonight, any wage adjustments finally granted the miners would be made retroactive to today.

Called To WLB Hearing

Meanwhile the WLB summoned the operators and representatives of the United Mine workers to a hearing here tomorrow.

The contract expires at midnight tonight.

In New York a spokesman for the mine operators said they would accept WLB jurisdiction.

A spokesman for the miners union said John L. Lewis, president, and Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer, would stay in New York city to continue contract negotiations. Washington representatives of the union, he said, would attend the meeting there.

Statement By Lewis

Shortly before the WLB action Lewis had said in a statement that "the anthracite scale committee has just voted unanimously that they will advise anthracite mine workers to resume work when the anthracite operators accept Secretary of Labor Perkins's recommendation for a new contract."

Secretary Perkins met with the negotiators today in an effort to get them together on a contract.

World Peace Must Come Before Dead Return

Washington, April 30 (AP)—The soldier dead overseas will not be brought home until the war in all theaters has ended.

In reiterating a policy set forth in 1943, the War Department said today that "the immenence of the fall of Germany has given rise to false hopes on the part of some relatives that the soldier dead in Europe could be returned to the United States soon after V-E day."

It added that "with cessation of war in Europe, all transportation facilities as well as all available personnel will be engaged in shifting troops and supplies from one theater to another."

ASKS REBUILDING BY NAZIS

Bender Says U. S. Should Return Prisoners for Work in Europe

WASHINGTON, April 30 (AP)—Immediate return of all German prisoners of war to Europe to rebuild what they have devastated was demanded today by Representative Bender, Republican, of Ohio.

Saying that German mistreatment of American war prisoners showed the "depths to which Germany has sunk under Nazi leadership," Mr. Bender asserted in a statement that maintenance of Nazis in American camps under good conditions was "to defeat one of the purposes for which this war is being fought.

"I say that the time has come when they should be sent back to Europe to rebuild under Polish and Russian and Czech and French and Belgian and Dutch and Yugoslav authority the lands they have devastated. This procedure would not violate the principles of international law and it would remove from idleness a group of dangerous, arrogant men who might otherwise one day form the nucleus of a new menace to the world."

ASKS WAR ON JAPS BY UNITED NATIONS

Washington, April 30 (A. P.).—Senator Capehart (R.-Ind.) suggested today that the forty-six nations represented at the San Francisco conference send Japan an ultimatum demanding unconditional surrender and enter the Pacific war if Japan refuses to comply.

In a speech in the Senate, Mr. Capehart, who has a son fighting in Germany, said:

"If all are equally sincere in their hate of tyranny and equally passionate in their love of freedom, let them demonstrate it now."

He stated that with victory in Europe a matter of days or hours "the United States and a few other nations should no longer be expected to carry the full burden against Japan. He added:

"Upon the willingness of those peoples represented at San Francisco to fight side by side in the battle line and share equally in the sacrifice, rests the ultimate decision as to whether or not we and our posterity are to live in a world of peace, freedom and security. . . . No nation will ever again challenge the basic concepts of a free country if it is once taught that it must fight alone against a world that is at least united and unafraid."

Taken Since D-Day

Washington, April 30 (AP)—The Allies' bag of prisoners from D-day in Normandy through last Wednesday totaled 2,628,529.

Announcing this today, the War Department said more than 317,000 were taken in the Ruhr pocket alone. In the last seven weeks more than 1,500,000 were captured.

DAVIS APPROVES LEWIS' CONTRACT

WASHINGTON, April 30—(AP) Economic Stabilizer William H. Davis today approved John L. Lewis' contract with the bituminous coal operators and granted producers price increases averaging 16 cents a ton to offset the costs.

The Davis action completed government processing of the contract in record time. It was signed April 11, after 42 days of negotiating between the United Mine workers and the operators.

The War Labor board approved the agreement a week ago, saying it would give the average miner 81 cents a day more in take-home pay by requiring full portal-to-portal payment.

The Office of Price administration is to announce details of the price ceiling revisions, which will necessitate small percentage increases in retail coal prices.

The wage contract will add slightly more than 21 cents a ton on the average to the costs of producing bituminous coal, the economic stabilizer said. However, the industry will absorb approximately five cents of this increase.

Some bituminous operators, fearful that the price increase allowed by Davis might fall below their estimated costs, went into conference to determine what action, if any, they might take later. The operators could go before OPA for additional increases it was said by operators.

The contract contains a provision making its terms subject to approval of price relief by government agencies. The UMW joined the operators in petitioning OPA for increased tonnage prices to offset the payroll increase.

Davis explained that in determining how much of the cost increase should be absorbed by the industry and how much should be recovered through price increases, he had approved OPA use of the principal adopted by Fred M. Vinson, his predecessor as Director of Economic Stabilization. Vinson granted coal price increases in November, 1943, ruling that the bituminous mines in each district be allowed to earn a realized margin equal to that earned in 1942 or 15 cents a ton, whichever is higher.

AUSTRIA IS NOT RECOGNIZED BY U.S.

WASHINGTON, April 30—(AP) The United States government does not recognize the provisional government reported to have been established in Austria under Dr. Karl Renner, the State department said today.

At the department, acting Secretary Grew said the whole question is being taken up with the government of Soviet Russia, whose troops now occupy Vienna.

(A Moscow dispatch today quoted Tass, the Russian news agency, as saying in a story from Vienna that the 75-year-old Dr. Renner had formed a provisional government representing a coalition of social Democrat, Christian social and Commuhist parties.)

Grew stated that on April 27 notification was received from the Soviet government that the formation of a provisional Austrian government had been proposed by Dr. Renner and that the Soviet government was not disposed to hinder this development.

The acting Secretary made his statements in answer to inquiries whether the State department recognized the Renner government of Austria as temporary authority there of whether the Department had received any official confirmation of its formation.

Grew asserted that he had noted the press reports from Moscow on the provisional government but that the United States government has not yet had official confirmation on this matter.

Renner, a member of the social Democrat party in Austria, was an Austrian chancellor in 1919-20. He was described in Moscow dispatches as having opposed Communism in Austria after the last war, and as having been criticized in matters of policy in a Soviet encyclopedia published in 1941.

Congress Seeks To Cut Off All Nazi Havens

Washington, April 30 (AP)—The House hastened today to snatch the sanctuary of neutral countries from Nazi war criminals.

Without awaiting a formal report from a congressional committee that inspected German atrocity camps, the chamber scheduled debate on a resolution calling on the Government to use arms if necessary to capture war criminals who seek refuge in peaceful nations.

Representative Luther A. Johnson (D., Texas), acting chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, predicted that the resolution would be approved overwhelmingly and sent on to the Senate.

Food And Treaty Issues

The resolution came up early in a legislative week that was to be devoted largely to foreign affairs debate. At the top of today's House calendar was legislation to put the United States into an international food organization. Tomorrow debate begins on a proposed constitutional amendment to scrap the Senate's exclusive control over treaties and make future peace pacts subject to ratification by both branches of Congress.

The war-criminal resolution—written by Representative King (D., Cal.)—was approved unanimously by the Foreign Affairs Committee shortly after stories of Nazi atrocities began coming out of Germany.

Would Back Up Big Three

It urges the Government to make the pursuit, trial and punishment of war criminals a definite United States policy without regard for international boundaries. It does not have the force of law, but it would serve as congressional backing for President Truman, who last week joined with Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin in solemnly warning the perpetrators of German atrocities that they cannot escape from their crimes.

The resolution—aimed at the highest Nazi officials—also construes as war criminals those industrialists who use slave labor and the resources of conquered nations to produce arms for the enemy.

Text Of The Resolution

It calls upon the Government:

"To join with other nations in the use of such means as may be necessary, irrespective of the limitations of any treaties of extradition, to secure the person or property of those persons determined to be war criminals who have already fled, or who may hereafter flee, to any neutral nation, or any other nation, that may harbor them or afford them a place of asylum."

4 Vet Hospital Probes Are Under Way

This is the first of several articles dealing with the controversy over the treatment of veterans and the operations of the Veterans' Administration.

By Frank Carey

Washington, April 30 (AP)—Four separate nation-wide investigations of veterans' hospitals are under way—two of them by congressional groups and two of them initiated by the Veterans' Administration itself.

They are the outgrowths of recent criticism of the quality of medical service in veterans' hospitals, or of allegations that patients are poorly fed, overcrowded and harshly treated in some instances.

Probers' Groups Listed

The investigating groups are:

1. A Senate subcommittee on wartime health and education, headed by Senator Pepper (D., Fla.). This subcommittee reported recently that testimony had been given at hearings that "the medical care of veterans does not measure up to the best of standards."

2. The House Committee on World War veterans' legislation, headed by Representative Rankin (D., Miss.), which is now holding hearings.

3. The American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and disabled American veterans. These groups were asked by Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, to co-operate "in developing a program to reveal the facts."

4. The Veterans' Administration itself, pricipally through its advisory group of sixteen medical men.

"Welcomes Investigation"

Hines told Rankin's committee in a statement, "I welcome your investigation of the many allegations recently published."

He said the Veterans' Administration's own investigation was launched "as soon as these charges were called to my attention and was prompted by a very real fear that, whether true or false, they would create anxiety and worry among those most directly affected—soldiers, sailors, veterans and families and friends."

Rankin asked each member of is 21-member committee to visit veterans' hospitals during the Easter recess. Shortly before the committee's hearings began, he said, "nearly all the reports are in, and they show that our veterans are receiving very fine treatment."

Here are some arguments and statements on both sides of the question:

1. A recent Cosmopolitan Magazine article, which has been quoted at length in the Congressional Record, declared that "third-rate treatment" was being given our war heroes by the Veterans' Administration.

The writer, Albert Q. Maisel, said he had visited more than a dozen hospitals and that he had found: "Disgraceful and needless overcrowding . . . many of the doctors were incompetent . . . desperately sick veterans served food that would be rejected in the worst Bowery flophouse."

"Personal Knowledge"

General Hines, in his statement to the Rankin committee, said:

"At this time (late March) I cannot furnish complete factual evidence in answer to all of the numerous lay opinions and allegations which have been directed at the Veterans' Administration in newspapers and magazines.

"I can, however, assure you from my personal knowledge of the treatment of patients in Veterans' Administration facilities that third-rate medicine is not practiced."

In this statement Hines did not refer directly to the Cosmopolitan article, but later he referred to it by title in a letter to Rankin. Rankin put the letter into the Congressional Record.

2. Charges have been made that Veterans' Administration doctors are loaded down with paper work.

Hines says veterans' hospitals are short of doctors, nurses' attendants and other workers because of the war. He says work of the administration as a whole has increased 300 per cent since February, 1943, but "we have been able to add only 14 per cent to our personnel."

3. Representative Miller (R., Neb.) a physician before he entered Congress, told the House. "The veterans' hospitals do have some good surgeons, but they do have some who are rather mediocre."

Says Dr. Charles M. Griffith, medical director of the Veterans' Administration:

"I'll put our (surgical) recoveries against any hospital in the country. A large percentage of our operating surgeons are Fellows of the American College of Surgeons."

4. The Journal of the American Medical Association says: "Veterans' hospitals are not accredited as institutions suitable to the training of interns."

TRUMAN APPOINTS

ED M'KIM AS HIS CHIEF ASSISTANT

WASHINGTON, April 30—(AP) Ed McKim who followed President Truman as a soldier and as a political campaigner, became his chief administrative assistant today.

The 49-year-old Omaha, Neb., insurance executive was sworn in for the $10,000 job by Justice William O. Douglas of the Supreme court. The oath was administered at the same time to John W. Snyder, St. Louis banker, as Federal Loan administrator and Edwin W. Pauley of California as American member of the Reparations commission with the rank of ambassador.

Served Truman Since April 12

The 184 pound McKim, six feet one inch tall, has been serving President Truman unofficially since his old battery commander entered the White House April 12.

He had told reporters he planned to return to Omaha where he was executive vice president of the newspaper division of the Mutual Benefit Health and Accident association.

However, McKim said today, the President urged him to enter his official family and he obtained a leave of absence from the company for which he has worked for 18 years.

Truman was commander of Battery D of the 129th Field Artillery, 35th division, during the First World War, and was mustered out with the reserve rank of major.

In later years when he commanded reserve field artillery units in annual encampments Edward Daniel McKim went along with him. McKim still looks on the Chief Executive as his "captain."

McKim accompanied Mr. Truman on his transcontinental campaign for the vice presidency last fall.

He took one of two administrative assistant vacancies already existing, the President having authority to fill six such posts. President Roosevelt never designated any of his assistants as the senior man.

Ready For Any Assignment

McKim said he would be available for whatever assignment "the boss sees fit to hand me."

Born in Evansville, Ind., Oct. 20, 1895, McKim was educated at De Lasale Academy and Rockhurst college, Kansas City, where he played football.

After World War service he stayed in the reserve corps and his first lieutenant's commission expired in 1938.

He married Mary Virginia Clifford of Kansas City, Jan. 8, 1921. He has four children, Mary Elizabeth, 20, Maryville college, St. Louis; Jane, 10; Ellen, 7 and Lawrence, 14. Another son, Lieut. Edward D., Jr., was killed in the Pacific last June.

Before his connection with the Omaha Insurance company, McKim was three years with the Insurance Field, insurance-publication at Louisville, Ky.

Poles in London Urge Revisions Of Dumbarton

Memorandum to Parley Opposes Big-Power Veto and Defines Aggression

SAN FRANCISCO, April 30 (AP).—The Polish government in London has presented a memorandum to the United Nations Conference asking elimination of the big-power veto and inclusion of a definition of aggression along lines of a Soviet treaty signed in 1933.

The Polish Consul General here presented the memorandum to the Secretary General, Alger Hiss, as the only means by which the London government, not invited to the conference, could raise its voice here.

It was released this morning as Russian Foreign Commissar Viacheslav M. Molotov was understood to be reiterating his demand, once rejected, that the Soviet-backed Warsaw government of Poland be invited to the United Nations meeting.

Poland's chair at this conference has been left vacant pending establishment of a new Polish government acceptable to both the Russians and the United States and Britain.

The London government said that although not invited to the conference, it felt responsible "as the only legal representative of the Polish nation" to submit suggestions on behalf of Poland. The document presented was signed by the Polish Ambassador in Washington, Jan Ciechanowski.

London Poles' Suggestions

The London Poles made these suggestions for changes in the Dumbarton Oaks proposals:

1. Inclusion of the "principles of justice and democracy" embodied in the Western Hemisphere's act of Chapultepec. The act provides territorial guaranties, non-interference in the affairs of states and assurance of each nation's political independence.

2. Abolition of the veto in the security council by making all votes a simple majority without requiring big power unanimity. Furthermore, no nation should votes when it is party to a dispute.

3. Strengthening of the general assembly, where all the United Nations are represented, by giving it "the right of unrestricted discussion of and initiativ in all questions pertaining to problems of world security and peace. (Dumbarton Oaks prohibits the assembly from making recommendations on subjects before the security council.)

4. A "clear and comprehensive definition of aggression" along lines of a treaty signed by Russia in 1933 with Poland, Estonia, Latvia, Romania, Iran, Turkey, Afghanistan and later adhered to by Finland.

UNITED NATIONS ADMIT ARGENTINA TO PEACE PARLEY

Agree to Issue Invitation Over Objections of Molotov.

VOTE IS 31 TO 4

Conference Approves Admission of White Russia, Ukrainian Republics.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 30—(AP) Over stern Russian objections, the United Nations conference voted 31 to 4 tonight to give Argentina a place immediately in its peace-shaping councils.

Thus the first full-scale floor scrap of the conference ended in a Soviet defeat.

Molotov Seeks Delay

Eloquently but in vain, Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov had pleaded that the ballot be delayed, that there hadn't been time enough for Russia to study Argentina's case. He questioned whether the South American country is free of Fascism.

And, he said, if Argentina is to be invited to send statesmen to San Francisco, so, too, should the Russian-recognized Polish government in Moscow.

There was a measure of consolation for the aggressive Russian, however, in the fact that the conference approved with scarcely a ripple the admission of the Soviet White Russian and Ukrainian republics to the conference.

Belgian's foreign minister, Paul Henri Spaak, urged delegates to heed Molotov's bid for delay to preserve "precious unity" among nations sponsoring the conference—Russia, Britain, China and the United States.

But Secretary of State Stettinius and a horde of Latin Americans sprang to the support of Argentina.

And when it came to a show down, there were 28 votes against delay, and then only 4 in opposition to issuing Argentina an invitation to the conference. Eleven nations did not vote.

Molotov Stalks From Hall

Russia had swung the votes only of Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia and Greece. Not even Belgium went along. And when the result was announced, Molotov and his fellow Russians stalked from the glittering auditorium of San Francisco's opera house with Czech Foreign Minister Masaryk and Yugoslavia's Subasic.

Listed on the earlier vote in favor of postponing action on Argentina were seven countries: Russia, Norway, New Zealand, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Greece.

Stettinius aligned himself squarely against Molotov, declaring Argentina had complied with conditions laid down at an inter-American conference at Mexico City for joining the family of nations.

"The American representatives," he said, "feel that Argentina has complied with this requirement and desire that Argentina be represented."

Applause sputtered through the hall when Stettinius said his government "concurs in the desires of her sister American republics."

The four nations which opposed immediate seating of Argentina were noted by reporters as Russia, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Greece.

After Alger Hiss, secretary general of the conference, had declined to furnish an official list of the opposing votes, Michael McDermott, State department public relations officer, obtained the names of the four countries. There was only a standing vote, not a roll call vote.

The world can't forget, the Russian declared, that Argentina has "helped the enemy throughout the war," but the Poles fought from the first for the Allies and thus are entitled to a part in the deliberations here.

Colombia's foreign minister, Alberto Lleras Camargo, climbed the steps of the platform to assert that no one should forget, either, that Argentina declared war on the Axis in hostilities not yet ended.

Decline Vote On Poles

The conference steering committee had voted earlier to extend an invitation to Argentina, as well as to the Soviet Ukrainian and White Russian republics. Molotov, rather than risk a second defeat, declined to ask for a vote on the Warsaw Poles. He had lost on that in the conference executive committee.

Repeating arguments he had employed in a mid-afternoon press conference, the Foreign Commissar cited statements of former Secretary of State Cordell Hull and the late President Roosevelt that Argentina was headquarters of Fascism in the Western Hemisphere.

And, he said, a question of prestige is involved in determining whether to admit the Moscow-recognized Polish government in Warsaw.

"No one can deny," he asserted, "that the provisional Polish government functioning in Warsaw, and the whole territory of liberated Poland, is a democratic government."

Lleras Camargo said the Argentine case presented a question of principle. Past criticisms of the Argentine government, he said, were directed at past acts.

The United States and Britain have taken the stand that the Warsaw government is not broadly representative of enough Poles, that it should be broadened in accordance with a Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin agreement at Yalta.

Mexico's Foreign Minister Ezequiel Padilla, paid tribute to Poland's war effort, but said the conference couldn't give Poland a voice here until the Yalta agreement is fulfilled.

"The Argentine," he said, "is a nation of long-standing democratic traditions," and her people shouldn't be punished because her government "accidentally separated itself" from sentiments of the people.

The Argentine issues reached the conference floor because all actions of the steering committee have to be approved by the full conference.

Molotov's bid for delay won the support of Belgian's Foreign Minister Paul Henri Spaak. He said it was reasonable and logical.

Delegates laughed and a bit of tension eased when he remarked that Molotov spoke the language of justice, Lleras Camargo the language of clarity and he spoke the language of conciliation.

"Perhaps," Molotov told reporters in advance of the plenary session, "it is necessary to forget the sins committed by Argentina, but why should we forget the services rendered by the Poles?"

Possibly since the Hull and Roosevelt statements, he said, "the Fascist government of Argentina has been replaced by a democratic government." Then he added:

"They know it much better here in America undoubtedly. If it is so we should like to be informed of these facts so we may know them as actual facts."

He contended that insufficient consideration had been given to Argentina's position.

To the delegates themselves, gathered in San Francisco's huge stone opera house, Molotov stressed that Russia had complied with British requests to invite India, and with American desires to include the Philippines in the conference, although neither is an independent nation.

CHARGES ALLIES FAIL ON WAR CRIME POLICY

SAN FRANCISCO, April 30 (AP)—The World Jewish Congress called today for prompt establishment of procedure for punishment of war criminals.

Dr. Maurice L. Perlzweig, head of the political department of the organization, directed "an earnest appeal" to Secretary Stettinius and Foreign Secretaries Eden and Molotoff to "act now" under terms of the Yalta agreement on war criminals. Dr. Perlzweig spoke at a luncheon in his honor, attended by Jewish leaders of northern California. The Congress represents Jewish communities or groups in forty countries.

"The absence of a common policy on the trial of war criminals," Dr. Perlzweig stated, "constitutes the greatest failure of our united war effort. Lamentable delays mean that it is now too late to establish an international criminal court by treaty. But it would be a disaster of the first magnitude if trials for the major criminals were abandoned and they were dealt with by executive action."

"The Foreign Secretaries are together now in San Francisco," he said. "It is inconceivable that they should sanction further delay on the eve of victory."

Report Argentina In, Poles Out

Executive Committee Is Said to Approve Seat for Two Russian Republics Also.

San Francisco, April 30 (A. P.).—Invitations for Argentina and the White Russian and Ukraine republics to join the United Nations conference were voted today by the executive committee, but Russia again was reported defeated on an effort to bring in Poland's Warsaw government. The conference steering committee immediately took up the executive committee's recommendation.

The affirmative vote on the two Russian republics and Argentina was reported as 9 to 3, with China not voting and one of the fourteen member nations not represented. There was speculation that Russia, Czecho-Slovakia and Yugoslavia cast the negative ballots.

Whatever the forty-six-nation Steering Committee does on the recommendations probably will be decisive although still subject to routine ratification by the full conference. The United States and Great Britain, which have constantly opposed the present Warsaw Government and which had supported the move favoring Argentina, seemed certain of Steering Committee support.

Say Molotov Urged Poland.

Reports from the executive group meeting were that when Rrgentine was proposed for a conference invitation, Foreign Commissar Molotov arose and proposed that Poland also get a bid. Mr. Molotov argued, it was said, that the present Argentine Government does not represent all the people of its country. He contended that even if the present Polish regime does not represent all the people of Poland—as the United States and Britain contend—it still would have as much right here as the Argentine administration.

If and when a plenary conference session ratifies the Argentine invitation, that government probably would be asked first to sign the United Nations declaration.

Then Oscar Ibarra Garcia, new Argentine Ambassador to the United States, who is due in Washington from Buenos Aires tomorrow, probably would come to San Francisco immediately, bringing with him a delegation composed of embassy officials.

Main Work Lies Ahead.

Beyond these matters, the real production machinery of the conference will be thrown into gear this week with organization meetings of the four big commissions designed to put the Dumbarton Oaks plan into final shape. These are commissions on:

General Provisions—The main job is to write a sort of "Atlantic Charter" preamble, setting forth the human ideals of the world organization in terms of justice, rights, and the like.

General Assembly—To consider the Dumbarton Oaks plan for an assembly of all nations, and the amendments which have been suggested on its powers and functions is the job of his commission. Small nations would like to make the assembly more powerful.

Security Council—The assigned task is to lay down the rules for the proposed peace-preserving council. Dumbarton Oaks calls for eleven nations in its membership. There is a move under way to expand this membership to fourteen, as a means of giving the small nations a greater voice.

World Court—The commission must work out a plan setting forth what sort of body it should be and how much power it should have.

United Nations More Firmly Set On Success

San Francisco, April 30 (AP)—Secretary of State Stettinius said today the United Nations are now more determined than ever to press their conference to successful creation of a charter for an international security organization.

He was asked at a press conference—where he spoke as chairman of the key conference-steering committee—whether there was any plan or thought of adjourning the conference early—after V-E day—and resuming after an interim to complete the charter.

He said he had not heard any such idea discussed, and did not think it was in anybody's mind—that the delegates now are more determined than ever to go right through to success regardless of what happens.

4,000 Reference Tomes To Aid Parley Delegates

Library of Congress Shipped 1,000, Found 3,000 More

SAN FRANCISCO, April 30 (AP).—The diplomats and their staffs—at the security conference—go in for heavy reading?

They're here to piece together a charter for an organization to prevent future wars. The charter they turn out will be full of careful wording.

So there's a great poring over old treaties and international documents and agreements.

The Library of Congress tried to figure out weeks ago the kind of books the delegates might want.

So the librarians drew up a list of 7,000 books and documents. They brought 1,000 of them out here.

A month ago they sent an agent to scour the college and public libraries in the San Francisco area for the other books on the list.

He gathered up 3,000 and spotted the rest in libraries where they can be obtained in a hurry if there is need for any of them.

The 1,000 books from Washington and the 3,000 collected here have been stacked in a room in the Veterans Building, where the delegates and their staffs work.

The books are principally reference works, statistical records, documentary series on international organization, like the old League, and a selection of dictionaries, encyclopedias and Who's Who.

Eisenhower Discussed For United Nations Post

San Francisco, April 30 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is being discussed here, among many others, as the possible future secretary general of a United Nations organization.

The Canadian Ambassador to the United States, L. B. Pearson, said today that Eisenhower was his personal choice.

Pearson said the choice is purely a personal one, not that of the Canadian delegation.

MAY 1 1945

New York, April 30—Whole companies of German Marines mutinied at Kiel last night after authorities ordered them to entrain for infantry duty at the fighting front in the Hamburg sector, the Stockholm Dagens Nyheter said today. Nazi Elite Guards were thrown into action against the mutineers, but failed to establish control, the dispatch said.

Syracuse Hero Is Killed in Action

Syracuse, April 30 (A. P.).—Lieut.-Col. Prentice D. (Iron (Mike) Yeoman's 42-year-old hero of the "Battle of the Bulge," has been killed in action, his mother was notified today by the War Deaprtment. Mrs. Henry R. Yeomans said that the telegram stated that he son had been killed on April 18 while leading his Third Armored Division Tank force, just south of Berlin.

It was Col. Yeomans's task force which was credited with a major part in the victory on the Belgian battlefront by cutting the vital La Roche-St. Vith highway, the only remaining escape route running from Houffalize to St. Vith.

New York, April 30 (AP)—The Federal Communications Commission said today French broadcasts announced French troops commanded by Gen. Edouard de Larminat have attacked the La Rochelle pocket. The broadcast credited the announcement to the French general staff.

Airlines To Re-Establish Prewar Round-Trip Discount

Chicago, April 30 (AP)—Several major air lines tomorrow will cut one-way fares either generally or locally to meet competition on certain runs.

All lines will re-establish the 5 per cent discount on round-trip fares which was discontinued at the start of the war.

United Air Lines is reducing one-way fares 10 per cent throughout the system, and an official of the company said the new rates generally are lower than those for railroad plus pullman.

To Give Public Benefits

The official, Harold Crary, vice-president in charge of traffic, said that in view of present high load factors, the new rates were not designed to increase business but to give the public the benefits of favorable financial earnings and operating efficiencies.

The fare between New York and Chicago will be cut from $38.85 to $35; between New York and all Pacific Coast cities, from $138.85 to $124.75, and between Chicago and Los Angeles from $100 to $89.75. The figures do not include Federal tax.

Eastern Air Lines' reduction will amount to about six and one half per cent, and wil lbring Eastern's fares to the lowest point in their history. The fare from New York to Miami will be cut from $64.50 to $61.45 and from Chicago to Miami from $68.15 to $63.95.

10 Per Cent Reduction

An average reduction of ten per cent will result from TWA's meeting competition from parallel lines while on the Chicago to Washington flight the cut will amount to seventeen per cent. TWA's fares between New York and Los Angeles and Chicago and Los Angeles duplicate United's, but on the Chicago-to-Washington flight the reduction will bring the fare from $35.75 to $29.45.

Under TWA's new schedule a passenger will pay only 90 cents more than the old fare to ride a four-enginer Boeing liner coast to coast. An extra fare of $15 is charged on these ships.

American Air Lines is adding a reduction of approximately 3½ per cent to one of 6½ per cent placed in effect March 10 and is meeting competitive fares.

Parallel Service

The new American fare between Chicago and Boston will be $43.10 compared with $47.50; Buffalo and Chicago, $23.30 against $25.75; Chicago and Cincinnati, $13.80 against $14.80. The Chicago-Washington fare duplicates TWA's.

National airlines is putting in a 6½ per cent overall reduction. Northwest Airlines also is sutting fares 6½ per cent and duplicating competitors' fares wherever there is parallel service.

Northeast Airlines is trimming only its Boston-New York fare 6½ per cent to meet competition.

Braniff Airlines, Chicago and Southern Airlines and Pennsylvania Central Airlines are making no blanket reduction but are matching competing fares.

Veterans' Group Urges Sister Kenny To Stay

Chicago, April 30 (AP)—Sister Elizabeth Kenny, Australian nurse who devised a much-discussed treatment for infantile paralysis, was asked to stay in the United States, and continue her efforts in treating infantile paralysis victims in a resolution passed unanimously by the Army and Navy Union, U.S.A., a service men's group, and presented to her today.

Illinois legislators will hear Sister Kenny explain her methods of treatment for the disease tomorrow in Springfield, Ill.

U-Boats Able To Attack Only One In 350 Ships

Detroit, April 30 (AP)—Only one ship out of every 350 that sails the Atlantic is now being attacked by German submarines, Admiral Sir James Somerville, head of the British Admiralty delegation in Washington, said today.

Somerville told a Detroit luncheon club the statistics illustrated how completely Allied navies had defeated the Nazi underseas attack.

LONDON, APRIL 30-(AP)-A SAMPLE GERMAN V-TWO ROCKET BOMB WAS FLOWN HERE FROM SWEDEN BY A U.S. ARMY TRANSPORT PLANE LAST AUGUST, A MONTH BEFORE THE FIRST ROCKET FELL ON ENGLAND, IT WAS OFFICIALLY DISCLOSED TODAY.

THE WEIRD LOOKING WEAPON WEIGHING SEVERAL TONS HAD FALLEN VIRTUALLY INTACT IN JUNE NEAR KALMAR IN SOUTHEAST SWEDEN. THE BRITISH WERE STRIVING TO DISCOVER THE SECRETS OF THE NEW WEAPON AND, AFTER URGENT DIPLOMATIC NEGOTIATIONS, NEUTRAL SWEDEN AGREED TO RELEASE THE ROCKET, SAID A STATEMENT ISSUED BY THE OFFICE OF BRIG. GEN. EARL S.HOAG, COMMANDER OF THE ATC EUROPEAN DIVISION.

LT. COL. KEITH N.ALLEN, WASHINGTON, D.C., LATER KILLED IN ACTION, WAS ASSIGNED THE HAZARDOUS JOB OF BRINGING BACK THE V-TWO. HE PICKED A CREW CONSISTING OF CAPT. ROBERT C.DURHAM OF NEW YORK CITY, LT. ROBERT J.WITHROW OF LOMPOC, CALIF., AND A NORWEGIAN RADIO OPERATOR.

THE FLEW AN UNARMED UNESCORTED C-47 ACROSS THE NORTH SEA AND OVER A CORNER OF GERMAN-OCCUPIED NORWAY TO AN AIRPORT NEAR STOCKHOLM WHERE THE STRANGE CARGO WAS WAITING. THE ROCKET HAD BEEN DISMANTLED AND CRATED. WHEN ALL THE BOXES WERE ABOARD THERE WAS BARELY ENOUGH ROOM LEFT FOR THE CREW TO CRAWL IN.

WITHIN THREE HOURS AFTER THE PLANE LANDED BACK IN ENGLAND WITH THE ROCKET, BRITISH SCIENTISTS WERE BUSY PUTTING IT TOGETHER AGAIN. THE SECRETS THEY LEARNED DID MUCH TO PREPARE BRITAIN FOR HER LAST V-BOMB ORDEAL.

WITH CANADIAN TROOPS IN HOLLAND, APRIL 30-(AP)-DUTCH CIVILIANS DANCED IN THE STREETS, HUGGED EACH OTHER AND WEPT WITH JOY YESTERDAY WHEN BRITISH LANCASTER BOMBERS ROARED OVERHEAD, 300 FEET FROM THE GROUND, AND DROPPED THE FIRST ALLIED FOOD PARCELS INTO WEST HOLLAND.

DUTCH CIVILIANS WHO CROSSED ENEMY LINES INTO FREE HOLLAND TODAY DECLARED THAT "JUST THE SIGHT OF THOSE HUGE AIRCRAFT BRINGING US LIFE GAVE US THE PSYCHOLOGICAL LIFT WE NEEDED."

ANOTHER MAN, FROM THE HAGUE, SAID "WHEN I ARRIVED AT MY HOUSE MY WIFE AND CHILDREN COULD SAY NOTHING--THEY COULD ONLY WEEP, SO GREAT WAS THEIR EMOTION."

THE BIG FOUR-MOTORED BRITISH BOMBERS DUMPED THEIR FOOD CARGOES IN CANISTERS. PATHFINDER FLARES MARKED OFF AREAS IN WHICH THE FOOD WAS DROPPED.

(MORE THAN 600 TONS OF FOOD WERE DROPPED BY THE BOMBERS, IT WAS ANNOUNCED YESTERDAY, IN AREAS SPECIFIED BY THE GERMANS, WHO HAD AGREED NOT TO MOLEST THE MERCY PLANES.)

THESE MEN WHO CROSSED INTO OUR LINES TODAY TOLD TRAGIC TALES OF THE SUFFERING IN WEST HOLLAND. THEY SAID THE LAST KNOWN RATION CONSISTED OF ONLY 400 GRAMS OF BLACK BREAD AND 1,000 GRAMS OF POTATOES PER WEEK, BUT ONE MAN DECLARED THAT "FOOD IS SO SCARCE WE HAVEN'T EVEN HAD THAT RATION."

THEY RELATED HOW THE OVERALL DEATH RATE IN HOLLAND INCREASED 300 PER CENT SINCE HOLLAND WAS OCCUPIED BY THE GERMANS. THEY SAID THE AVERAGE DEATH RATE FOR THE THREE CITIES, AMSTERDAM, ROTTERDAM AND THE HAGUE WAS NEARLY 400 PER WEEK. FORTY PER CENT OF THESE DEATHS, THEY SAID, WERE DUE TO STARVATION.

WITH U.S. AND RUSSIAN TROOPS ON THE ELBE, APRIL 30-(AP)-THE BATTLE STAINED FLAG OF THE U.S. FIRST ARMY WAS EXCHANGED TODAY FOR THE PLAQUE WITH WHICH PREMIER STALIN REWARDED THE SOVIET VICTORS AT STALINGRAD, AS THE COMMANDERS OF THE U.S. FIRST AND UKRAINIAN FIFTH ARMIES CELEBRATED THEIR HISTORIC JUNCTION ON THE ELBE.

THE RUSSIANS WERE THE HOSTS, AND IT WAS LIKE A PAGEANT AS GEORGIA-BORN GEN.COURTNEY H.HODGES RODE THROUGH LANES OF SALUTING AMERICAN AND RUSSIAN INFANTRYMEN TO GREET GEN.ALEXEI ZHADOV, COMMANDING THE RUSSIAN FIFTH GUARDS ARMY.

HODGES WORE FOR THE FIRST TIME IN PUBLIC THE FOURTH STAR CONGRESS AWARDED TO HIM LAST WEEK.

A RUSSIAN BAND GREETED HIM WITH THE AMERICAN NATIONAL ANTHEM AS HE REACHED THE MEETING PLACE AT A FLAG-DECKED GERMAN CHATEAU, THE BANQUET ROOM OF WHICH WAS HUNG WITH RED BUNTING AND SIGNS PROCLAIMING IN ENGLISH AND RUSSIAN:

"LONG LIVE THE VICTORY OF FREEDOM LOVING PEOPLE OVER GERMANY,"

MAY 1 1945

AND "LONG LIVE THE INVIOLABLE AMERICAN, RUSSIAN AND BRITISH FRIENDSHIP."

AS THE STAFF OF OFFICERS AND OFFICIAL CORRESPONDENTS FOR TWO ARMIES SETTLED INTO LUXURIOUS GERMAN CHAIRS, RUSSIAN WOMEN SOLDIERS RUSHED IN WITH GREAT TRAYS HEAPING WITH SAUSAGE, SUCKLING PIG, HAM, SPICED FISH, AND OTHER DELICACIES, PLUS COGNAC, CHAMPAGNE AND VODKA.

SMILING PLASANTLY PAST FOUR FRONTAL GOLD TEETH, GEN.ZHADOV PAID TRIBUTE TO THE PROWESS OF THE AMERICAN ARMY AND TOASTED FUTURE FRIENDSHIP BETWEEN THE AMERICAN AND RUSSIAN NATIONS.

THE RETIRING, SOFT-VOICED HODGES RESPONDED WITH ELOQUENT PRAISE OF THE VICTORIES OF ZHADOV'S TROOPS. HE CLIMAXED HIS ADDRESS BY PRESENTING TO ZHADOV THE FIRST ARMY FLAG, THE BANNER WHICH HAS FLOWN OVER YANK TROOPS WHO HAVE MARCHED ALL THE WAY FROM NORMANDY TO THE ELBE AND CAPTURED MORE THAN 800,000 TROOPS IN LESS THAN 11 MONTHS.

OBVIOUSLY STIRRED BY THIS PRESENTATION, THE RUSSIAN COMMANDER, A PLEASANT-FEATURED MAN IN EARLY MIDDLE AGE, QUICKLY PICKED UP THE PLAQUE AWARDED TO HIS ARMY BY STALIN AT STALINGRAD, AND PRESENTED IT TO HODGES.

A98

HIS GESTURE TYPIFIED THE AMITY AND GOOD WILL OF THE FIRST MEETING BETWEEN THE RUSSIAN AND AMERICAN ARMY COMMANDERS, AN ENCOUNTER MARKED BY GARGANTUAN HOSPITALITY BY THE SOVIET HOSTS.

AT SUNDOWN THE AMERICANS WERE STILL VERTICAL, AND QUITS WAS CALLED. BY THEN A BLONDE SINGER FROM MOSCOW, THREE AGILE MALE DANCERS AND A CHORUS OF SIX MALE SINGERS WERE TWINED AROUND THREE BOTTLES OF LEFT-OVER VODKA IN A CORNER OF THE ROOM.

BOTH HODGES AND ZHADOV--CENSORSHIP RESTRICTED TEXTUAL PRESENTATION OF THEIR REMARKS--EXPRESSED A HOPE THAT RUSSIAN AND AMERICAN FRIENDSHIP WOULD ENDURE IN PEACE AS WELL AS IN WAR.

IT WAS A COLORFUL, HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL CEREMONY CEMENTING MORE FIRMLY THE BONDS BETWEEN THE FRONTLINE AMERICAN AND RUSSIAN COMMANDERS AND THEIR STAFFS.

WITH THE U.S. NINTH ARMY, GERMANY, APRIL 30-(AP)-THE LINKUP OF THE NINTH ARMY AND THE RUSSIANS TODAY FORESHADOWED THE FREEING OF TWO AMERICAN ARMIES FOR NEW DUTIES.

THE RUSSIANS NOW ARE ESTABLISHED ALONG A 25-MILE FRONT OF THE ELBE RIVER AND ARE GRADUALLY WIDENING OUT BOTH NORTH AND SOUTH OF THE ORIGINAL MEETING PLACES WITH THE FIRST ARMY AT TORGAU AND RIESA. THEY MAY EVENTUALLY BE FACING THE AMERICANS ALONG THE ELBE ALONG THE WHOLE WIDE FRONT OF THE FIRST AND NINTH ARMIES.

IT FOLLOWS THAT OPERATIONALLY THE FIRST AND NINTH ARMIES WILL BE PINCHED OUT, EXCEPT FOR OCCUPATION DUTIES. THIS WILL FREE SOME OF THE BEST DIVISIONS THE UNITED STATES HAS PRODUCED FOR JOBS WHICH GEN. EISENHOWER OR THE WAR DEPARTMENT MAY DIRECT. SEVERAL CORPS AND THE STAFFS OF TWO ARMIES ALSO ARE FREED. WHAT THE ARMIES WILL DO UNDOUBTEDLY WILL REMAIN A MILITARY SECRET FOR SOME TIME.

THE CORRIDOR NOW IS TOO WIDE FOR ANY GERMAN ESCAPE SOUTH INTO CZECHOSLOVAKIA OR THE ALPINE REDOUBT.

A SECURE TRAFFIC LANE HAD BEEN ESTABLISHED FOR MOVEMENT OF SUPPLIES TO THE RED ARMIES DIRECTLY ACROSS EUROPE, CUTTING OFF THOUSANDS OF MILES FROM PRESENT ROUTES.

MILITARILY, THE JUNCTIONS LEAVE LITTLE TO BE DONE BY AMERICAN FORCES ON THE NORTH GERMAN FRONT.

DENMARK AND NORWAY MAY BE THE LAST NAZI STRONGHOLDS. A BRITISH AND RUSSIAN MEETING WEST OF BERLIN AND EAST OF HAMBURG WOULD COMPLETE THE JOB OF CHOPPING UP THE NORTHERN REDOUBT FOR DESTRUCTION IN DETAIL.

IF THE GERMANS RESIST IN THOSE COUNTRIES, GEN. EISENHOWER HAS PLENTY OF FORCES AVAILABLE TO DEAL WITH THEM, ALTHOUGH THE CAMPAIGNS PROBABLY WOULD MEAN NEW AMPHIBIOUS EXPEDITIONS, PARTICULARLY IN THE CASE OF COPENHAGEN AND NORWAY. THE GERMANS COULD MAKE VERY EXPENSIVE A FIGHT UP THE NARROW DANISH PENINSULA.

WITH A BRIDGE ACROSS THE ELBE, IT NOW IS POSSIBLE TO DRIVE AN AUTOMOBILE FROM PARIS TO MOSCOW.

A GREAT MANY OPERATIONS PROBLEMS STILL HAVE TO BE STRAIGHTENED OUT BETWEEN THE AMERICANS AND RUSSIANS, SUCH AS FIXING OCCUPATION BOUNDARIES, LIAISON AND THE LIKE.

THE PROBLEMS ARE PRESSING BECAUSE RECENTLY AMERICAN FIGHTERS SHOT DOWN SEVERAL RUSSIAN PLANES AND LOST ONE THEMSELVES THROUGH MISTAKE IDENTITY.

NIGHT LEAD JUNCTION (680)

BY KENNETH L.DIXON

APOLLENSDORF, GERMANY, APRIL 30-(AP)-THE U.S. NINTH ARMY MADE A JUNCTION WITH THE RUSSIANS HERE THIS AFTERNOON AT 1:30 P.M., AFTER A DEEP STAB EASTWARD.

THIS SECOND JOINING OF THE TWO ARMIES WAS ACHIEVED ONLY AFTER THE RUSSIANS, SUSPICIOUS OF A GERMAN TRICK, FAILED TO RECOGNIZE THE AMERICANS AND BLAZED AWAY AT THEM WITH MORTARS AND MACHINE GUNS, AND TWO AMERICANS LOST THEIR LIVES WHEN THEIR JEEP HIT A MINE JUST AS THEY ENTERED THIS TOWN.

BUT ONCE THE RUSSIANS WERE CONVINCED, THEY GAVE THE YANKS A WARM RECEPTION, THE BOTTLE WAS PASSED AROUND IN CELEBRATION, AND THE AMERICANS AND RUSSIANS POSED HAPPILY TOGETHER FOR SNAP-SHOT TAKERS.

IT WAS THE HARD-HITTING 12TH CAVALRY SQUADRON LED BY LT. COL. ANTHONY KLEITZ OF DENVER, COLO., WHICH MADE THE TWO-DAY CROSS-COUNTRY PENETRATION FROM THE ELBE BRIDGEHEAD HELD BY THE 83RD INFANTRY DIVISION, TO WHICH THE CAVALRY RECONNAISSANCE OUTFIT WAS ATTACHED.

RAMRODDING MUCH OF THE TWO-PRONGED ATTACK WAS COL. WILLIAM S. BIDDLE, TALL AND POKERFACED HORSEMAN FROM PORTLAND, ORE.

C TROOP, COMMANDED BY CAPT. ADOLF PLOEHM OF BATTLE CREEK, MICH., WAS THE FIRST TO MAKE CONTACT WITH THE SOVIET TROOPS.

THAT CLIMAXED A DAY AND A HALF OF ALMOST CONSTANT, HARRIED, ISOLATED PENETRATION--ALWAYS INTO THE UNKNOWN AND THROUGH DARK FASTNESSES OF THE COUNTLESS FORESTS IN THIS SECTOR. IT HAD BEEN A DAY AND A HALF OF WINDING THROUGH MINE FIELDS, PAST ROAD BLOCKADES AND PILLBOXES.

IN ADDITION TO THE BATTLE HAZARDS, THE CAVALRY SQUADRON HAD BEEN CONSTANTLY HARRIED BY THE NECESSITY OF TAKING HUNDREDS OF PRISONERS. TONIGHT THE OFFICERS ESTIMATED THEY HAD TAKEN AT LEAST 6,000 GERMANS IN LESS THAN TWO DAYS--A TOTAL MANY TIMES GREATER THAN THE NUMBER OF THE CAPTORS.

THE PLATOON WHICH MADE THE FIRST CONTACT WAS COMMANDED BY LT. CHARLES G.BARRETT OF MONTANA (HOME TOWN UNAVAILABLE). ALTHOUGH TENTATIVE SCOUTING AND PATROL WORK INDICATED A JUNCTION WAS IMMINENT, THE CAGEY DOUGHBOYS MOVED SLOWLY AND TOOK NO MORE CHANCES THAN THEY HAD TO. EVEN SO, IT WAS SOME TIME BEFORE THE REMAINDER OF THE SQUADRON GATHERED. A PLATOON WITH WHICH I HAD BEEN WORKING FORWARD ALL DAY, COMMANDED BY SGT.ANTHONY P.CANNY, OTTUMWA, IOWA, GOT THE NEWS JUST AFTER COMING OUT OF THE HEAVILY WOODED AREA THROUGH WHICH WE HAD TO BY-PASS NEARLY A SCORE OF MINED GERMAN ROAD BLOCKS.

FOR MORE THAN FIVE HOURS WE HAD BEEN MOVING FORWARD IN SHORT DASHES, APPARENTLY COMPLETELY ISOLATED. WHEN WE REACHED A MINED ROAD BED OR A ROADBLOCK AN ENGINEER OUTFIT COMMANDED BY LT.JAY MANHEIM OF 20 ONROE ST., NEW YORK CITY, WOULD CHECK IT.

THROUGHOUT THE ROLLING HUNT FOR THE RUSSIANS, LT. TIMOTHY THEO OF KRIEV, RUSSIA., LIAISON OFFICER, KEPT ATTEMPTING TO CONTACT HIS COUNTRYMEN BY RADIO.

HE HEARD THEM TALKING CONSTANTLY, BUT THEY REMAINED DUBIOUS OF STRANGE VOICES OVER THE AIR--HOW DUBIOUS WE HAD YET TO LEARN.

CAPT.JOHN PENZENIK, PROCOT, VT., RUSSIAN-SPEAKING OFFICER WHO INTERPRETED FOR LT.THEO, WARNED THAT THE RUSSIAN TROOPS AHEAD HAD GOTTEN THEIR FINGERS BURNED BY GIVING TOO MUCH INFORMATION BY RADIO. BUT IT WAS NOT UNTIL OUR PALTOON REJOINED TROOP A, WHICH WAS COMMANDED BY CAPT.SAM LINDSAY OF BATTLE CREEK, MICH., THAT WE FOUND HOW SUSPICIOUS THE SOVIET SOLDIERS REALLY WERE.

OVING DOWN THE ROAD WE SPOTTED A FORTIFIED HILLTOP POSITION AHEAD, WITH UNIFORMED FIGURES MOVING AROUND IT. THE COLUMN HALTED WHILE A FEW OF US WENT FORWARD TO CHECK--AND WERE GREETED BY MACHINE GUN FIRE.

THINKING MAYBE THEY DIDN'T UNDERSTAND, WE MADE ANOTHER EFFORT. LT.MATTHEW S.NICHOL OF DES MOINES, IOWA, GRABBED A FISTFUL OF FLARES OF THE COLOR DESIGNATED FOR A JUNCTION SIGNAL. HE AND PFC GEORGE RITTER OF JAMAICA, LONG ISLAND, GOT IN A JEEP DRIVEN BY PFC ELDRIDGE MATTHEWS OF ORANGE, TEXAS, AND WENT UP TO WITHIN EYESIGHT OF THE FORTIFIED POSITION AND FIRED THE FLARES.

THE RESULT WAS A PROMPT AND EFFICIENT MORTAR BARRAGE WHICH PUT AN END TO THAT SORT OF DICKERING.

ABOUT THAT TIME A COUPLE OF POCKETED GERMAN FIELD ARTILLERY OUTFITS OPENED UP ON THE ROAD JUNCTION WHERE WE WERE CONGREGATED. CAPT.LINDSAY AND LT.NICHOL DECIDED RUSSIANS, OR NO RUSSIANS, IT WAS NO PLACE TO BE STANDING ARUND AND WAITING FOR SOMEBODY WHO WAS LATE FOR AN APPOINTMENT.

HOWEVER, WE KEPT MOVING IN THE DIRECTION OF THE RUSSIAN LINES, AND REACHED THE JUNCTION POINT A SHORT TIME LATER. CLAD IN UNIFORMS AS VARIED AND MOTLEY AS THOSE SPORTED CARELESSLY BY AMERICAN G.I.'S, THE SOVIET SOLDIERS SAID THEY HAD BEEN WAITING IN THAT SECTOR FOR SOME TIME. THEY CLUSTERED AROUND THE VEHICLES, AND THE PICTURETAKING FOR ALBUMS BACK HOME STARTED.

BARCELONA APRIL 30 (AP)- THE GOVERNMENT TOLERATION OF A CARLIST XXX ANTI-FALANGIST DEMONSTRATION IN THE MONTSERRAT MONASATERY SUNDAY SEEMED TO INDICATE THAT GEN. FRANCISCO FRANCO AND THE ARMY REALIZE THE DAY OF THE FALANGE ENDED WITH THE UNITED NATIONS VICTORY AND ARE NOW SEEKING SUPPORT FOR THEIR REGIME FROM THE CARLISTS AND MONARCHISTS.

REGIME. HE IS WILLING TO WAIT FOR A KING UNTIL THE MONARCH IS WELL ESTABLISHED.

MAY 1 1945

MONTSERRAT A NATURAL AMPHITHEATRE WAS CROWDED WITH NOT ONLY CIVILIAN CARLISTS BUT WITH ANUMBER OF ARMY OFFICERS WHO SYMPATHIZE WITH THE CARLISTS. SOME OF THE OFFICERS WORE FULL ARMY UNIFORM.

EVIDENCE OF CHURCH SUPPORT FOR THE CARLISTS WAS AMPLE. I SAW PRIESTS SNATCH OFF THEIR BLACK OFFICIAL CLERICAL HAT AND DON THE CARLIST BERET OF THE FIGHTING REQUETTES.

AT IT SEEMED OBVIOUS XXXX MONTSERRAT THAT THE SPANISH CATHOLIC CHURCH, SPANISH ARMY, JAUNIST AND CARLIST MONARCHISTS, LANDOWNERS, FINANCIERS, AND XXXXX OTHER RIGHTISTS ARE UNITED IN THEIR DETERMINATION TO PREVENT THE RETURN OF THE LEFTIST REPUBLIC OR ANY REPUBLIC AT ALL AS THE FALANGE GOES OUT OF THE PICTURE.

THE CARLISTS AT MONTSERRAT WERE MAINLY THE FOLLOWERS OF MANUEL DEL CONDE WHO WANTS A REGENCY AND A DECENTRALIZED MONARCHYAL FORM OF GOVERNMENT. DEL CONDE APPARENTLY HOPES THAT GEN. FRANCO WILL ESTABLISH SUCH A

SUCH AN ARMY ALLIANCE WITH THE MONARCHISTS AND OTHER RIGHT-IST GROUPS IS NOT NEW IN SPAIN. FROM JULY 1936 WHEN THE CIVIL WAR BEGAN UNTIL APRIL 1937 WHEN GEN.FRANCO MADE THE FALANGE THE STATE PARTY, THE ARMY WAS ALLIED WITH THE MONARCHISTS AND HAD LITTLE USE FOR THE FALANGE.

UNFORTUNATELY FOR THE CARLISTS FUTURE, THEIR BEST FIGHTING MEN WERE KILLED IN THE CIVIL WAR AND THE LOSSES WERE TREMENDOUS, WHILE THE FALANGISTS, NOT PARTICULARLY FAMOUS FOR THEIR FRONT-LONE FIGHTING, CONCENTRATED ON THE BUILDING OF NUMERICAL SUPERIROITY BEHIND THE BATTLEFRONT.

THE MASSED CARLISTS AT YESTERDAY'S DEMONSTRATION SHOWED THAT THEY KNEW FATHER TURA REFERRED TO THE FALANGISTS WHEN HE SAID THOSE" WHO STAY AT HOME AND WATCH OTHERS FIGHT ON THE BATTLEFIELD" ARE UNWORTHY OF THE NAME OF SPANIARDS. THE CARLIST ROARED THEIR APPROVAL.

HIMMLER
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

HEINRICH HIMMLER, HANGMAN IN THE NAZI REICH, ROSE BEHIND THE CLUBS, GUNS, AND AUTHORITY OF THE SS AND GERMAN POLICE TO THE POWER WHICH APPARENTLY HAS CAST HIM IN THE ROLE OF CHIEF NEGOTIATOR ON A POSSIBLE GERMAN SURRENDER.

HITLER IS WIDELY RUMORED TO BE INJURED, ILL OR DEAD. SUCH RUMORS HAVE GAINED INCREASING CURRENCY SINCE THE JULY ATTEMPT ON HIS LIFE LAST YEAR.

IF HITLER NO LONGER HOLDS THE ACTUAL REINS OF NAZIDOM--FOR WHATEVER REASON--HIMMLER IS HIS LOGICAL SUCCESSOR BY REASON OF HIS POLICE POWER, AND THUS THE MAN WITH GREATEST AUTHORITY TO SURRENDER GERMANY. IF THAT NOW IS THE NAZI DECISION.

HIMMLER HEADED THE SS ORGANIZATION WHICH BUILT UP THE POWER OF THE NAZI PARTY THROUGH SPIES AND TERROR METHODS. THE SS BECAME HIS PERSONAL ARMY, WITH AUTHORITY GREATER THAN THAT OF THE REGULAR ARMY.

HE ALSO BECAME MINISTER OF THE INTERIOR, AND COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF OF THE GERMAN HOME ARMY, AVOWEDLY FORMED TO FIGHT FOR EVERY INCH OF GERMAN SOIL.

JOSEPH GOEBBELS, BRAIN OF NAZI PROPAGANDA, NEVER HAS BEEN POPULAR.

HERMANN GOERING HAD THE PERSONAL AFFECTION OF GERMANS--AT ONE TIME--TO ENABLE HIM TO STEP INTO HITLER'S PLACE IF SOMETHING HAPPENED TO THE FUEHRER. BUT THE SMASHING OF HIS LUFTWAFFE, THE STORM OF ALLIED BOMBS WHICH SHATTERED GOERING'S BOAST THAT GERMAN CITIES WOULD NOT BE TOUCHED BY AIR WAR, UNDERMINED HIS POSITION. VARIOUS REPORTS SAY HE HAS BEEN KILLED, THAT HE DIED, OR FLED THE COUNTRY.

FOREIGN MINISTER VON RIBBENTROP ALSO IS REPORTED TO HAVE FALLEN IN DISGRACE AS GERMANY'S SATELLITES FELL BY THE WAYSIDE, ONE BY ONE.

HIMMLER WAS THE REAL STRONG MAN UNDER HITLER, BY VIRTUE OF HIS ORGANIZATIONS AND HIS POSITION. IT IS HE WHO HAS ORDERED RESISTANCE TO THE DEATH IN VARIOUS GERMAN STRONGHOLDS ON BOTH THE EASTERN AND WESTERN FRONT, AND IS REPORTED TO HAVE PERSONALLY ORGANIZED RESISTANCE AT NUMEROUS CITIES. BY ALL ACCOUNTS, IT IS HIMMLER WHO HAS ORDERED THE SS TO PUT GUNS TO THE BACKS OF ANY GERMANS FALTERING IN THEIR WILL TO RESIST.

UNDATED REICHSTAG (370)
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE RED FLAG OF SOVIET RUSSIA FLEW TODAY (TUES) OVER THE REICHSTAG IN BERLIN. THE HISTORIC BUILDING WHOSE BURNING IN FEBRUARY, 1933, ENABLED THE NAZI PARTY TO WIN AN IMPORTANT ELECTION AND SWEEP ON TO ITS WORLD-SHAKING ORGY OF BRUTAL CONQUEST.

IRONICALLY IT WAS THE ARMED MIGHT OF A COMMUNIST NATION THAT SIGNALED THE DEATH OF NAZIDOM WITH CAPTURE OF THE BUILDING. FOR THE NAZIS THEMSELVES, IN CAPITALIZING 12 YEARS AGO ON THE INCENDIARY BLAZE---A FIRE THAT MAY HAVE BEEN STARTED BY THE GERMAN TYRANTS THEMSELVES--BLAMED IT ALL ON A COMMUNIST PLOT.

HITLER HAD JUST COME PRECARIOUSLY TO THE CHANCELLORY THAT WINTER OF 1933 AND ANNOUNCED A REICHSTAG ELECTION FOR THE GERMAN NATIONAL PARTY AND THE NAZI CAMPAIGN WAS LAGGING. HITLER'S FOLLOWERS WERE CENTERING THEIR ATTACK ON THE COMMUNIST PARTY. THEN ON THE NIGHT OF FEB.

HITLER HAD JUST COME PRECARIOUSLY TO THE CHANCELLORY THAT WINTER OF 1933 AND ANNOUNCED A REICHSTAG ELECTION FOR MARCH 5, AN OVERWHELMING MAJORITY OF THE GOVERNMENT THEN BELONGED TO THE GERMAN NATIONAL PARTY AND THE NAZI CAMPAIGN WAS LAGGING. HITLER'S FOLLOWERS WERE CENTERING THEIR ATTACK ON THE COMMUNIST PARTY. THEN ON THE NIGHT OF FEB. 27 THE CENTRAL PART OF THE REICHSTAG BUILDING WAS DESTROYED BY FIRE.

THE NAZIS MADE THE CONFLAGRATION A PRETEXT FOR WHOLESALE ARRESTS OF COMMUNISTS AND SUPPRESSION OF THEIR NEWSPAPERS. THUS WITH THE CHIEF OPPOSITION THROTTLED, THE NATIONAL SOCIALIST PARTY HERDED ITS VOTERS TO THE POLLS AND WON THE ELECTION. THE NEW REICHSTAG, ACTING AS HITLER'S DOCILE TOOL, SET ASIDE THE WEIMAR CONSTITUTION ON MARCH 23, HITLER BECAME DICTATOR AND THE NAZI DREAM OF POWER UNFOLDED.

THE FIRE WAS MADE THE OCCASION FOR GREAT NAZI FANFARE--AND EQUALLY LOUD WORLD CRITICISM. THE NAZIS STAGED A GREAT TRIAL, ACCUSING MARINUS VAN DER LUBBE, A DUTCH BRICK MASON AND ONE-TIME MEMBER OF THE DUTCH COMMUNIST PARTY; ERNEST TORGLER, FORMER COMMUNIST WHIP IN THE REICHSTAG; AND THREE BULGARIAN REFUGEES, GEORGI DIMITROFF, BLAGOI POPOFF AND WASSIL TANEFF, OF ARSON. VAN DER LUBBE, WHO WAS SUBSEQ
U
E
NTLY REVEALED AS OF WEAK MENTALITY, CONFESSED, WAS CONVICTED OF ARSON AND HANGED. THE OTHER FOUR WERE ACQUITTED.

WHILE THESE MEN WERE BEING TRIED BY THE GERMANS AT LEIPZIG, AN UNOFFICIAL INTERNATIONAL LEGAL COMMISSION HELD A MOCK TRIAL AT LONDON AND FOUND THAT GRAVE GROUNDS EXISTED FOR SUSPECTING THAT SECRET AGENTS OF REICHSTAG PRESIDENT HERMANN GOERING ACTUALLY HAD FIRED THE BUILDING FOR POLITICAL REASONS.

THE QUESTION HAS NEVER BEEN DEFINITELY DETERMINED. THE ISSUE IT SPAWNED--GERMAN NATIONAL SOCIALISM--APPARENTLY HAS BEEN, SETTLED ON FARFLUNG BATTLEFIELDS AND FINALLY IN THE VERY POLITICAL HALL WHERE IT FIRST SPRANG TO POWER.

UNDATED PEACE

REPORTS THAT HEINRICH HIMMLER, APPARENTLY TRYING TO SAVE GERMANY FROM RUSSIAN HANDS, HAD OFFERED TO SURRENDER UNCONDITIONALLY TO THE UNITED STATES AND BRITAIN, RAISED FALSE HOPES OF PEACE THAT SWEPT THE WORLD OVER THE WEEK-END.

THE HIMMLER REPORTS, PUBLISHED IN BOTH BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES, SAID THE GESTAPO CHIEFTAIN HAD ASSUMED COMMAND IN GERMANY BECAUSE

HITLER WAS DYING AND HAD MADE HIS BID THROUGH A STOCKHOLM PRIVATE CITIZEN. PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL TOOK COGNIZANCE OF THE REPORT BY ISSUING A SPECIAL STATEMENT DECLARING THAT NO SURRENDER OFFER WOULD BE CONSIDERED UNLESS MADE JOINTLY TO BRITAIN, THE UNITED STATES AND RUSSIA.

FOLLOWING PUBLICATION OF THESE DEVELOPMENTS IN THE UNITED STATES, SENATOR TOM CONNALLY (D-TEX), CHAIRMAN OF THE SENATE FOREIGN RELATIONS COMMITTEE AND VICE CHAIRMAN OF THE AMERICAN WORLD SECURITY C

COMMITTE AND VICE CHAIRMAN OF THE AMERICAN WORLD SECURITY CONFEREENCE DELEGATION IN SAN FRANCISCO, AUTHORIZED A STATEMENT SATURDAY NIGHT THAT GERMANY HAD SURRENDERED AND THAT HE EXPECTED A FORMAL ANNOUNCEMENT "MOMENTARILY."

HOPES STIRRED BY THE CONNALLY STATEMENT WERE BLASTED A SHORT TIME LATER WHEN PRESIDENT TRUMAN IN WASHINGTON--AFTER CHECKING WITH GEN. EISENHOWER AT SUPREME HEADQUARTERS IN PARIS--DECLARED REPORTS OF A GERMAN SURRENDER UNFOUNDED.

THE FULL SEQUENCE OF EVENTS LEADING UP TO THE PEACE REPORT AND ITS DENIAL WAS AS FOLLOWS:

SATURDAY MORNING THE NEW YORK TIMES CARRIED A DISPATCH FROM A WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENT, SIDNEY SHALETT, ASSERTING REPORTS WERE CURRENT IN WASHINGTON "THAT NAZI GERMANY HAD MADE KNOW A WILLINGNESS TO SURRENDER UNCONDITIONALLY TO THE UNITED STATES AND BRITAIN BUT NOT TO THE SOVIET UNION AND THAT THE WESTERN ALLIES HAVE TOLD THE ENEMY NEGOTIATORS THAT THEY WILL ACCEPT 'ONLY FOR ALL.'"

THE STOCKHOLM NEWSPAPER SVENSKA DAGBLADET REPORTED SATURDAY MORNING THAT HITLER WAS NEAR DEATH AS RESULT OF A CEREBRAL HEMORRHAGE AND THAT HIS DEATH WOULD MEAN CAPITULATION.

LONDON REPORTED AT 8:46 A.M. (EASTERN WAR TIME) THAT BRITISH PAPERS WERE PUBLISHING UNOFFICIAL REPORTS OF A GERMAN SURRENDER OFFER TO THE U.S. AND GREAT BRITAIN AND THAT THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT HAD DECLARED SUCH PROPOSALS WOULD BE REJECTED.

REUTERS NEWS AGENCY REPORTED FROM SAN FRANCISCO THAT HIMMLER HAD MADE AN UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER OFFER TO THE U.S. AND BRITAIN. PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL ISSUED A FORMAL STATEMENT DECLARING THAT THE SURRENDER OFFER REPORTS WERE "IN HARMONY WITH THE ENEMY'S DESPERATE SITUATION" BUT THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT HAD NO INFORMATION TO GIVE OUT ON THE SUBJECT "THIS MOMENT." CHURCHILL SAID THAT ONLY A SURRENDER TO ALL THREE MAJOR ALLIED POWERS WOULD BE ACCEPTABLE.

THE ALLIED-CONTROLLED LUXEMBOURG RADIO BROADCAST THE REPORTED HIMMLER OFFER AND U.S.-BRITISH REPLY.

IN WASHINGTON THE WHITE HOUSE AT 10:30 A.M. REFUSED TO CONFIRM OR DENY THE REPORTS BUT REITERATED THAT ONLY SURRENDER TO THE THREE MAJOR POWERS WOULD BE ENTERTAINED.

THE LONDON SUNDAY TIMES WAS QUOTED AT 4:35 P.M. EWT, AS SAYING ITS POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT HAD RELIABLE INFORMATION THAT "GERMANY MAY CEASE FIGHTING DURING THE NEXT 24 HOURS."

FROM SAN FRANCISCO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTED AT 5:47 P.M. (EWT) THAT IT WAS UNDERSTOOD EXCHANGES LOOKING TOWARD A SURRENDER WERE UNDER WAY.

THAT IT WAS UNDERSTOOD EXCHANGES LOOKING TOWARD A SURRENDER WERE UNDER WAY. AT 7:09 P.M., THE ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTED FROM SAN FRANCISCO AN ALLIED ULTIMATUM HAD BEEN DELIVERED THE GERMANS AND AT 7:33 P.M., THAT THE SAME HIGH SOURCE AT THE SECURITY CONFERENCE SAID ACCEPTANCE OF THE ULTIMATUM WAS EXPECTED HOURLY.

THEN, AT 7:55 P.M., CONNALLY--AT THAT TIME DECLINING TO PERMIT USE OF HIS NAME--WAS QUOTED AS SAYING GERMANY HAD SURRENDERED AND THAT AN OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT WAS EXPECTED "MOMENTARILY," PRESUMABLY THROUGH EISENHOWER.

THAT WAS THE NEWS THAT TOUCHED OFF THE SKYROCKET OF EXCITEMENT. IT ALSO PRECIPITATED A VAIN HUNT FOR CONFIRMATION IN THE ALLIED CAPITALS AND AT SUPREME HEADQUARTERS IN PARIS. MANY LOCALITIES WENT INTO V-E DAY EXUBERANCE, ALTHOUGH IN THE MAIN THE CELEBRATIONS WERE RELATIVELY SUBDUED.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN WENT TO THE WHITE HOUSE AT 8:34 P.M.

FROM SAN FRANCISCO, AT 8:41 P.M., CAME WORD THAT A SECOND HIGH AMERICAN OFFICIAL--ALSO DECLINING TO PERMIT USE OF HIS NAME--SAID HE HAD THE SAME INFORMATION AS THAT GIVEN OUT BY CONNALLY.

PARIS REPORTED AT 9:11 P.M. THAT SUPREME HEADQUARTERS WAS WITHOUT KNOWLEDGE OF A SURRENDER AND THAT EISENHOWER HIMSELF WAS ASLEEP. LONDON SAID ALL WAS QUIET AT NO.10 DOWNING STREET, THE CHURCHILL OFFICIAL RESIDENCE.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN ENDED THE BRIEF "PEACE" FLURRY WITH A FLAT DECLARATION AT 9:36 P.M. THAT THE REPORT WAS "UNFOUNDED."

THE PRESIDENT SAID HE HAD CHECKED THE REPORT WITH GEN. EISENHOWER IN PARIS AND FROM THE GENERAL'S HEADQUARTERS DIRECT CAME EISENHOWER'S STATEMENT AT 10 P.M. THAT HE HAD RECEIVED NO INFORMATION OF A GERMAN SURRENDER.

SIX MINUTES LATER, INFORMED OF THE TRUMAN STATEMENT, CONNALLY PERMITTED DISCLOSURE THAT HE WAS THE SOURCE OF THE SURRENDER REPORT AT SAN FRANCISCO. CONNALLY REITERATED THAT HE EXPECTED THE ANNOUNCEMENT "MOMENTARILY" AND ADDED THAT HIS INFORMATION CAME FROM AN AUTHORITATIVE SOURCE.

IN A MOSCOW BROADCAST RELAYED THROUGH LONDON, AT 11:09 P.M., THE OFFICIAL RUSSIAN NEWS AGENCY, TASS, CONFIRMED THAT HIMMLER HAD MADE A SURRENDER OFFER TO THE UNITED STATES AND BRITAIN AND THAT THE TWO WESTERN ALLIES HAD TURNED IT DOWN BECAUSE RUSSIA WAS NOT INCLUDED.

STOCKHOLM REPORTED AT 11:13 P.M. THAT THE SWEDISH FOREIGN OFFICE DISCLOSED THAT HIMMLER'S OFFER WAS MADE THROUGH A STOCKHOLM PRIVATE CITIZEN AND THE NEWSPAPER, DAGENS NYHETER, IDENTIFIED THIS PERSON AS COUNT FOLKE BERNADOTTE, VICE CHAIRMAN OF THE SWEDISH RED CROSS, WHO HAD MADE MANY "MERCY TRIPS" INTO GERMANY.

BERNADOTTE WAS REPORTED TO HAVE GONE BACK TO GERMANY SATURDAY AND LAST (SUNDAY) NIGHT THE DAGENS NYHETER SAID HE HAD LANDED IN DENMARK ON HIS RETURN TO STOCKHOLM AFTER SEEING HIMMLER AGAIN. IT WAS SUGGESTED THAT HE HAD CARRIED SOME SORT OF AN ALLIED MESSAGE TO THE GESTAPO CHIEF.

THE LONDON DAILY MAIL, QUOTING "A HIGH OFFICIAL IN WHITEHALL," SAID TODAY (MONDAY) THAT HITLER WAS DYING OR ALREADY DEAD AND THAT WHEN BERLIN FELL THE EUROPEAN WAR COULD BE REGARDED AS PRACTICALLY ENDED." THE NEWSPAPER SAID CHURCHILL AND TRUMAN TALKED "MORE THAN ONCE" BY TRANSATLANTIC TELEPHONE SUNDAY.

"IT CAN ONLY BE A MATTER OF DAYS NOW--IT MAY BE ONLY OF HOURS--BEFORE ALL IS OVER," WROTE THE MAIL'S DIPLOMATIC CORRESPONDENT, WILSON BROADBENT, QUOTING THE UNIDENTIFIED OFFICIAL.
